Both messages made clear that the refugee problem is one that must be tackled by all of mankind—that it is disease of human society for which all nations must accept responsibility.

"We are in danger of becoming unbackeable to it," Gaitskell said and enlisted writer when refugee year opened last June.

"The problem seems to have been with us for so many years. Every time a new crisis arises, every time springs a leak and a new brigade of families emerges with their families and their bundles of rags and old hard cards."

Refugee year is an attempt by many of the nations of the free world to deal with the problem.

Former Home Of A.V. Roe Co. Up for Sale

TORONTO (CP) — The real estate company put on the block the architect residence of A. V. Roe Canada Limited up for sale. The company put the sale of the estate in suburban Etobicoke on Tuesday.

The estate was sold last summer when the management of the A.V. Roe company announced the lowering cancellation of the government's Avro Arrow jet interceptor and Iroquois jet engine programs.

The five-bedroom house served as a meeting place for Avro's executives and guests.

Here's to Frustration

This is the season of good cheer or frustration, depending on individual temperament.

In either case, we recommend draining the cup to the dregs. It is the only method by which one can derive the full benefits of the season itself, in the case of good cheer, or of its passing, in the case of frustration.

For those who find the latter draught their cup of tea, we recommend a little discovery by the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity.

In Ontario Travel News we are regaled by an obviously pleasant person of praise to that wonder-child of the ages, "The Tourist Dollar."

"A tourist dollar does better than Aladdin's lamp," we are told.

"It appears magically in the tills of stores and service establishments.

"It comes in a spending frame of mind.

"It doesn't wait for bargain sales.

"It can afford to buy the things the spender wants.

"It buys many things the average customer doesn't need.

"It pays cash for goods and services.

"It increases sales without adding to overhead.

"It's earned elsewhere but adds itself to the wealth of your community.

"It circulates throughout your community.

"Its magic touch is felt by every resident."

Now if all this were the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, "The Tourist Dollar" would, indeed, deserve to be classed with the genii of Aladdin's lamp. Unfortunately we suspect that the bright boys who produce "Canadian Nights"—garden us, Ontario Travel News—are taking precisely the same liberties with the truth as Scheherazade and for precisely the same reason—they fear if they stop weaving romantic tales for even one night, the great pooh-bah will have their heads chopped off.

Now there are some things which do distinguish the Tourist Dollar from the Manufacturer's Dollar or the Doctor's Dollar or the Workingman's Dollar. For instance, it is true that the Tourist Dollar does not wait for bargain sales, as the Workingman's Dollar often does if it is not pushed by Urgent Need into the nearest store before it has a chance to get used to its new home. But any dollar we ever saw paid cash for goods and service. The Tourist Dollar, when it arrives in a store, was earned elsewhere, but so was The Manufacturer's Dollar. And once the Tourist Dollar changes hands it is only because it has been earned in the community, so make no mistake of that. The notion that Tourist Dollars are scattered by visitors without them demanding something in return is a widespread illusion which can only result in the reduction of the process of exchanging. As for the claim that increasing sales without adding to overhead, this is a phenomena which occurs only occasionally. The idea that no overhead is involved in providing facilities for tourists is likely to bring a chuckle to resort operators and motel owners.

But if you want to drain the cup of frustration to the last drop, just try explaining to a "tourist industry" enthusiast that catering to visitors is just another way of trying to turn hard work into an honest buck—not necessarily the easiest or the most economical way either, unless the natural resources of the district where the attempt is made lend themselves to a low-cost, high-profit operation.

Almost the Height of Improbability

Next to the Pope being elected Grand Master of the Orange Order, nothing seemed so improbable a couple of years ago as a Conservative Government in Britain welcoming with cheers the election of Archbishop Makarios as president of Cyprus.

The world badly needed an example like this, proof that given a determination to try, even the most seemingly insoluble problems can dissolve into thin air.

THE GIFT WE BOUGHT FOR MOTHER

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Times aren't just what they used to be; we're somehow in a crazy fever
And left behind a lot of joys we knew they are gone.
Here's Christmas coming back again when loved ones greet each other,
And we've no big and grand surprise arranged and planned for mother.

In those glad years of happier days we whispered secrets deep;
And kept the baby out of them. We'd found he couldn't keep
Two weeks and weeks, the way we did, our long-extended plan
Whenever he had shared the joy but our faith in him he'd broken.

The gift for mother had to set
[illegible] growing;
[illegible] and [illegible]
[illegible] yet never [illegible] evening;

Time to Say No to Frills

(Regina Journal)

The Royal Commission on Price Spreads for Good Products is going to have a big job. Many of the companies and the stimulating by big industries of consumers and sellers. Free-spirited promotional devices, which are the life blood of them. But when we think about the inspirations of it all, it is a little hard to preserve the Olympian detachment of a royal commission.

The first futility of "one-price" proposals is that they cannot be enforced such other and. The Journal has always given them, so long as all the big firms use them, no net advantage goes to a single competitor. Discriminatory expenditures must be disguised in competitive "services" by the finding of the Commission.

But that answer is hardly a vote of confidence for our economic system. The customer ends up with tinsel and three layers of paper around his soap, the biscuit tin and the glass jar, now, or some time to remove from his household fund. These are among the services which the "one-price proposal" would abolish.

Suppose, to make a wishful supposition, that instead of a breeze prices got dimmer, and the superficial impress a firm might try another kind of promotion. Suppose, for example, in today's "expanding economy" that the unnecessary idea of selling the product a bit cheaper for a better quality.

First of all the customer would have a choice as to how he wanted to spend the saving by the price reduction gave. It might indeed be—who knows?—that the housewife would prefer the freedom of choice and the economy of less expensive containers and a simp collecting.

By the greatest gain, because it would be collective, is that lower prices or at least stable prices would keep our cost of living down. It is the inflationary spiral which, the Commission says again and again, is the real danger to us.

More vital yet: Are we not expending our energies and brains disastrously? Our capital is limited and expensive. We have only so many dollars and they must be used in our development. If we put our basic and heart in competition that merely raises the standard of living to the gaudy levels already reached by international decisions, we squander our inheritance, our grand birthright while the Russians build heavy machinery.

Yet it is our joy and responsibility that we have a free economy. We proudly say that no one is going to tell us what we can and can't sell, we are to sell.

That is true. If we want to go to the trouble of wrapping packages, no government will say nay. But the wrappings and packages and the premiums demand a disproportionate share of resources and of labor. We are creating a parasitic industry which, in the end, we are about to live in might not allow.

The impetus to put first things first, to restore sanity to some aspects of life, must come from the consumer. The firms which have been placed on the treadmill are afraid to stop. Only the consumer can say when the point of diminishing returns has gone far enough. All we need do is to say no to the frills.

The Journal believes that it is time now to say no to the frills.

National Character

Manchester Guardian

National character is like the weather. It is useful and hard to define accurately in terms that ordinary people can understand. Even so, it is a bold pollster who asked people to 16 cities in 10 countries in the world to name the countries most adept at various kinds of activity, and the results, published by the French Institute of Public Opinion, are of great interest and may must make us wonder yet again what it is. The first thing is that people to hold any opinion at all about foreigners.

Americans come first in three categories — food, beautiful women and "good humor." Well, the latter we may really concede but anyone who has gone from the rigorous world of a French market town or even of less sophisticated Britain to the U.S. must marvel at the other two. Frenchmen are strongly admired all but two of the cities polled were inhabited largely by people of French-speaking Canadian stock.

Soundings, taken a little nearer home, are equally revealing. Britain revealed a little more scepticism about French gallery and food, but the general impression was that Britain is thought to have some good national traits. What is one to say? It must be true, and of the 16, special cases surprise us only by noticing it.

One of the greatest honors shown the first contingent was that paid by His Royal Highness, the Duke of Gloucester, grand uncle of His Majesty the King and a son of the late Queen Victoria, when he, with others, was in the Red River campaign in 1870 and was a former Governor General of Canada, went down to Aldershot and met the Canadians. The latter will soon have their first opportunity of enjoying English hospitality. They have arrived on the eve of the great Christmas festival, and there is no land where the people know better how to welcome and entertain than the British.

The Daily Express (of London, England) today suggested that Great Britain import potatoes from Canada in order to help run the war. THE PACKSAD

By GREGORY CLARK

A good many of us had our hearts broken about dice jockeys long before the question of payola ever arose. My own explanation of the behavior of dice jockeys is personal, such an outpouring and expression of incredibly noisy, thumping, yowling pressure that I am sure they get, after a couple of years of jockeying, had all the sense of music, the wit pickle tasters in pickle factories lose their sense of taste. And after days and day-out having to sit in a booth playing pop music for poor fellows had to make it louder, noisier and more rowdy than ever to keep, in order to keep at it at all. I supported their ears had become grotesquely insensitive.

The payola business, however, seems to have to spend Christmas.

To Your Good Health

CHEST PAINS CAN BE THE RESULT OF MANY THINGS

Yesterday I tried to answer the question of how to tell the difference between "indigestion" and heart or other serious trouble when the pain starts around the chest and left breastbone.

Today we'll tackle an easier one to answer, as asked in this letter:

"Please write about chest pains and the different reasons for them. I have had chest pains for the last 10 years. My doctor says I have arthritis and has made other tests. He says the pains may be functional. I am still anxious about them because they are in the heart area, — M. W."

If you didn't see yesterday's column, please look it up. We'll without borrowing trouble by now go to other chest areas where one may have pains from chest pain. In short: Don't be afraid to find out!

Dear Dr. Molner: Would kidney stones have any effect on a man's sterility? — Mrs. J. M. B.

No.

Note to M. A. J.: Losing the first-born was one of those tragedies that you have to accept in life at times; I am sure that your grieving in no way hurt the second son.

Why suffer from sinus trouble? Much can be done to help you, and it is explained in my booklet, "Sinus Trouble." To receive your copy, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 156, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Virtuous Hypocrit

Financial Post

Further sociological note from the taxi-cab industry:

A fellow was given a $100 bill in mistake for a two toe other day, said the Toronto driver, "but I noticed it before he got out of the cab. I caught up with him and gave him his money back.

"He gave me five bucks and said, 'Gee whiz, you ought to get a reward.' I told him I didn't know. Smith who writes a column in the evening paper. Give me a call. I'll phone him up so he can make a story out of it." But he said: 'Please don't do that. I don't want to be the laughing-stock of the taxi business.'

"You see," the driver explained, "there's a motto in our business: 'If a man gives you money, throw it back out the window but tap with a feather.'

Moral: Some people pretend to be honest than they are.

This new, 20th-century form of virtue might be defined as be tribute that virtue pays to vice.

Strength for The Day

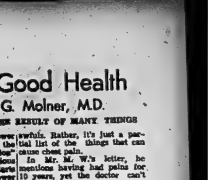
LET'S GET CIVILIZED

There are some historians who believe that the real spirit of Christ's birthday is celebrated the latter part of December is because this season of the year is approaching the Romans, and Christians with their efforts to improve public morals redeemed the violent, drunken orgies of the Saturnalia with the beautiful customs of the Nativity. But there is a real danger that Saturnalia-conduct even today. More and more is the contrast between the night before Christmas and the night before New Year's. Instead of the latter period of the same length throughout the year. One of the alarming things is that splendid, upper-middle class people whose homes are a model of decorum throughout the year think nothing of setting up the bar and encouraging drinking during the Christmas and New Year season.



It is also well for us to remember that it is not the thoroughly drunk person who gets into trouble but more often the person who has had just a few drinks. The drunken driver is soon taken off the road. It is the drinking driver — the man who has had a few bars or cocktails that causes most of the fatal accidents. Boys and girls who have taken a few drinks are the ones most likely to fall into sexual misbehaviour.

There is plenty of the Saturnalia spirit in modern society. Let's grow up. Let's get civilized.

Uneven Addition

$200 Loss on Fair Largely Due to Heavy Prize List

PICTON — A record of $8,-652.80 was paid in prize money at the County Fair at Picton. It was reported by secretary-treasurer Bill Dodds at the annual meeting of Prince Edward Agricultural Society. In addition, $300.35 was spent for 4-H Club work.

Receipts for the year totalled $32,444.44 and expenditures $32,988.39, with expected revenue in government grants of $6,473.25. On the fair itself, the loss was about $200, due largely to the large amount of prize money which reflected the great number of exhibits.

Reviewing the year, President Arthur McCormick mentioned improvements made to the grounds, including painting of several buildings, new boundary fence, improvement to grandstand, repair of wall fence, exhibits in all classes and set a high standard. He expressed appreciation to the public for support, donors of special prizes, Mrs. C. Lockyer, Mrs. J. Graydon and Mrs. E. Henderson for their work in the ladies' section, volunteers and all directors and others, including county council, for their co-operation.

Directors voted in favor of the 1960 fair on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 22, 23, 24, 30, and authorized signing of a contract with Green's midway.

Delegates appointed to district fairs meeting in Belleville in January were the new president, Creighton Lockyer, vice-president George Atkinson, Sam Dodds and secretary-treasurer Phil Dodds.

To represent the Society at the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies in Toronto in February are the president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer and lady directors, Mrs. Sherman Coulter, Mrs. John Graydon, Mrs. E. W. Henderson and Mrs. C. Lockyer.

Representatives appointed to the County Centre Commission were C. Lockyer, P. Dodds, E. W. Henderson, Wilkie Sills and Tom May.

The Society directed a written request to the Centre Commission asking that the fence be adopted with provision for hole-drilling for the erection by the election of directors and officers. There was criticism that some fair dates and starting times were given those who were given much time to operation of the Centre.

ELECT DIRECTORS

Agricultural Representative D. A. Taylor presided for the election of directors. Those re-elected are Creighton Lockyer, president; Sam Dodds, horses; Leland Dorcas, cattle; Leslie Jones, sheep and swine; William Wills, poultry; Harry Osealee, vegetables; Arthur McCormack, fruit; Geo. Atkinson, horse races; W. Sills, entertainment; K. M. Henderson, dairy; Harold Bastman, junior activities; Bruce Dodds, midway.

Associate directors named were Murray Ashley, Lloyd Way, Arnold Foster, Chris Lockyer, Tom Abby, Gordon Hubbs, Harry Hutchinson, Robert May, H. E. Spencer, John Wildfong, Miss Pat Reynolds, Alva Collier, Elmer Wildfong, Charles Fletcher, C. H. Widdifield, Miss Pat Henderson, Elmer Gerow, G. E. Clarke (Miss Clarke), H. L. Reid, P.S.I., Major James Bird.

Ladies' directors are Mrs. S. Coulter, Mrs. C. Lockyer, Miss Norma Foster, Mrs. Sam Dodds, Mrs. John Graydon, Mrs. E. W. Henderson, Mrs. J. Graydon, Mrs. Doug Taylor, Mrs. Howard Gerow, Mrs. Mervin Haight and Mrs. Vivian Rylon.

ELECT OFFICERS

Following the meeting, officers elected were: Creighton Lockyer, president; George Atkinson, 1st vice-president; Leslie Jones, 2nd vice-president; Phil Dodds, secretary - treasurer.

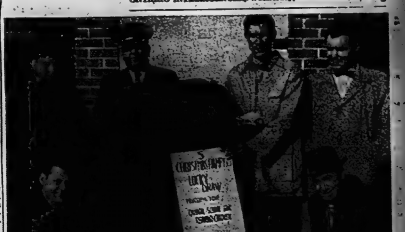
President Lockyer thanked the members for the honor and asked for co-operation in efforts to continue the expansion and benefits of the county fair.

Sorry that Reeve Allard would not be with council in 1960, Reeve Allard spoke of his regret at leaving the council and said that the new Reeve C. Mellalls had a real opportunity for the people to talk of those things that would be of benefit to the fair.

70th Wedding Anniversary To Be Celebrated

PICTON — Friday, Dec. 25th, 1959, will mark the seventieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Benham, R. R. 1, Picton, (West Lake Road).

Mr. Benham, who is ninety-one is not in the best of health. Mrs. Benham, ninety in February, is active and does her own housework. Their son, Wilfred, 67, resides with them.



Mr. and Mrs. Benham have spent all their lives in Prince Edward County. Mr. Benham's mother, "Aunt Sally" Benham, lived to be nearly 102 years of age. They were married at Bloomfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Benham live quiet lives, without radio, TV or telephone. Good neighbors frequently visit them and do kindly, helpful acts.

There will be no special celebration to mark the unusual anniversary.

A neighbor, Mrs. William Bowers, is supplying an anniversary Christmas cake and a plum pudding and other friends are expected to send remembrances.

Many friends expressed congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Benham.

The five lucky winners of the $25 hampers given by the many Food Travellers of the Belleville area, along with the York Trading and National Grocers, were picked by Fire Chief Gerald Vance last Saturday afternoon. The money, exceeding $750.00, was donated to the Quinte Association for Retarded Children of Belleville.

Couple Marks 60th Wedding Anniversary

PICTON — Eighty odd-and relatives of Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Bowerman, marked their diamond wedding anniversary on Sunday, Dec. 20. At home during the afternoon and evening, they were felicitated by the many friends who called.

Mrs. Bowerman received in rooms, prettily adorned in blue with a corsage of pink carnations, a gift at the groom of 60 years. The living room was bright with an illuminated Christmas tree and flowers and plants, gifts of friends and Boosters of 4-H.

In the dining room, the tea table was covered with a handmade Madeira cloth, centred with the three-tiered anniversary cake with golden 'roses from friends, and white lupins. Pouring from silver services at either end were Mrs. R. H. Millburn, Picton, sister of Mrs. Bowerman, and Miss Ruth Bowerman, Cherry Valley, niece of the couple. Servers were Mrs. Walter Bowerman, Mrs. Harry Eveleigh and Mrs. J. A. Wiggins. Bouquets of large yellow and bronze 'mums were about the room.

Gifts included electrical appliances from relatives, flowers from Rotgeeth W.A., to which Mrs. Bowerman is active, as well as from relatives and friends. Telegrams and 'phone calls were received from relatives in Florida, Boston, British Columbia and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowerman were married in Hazell, Massachusetts by Rev. W. H. Meredith. She was formerly Ada Snow and her family resided there. Mr. Bowerman was born in Consecon, Prince Edward County. They came to Prince Edward County about thirty years ago to reside, Mr. Bowerman farming.

Mr. Bowerman has two brothers, Kenneth in British Columbia, and Thomas G. Bowerman, ex-M.P.P., Cherry Valley. His late Alva E. and Elwood Bowerman were brothers. Mrs. Edith Millsman, Picton, is a sister. Mrs. Bowerman has sisters and brothers living in the United States.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bowerman are enjoying good health and can look back on many years of useful lives.

TOWNSEND MURDERED

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Nearly 30 persons were killed Monday night by 10 bandits disguised as army soldiers in the Antioquia Town, in Tolima Department, southwest of Bogota, press reports announced here. The highwaymen made a surprise attack against Ejidacre Ranch, murdering 14 persons including nine children. The reports added that the group also attacked other ranches of the neighborhood killing several persons.

Deseronto

RINK NOT OPERATED

DESERONTO — The last regular meeting for 1959 of the Deseronto Athletic Association was held on December 12th. At this meeting it was decided that the rink would not be operated this year. While the members were disappointed the decision was forced upon them.

During the past months, many hours have been spent in installing new floors in the dressing rooms, lining the walls and improving the rink in general. Because the rink operates on a low margin and limited budget the maintenance requires the full support and co-operation of all the town.

However, the Association does not intend to relax the efforts to bring more and better opportunities for sport to the children of the town and decided to start immediately on the first of several projects in mind.

The building of a wading pool for the younger children has been planned for some time. This pool will be on the same lines as the one at Napanee with a few extra items added. During the past year members of the Association will be working at packing of concrete forms in preparation for the actual construction which will start as soon as the weather permits.

Anyone wishing to assist in any of the projects can contact the secretary for 1960, Bob Hawthorne.

The thanks of the Association were tendered Mrs. Grace Martin who faithfully filled the post of secretary during the past year. Mrs. Martin is active in the Program of Sports for Deseronto.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER

A testimonial dinner was tendered the members of the local Volunteer Fire Dept. last Wednesday night at Jackson's restaurant. Co-Chairmen of the Fund Police Committee, H. Howard and his committee Gr. first and S. McAllister were the hosts in conjunction with Mayor Sweetnam. Presentation took place at the office of the Fire Marshall with H. Mallroy.

A steak dinner was served to the full complement of the Fire Department and the Chief of Police shortly after seven o'clock. Following the meal Chief J. McVicker thanked the chairman for his co-operation and support. Mr. Mallroy spoke briefly of the importance of a Volunteer Fire Department and Mayor Sweetnam spoke of the work being done by the local group. Following the supper most of those present retired to the recreation room at the fire hall where cards and darts were enjoyed for an hour.

TOWN COUNCIL

The last regular meeting of the town council was held on Monday night with all members present. The correspondence included a letter from Campbell and Smith in regard to the numbering of the houses of the town. They propose to proceed with this work shortly after the new year and submitted a specimen of the type of numbers to be used.

The town will be numbered from the western extremities to the east and from the shores of the bay on the south to the north.

County Home Addition Will Not Be Made

PICTON — Building of the 80by-bed addition to Prince Edward County Home for the Aged is not to proceed, at the present time. This decision was made at a special meeting of Prince Edward County Council this week, all members favoring the delay.

When tenders were opened, it was found that they were much higher than was anticipated and members of council felt that the necessary expenditure could not be undertaken at present.

Earlier in the year, council had set a limit on the proposed expenditure of $365,000. The lowest tender by the Tarbutt Co. of Belleville was $383,000, which, with the addition of $30,000 for kitchen equipment, $5,000 for laundry equipment, $15,000 for furnishings, $825 for soils investigation, $25,050 for architect's fees and $3,000 for contingencies, would bring the total to $460,945. Some council members feared the cost would reach a half million dollars.

It was decided to return tenders but it was indicated that the matter is not being dropped but that new tenders may be called at a later date. A committee will study means of seeking lower tenders possible.

In the financial report Reeve Allard spoke briefly of the success of the efforts to collect back taxes and stated that the work should be continued in 1960. There was an increase in collections of some 11,000 during the past year and, as at November 30, the Bank loans decreased some $5,000 and the balance in hand was $2,336.

The chairman of the relief committee reported that there were no relief cases at the present time.

There was some discussion and disagreement regarding bonuses to be paid the town employees. Council finally passed a bonus of $10 each to the street foreman and his assistant and a motion for a 15c bonus for the caretaker and police was defeated.

Mayor Sweetnam spoke of the debt the town owes Reeve Allard for his assistance at a time when it was needed and said he was sorry

This - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

We won't even start off by saying "Going Shopping", because if you have any more gift buying to do it won't be shopping but a case of taking the first thing you can get. Some of our shops are as well stocked, the late buyers won't be too badly off.

There are stories and programmes on all radio stations on the commercialising of Christmas — even against the playing of carols on stereo and in stores. Somehow we cannot get too worked up over this. When we list some of the things Christmas brings to mind, it all seems to go together. Let's see . . .

Christmas is music. It is the clear call of church bells and the clear young voices of children singing "Silent Night". Silent Night is Silent Night wherever you hear it.

Christmas is a brilliance of light. It is the flaring lights of trees, the quivering lights of candles, the warming lights of hearth-fires, and the happy light in the eyes of grown-ups once more. It is the twinkle, a light in the eyes of the children. We have often thought a smile is like and starlit look in the eyes of people going through the shops.

Christmas is welcome. It is the gathering of one, the welcome song on the threshold, the warmth around our hearts.

Christmas is laughter. It is a special kind of laughter. And Christmas is a smile, a quick smile to the store Santa Claus, to the bus driver, to the shoeclerk, to the party at the local school house on Friday evening with 41 in attendance.

Christmas is a hundred different fragrances all rolled into one. The pine and fir boughs and the burning wood and the plum pudding and the roasting of the turkey. There's the smell of just-opened boxes and newly-polished furniture. Fragrance of dozens and dozens of cookies.

Christmas is a time to eat and from us, and the excitement and enchantment of decorated trees and flaming logs in the round room and square room, all blended and glittering.

Christmas is the tree—a green tree or a pink tree or a white tree or a blue tree, a tree in a sacred arc or a glittering fir with the last florist in town, a miniature baby tree or one that becomes the ceiling.

Christmas is love. It is the message carried all through the centuries.

Christmas is Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men.

Here are two thoughts for Christmas Day from two poets. From Walter de la Mare.

Dim-berried is the mistletoe
With glossies of obedient grey,
And holly still its leathern bloom
Doth keep.

Christmas is here, Yet is the message carried all through the centuries.

Christmas is Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men.

Here are two thoughts for Christmas Day from two poets. From Walter de la Mare.

Dim-berried is the mistletoe
With glossies of obedient grey,
And holly still its leathern bloom
Doth keep.

The bird of evening singeth all night long;
And then, they say, no spirit can walk abroad;
The nights are wholesome; then No fairy takes, nor witch hath power to charm,
So hallow'd and so gracious in the time.

Merry Christmas.

Full Gospel W.M.C. Holds Yule Meeting

FRANKFORD — The Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle W.M.C. held their Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. Annie Sine on Thursday evening, December 10th. The meeting was opened by vice-president, Mrs. Mary Patterson, with the singing of a hymn chorus. Mrs. Fred Wood led in prayer. Christmas carols were sung.

Mrs. F. Miller gave the secretary's report. Financial reports were read for parcel received from Mabel, and Mrs. Hempsell of Hamilton, Ont., the monthly letter from the flying missionary of the meetland, Rev. J. Spencer. Christmas parcels were sent out for the months to Christian workers and a parcel of clothing was sent to a needy family and 44 lbs. of Sunday school clothes have been shipped to the West Indies. The financial report was given by Miss Marjorie Forbes.

The evening offering was taken. Mrs. M. Forbes read the Christmas story from St. Luke's Gospel, entitled "Christ, the Supreme Gift" and prayer requests were given. A time of prayer followed by Mrs. C. Bicknell. Literature was distributed by workers and 2nd SIDNEY — A Christmas party was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Holmes on Wednesday afternoon at the December meeting of the Bay of Quinte Institute. A good number was present.

Bay of Quinte W.I. Hears Arbaan Story

Mrs. Donald Sandercock, the president, presided.

The treasurer reported that all of the 150 souvenir spoons were sold. Donations were made to the Association for Retarded Children of Trenton and TB Association.

It was decided that gifts be sent to the sick and shut-ins in the neighborhood.

A letter was received from the Toronto Telegram asking for names of shut-ins and old people, who have no radios in the neighborhood. If anyone knows of such a person, please let the ward's relations' representative of the Bay of Quinte Institute, Mrs. Alva Meyers, know.

Mrs. Palmer was made emergency secretary.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes introduced the W.I. district director, Mrs. Everett Phillips, of Belleville, who read a poem, "Keeping Christmas," before giving the explanation of the "Mary Martha Collect." It was written by Mary Stuart while going to college. She was worried over the backbiting of the members of her club and of those who came and kept silent when asked to give their opinion and afterwards criticized those who had tried to do things. She felt they had need of a special prayer of their own, hence this was made so any could use it.

Mrs. Phillips was presented with a reprint in black and white, that by Norman Rockwell. This outstanding drawing won an award from the American Artists' Association, New York.

She sent best wishes from Mrs. Meyers, saying "she appreciated it very much."

The Christmas story, read by Mrs A. Meyers was found in Luke 2. Carol singing was also enjoyed.

Mrs. C. Holmes of Trent Rd., Belleville, collected on and said "We have all heard the story of the three Wise Men, but did we hear of the gifts they made who never reached the Baby Jesus?" His gifts were a sapphire, a ruby and a pearl.

"His name was Arbaan and he was born and belonged to a tribe of fire worshippers. One day he asked men of his religion to join him in his trip to Jerusalem to see the King who had been born. All made excuse so Arbaan started alone. On the 9th day of his journey his horse shied at something along the road. On getting down he found an unconscious man lying there. He lifted him, and on consciousness, bathed and fed him. Then Arbaan told him he was born in Bethlehem, but raised in Egypt. Arbaan had been pushing his horse so in this journey that he knew he had to walk and as he had fed this man he did not have enough for himself. He stopped along the way, bought food and a horse with his sapphire. He heard Jesus had been born and that he and his parents were on their way back to Jerusalem for fear of the soldiers who had killed all the male children. Arbaan took out a ruby and showed it to the guard and to have this for one who would move on from the city. Centuries later the ruby, telling his soldiers, there was no child there.

Affic 33 years Arabian met the soldiers and was told him that one called Jesus and two thieves were to be crucified, so he set off to see this. Seeing a young girl being taken to be sold as a slave, he gave her his pearl to free the girl. He then thought "I have nothing to give Jesus," but when he arrived his King said to him, "I was hungry and ye fed Me, I was sick and ye ministered unto Me," but Arbaan said "When did I do all these things?" Jesus replied, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these, my brethren, yet did it unto Me."

Gifts were exchanged at the fine lunch enjoyed, with Mrs. Palmer moving a vote of thanks to the district president for her fine talk. Mrs. Mrs. Holmes for so graciously opening her home and for the lovely messages she had brought.

Our Christmas Story

by Mrs. Billy Graham

as told to Elizabeth Sherrill

The Time Grows Short

The Romans built wide stone roads to take their armies all over the known world.

Chapter 7

It had to be a very special time—the time when God's Son came into the world.

It had to be a time when many people could understand one language. After His Son had done His great work of love, of course God would want people everywhere to know about it. He would want them to hear that death was not the end. He would want them to know that they could come back into that close fellowship with Him whenever they chose to, that sin could never again build an everlasting wall between them and God.

How could He get this message to all the world? At first only the children of Israel would know about it.

But they would tell others. And those people would tell still more people until the whole world knew what God had done. So, to pass the word from one person to the next, people had to be able to understand each other.

NEEDED GOOD ROADS

They had to travel to distant places, too, so that the very best of their city on the other side of the mountains and the country beyond. Then the word would know. Therefore, at the time when God's Son was born, there were to be strong ships and wide roads.

God watched the world, waiting for His perfect time.

The years were not good enough and the empires were not big enough. Hundreds of years went by, and still it was not time. It may seem to us like a long time to wait, but to us are long, slow years, to God is only the blinking of an eye.

And then a city called Rome grew up, with the strongest army the world had ever seen. The Roman army conquered all the countries around Rome, and then the countries farther away until Rome had conquered the whole world. (When the Romans said "the whole world" they didn't mean places like America and China and Australia because they didn't know about them. They meant only the part of the world that they knew.)

To make sure that all of these conquered people would obey them, the Romans built roads to take their armies all over the known earth. They were very good roads — wide, stone roads.

THEY BUILT SHIPS

They had slaves to work building hundreds of speedy, sturdy ships. The navy was the best in the world except for the army. But God, looking on, saw that they were not quite right for His purposes yet.

One of the countries the Romans had conquered was Greece. Because the language of Greece was the most beautiful and clear, people spoke it. And God, listening, knew that Greek would be the perfect language for telling His good news.

The Greeks were refused to obey the Roman laws, Roman soldiers marched into Greece and killed them, put them to death, in some cases in a most cruel way. The cruel way was "crucifixion," which means that the man was hung on a wooden cross until he died. God, watching, knew that the time was growing short. This was the way He would send His Son.

God had one final choice to make. He must pick a man and family to care for Him. God was His Father, but they needed a mother.

A MODEST GIRL

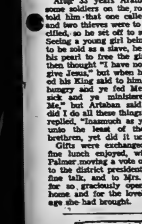
God searched among His people for a woman worthy to be the mother of His Son. Would she be a princess living in a palace; or a rich man's daughter who wore bright dresses and jewels?

God did not choose one of these. He chose instead a modest young girl named Mary, who lived in the little hill town of Nazareth in Galilee. He sent His angel Gabriel to tell Mary that she had been chosen to be the mother of His son.

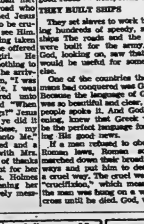
Though Mary was so amazed that she could hardly speak. But she had always loved God and was ready to obey Him. And so she said to the angel, "Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word."

She was going to marry a kind, loving man called Joseph. Joseph took good care of Mary and the time grew near for her Baby to be born.

But what about the words of Micah who had said that the Saviour would be born in Bethlehem? Bethlehem was Joseph and Mary lived, was almost a hundred miles from Bethlehem by the twisting road, and in those days a hundred miles was a tremendous distance. But, as we shall see, Micah was right.



EVERYBODY OBEYED CAESAR



The emperor in Rome at that time was Caesar Augustus. That means Caesar the Splendid. He said everybody in the world obeyed him. But how many people in the "everybody" Caesar didn't know.

Each year every country in his empire had to send him a certain amount of gold as taxes. If it had no gold, the country had to send him its fullest thing or a whole camel-train of his finest wheat. Of course, a country would have to give gold to Caesar, than a small country. So, in order to know how much each country should pay, Caesar had to count all the people in the world.

Now, in order to keep the different families and places in the huge empire straight, Caesar decided that everyone should go back to the town where his family had first lived, to be taxed there.

White's S.S. Has Pot-Luck Yuletide Repast

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The Sunday School of White's Church, Bayside, sponsored a pot-luck supper on Saturday evening with a good attendance. Following this, the chairman, Mrs. Rev. Roy Bickford, B.A., led in carol singing with Mrs. W. Jeffery as pianist. The Sunday School superintendent was next all by singing, "The Greeting We Love the Best." Mrs. Rickard did a special welcome to all. The Intermediates, Juniors, Primary and Beginners sang "Away in the Manger," and "Silent Night," Miss Vicky Girdon contributed a piano solo.

AWARDS PRESENTED

Attendance awards for the past year were presented. Mrs. Lorne Hunt, Intermediate teacher, presented Eddie Hilborn with a cup and saucer; David Schlegar presented Larry Hilborn with a Bible and Mrs. Jim Fowler (class two girls tied so Mrs. R. Hunt presented Sandra Hilborn and Deborah Glyden with Testament and Bible) with a bookmark. Mrs. Leonard Young, teacher of the Primary class, presented Jimmy Girdon with a Ten Commandment bracelet and Danny Girdon with an illustrated Bible story book. Mrs. Bruce Folsom, Beginners' class teacher, presented Christine Jones and Michael Palmer each with a Bible.

Mr. and Mrs. Rickard and family were presented with a gift from the Sunday School and the church. The superintendent, Mr. Rickard, was presented with a pearl necklace and cardigan set by Mrs. Bickford.

By this time, Santa had arrived and was welcomed with a singing, "Here Comes Santa Claus." Old Santa had a bag of gifts for the boys and girls and there were many gifts for all on the lighted and decorated Christmas tree.

W.I. Members Meet at Home

HILLIER SOUTH — The Hillier W. I. members visited the Mrs. Rowland Crosby home for the afternoon of December 19.

The meeting was held with members of the W.I. and the Home assembling together. Miss Dorothy Alexander was in charge calling Christmas song.

At Mrs. Wrose was unable to be present Mrs. Arthur Wannamaker presided in her absence and received from Hillier, thanking the gracious co-hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gallice. He sent His genial hospitality.

Mrs. Ira Gallice was pianist.

Mrs. Jordan, secretary, brought to attention a number of letters and correspondence.

Carol "Away in a Manger" was the answering the call on the motto which was given by Mrs. Porter, "Let Every Act to Give Than Receive."

Dorothy Alexander favored with a Christmas music. Roll call, "A Pet I Remember" was the answer. Mrs. Jordan led in singing "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

Mrs. McWilliam expressed pleasure in having such cooperation from the Home with this great work.

Mrs. Wannamaker expressed regret of Mrs. Wrese's absence and extended a Merry Christmas to everyone. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to all who helped with the program.

The singing of Auld Lang Syne "Let's Meet Again" brought this afternoon visit to a close.

pen, the story we heard on Christmas morning!

THE TIME IS HERE

"And it came to pass in those days," that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. . . . And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David) to be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child."

Now is the time. Now is the place. Now is the family. This is the time for the Son of God to be born.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hayes Shaw

REMEMBER THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

It's just two days until Christmas, and I like to remind folk of something. In the frantic rush of last-minute planning and shopping, the little everyday courtesies may be left by the wayside.

Dad says all the rush and hurry is a bit ridiculous, and fumes at all the money being spent. Mother is the one to fear some important detail will be forgotten. Big Brother is excited, too, in case his gift for his best girl isn't what it should be. Two-age Sis is in a dither because her dress—for the Christmas Eve dance is not as wonderful as she would like it to be. Little brother is delighted to be getting out of being "just as good as he can be."

All in all, it adds up to frazzled nerves, and the tension will mount until Christmas Day arrives. Instead of Christmas being a day of pleasure and happiness, it may go in the face of those of what it commonly knows as a "nervous breakdown after."

The moral of my little story is that starting right now remember that we all spit to be on edge, so let's take it slowly. Don't forget the spirit of others just for Christmas Day, and I'm sure that the whole season will be including yourself enjoying to the fullest the meaning of the most wonderful day.

By the way, while we're on the subject of thinking of others, what is the safest course to pursue, so that the gifts you buy for them, when you receive a gift from someone for whom you have forgotten to buy one? Of course, if the gift is received before Christmas, you have plenty of time to purchase a return gift, there is nothing to be said, but if you're not lucky enough to have a few small "extra gifts" under the Christmas tree, the usual method is "from the Green" or "from Nancy." It is given in a case. But if this is not done, and particularly if an unexpected gift is presented on Christmas day, giving a return gift the next day would be an afterthought. Therefore, in this case, the usual seem gift is correct. "Thank you" is sufficient. Then drop it.

Next is the question of Christmas cards that are received from someone you haven't had on your list. It doesn't show appreciation to promptly send a return card, but when you know that it will not be received before Christmas, it calls attention to your oversight. Therefore, a note is the most gracious way to handle this situation is to send a New Year's card, explaining how it your appreciation of their Christmas greetings.

Whether it be in our dealings with the friends we see daily or with acquaintances, I think we should all hold on to the spirit of Christmas a little longer than others. No just material things, but the spirit of love, peace, and more kindness and consideration of the other fellow. It's a thought that I like to remember all through the year, not just at the Christmas season, for I believe this old world a pretty good place to live in.

Merry Christmas everybody!

Question: When guests you're going to call, should the hostess accompany them to the front door or remain in the room?

— Mrs. H.B.T.

Answer: If they leave in an informal manner, the hostess should accompany her guests to the door. If leaving formally, the hostess says good-bye to her guests in the door of the living room and a butler or maid escorts them to the front door.

ST. MARGARET'S W. G.

St. Margaret's — on-the-Hill Afternoon Guild met in the church hall on Tuesday afternoon for their Christmas party with the president in the chair.

The meeting opened with carol singing and prayers for the sick.

A chorus was voiced to the church, the message was read by Mrs. Saxsmith, baby slips, auctions and suppers.

The social part of the meeting being concluded, the members proceeded with an exchange of gifts which were put under a gaily lit tree.

Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by all with everyone wishing each other a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Guild will re-open on January 7th.

Combined Meetings Held By Wooler W.I.

The Wooler W.I. held its recent regular meeting in the club room with an attendance of 48. The year the Christmas and general meetings were combined. Each grandmother was met at the door with a Christmas gift for her grown.

The club room was beautifully decorated and complete with large Christmas tree added to the festive setting. Mrs. Ellis presided and set complete with all the Christmas trimmings.

The president, Mrs. Hilliard Morrow, gave a reading on the meeting which was "Christmas Fridge a Candle in the Darkness" she also welcomed the ladies and grandmothers to the meeting.

The business part of the meeting was then conducted.

Mrs. Nancy McGill, convener, then led the singing of favorite Christmas carols: Mrs. Lillian Hall played two piano numbers, "Jimmy Hears a new Christmas Story", was read by Mrs. Ellis and "Silver Bells" read by Mrs. Stella Gosser. Mrs. J. McCallum sang, "Silver Bells."

The oldest grandmother present was Mrs. Ellis, 88 years of age. The youngest present was Wendy Mack.

The grandmother with the most grandchildren was Mrs. Ellis with 24 ragged with 13. The grandmother who is knitting the most was Mrs. Helen McColl, as she was seen weighing the least was, Mrs. Gertrude Ellis. The grandmother, Mrs. Lloyd Dorland, had a birthday that day. These ladies each received a gift.

A contest brought the meeting to a close, Mrs. Ellis being the lucky winner.

Christmas Extravagances

by Mary Moore

Are you ready for some modest extravagances?

Here's one, being of English ancestry, thinks about oysters for Christmas Eve and one brother has the Oyster Party. There will be oysters in the half-shell, oysters to dip in cocktail sauce, broiled bacon-wrapped oysters (1895 were indeed a year of oysters) stew for the just-mildly-interested.

This year to add to the variety and to help out with the preparation I am to bake.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY
(Economical)

Chili Con Carne; Toasted Rye Bread; Cole Slaw; Apple Crumby Milk; Coffee.

THURSDAY
(Christmas Eve)

Savory Creamed Oysters (see recipe); Parsley, Simple Oyster Casserole (see Wednesday); Buttered Sliced Zucchini Squash; Tomato Jelly Salads on Shredded Lettuce; Baked Jelly-filled Apples; Pouring Cream.

SAVORY CREAMED OYSTERS

Heat 1 quart oysters (1 pail $3.00 in our city) over low heat in their own liquor until edges curl. When the edges begin to curl, drain and reserve juice (for oyster cocktails). To 1 tablespoon butter, add 6 tablespoons flour and make a smooth paste. Add 1 cup light cream and stir over low heat until very smooth and like heavy cream. I do these operations in a double boiler. To this add oysters and ½ cup finely sliced green pepper, ½ cup minced parsley, ½ cup celery hearts, 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese, ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese, 1 tablespoon prepared horse-radish, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Add 1 tablespoon of the juice and give it the double-boiler treatment or put it in a casserole for 30 minutes or so — and it has to be as hot as a red-hot poker. Serve on hard or soft toast and buttered baking powder biscuits. Note: If you are not fond of celery, omit celery and substitute the oyster liquor for some of the liquid in the creamed oysters.

OYSTER STEW (soup)

2 cups raw oysters (1 pint), 4 cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ¾ cup sifted cracker crumbs.

Simmer oysters in their own juice until edges curl. Heat milk; add oysters, butter, pepper, onion, salt, pepper and crumbs. Serve very hot in preheated soup bowls.

SIMPLE OYSTER CASSEROLE

1 quart oysters, salt, pepper, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 cups well-buttered very fine cracker crumbs, 6 strips bacon, cut in 1" pieces.

Drain oysters. Place in shallow buttered baking dish or individual baking dishes. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Cover with bread cubes. Arrange bacon on top. Bake at 400° F. Fahr. 12 to 15 minutes or until crumbs are browned and bacon crisp. Use leftover oyster liquor for any other soups or stews or gravy.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper columnist and a married man and his wife. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and committees.

The Council: We agree with Colin that Margo's feeling must come first in her choice of husband. Her children should not stand between her and a good marriage.

Yet to a certain extent her choice must be influenced by her children. If she married a man who could not tolerate the children or accommodate himself to their inheritance of them, her marriage could not be happy.

It is true that in a few years the youngsters will be off on their own. But the next few years will be important to their future. The problems of adolescence will be greatly simplified if there is an adequate and unwholesome atmosphere in the home. Margo must carefully consider her responsibilities in this direction.

On the other hand, it is natural for children to view with a certain amount of alarm the possibility of a stranger entering their family life. It is likely that these children suspecting their mother is getting serious about Colin's bachelor friend have developed a negative attitude toward him.

Margo certainly should not turn this man away merely on the basis of her children's initial reaction. She should try to get to know him better. In time, we feel, she will ever be able to fit himself into the family setup without the fear and resentment that now exists. Margo is concerned in these children sufficiently to overcome a little of their resistance. A mature man should be able to overcome the initial reaction of the normal children. If he can't, his personality is not such that he will present many other difficulties.

We urge Margo to proceed — but very cautiously.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG—The annual Youth of Christ Bible Quiz took place in the United Church, Thomasburg, on the evening of December 6th. The young people from the surrounding district were present and participated in the contest.

The dance, sponsored by the Thomasburg ball team in the I.O.O.F. Hall on the evening of December 4th, was well patronized.

The municipal election for the council of Hungerford township took place on December 7th, with Thomasburg polling subdivision voting in the I.O.O.F. Hall. Despite inclement weather, a record number of voters cast their ballots for the candidates of their choice.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Mumby on the birth of a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, in Belleville General Hospital.

The funeral of Lyan Maines, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Maines, R. R. 2, Thomasburg, who was killed in a car accident south of Denbigh late on the evening of December 2th, took place from the home of his parents to Thomasburg United Church at 3 p.m., with interment in Bethel Cemetery. Mr. Cecil Hall was being in charge. The sympathy of the entire district goes out to the bereaved relatives of the young man.

The December meeting of the Thomasburg United Church W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Everett Prindle on December 13th at 2 p.m.

The program and devotional period were in charge of Mrs. W. H. Hicks.

Lunch was served by the committee composed of Mrs. Ross Grills, Mrs. G. Morton, Mrs. Henry Mumby, Mrs. H. Vance and Mrs. F. Brough.

CP YEAR-END REVIEW

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL(CP) — The province of Quebec is the greatest giant bite into her electricity resources in 1950.

It's a mouthful that would choke most other provinces. But Quebec — boasting more than a third of Canada's vast hydraulic potential—has plenty of room for digestion.

Generators will whirl into operation at four separate projects, increasing the province's productive capacity by per cent to 9,317,617 horsepower.

Slightly less than 1,000,000 horsepower was added in 1949.

HUGE POTENTIAL

Engineering surveys have shown Quebec's potential conservatively at 30,000,000 horsepower. Each cent of that is available from a single river—the 230-mile Manicouagan, emptying into the St. Lawrence from the river's northern tip 220 miles above the city of Quebec.

Hydro-Quebec, a provincially-owned corporation, has been awarded a preliminary contract for a $700,000,000 three-phase development on the Manicouagan. But it is expected to take 12 years before the job is completed.

The four projects scheduled for completion in 1960 have a combined production capacity of 1,794,500 horsepower. Each is under the individual capacity of Saskatchewan's one or two new Atlantic provinces.

A 1,000,000-horsepower undertaking is designed to feed the Aluminum Company of Canada plants in the Lake St. John region is the principal one.

The power is located at Chute des Passes on the Peribonka River—flowing into the lake—and at Shipshaw on the Saguenay. Five 200,000 - horsepower generators have been installed. Company officials anticipate the project will be completed by 1954.

WORK AT BEAUHARNOIS

Next in size are two extensions to existing Hydro-Quebec installations at Beauharnois next to the St. Lawrence Seaway locks and at Montmorency Falls on the mission's phase II development on the Montmorency, 200 miles northeast of Quebec.

At Beauharnois, where ultimate power capacity will be 2,250,000 horsepower, the commission's engineering staff calls for installation of five turbine units capable of producing 150,000 horsepower each.

A powerhouse more than a half-mile long has been built at the site. It is 116 feet wide and reached the huge total of 250,000 cubic yards of concrete more was required for the Panama Canal.

When completed the three-part development will have 37 main generating units 150,000-horsepower units were installed at Montmorency Falls.

On the Bersimis River, two 300,000 horsepower units will wrap up a 2,100,000-horsepower generating project on the 150-mile river 325 miles apart.

The first section was completed last year and three 180,000-horsepower units were installed at Bersimis No. 1.

A tributary of the Manicouagan River, the Outardes, will be tapped by a power-company subsidiary, the Quebec Cartier Mining Company as Quebec's fourth project for 1960.

The company plans to develop 96,000 horsepower from three generating units for an open-pit, iron-ore mine. A town for workers and their families will also be built.

The first turbine is set for install at the end of spring and the remaining two, before the end of the year. Work on Outardes No. 2 will start production early in 1960. The project is about 400 miles northeast of Quebec.

Govt. to Pay $2,500,000 for Highway Link

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—The provincial government will pay parts of a $2,500,000 St. Catharines link in a proposed highway from Port Colborne to the Queen Elizabeth Way if the city provides a right-of-way.

Council, hearing of the offer Monday in a letter from Highways Minister Scott, also rejected the costs would be shared. Mayor Wilfred B. Bald said the letter was council's nicest Christmas present.

The proposed right-of-way for the link follows the bed of the old Welland Canal, now being cleaned by the federal government, then cuts across St. Catharines' Golf Club property and meets the Queen Elizabeth Way just west of the city.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The Misses Wendy and Christine Jones entertained about 20 little friends to a birthday party on Thursday. They were the recipients of many lovely gifts and a happy time was enjoyed by all.

A large number of friends from this district attended the funeral service for the late Fred Wilson of Belleville, at Holloway Street United Church, on Monday. Much sympathy is extended to the family.

Mr. and Mrs. R. VanAllen, Robert, Basil and David were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon last Sunday.

Quite a few in this district are suffering from influenza.

Christmas service was held at Wesley's Church on Sunday morning with the pastor preaching "The Spirit of Christmas." The choir rendered an anthem, "In Bethlehem Town." Mrs. Jones acted as pianist. White's Church choir assisted in the candlelight service in the evening. Mrs. Jones is progressing favorably in Trenton Memorial Hospital and will soon be able to return home.

Mrs. Ronald Stoneburg, of Belleville, spent the week-end last week with Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Jones and family.

Canadian Trade Deficit Record In 3rd Quarter

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada ran up a record $624,000,000 deficit in commodity trade and other current items during the third quarter of this year, the bureau of statistics reported Monday.

The steep increase, from a $136,000,000 deficit a year earlier, was due entirely to a fast-rising trade deficit as commodity imports continued to outrun exports.

The accumulated current deficit for the first nine months of the year soared to $1,118,000,000, up 42 per cent from last year and only four per cent below the record nine-month deficit of $1,171,000,000 in 1957.

Nearly all of the third-quarter deficit—94 per cent of it—was covered by an inflow of $589,000,000 in long-term foreign capital. There was a sharp increase in the foreign sale of Canadian securities, mainly bond sales by provinces and municipalities. Some 70 per cent of the current account deficit for the January - September period was covered by $788,000,000 in long-term capital movements.

EXCEEDS RECORD

The third-quarter deficit of $624,000,000 compared with $198,000,000 a year earlier, and $442,000,000 a year earlier, and $442,000,000 the previous record deficit in the corresponding period of 1956.

Some Questions and Answers On Unemployment Insurance

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers prepared for us by the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send in your question. It will be obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you.

Q. I worked for a hotelkeeper who had 13 employees. As employer, I did his laundry at home. Am I entitled to unemployment insurance?

A. As you did the hotel laundry at your home you are not entitled to unemployment insurance benefits.

Q. If your husband is claiming you as a dependent, it is quite possible his rate of benefit would be affected, particularly if your earnings from the business exceed $14 per week. Your husband should supply full particulars to his local office in order to obtain a decision.

Q. I have 20 weekly contributions. Having sustained an injury, I am now drawing Workmen's Compensation and have been out of work for four weeks. My seasonal employment has been terminated. Can I draw my regular benefits?

A. If you ceased to work due to the injury you would not be entitled to benefit until such time as you are again capable of work. If the 20 contributions to which you refer are the only contributions you have to your credit you would be unable to qualify for regular benefit. If you become capable of work after the end of November you might then qualify for seasonal benefit.

Q. In early May (from April 25 to May 15, 1950), I found employment for a little more than two weeks. As I did not have my insurance book I could not obtain my two stamps at the time. In early October, 1950, I took my book to the manager of this company to get my stamps. He told me it was too late and refused to give me the stamps. Can I force him to deliver the stamps?

A. Delay in producing insurance book for stamping does not relieve the employer of his contribution but there are otherwise payable. Your employer had no right to refuse to make contributions in respect of your employment. In future, however, and in your own interest, you should promptly present your book to your employer at time of hiring.

MADOC

Co-operative Assoc. Has Excellent Year

MADOC — Madoc Co-Operative Association closed its 11th and most successful year in business on the 31st December at its annual meeting held in the basement of the Madoc United Church. The ladies of that church did an excellent job of serving a hot roast beef supper.

Mr. Wilfrid Forrestal, president of the organization, welcomed those present and introduced the guests present.

Mr. John Murphy, principal of Madoc public school, and Miss Merva Peters, provided entertainment with several duets, Miss Peters with the violin and Mr. Murphy at the piano, and also with the accordion. They also led in community singing.

Thanks for the entertainment were extended by The Mercer.

Mr. Wilfrid Forrestal introduced Harold Bedley, a student at Cooper public school, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bedley, who recently won the public school public speaking contest for the area comprising Madoc township, Madoc village and part of Huntingdon township. Harold, although only 12 years old, gave his excellent address on the subject of "Education in Agriculture."

It was then thanking by Arthur Parks who said that Harold's friends in the area were very proud of him.

Miss Wood, bookkeeper for the Association, followed with the auditor's report and financial statement circulated. The report showed that the Co-Op had its most successful year since organization. Total sales were $321,386 compared with $189,000 in 1958. Net savings for the year, before patronage refunds declared on deductible amounts, is $17,382, compared with $14,797 in 1958. A dividend of 4 percentage dividend on member business was declared. The report unanimously approved by the members present.

Directors elected were: Wilfred Forrestal, Kenneth Bateman and Earl Deveda. Ronald McIntyre, area field man for U.C.O., conducted the election of directors. Kenneth Bateman, Harold Herrin and James Miller were elected directors for a three-year term.

Mr. R. A. Woods, local manager, spoke briefly. He expressed his pleasure at the opportunity of working with the members during the past few years. He stated that the Co-Op was in a position to pay back the balance of the member loans and hoped that during the coming year members would turn in their loan certificates for repayment, pointing out that the Co-Op management would like to see these loans all paid before starting a building program that would soon be necessary to give maximum service.

Mr. Chas. Bailey reported on the annual meeting of U.C.O. held in the Royal York Hotel in Toronto, on December 1-2. Several matters were discussed and attended the meeting.

Others speaking briefly were the Rev. J. Mahon, minister of the United Church; Mr. Grey Murray, local manager, and Rod Blackwell, from the Peterborough Co-Op.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Arnold McIntyre, guest speaker, with illustrations in line with pictures slides taken at various Co-Op enterprises throughout Canada, the Maritimes, Ontario and the U.S.A.

Mr. Cecil Hutchison, thanked Mr. McIntyre for his interesting pictures and the explanations.

Tom Bonner thanked the ladies of the United Church for the supper and Mrs. Ellen Jones expressed their pleasure at being able to serve the Co-op members and their friends on the ocean.

Mr. Wilfred Forrestal closed the meeting by thanking the members and the directors for their assistance in making the Co-Op so successful during his year as president, and expressed the opinion that the Co-Op would grow bigger and better with the co-operation of its members.

DUNNERS HERE TONIGHT,

The Whitby Dunlops are here tonight as pre-Christmas opposition to the Mics—and the Hilsdenraders have no intention of playing Santa Claus, unless it is filling Long John Henderson's net stocking with pucks.

These pesky Dunnies appear to be as much at home on Belleville ice as an antique spinster at a quilting bee. They have yet to leave, this season so far, with their tails adroop, and defeat hanging heavily on their shoulders.

So the Mics can hand their fans a neat Christmas package in the form of a win (and get a shave), over the hockey hanger crew that basks in the warmth of Wren Blair's managerial wing.

We thought we had the Blairites beaten here our night. The Mics poked in goal after goal until they had a 2-0 lead—and everything seemed hunky-dory. It was, for a ten-minute period interim.

So Maestro Blair mounted the dressing-room podium and in no uncertain terms told his flock what he thought of them, and their ideas of playing hockey.

The verbal pelter was potent. It ruffled the hackles and irked the crews of the Allan Cuppers. So one and all they swore "we'll win this one for dear old Papa."

They did. They went out there and scored eight great big juicy goals while our side was collecting a miserable pair.

The Mics played fine hockey the other night against Windsor. If they repeat the form, they can hand the Dunnies their first seasonal setback on Belleville ice. And remember, the game starts at nine o'clock.

WAS IT RIGGED?

Said the police over the phone: "I have been reading your column, and that of others, on the Chatham Maroon situation. While I am glad to see the team in the fold, I have been wondering."

"Wondering what?" he was asked.

"Was it rigged?"

"Rigged!"

"Yeah, rigged. Doesn't it seem passing strange that a club averaging 1,000 fans per game, enough to break even financially with 2,000 crocked in a block against Hamilton, wants to fold because of financial difficulties?"

Gad, methinks the fellow has a point.

One Western Ontario sports editor very close to the Maroons, wrote "If the Chatham executives are not prepared to go under on what most of us think a pretty fair set of prospects they are better out of the hockey business. This corner thinks Chatham can be the best Intermediate club financially in the whole league, and that it will take a different approach to that of the present committee to prove it. Imagine, getting out of business selling 47,500 in local and all your home games!"

Now that the Maroons' financial problems have been solved (mainly by cashing $440 from the weekly payroll) the claim that the club was in the red just doesn't make sense. Maroon coach Jack Bownass claims that the Maroons could have closed shop with about $500 in the cash box, after paying players' salaries, all bills and refunds on advance seat sales.

Chatham's admitted average of 1,600 means an average ticket revenue of $1.32 per admission, according to figures presented at a recent meeting.

The Maroons, like any other team in the league, have 1½ home games per week and they would gross approximately $2,000 weekly. This would not take into account the increased attendance that normally comes after Christmas.

Out of this they pay the arena 15 per cent which leaves them $2,550 to run the club. Add to this $1,700 they would at least have $350 left. Their average road trip is 196 miles one way and they make 15½ trips per week or about 251 miles. (The Mics' average this week is only over 200 miles, go and come). At 21 per mile one way for the bus, Chatham would spend about $380 weekly for travelling. That still leaves them $550 to pay the coach, meals, sticks, rum, oranges and tape.

But they have another source of income, the program rights at their arena which should net them $2,000 for the season. Last year also have a loss of $7,000 from last season's operations. This seems to suggest the Maroons are in a better financial position than any club in the league.

Take the Kitchener Dutchmen for instance. They are always several thousands in the red at Christmas time and usually finish the schedule with a deficit. They manage to finish overall on least an even footing barring unforeseen expenses such as the unfortunate accident to Jack McMaster last year.

And take the McFarlands. We do not know the inner workings of the club, nor its financial conditions. But as a person-here observer at all home games, we would be willing to bet that H. J. hasn't too large a sum on the credit side of the hockey team ledger—if any.

Two Unknown Rookies Look Like Pick Of NHL Crop

Oliver, Kabel Are Standouts But Mikita Is Big Threat; Currently, Hicke is in Ruck

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Somebody had afterthoughts and it's turning out to be a bummer year for National Hockey League rookies after all.

At the start of the season, only two names looked as if they might end up engraved on the Calder Trophy—Stan Mikita and Billy Hicke.

Mikita still looks like a good bet but two players who weren't even in the NHL until a few weeks ago—Bob Kabel and Murray Oliver—look even better.

Hicke, the newest was conceded the rookie award the moment he put on an NHL uniform. He has yet to show why.

Last year he scored 41 goals and 97 assists for Rochester Americans of the American League to become the first rookie in the league's history to win the scoring championship.

Brought up by Montreal Canadiens this year, he has managed only three goals and six assists in 32 games.

OBSCURE CENTRE

Seven games ago, New York decided to try out an obscure centre named Robert Gerard Kabel who had been knocking about in the minors since 1955.

Brought up from Vancouver of the Western Hockey League, he promptly picked up two goals and seven assists to match Hicke's scoring record in one-quarter the number of games.

If he keeps up the pace, the 25-year-old Kabel has a good chance at the cup.

Oliver, 22, couldn't make the Detroit Red Wings at the start of the season and was shipped off to Edmonton Flyers of the Western League.

Sixteen games ago the desperate Red Wings gave him another try. He has scored eight goals and assisted on five others and is the fourth highest scorer among the rookies. Only Chicago's Mikita and Billy Hay and New York's Ken Schinkel are ahead of him.

Mikita appears to be following the dizzy-starts of his teammate Bobby Hull — which means he will make the rookie award.

Hull broke into the NHL two years ago at the age of 19 and narrowly missed winning the Calder award which went to Toronto's Frank Mahovlich. Hull is since developed into one of the league's most valuable left wings and is currently second in the scoring race.

Mikita is making his NHL debut at 19. He and his team are action tonight when Chicago plays New York in the only game scheduled.

Junior Boosters Hold Meeting; Plan Dance

By PETER CARVER

The Junior Booster Club has a membership of 150 people, but a lot more are needed to help achieve the objects of the club.

This was announced at the general meeting of the Junior Booster organization held at the Recreation Centre last night.

President Jim Murphy who chaired the meeting announced the membership and urged that members assist in getting more people to join. The price per membership is fifty cents.

Appointments were made at the meeting.

Wayne Woods was named co-chairman of the Membership Committee.

Ray Ayres and Meana committee was formed with Bob Stead and Lionel chairmen and Peter Carver co-chairman.

It was announced that the first fund-raising project of the club will be a dance to be held Saturday evening January 2. Dancing will be held from 8.00 to 11.30.

The dance will be held at the Recreation Hall, Pinnacle Street and all paid supporters of the club are invited.

Members will be admitted free upon production of their membership card. Others desiring cards can purchase them at the door.

It is hoped a large number of young fans will turn out as the city will turn out to assist the Junior Boosters in their first project.

FAMED BOXER DIES

DUBLIN (AP) — Jim Coffey, Irish heavyweight who fought Battling Levinsky and Gunboat Smith in 1914, has died at 68. Coffey emigrated to the United States at 19 and his professional ring career ran from 1912 through 1919.

Gary Goyer Still Leads Junior Scorers

Lambert-Bollins fattened up their scoring records with 19 goals in their last two games, 10-4 and 9-6 victories that gives them a record to date of eight wins, four losses and one tie, good for 17 points and second place in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" loop.

Meanwhile Gary Goyer has opened up a several-point lead in the team scoring race. He has 27 points on 16 goals, also a high mark. Goyer's hefty three club shows good scoring balance however with only seven points separating the next eight players.

Ralph Plane rates second in points with 20 and in goals with 14 while Don Forsythe is third with 19 points. Jack Elliott tops all in assists with 13.

Good for one goal against average of 4.43 in seven games with Billy Moxon owning a 4.50 record scoring for Barry Dugald has played just one game and a shutout after taking over from an injured Parker early in the season.

The club has scored 80 goals in 13 games for an average of 6.15 per game. They have scored upon 54 times for a 4.15 average. Following is the complete team scoring to date including all league games played to December 22.

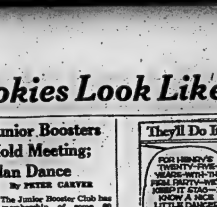
Dutchies Seek Dick Warwick

KITCHENER (CP)—The Olympic-bound Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen are trying to sign up Dick Warwick, who with brothers Grant and Bill is just completing a hockey coaching visit to Fort Lauderdale.



"We hope to be able to contact Dick as soon as he arrives," manager Ernie Goman said Tuesday.

"I understand he's interested in playing for us, and there's no doubt in my mind that he would be a help to us at Square Valley."

Dick has not had professional playing and thus would be eligible to compete in the Olympics. Gorman said he would like to get him into the lineup as soon as possible after Christmas.

TWO BRAVES CHANGES

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Braves, continuing the reorganization of their scouting corps, made two more changes Tuesday. Ray Garland of Detroit, former Tiger and Yankee scout, was appointed supervisor of scouts for the Great Lakes area which includes Michigan and Ohio. Bill Meagher, who formerly worked out of Detroit, was transferred to the Georgia - Florida area.

Jimmy Brown Unanimous on Pro All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Fullback Jimmy Brown was the only unanimous selection in the 1959 all-pro football team picked by The Associated Press by National Football League writers today.

The explosive backfielder with Cleveland Browns, who led the league in rushing for the second successive season, was named to the first team on all 37 ballots. End Ray Berry of Baltimore Colts and Sam Huff, New York Giants' redoubtable linebacker, missed out on one ballot.

The Colts and Giants, who meet for the NFL championship in Baltimore Sunday, captured 12 of the 22 positions on the defensive and defensive squads.

Berry's backfield mates included quarterback Johnny Unitas and Lenate Moore at halfback and fullback Jr. Jerest Frank Gifford of the Giants.

Del Shofner of Los Angeles, who vied with Berry for league pass-catching honors, was the other end berth on the offensive squad. Jim Parker, 270 - pound Baltimore tackle headed a devastating line that included Bob Gain of the Chicago Bears and Jim Ray Smith of the Browns.

The defensive line with Huff as the spearhead included Gene Starchetti of Baltimore and Andy Robustelli of New York at ends, Gain (big Daddy) Lipscomb, Baltimore's iron mountain, and San Francisco's two-platoon star Leo Nomellini at tackles, Joe Schmidt of the Detroit middle guard and linebacker Joe Schmidt of Detroit Lions.

The defensive backfield consisted of Jimmy Patton of the Giants, Andy Nelson of the Colts, Jack Butler of Pittsburgh Steelers and Abe Woodson of San Francisco.

Texas Cities Seventh Team Third League

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas - Fort Worth area Tuesday became the seventh member of the Continental Basketball League.

After a three - hour meeting with J. W. Batson of Dallas, president of the Jr., of Fort Worth, president Branch Rickey of the third league and a board - of - directors awarding of one of the last two franchises available in the Continental League.

Toronto, New York, Atlanta, Minneapolis - St. Paul, Denver and Houston are the cities previously granted franchises.

With one place left a choice will be made between Buffalo, and Montreal within a short time.

To Test Plante

'To See or Not to See' That Is Hab Brass Question

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacques Plante, pioneer of the face mask here for National Hockey League goalies, is to undergo a series of vision tests with and without the mask.

Montreal Canadiens management decided Tuesday it wants to know for sure, through scientific tests, whether the mask interferes in any way with Plante's vision. Plante stoutly maintains it doesn't.

The decision was prompted by the current slump, not particularly disastrous, of the NHL and Stanley Cup champions. Even with the slump has been an unusual number of goals scored by the opposition.

Plante was told Tuesday by coach Toe Blake to see the club doctor and make arrangements for the test.

"He seemed pleased about it," said Blake.

DISTURBS MASK

Earlier in the dressing room Plante sat dangling the mask and talking about it.

"I can see just as well with it on as without it," he said. "It doesn't bother me. I can see down at my feet just the same. Even after I started wearing it I found myself ducking as before. Now I don't do it so much.

"I can't explain this slump of mine or the team's or whatever it is. With the mask, maybe I might be what you could call a 'mask case.' Psychologically, I just don't know.

"I'd have been playing with a slight groin injury. Maybe my reflexes aren't quite so sharp in playing legs. Again, I don't know, but I'm sure the mask doesn't interfere with my vision."

OTHERS INTERESTED

Plante points to the interest of other NHL goalers in the mask. Don Simmons of Boston has been wearing one, Marcel Paille of New York plans to use one.

He added:

"I hear Glenn Hall of Chicago doesn't wear any kind of face protection even in practice. He's so fortunate; he hasn't had a severe injury. I've had both cheek bones and my nose broken. Do you wonder why I was all for a mask?"

The mask, of fibre-glass construction, fits snug to the face. Holes are cut for eyes and mouth.

Freeze-Up Hits Lake Simcoe Shanty Town Springing Up

FEATHERLAW, Ont. (CP)—The freeze-up has settled in and this Lake Simcoe community is happy. The cheerful chimney smoke of fish-ermen's shacks greet the first ice with the same delight they show when it disappears in the spring.

The shanty season is at hand. It came late this year, but with a vigor that indicates it is here to stay. A shanty map which was decided with the official arrival of winter laid a pronounced sheet of ice over the lake where only three days ago, there was open water.

"Good, blue ice," Alex Mercer described it Tuesday as he pushed his first fish hole out towards Georgina Island off this community on the lake's south shore. With 10 below zero forecast prevailed, he planned a full shoving today and drag more huts out with his Model A Ford.

FIVE-INCH ICE

Between four and five inches covered Lake Simcoe and it was thickening fast.

Mercer is one of dozens of fishers who operators last retired around the shore of the big lake, about 30 miles north of Metropolitan Toronto. The freeze-up brings rent-paying customers from all over Southern Ontario and New York State.

A good weekend sees as many as 5,000 on the lake, driving their own cars if snow conditions permit over as much as two feet of ice in search of lake trout, herring and whitefish.

Ice fishing, in fact, may rank as one of Ontario's fastest-growing sports. Only a few fish shanties on the lake last year compared with 800 in 1958.

Other fishing communities such as Keswick, Port Bolster, Jackson's Point, Beaverton and Oro Beach share in the Lake Simcoe boom.

Mercer expects the first customers will be on hand by Christmas Day, many of them with their families along.

"There've been a few weekend fishers in the last few years," he said, "We like to see them coming. They're good fishers and they leave the huts neat and clean."

KOTS AND COMFORT

The huts, equipped with stoves, are warm and comfortable and can house anywhere from two to six fishermen.

Whitefish are the main target but the smaller lake herring or ciscoes also are abundant and the occasional angler comes out with a big lake trout. Fishing is done with monofilament line through holes drilled under trap-doors in the huts' wooden floors, with sinkers the principal lure.

Operators will provide tackle, bait and transportation to the huts if required.

The success ratio is high. Daily catches of 10 or more whitefish, for which there is no limit, are not uncommon.

Elliott Bros. Are Rival Head Coaches

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The first brother-coaching act in Big 10 football history was formed Tuesday when Pat Elliott, University of California coach, was appointed coach at Illinois.

Elliott, 32, accepted the post offered him Monday and said Bill Elliott had becomes a conference coaching rival of his brother, Chalmers "Mule" Elliott, who made his debut as Michigan's top coach last season.

The Elliotts were backfield mates on Michigan's undefeated 1947 Big 10 and Rose Bowl championship team and will match wits Sept. 19 in the traditional Illinois versus Michigan rivalry.

Stamps De-Tail Comets 4-1

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders, working with a substitute defensive unit, downed Spokane Comets 4-1 and regained sole possession of fourth place in the W-s-s Hockey League Tuesday night.

A 2,000 fans watched Bill Gilleat, with Calgary Anderson of the Big Six Intermediate League, turn in the win. Regular Claude Pronovost is out of the lineup for a couple of weeks with a knee injury.

Stampeder goals went to Doug Barkley, Danny Blair, Murray Wilkie and Ted Gray with Ron Atwell scoring the lone Spokane goal.

TAKES TO SWEDEN

LONDON (CP) — Sweden has placed an order with several million pounds for the new British Sopwith army, tank, Centurion Mark 10.

Minor Hockey

Black Hawks, Canadiens and Rangers chalked up victories in the minor section of the BMHA at Memorial Arena last night.

Black Hawks downed the Bruins by a 5-3 count. Wayne Hawkins got the victory, attack with a brace of goals and an equal number of assists. Grant Work, Ryan and Gerry Jones each scored a goal with Ryan and Jones adding assists. Jim Ross also getting one. Mc-Fox and Kerry Smith got the helping assists. Dennis Anderson helping on one.

Canadiens squeezed out a 2-1 victory over the Red Wings. Pete Emerson and Don Goodfellow scored goals for the victors, stand-Don Morgan drawing assists on both. Gary Wood fired the Wings' goal aided by Thompson and Buckley.

Rangers turned in the night's high score in defeating the Maple Leafs 7-4, sparked by Ken Berg's three-goal hat trick. Norm Richards had two goals and Ron Stewart one. Terry Woodcock's goal and assist and Gary Thibeault's goal and assist rounded out the victors' attack with fine Morgan drawing assists on both. Gary Wood fired the Wings' goal aided by Thompson and Buckley.

Quiz Show Winner Still Has 5-Foot Stuffed Camel

By CYNTHIA LOWAY

NEW YORK (AP) — A young neighbor of mine, a metals salesman, managed to qualify as a contestant on a daytime audience - participation show called Concentration a few months back. It was just before the quiz-show scandals broke.

He won the game—and some loot — on his first appearance, then went back and was defeated by a woman contestant. He acquired a splurk, which the show management said was worth $365; an air purifier, $69; $50 worth of articles in a mail-order catalogue, and a stuffed camel, $300. The total value of his winnings—largely on lunch-hour time—came to $1,084.

Most of the articles arrived at his home within three weeks, but it was much later when the stuffed camel—five feet high—arrived from West Germany where it was manufactured. Upon the arrival my neighbor ran an advertisement in the local newspaper, stating that he had available, brand new and in their original shipping crates, two articles except the mail - order catalogue — and he listed the price he had been given.

"I only had a couple of calls," he said. "Not even jokers about the camel. The best offer was $350 for the splurk. Then I changed the ad to say that a contest winner had articles for sale and that all bids were welcome."

Currently he has sold the splurk for $425, the air purifier for $45—but still no takers for the $300 stuffed camel.

"I still don't know what I'll be stuck for in taxes," he says. "But what on earth am I going to do with a stuffed camel?"

COMPLETE CONTROL

Tuesday night's Christmas Starlime program was a rare and perfect hour of television appealing to eye, ear and spirit. The hour of prelude was produced with elegance and reverence and with emphasis on the religious meaning of the holy day.

There was the fine singing of the St. Paul's Cathedral Boys' Choir of London, enhanced by closeups of the current faces of the youngsters and impressive shots of the great old church.

Marian Anderson's rich contralto contributed some Negro spirituals and Silent Night. A make-believe portion of the program was its processing has been completed.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER
Thursday, December 24, 1959

General Tendencies: Christmas Eve this year is so filled with the best of influences from an astrological angle for whatever is co-operative, charming, delightful, peace-making and harmonious in the nature that you can wisely ask the teachings of the Prince of Peace to lessen and reconcile with anyone with whom you may have had differences of opinion and resolve to be more understanding of all others.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Striving to work harmoniously with all others now will bring you added benefits. Be devoted, too. You have an affectionate nature. Show it. P.M. it would be a fine idea to attend evening services. Capture the Christmas spirit.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Bring out all that fine artistic and cultural sense in all you do today. Make your surroundings far more charming. Also, charm your fellow human beings with that wonderful personality you have. P.M. spend time in fun or prayer.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — There is every opportunity to forge ahead today, but ethically so that you bring out all the wonderful tenets of Goodness and precept within you. Be an inspiration to others. This requires courage, and you have it.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Here is your opportunity to tangibly show your loved ones what an affectionate and devoted person you truly are. Then in P.M. have a party at own residence and be the person of light God intended you to be.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — That last-minute shopping can be done quite easily now, whether it be for small articles or very expensive ones. Don't forget delightful perfumes. Select your hair and beard are at their very best, too. P.M. attend evening worship.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Make every effort to be with closest of kin tonight and recapture some of your old spirit and standards. Resolve to apply these to your present way of life. P.M. have a happy evening at own residence.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — A day for happiness, showing real friendship and devotion to loved ones. Also, be the peacemaker where needed most. Make this a truly blessed day from morning until late evening.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — Go about merrily doing good for the needy. Later it will be relatively easy for you to comprehend the very highest of principles and philosophy, or whatever has heretofore left you rather puzzled.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Here is a good day to be with intimates or associates so that you can plan a more affluent and successful future. Be very sociable. Express your innate affectionate feelings.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Don't stay at home this fine day. Be out and about seeing people, making new acquaintances. Bring out the finer part of your nature, which can be very fine, indeed. Be most respectful toward higher-ups.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A day for widening your vistas so that future can be more brighter and happier. Make many new acquaintances. Be loyal to trusted friends, those who have been good to you. Spread cheer wherever you go.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Now it is possible to shop for those gifts without being extravagant, yet pleasing all. Then be your affectionate self with everyone and bring happiness into their lives as well as your own. Schedule your time early in p.m.

If your child is born today — The wonderful child born today will have a most unique appeal, yet be so strong of will and nature that none can conquer him, or her, and inferior types will be automatically cropped. Give as comprehensive an education as possible, since there is a well-right perfection in this chart. The success here is almost limitless, depending upon the start you give your precious progeny.

NAVIGATION CLOSES

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Navigation at Port Colborne closed Monday with the arrival of two ships of the Scott Misener Steamship fleet, the Lakelon and C. A. Bennett. The vessels bring Port Colborne's winter fleet to 15 vessels, 12 with storage grain carriers.

"Never in your life, Madam—in all your 29 years—have you had such an opportunity!"

Deseronto

DESERONTO — The Drave Company has secured a $1,400,000 contract at the Hunber, near Toronto, where this will mean considerable work for the company. It is not expected in any noticeable amount of extra employment for the Deseronto yard. As soon as can be ascertained, the job is pipelaying and not too much preparatory work can be done in Deseronto, it does, however, mean those now employed at Deseronto, enough work that there will be no lurther lay-offs for the three to four years that the construction will take.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Herrington of Toronto were weekend guests of relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Harris and Mrs. Earl Harris of Kingston were weekend guests of Mrs. Charles Beyette.

SNOWMAN'S SKIN?

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — A U.S. expedition to find the Abominable Snowman arrived here Tuesday with what it thinks may be a Snowman'skin. Expedition leader Peter Byrne of Ireland said "we have come with the skin of a child Snowman sold us by a Tibetan" but added it may be the skin of some animal. The skin, measuring 48 by 30 inches and covered with thick, long, soft hair, will be examined by experts.

Rawdon Twp. Council

Tag ends of municipal business for the year 1938 were wound up by Rawdon township councillors at their December meeting. Only routine matters were before council at the meeting.

Salaries of the various township officers were directed paid. Auditor Hoskins and Assessor Hedley were paid $15 each for their work.

Reeve James Spry was named township representative on the Valley Land Improvement Authority and also to the Moira Valley Conservation Authority for the year 1940.

The clerk was authorized to change the assessment on the Hoyle property on Highway 14 north of Stirling. Part of the property has been purchased by the highways department and the house has been removed to make way for elimination of a curve on the highway right of way.

POPE IN

said, "that the pacification which the church prays for is not to be implemented if it is undertaken for a yielding or a relaxing of its principles, for a victory of ideologies and systems of life which are in irreconcilable and irreducible opposition to the Catholic ideology; nor for the sake of indifference, before the humanitarian which comes to us even now from the unshaken faith in the rights of man are ignored, and falsehood is held sacred by many."

"Still less can one accept the forceful Calvary of the church of silence; there where the confessors of the faith, rivaling the early Christian martyrs, are enduring sufferings and persecutions without end for the cause of Christ."

NO MEETING PLACE

Men of the present day, the Pope said, have not completely carried into effect the principle of peace. As a result, "God's path toward peace has no meeting point with those of men."

Pope John said that although the world aspire ardently to peace, but "it will be necessary to build it on the only and secure path (of peace) the obstacles of immorality, in social injustice, in forced unemployment, in unwholesome economic profits, in privileges of whoever can indulge in disregard for the law, in lack of proportion between the technical progress and the moral progress and in the fear of unchecked armaments race without there yet being a definition of a serious possibility of arriving at a solution of the problem of disarmament."

"No peace," he said the Pope, "will have solid foundation unless there is nourished in the hearts and consciences of mankind, which ought to exist among all who have a common origin, a common end, a common destiny."

CONFIDENCE WRECK DESTRUCT

"Unfortunately," he continued, "there have not yet been removed the causes which have disturbed, and now disturb, international relations. It is therefore necessary to dry up the sources of evil; otherwise the dangers to peace will be renewed, sooner or later, threatening."

Pope John recalled that Pius XII had frequently proclaimed the causes of the international sickness.

There, he said, are "the violation of the rights and duties of the human person; the over-valuation of those of the family and of labor; the overthrow of the juridical order and of the healthy relations of the state in keeping with the Christian spirit; the wounding of liberty, of the life and healthful carity of other nations, to whatever extent; the unjustified suppression of cultural and linguistic characteristics of national minorities; the spiritual sickness of all who strive to seize control of the economic sources and the materials of common use, to the detriment of the general good and in particular, the persecution of religion and of the church."

'NEW WINCH'

Which's reference to high wages. Trade unionists said he had deserted his socialistic principles.

CRITICISE TIMING

Publicity, reaction from within his party and Ottawa's Conservative opposition to the provincial government's timing all combined to make provincial officers said that while they expect a general election this year they feel they were not well timed in view of efforts to bring the trade union movement and the CCF together into a new political party.

In Mr. Winch's eastend home, the telephone rang from early morning until late at night and he said Tuesday it continues to ring frequently.

"Most of the reaction has been favorable," he said. "Some have disagreed. The general reaction is that whether they agree or disagree with what I have said, it has caused a lot of thinking about the matter, And that's always a good thing."

Asked whether the views he expressed represent a big change in personal thinking, he said: "I wouldn't say my views have changed too much. A fundamental of the CCF party is for the highest standard of living for everyone, and we're all fighting to achieve it."

Three Killed In Car Crash

ST. MICHEL, Que. (CP) — Three persons were killed and five others were injured, one seriously, Tuesday when two motorists collided on a hill locally 20 miles east of Quebec City.

Dead are Mrs. Jorge Boudreau, 45, her daughter Francine, 19, and Edouard Dugray, all of Pabelan, Que.

The accident occurred when a car attempted to pass a tow truck and the driver car headon. The driver of the tow truck escaped injury.

Russian Space Rocketry Top News for Canadian Editors

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Russian space rocketry made the world's top news in 1939 in the opinion of Canadian newspaper men.

They said that hit the most Sept. 14, followed Oct. 6 by the rocket that photographed the mountainous pictures of its far side were flashed as the world's greatest victory for Marxism over Nazism voting in a Canadian Press poll.

The Canadian story was the Royal Tour—the cross - country pageant that carried King George and her husband from Newfoundland to British Columbia and back in a six-week journey ending Aug. 7.

Second spot in world news went to Nikita Khrushchev's triumphant visit to the United States, hailed as a break in East-West tension.

WAR SIX

In the collective opinion of the telegraph editors, it ranked as the top six world and Canadian news events of the year, the two others being the Soviet invasion of Finland, Nov. 30, and Premier Castro's New Year's Day Red Letter Day in the United States steel strike which began July 13, the dramatic finish of which began March 4 and subsequent Shea-Indian hockey playoffs, Canada's sports quiz - show scandals climaxed Nov. 2 by the Van Doren confession.

In Canadian news the editors chose the opening of the trans-Canada interscalper program in February as second only in impact to the Royal Tour.

A close third was the Newfoundland Broadcasting Co.'s highlighted March 10 by the 4th birthday of a police constable and Sergeant Frederick Gosselin's intervention to oust the International Service Corp. of Canada.

The St. Lawrence Seaway opening, death of Premier Maurice Duplessis, and the battle of tight money—typified in the Bank of Canada - Government of credit — completed the Canadian top six choices.

Other world stories rated high included John Foster Dulles's death, Hitler's "annihilation" and Jawaharlal Nehru's "greatest victory over Gandhi" and Premier Joseph Paleman and Dwight Eisenhower's Asian tour culminating in the Western Summit meeting at Paris this month.

On the Canadian scene two tragic human - interest stories—the record seven boys and their death of seven boys and their birth in a rich collapse at Liverpool Feb. 28 and of 35 fisherfolk on an ice floe in Newfoundland Strait gale—ranked close to the six stories chosen.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Fresh Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this healing substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In case hemorrhoidal cases after using this substance, "improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' examinations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And in most cases (according to tests) reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in many cases over a period of months.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of surgical methods or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in use in over 30 leading hospitals and clinics.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form under the name of Pazo for individually sealed convenience. Ask your druggist for Pazo Ointment or Preparation H ointment with Bio-Dyne. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Shimmy Queen, Gilda Gray, Dies Of Heart Attack

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Shimmy queen Gilda Gray, sex symbol of the giddy roaring twenties, died of a heart attack Tuesday while visiting a friend.

She collapsed at the apartment of Miss Gilda Rain on Hollywood Boulevard and was dead when an ambulance arrived.

Although a heart attack was the apparent cause of death, her physician said he could not sign a death certificate immediately. Her body was taken to the morgue for an autopsy. A friend said Miss Gray suffered what was believed to be an attack of heart trouble five days ago and had been under her doctor's care since.

Her dancing star of Shubert musicals, Ziegfeld Follies and the silent screen was always associated with her name. Friends said she was 60.

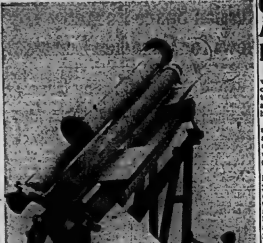
Like bathtub gin, near beer and other phenomena of the jazz age, Miss Gray was a symbol of the days when people went dancing in a short, spangled dress atop a high-heeled table.

And like those symbols, the five-foot, four-inch blonde pointed the absurdity of the generation made more and more people feel less and less dancing or salacious tabbs. She was living in retirement when she died.

REPRIMANDED BY TUCKER

During her heyday she was the toast of Broadway, starring with such Follies stars as Will Rogers and Gallagher and Shean, Sophie Tucker and Eddie Cantor, dancer under her wing and changed her name from Mary Gibyn to Gilda Gray.

Al Jolson called Miss Gray "the greatest of the shimmy dancers." She originated the dance in New York.



Miss Gray, who earned $4,000,000, married and divorced four husbands.

Born in Poland, Miss Gray came to the U.S. as a child. She started in the shimmy while still a teen-ager.

"I made the dance the way I feel and that's how the shimmy was born," she said.

She coined the word when a saloon customer asked her what kind of dance she was doing. She said:

"I shook my chemise like this and like that and called it shimmy, but he thought I was saying 'chimney' and that's how it all began."

Britain's Present Defence Policy Publicly Criticized by Some British Service Chiefs

CP YEAR-END REVIEW

By STEWART MacLEOD, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Britain's armed services are half - way through a five-year streamlining program that has been well publicized since its launching in 1957.

The latest progress report says everything is going ahead on schedule. By 1963 Britain will have smaller, trained forces, all volunteers. They will be highly mobile and highly armed—with atomic weapons.

But there is a growing feeling among some British service chiefs that the country is getting weaker against any form of conventional warfare.

CRITICIZES POLICY

The most outspoken critic of the government's present policy is Lt.-Gen. Sir John Cowley, a respected officer, who publicly implied that Britain is following a suicidal policy by depending on atomic bombs.

Shortly after Harold Wilkinson took over as defence minister from Duncan Sandys, Sir John made the front pages of most British newspapers with the statement about any future war: "Unless we bring nuclear deterrent into play we are bound to be beaten, and if we do bring it into play we are bound to commit suicide."

The only reaction from the defence ministry was that in future all speeches by soldiers on policy must be cleared with the minister. There is a feeling that Sir John reflected the opinion of many other senior officers.

Spokesmen for defence planners say that nothing short of an emergency can change the existing policy until 1963. "After that," said one, "there may be quite notable alterations."

Meantime, they say, Britain can handle any small outbreaks. The RAF is acquiring new transport planes to haul soldiers to trouble spots and "mobile strategades" are being trained in the army for limited combat.

NO TROUBLE SPOTS

In terms of fighting, the British Army can look back on its quietest year since the Boer War. This year saw the only six-month period since the start of the century when no Tommies were fighting. And the new year begins without a notable trouble spot.

The ending of open hostilities in Cyprus was one of the year's brightest developments for the defence ministry. Itchy spots in the Middle East were also heard over.

More missile bases went into operation in Britain, and the air force's hitting power grew stronger with strike aircraft and faster fighters. The navy continued its policy of acquiring smaller and faster ships while scrapping more left-overs from the Second World War.

With improved service pay and working conditions, recruiting rose sharply, eliminating all doubts about the ending of conscription. The call-up until this year and the last national service men will be discharged in 1962.

As part of the five-year program, all three services are gradually cutting down manpower. The full impact won't be felt until the final two years when the army will be sliced to 170,000 men from about 300,000.

Much of the excess manpower will [illegible] that—items directly from the war when soldiers and civil administrative staffs mushroomed because of lack of time for weight efficiency. Civilian efficiency experts have been called in to help.

STIRLING

Old Landmark At Glen Ross Disappears

STIRLING — The older folk who remember Glen Ross or other days will be interested to read, that an old landmark at the edge of the Trent Canal has suddenly disappeared.

Some time ago the old "Armstrong House" was torn down and this week the bulldozer crew has filled in the cellar with debris and smoothed it over.

Records show that this old landmark known for so many years was built by Clement Armstrong in 1830, and it replaced an old frame house. The new structure was made of brick. Both were licensed hotels and were in business for many years.

When local option came into effect in 1906, the beer licence was abolished.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST

In 1890 the late Sir John A. Macdonald, then Prime Minister of Canada, was an overnight guest at this hotel, and while in this area, he gave an address in the Glen Ross Public School which was situated a mile west from the hotel.

The Trent Canal was built in 1828 and a special canal house was erected in 1830. This was a store dwelling near the river, and was situated not far from the Doug Fryer farm.

Later this old "Armstrong House" was purchased and used as the lockmaster's residence.

During the summer a lovely modern residence has been erected on the opposite side of the canal, and here the lockmaster, Mr. Shirley Towns, and family, reside.

At a later date the Glen Ross Railway Station and the Pump House will be demolished as they, too, have outlived their usefulness.

Glen Ross is a built-up area now with many fine cottage homes, and there are several folk who are permanent residents in that area.

Jew And Moslem Aid Christians Visit Bethlehem

Pilgrims Cross Border Open Only at This Time

BETHLEHEM, Jordan (Reuters)—The dusty road to Bethlehem was thronged with pilgrims today as thousands of Christians prepared to celebrate Christ's birthday in the place where he was born.

This easy-going Arab town, 11 miles south of Jerusalem inside Jordan, came to life for the annual festival when morning mists lifted from the fortress-like hillocks standing over the gentle dell ordained as the place where Mary placed her child in a manger.

The first glimpse of pilgrims trudging south from Jerusalem had of the biblical town was a serene community nestled between two hills.

The bazaars are open and will not close till Christmas night.

Thousands came from distant lands by air. But many families crossed the Israeli-Jordanian border, open only at this time of year to Christians, to make the last part of the journey on foot.

The Christmas spirit infected Jew and Moslem as well and even on each side of the war-scarred no-man's-land in divided Jerusalem.

For once in the year the two sides co-operated to let pilgrims pass through the Mandelbaum Gate and make their pilgrimage to Bethlehem.

Hostile throughout the rest of the year, Israelis and Arabs were mingled freely in the square around the gate. Soldiers pitched tents on both sides of it to serve as temporary customs and visa checkpoints.

Christian priests and nuns in cassocks and robes, raced Arab Christians from Galilee in flowing white headdresses, townsmen wearing the traditional red fez, khaki-clad Arab and Israeli officers and women dressed Western style in bright dresses and spike-heeled shoes created a colorful pageant.

The Israeli Christians are travelling on a 30-hour pass, with instructions to return to Israel before midnight tomorrow. The start of the Jewish sabbath when the frontier closes at sundown.

Many foreign pilgrims are making their base in Jerusalem's top-notch hotels because there is still no room in the inns of Bethlehem.

Roman Catholic Christmas celebrations started with a service at midnight mass at the Church of St. Catherine, which forms part of the Church of the Nativity.

Protestants of many denominations, meanwhile, will attend Jerusalem's big YMCA building for a Christmas Eve carol service.

Head-on-Crash Kills Three At St. Thomas

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Three people riding in a small English-made car were killed today in a head-on collision on Highway 3 at Shadow, four miles south of here.

Dead are Bill Gillingham, of Port Stanley; a woman tentatively identified as Mrs. Gillingham and Paul McGregor, also of Port Stanley. Police and ambulance men worked 30 minutes to free the bodies from the wreckage.

After the accident a third car was reported to have skidded into another vehicle parked near the scene. It's 4 occupants were taken to hospital here but extent of their injuries was not known.

Man Convicted Of Possessing Stolen Bond

MONTREAL (CP) — Arthur David, 45, was convicted Wednesday of possessing a stolen bond. He is to be sentenced January 18.

The bond was part of the loot in a multi-million dollar burglary of a Brockville trust company May 2, 1959.

David testified that the bond was given to him by a man he was playing cards with. He said he won three $1,000 bonds and $1,100 cash in a game of the Spanish card game in which he is manager.

He said the men he played cards with were Rene Robert, a former waiter already jailed on narcotics charges and a man named Tessier whom he had not seen since last July.

He said he tried to cash one of the bonds and payment was refused. After that he gave Tessier the bond back and received $1,000 in cash. But he also gave Tessier back the other two bonds and received no payment.

Tessier disappeared, he said.

Judge J. Redmond Roche said the story was neither plausible nor reasonable.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — The bitterly high-pressure area which has stalled over northeastern Ontario gave clear skies during the night as all of the province except the extreme southwestern corner. Early morning temperatures across Ontario ranged from around 20 degrees below zero in the north to above in the south. A slow moving storm system centred in the west of the Great Lakes has given almost a foot of snow in places in Manitoba and Minnesota during the last 24 hours. This disturbance is expected to move southeastward across the lower Great Lakes by Christmas day, spreading cloud and light snow into Southwestern Ontario. Its southeastward extent of snowfall is expected due to this weather system. Over the maritime and central sections sunny skies are expected to continue into Friday. Easterly winds which have developed over the provinces will give somewhat milder temperatures to the southern portions of Ontario. No significant temperature changes are expected elsewhere.

SOME COMPANIES OPPOSE EXPORT OF NATURAL GAS

New Energy Board Taken by Surprise

OTTAWA (CP) — The new national energy board may have more trouble than it anticipated in making its first decisions on export of Canadian natural gas.

Wednesday night the board, which earlier had indicated it expected little opposition to the first gas-export applications it will hear starting January 5th, released the submissions of 13 organizations that intend to intervene in the hearings.

One of these is the Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company Limited, which opposes the export pleas on grounds that for the last four years by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited. The Ontario company says it can't protect consumer interest if the Trans-Canada application is granted.

To take a step further, the Saskatchewan Power Corporation urged the board not to allow any export of Canadian gas until it has decided that proven reserves exceed the minimum requirements of this country for the next 20 years. It said present reserves are "not much more than adequate," to meet this domestic need.

'Cat', 'Twelfth Cake', 'Mummery' For Newfies at Christmas No More

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld (CP)—"Cat", "Twelfth Cake" and "Mummery", once an important part of Newfoundland's Christmas season, are no more.

Victims of the modern era of automobiles, television sets, they exist only in the memories of the island's elderly citizens.

To call Christmas "grandfather dozes before the TV set, don't disturb him" is to risk being dressing nostalgically of the old days and a game of cat on a pond near his home.

Cat, an English game similar to bowling, was played on Boxing Day. The main piece of equipment was a pig or some other animal which the players batted around with a barrel stave.

Or maybe a Twelfth Night celebration to be held reliably on his mind. In those days, every Newfoundland family ate a supper with strong rum—by the jar—and the festivities went on from Dec. 24 until Jan. 6.

They wound up on the night of Jan. 5 with a feast and a dance at a house in each settlement. To top everything off, a huge Twelfth Cake was baked for everyone to enjoy.

Perhaps grandfather was dreaming of mummery, a custom popular in the outports. The mummers, disguised, went from door to door soliciting "some fun, eats and a good time."

The innocent sport was banned by proclamation in 1860 after a band of mummers was blamed for the fatal beating of a young politician.

Newfoundlanders used to liven up the festive season by staging their own plays in somebody's kitchen. The favorite was St. George and the Dragon.

The cast included St. George, the dragon and St. Patrick. The three fought imaginary duels, each swearing and cursing in turn. After one of the saints fell mortally wounded, a doctor chanted this magic formula:

Hectum spectrum of high geneology,
Mixed up with a hen's tooth and a cat's feather,
Knock ninety-nine times on the walls of Jerusalem."

The doctor then would administer a potion to the fallen gladiator, who would leap to his feet and return to the fray.

Some local doctors chuckled while dealing in his chair, he may just be remembering one of the Christmases of the good, old days.

Bill Aiding Catholic Schools Shows Power of de Gaulle

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's power in France was demonstrated again today by an overwhelming victory in an issue that has split the country several times in the last half century — state aid to Roman Catholic schools.

The National Assembly approved 427 to 71 a government plan increasing financial assistance to private schools despite bitter anti-clericalism by supporters and the united opposition of Socialists and Communists.

Under the plan, the government gets a say in how the money is spent. About 20 per cent of French children go to private schools, most of them Roman Catholic.

Premier Michel Debre, spokesman for de Gaulle in parliament, staked the life of his government in the fight that saw Education Minister Andre Bulloche quit because the government, to placate critics, modified the controls it would have had over the funds.

Supporters of Church schools went along with the government, although many were concerned that the increased subsidies would tempt authorities to exert more state control over the schools.

Under the government bill, private schools are given the choice of being integrated into the state system or signing a contract allowing the state some control over their teachers in exchange for aid.

During a night - long debate, Debre sought to calm the storm by declaring "the state need not fear today, as in the 19th century, struggle against religion in order to establish laicity."

The bitterness of defeat felt by the Socialists and Communists, united by long-standing anti-clericalism, indicated that public demonstrations of protest carried on throughout the country in the next few weeks would continue. Teachers in state schools marked a "day of national protest" Wednesday.

Until a previous government aid, both public and private schools receive a yearly allowance of 3,900 francs (about $8) for each primary pupil.

The new bill gives no precise figures on what the new subsidies would be. It merely establishes the principle that private schools should get help. It is believed however it would cost the state about 30,000,000,000 francs ($41,000,000) compared with 6,000,000,000 francs ($12,300,000) at present.

11th Bride-to-Be Chose Hefty Block of Stock

NEW YORK (AP)—Diamonds are not necessarily a girl's best friend.

Tommy Manville's 11th bride-to-be Wednesday chose a hefty block of American Telephone and Telegraph stock instead of an eight - carat diamond solitaire engagement ring.

Tommy, often a groom but rarely a husband, did not disclose the number of shares he gave 20-year-old Christina Enstien, a blue-eyed, brunette immigrant waitress.

But the gift surely didn't impoverish him. As the owner of 18,326 shares, worth $1,402,704 at Wednesday's closing market quotations, Tommy is the largest individual holder of A T and T.

Tommy and Christina came to town from his 64-acre Westchester County estate to make arrangements for their wedding Jan. 11.

Unlike the Tommy of old, Manville, now 65, had little to say.

Christina, radiant in a smart beige dress and sheared beaver fur coat, did all the talking.

She met Manville, she said, while waited tables in a White Plains doughnut shop—"I noticed him because he always had a beautiful woman with him."

On marrying a wealthy man — "my sole ambition is to have a happy home and a man I can really love for himself alone and not his money."

On her future — "he has a great sense of humor. Also, he is a fussy housekeeper, and he knows how to cook."

Christina was wed at the age of 17 to a barber and divorced in Mexico.

MINISTER SAYS DISARMAMENT PROSPECTS GOOD

Cannot Let Guard Down Green Claims

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Green Wednesday night expressed an optimistic outlook over that disarmament prospects have improved.

Though the record of Soviet-western disarmament negotiations was "a pretty discouraging exercise," the survival of civilization dictates that proposals be given the most careful consideration.

Mr. Green, who press conference following his return from the NATO ministerial meeting in Paris, said he could be completely wrong in his optimistic view. The West could not afford to let down its guard.

The external affairs minister said the Canadian government will lean heavily on the recommendations of Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns in developing its disarmament policy.

Gen. Burns this month will leave his post as commander of the UN emergency force in the midcast to take over as government disarmament adviser. He will be Canada's chief negotiator in 10-power, East-West disarmament talks scheduled to open late this winter or in the spring.

Mr. Green was asked what new disarmament proposals Canada could possibly make after 14 fruitless years of East-West negotiations.

Nehru Says He, Chou Not Ready For Conference

Maintains There Should Be Further Negotiation

NEW DELHI (Reuter)—Prime Minister Nehru maintains there should be further negotiation by note between India and China over border disputes before he confers face to face with China's premier, Chou En-lai.

The text of Nehru's latest letter, dated Monday and released today, replied to Chou's letter of last Friday, in which the Chinese premier called for a meeting in China or Burma Dec. 28.

"I am always ready to meet and discuss with Your Excellency outstanding differences between our countries and explore avenues of settlement," Nehru wrote. But, he added, "How can we, Mr. Prime Ministers reach agreement on principles when there it such complete disagreement about facts?

"I would therefore prefer to wait for your promised reply to my letter of September 26 and to our note of November 4 before we discuss what should be the next step."

Nehru and the Indian government set out India's historical claims to the disputed areas in those two messages.

China has taken over a 6,000-square-mile area of Ladakh province of India's Kashmir, and intruded on territory claimed by India to the east around Longju. Ten Indian border policemen were killed and 10 captured by Chinese troops in Ladakh in October.

Nehru expressed regret Chou had not accepted his proposals aimed at reducing tension in the frontier elsewhere, by which each side would withdraw to the claim claimed by the other. He charged Chinese intrusions had brought about the present situation "and created apprehension."

Chou's letter "once again reiterates claims to extensive areas which by history, by custom or by agreement have long been in legal parts of India."

Nehru ended his letter by expressing hope that agreement with you that the principal concern of our two countries should be with a program of long-term peaceful construction is life is every bit as dear our present state of backwardness."

Parachute Did Not Open

OTTAWA (CP) — FO R. J. Cherry, Chatham, Ont., airman was killed Monday when his parachute did not open after he bailed out of his Sabre jet fighter over the RCAF station at Baden-Soellingen, Germany, said force headquarters reported Wednesday night. He was with 444 squadron based at the station.

Need Open, Peaceful Partnership, Not Just Bare Coexistence - - Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mankind needs an open and peaceful partnership instead of a bare coexistence, President Eisenhower said Wednesday in his annual Christmas message.

The free world's Americans can contribute to such a goal, he said, in its five specific relationships of the right sort of help in the right sort of spirit.

The president delivered his message at ceremonies opening the National Christmas Pageant. As part of the ceremonies, he pressed a switch illuminating a Christmas tree in a park adjoining the White House grounds.

Speaking 15 hours after his return from a trip that took him to Africa, Asia and Europe, Eisenhower addressed his remarks to "my fellow countrymen and partners for a just peace wherever you may be in the world, whatever your race or flag or tongue or creed."

The president said "our concept of the good life for humanity does not require an inevitable conflict between peoples and systems. He was addressing himself over the other."

"Nor does it offer merely a bare coexistence as a satisfactory state for mankind. After all, an existence constantly under the harren and sterile, joyless and dull. Such a state would be only the coexistence of criminals in a penitentiary or labor camp."

Repeating a theme he used throughout his 11-nation tour, the president said:

"The assurance of peace in freedom is the key to the betterment of people everywhere; and in a just peace friendship between all peoples will flourish."

America's best interests, he said, require continued financial investment at home and abroad in developed nations. All other free nations must be persuaded to join in such efforts to the limit of their ability, he added.

Lord Halifax, Once Viceroy Of India, Dies

YORK, England (AP) — Lord Hilfax died at his country home here in Yorkshire Wednesday night. The gaunt, shy British statesman who helped swing the United States against Nazi Germany in the Second World War was 78.

Former viceroy to India, foreign secretary and Britain's wartime ambassador in Washington, Halifax had been in bed two days with a chest complaint. His son and heir, John Irwin, said his father "was just completely worn out."

London Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said Halifax had adorned all of his public offices with "his integrity, his idealism and his ability."

A conservative, deeply religious man once called an appeaser of Hitler for his association with the Munich peace policy of prime minister Neville Chamberlain, Halifax went on to serve Wirster Churchill's cabinet after he helped oust the Axis powers.

Halifax declared defiantly in 1940: "We shall not stop fighting till freedom, for ourselves and others, is assured."

MISSION IN U.S.

He went to the United States the following year as ambassador. His mission was to persuade Americans to end the sidelines to swing their sympathies toward Britain.

President Roosevelt, disregarding protocol, motored in a pouring rain to Annapolis Md., to greet Halifax on his arrival aboard the British battleship King George V instead of waiting for him to present his credentials at the White House.

Halifax toured the United States, urging material aid for the British. By the time he left for home in 1946 to retire from public life, Britain and the United States were united in victory.

Halifax paid his own private price in the war. His second son, Richard, was killed action in North Africa. His third son, the Hon. Richard Wood, now minister of power, lost both legs it. Libya.

Family of Six Homeless After House Fire

This will be a sad Christmas for the family of Mr. Gordon McIlmoyle a barber at Warren's barbershop on the gangway to the footbridge. This morning a fire broke out in their house, located one mile this side of Shannonville. Starting from an as yet, undetermined cause in the wall between the kitchen and the living room, the fire gained a good foothold before it was detected by members of the family, at about 8.30 this morning.

Once the alarm was sounded neighbors and the Belleville Fire Department arrived on the scene. Most of the McIlmoyle's possessions were moved out on to the front lawn and neighbors were still to be seen carrying out furniture and personal effects as firemen battled the blaze inside the house. Neither Mrs. McIlmoyle nor the children, three boys aged 14, 13 and 10 and a girl aged 15, were hurt in the fire.

By the time the fire was out at about 10 o'clock the entire interior of the house was gutted by the flames, thanks to the assistance of the neighbors, many things had been saved. The Salvation Army was on hand and arranged for the McIlmoyle's to move into an apartment in Shannonville for a week.

Mr. McIlmoyle when interviewed, stated that there was no insurance on the house but was very grateful that nothing more serious had happened and appreciated the assistance of his neighbors.

During all the excitement, the McIlmoyle's pet collie, Bounce, showed a decided distance from the fire and sat watching all the activity with a wary eye. He finds it hard to believe that the family has been burned out of their home on the day before Christmas.

BIRTHS

HOORNICHT. — Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hoornicht, Foxboro, are pleased to announce the birth of their son, Dennis Bert, on Dec. 23rd, 1959, at the Belleville General Hospital.

SUNTER. — Charlotte and Jack are pleased to announce the arrival of a son, on December 23rd, 1959, at the Belleville General Hospital. A brother for Heidi and Jackie. Mother and baby are well.

WALSH. — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walsh, R. R. 4, Belleville, wish to announce the birth of their son, Steven, on Dec. 23rd, 1959, at the Belleville General Hospital. A brother for Kevin.

IN MEMORIAM

ALEXANDER. — In loving memory of our dear father, Reuben Alexander, who passed away December 24th, 1958.
There is a land of pure delight
Where saints immortal reign.
There in unfading light
They bask in sunshine of eternal day.
—Sadly missed by daughter Ethel.

ALEXANDER. — In loving memory of a dear husband and daddy, Reuben Alexander, who passed away December 24th, 1958.
What is home without daddy?
What is home without love?
What is home without daddy and love?
Just memories that we hold dear.
Daddy's memory is sweet,
Remembered by her daughter Jill, sister-in-law Mary and niece Margaret.

ALEXANDER. — In loving memory of a dear grandmother, Jane Alexander, who passed away December 24th, 1947.
On Christmas Eve, in His quiet way
God took the one I loved away.
He took her gently and kind,
One who was gentle and kind.
And as I sit alone and think of her
He seems to say that's why I love her so.
—Always remembered, Anne, Jean.

CULLODEN. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Arthur "Sonny" Culloden, who passed away December 25th, 1958.
His memory is so dear today,
Though he has gone from our sight,
In our hearts he will always remain.
—Remembered and Uncle Bill.

CULLODEN. — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Arthur "Sonny" Culloden, who passed away December 25th, 1958.
He used to be our friend,
But now he is our guide.
He used to be our companion,
And will forever more.
—Sadly missed by mother, brother and sisters.

CULLODEN. — In loving memory of our dear friend, Mr. Culloden, who passed away on the result of a car accident, December 25th, 1958.
A silent thought, a secret tear,
Unseen by others, unknown by all.
Keeps Arthur's memory ever fresh
Time takes away a year from sight,
But memories linger with us day by day.
—Sadly missed by Rita Hall.

CORNELL. — In loving memory of our father, James Cornell, who passed away December 25th, 1935.
We think of him in silence,
We miss him more and more.
That he is missed left to mourn
—Remembered by his son Pat and daughter Lillian.

BARRAS. — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Kenneth Barras, who passed away December 25th, 1957.
Sweet memories of you, dear son, are ours
Memories of your laughter, your smile, your hours
We know
He never deserved what he went through;
His suffering sudden, his last breath so still
But he left a memory we are proud of.
—Always remembered by sister Lorraine, brother Vernon and family.

BARRAS. — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Kenneth Barras, who passed away December 25th, 1957.
Dearest Kenneth, we need a special day,
To bring you to our memory.
But every day we think of you
As you were and as you were to give.
Dearest Kenneth, we think of you
To see the face of Heaven, dear,
Is our constant cry at the door.
—Always remembered by Mom and Sandra.

FOSTER. — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Gary, who killed in a car accident December 25th, 1958.
On this Christmas eve, when hearts are filled with love,
Ours are filled with sorrow.
We're lonely and sad for our boy.
There is a vacant chair at the table,
But he was ours and we loved him so.
And when we see his vacant chair
We miss him more and more and more.
Ute.
If all the world were ours to give
And all the world we could receive
If life could only last come back
We'd be with us once more
You leave us both still wondering why
Nor
One so young should have to die.
—Sadly missed by Mom and Pop, loved by Mom and Dad.

FOSTER. — In loving memory of Billie Foster who was suddenly taken from us on December 25th, 1958.
Dear Billie you are not forgotten,
Dear Billie you are not gone,
Your memory is so dear today,
As it was the day you left us.
—Sadly missed by Aunt Margaret Birch, Aunt Beverly, Uncle Ostey.

FOSS. — In loving memory of Billy Foster, who passed away December 25th, 1958.
His memory is so dear today,
As it was the day you left us.
—Sadly missed by the Culloden family.

PATRICK. — In loving memory of our dear son, Lawrence Paul Patrick, who was called from our midst December 25th, 1953.
Six years have passed, dear Everett
Since you gave your last sigh.
How well do we remember
The day you had to die.
You suffered pain in surrendered not
We watched you day by day;
We loved you dear and your dear life
We would be taken away.
Dear Paul, you are not forgotten,
Dear Paul, the earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.
—Ever remembered by Dad and Mom Buck.

Father Was Driver

WIARTON (CP) — Wendy Rose Farrow, 3, was killed Wednesday by a two-ton truck driven by her father, Keith Farrow, on their farm outside this town 16 miles northwest of Owen Sound.

Mr. Farrow said he saw the girl standing with her brother, Keith Jr., 6, by the farm gatepost when "I drove in, but when he looked back after driving past he saw only his son.

Police said it is uncertain whether she had been run over, or ran into the side of the truck's wheels.

Train Hits Car, Driver Unhurt

William Thompson, 66, of R. R. 2 Belleville escaped injury early last evening when his car was struck by a westbound CPR diesel engine at the Bay Bridge Road level crossing.

Police said the car was struck by the left front of the diesel locomotive, the impact spinning the vehicle around and shoving it into the ditch about 75 feet away.

Damage to the car was about $150 and to the front of the diesel about $25.

Police said that Mr. Thompson was northbound at the time of the accident. No red flasher crossing signal was operating.

Two Children Burned to Death Near Whitney

WHITNEY (CP) — Two small children were burned to death Wednesday when fire swept through their farm home in nearby Sabine Town hip. Their weeping mother tried vainly to rescue them.

Deborah Ann Wojcik, 2, and her two-month-old brother Paul were sleeping in a downstairs bedroom of the two-story home while their mother, Mrs. Andrew Wojcik, was doing chores in the barn. Her two other children were with her.

Mrs. Wojcik saw smoke billowing from the home but fierce flames stopped her from entering it.

Mr. Wojcik was helping a neighbor haul pulpwood.

The farm is about 15 miles southeast of this community 85 miles northeast of Peterborough. It was without hydro or a telephone and heated by propane stoves.

Provincial police said they believe the fire started when flames from a gas-light burner ignited plastic curtains in the living room.

OLD LOOK

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Top hats and Victorian bonnets fashionable in the gaslight era were seen again at ceremonies when the last surviving gas lamp on the streets here was again illuminated.

Plane's Pilot Said Killed In Collision

TRENTON (CP)—A spokesman at the RCAF station here said Wednesday the pilot of a U.S. fighter plane that collided with jetliner bomber near Northern Ontario Thursday died in the crash.

The spokesman said the search for the pilot Lieutenant Geoffrey B. Tree, was called off Wednesday after "sufficient evidence was found to indicate positively that the pilot had been killed on impact."

A death certificate was signed by the coroner at Pagwa, the base for search operations.

The spokesman said the pilot apparently crashed in his plane but he could not mention where after the pilot's remains were found.

The pilot and co-pilot of the Strategic Air Command B-47 bomber were rescued Friday and the bodies of the other two were recovered were later found near the scene of the crash, 45 miles northeast of Pagwa.

Struck by Car

PEMBROKE (CP) — John Marquardt 18, of Palmer Rapids was killed Wednesday when struck by a car on the boundary road between Pembroke and Stafford Township. The car was driven by Leo Chartrand, 27, of Pembroke.

The accident occured just before the town's record of 782 days without a traffic fatality.

Cyril J. Bender New Treasurer For Corporation

For the first time since last May when it became known that city funds had been used to finance the Belleville Waterfront hockey team, the city of Belleville now has a permanent city treasurer.

He is Cyril J. Bender, 32, a native of Belleville, who has been in the Ottawa district, who will assume his new duties about the middle of January. Mr. Bender has been treasurer and tax collector with the Gloucester district township for the past seven years.

Selection of the new city treasurer was made by a special committee of council headed by Alderman Walter T. Elliott. More than 100 applications for the position were screened by the committee which at Monday afternoon's caucus meeting of the 1960 council were given power to act in the selection of the new official.

Mr. Bender's appointment as city treasurer will be confirmed by by-law at the inaugural meeting of the 1960 council early in January.

Percy Gray Heads Canadian Legion Post

HARMORA — The December meeting of Harmora Branch No. 257, Canadian Legion, was the election of officers and committee chairmen for the year 1960:

Percy Gray; 1st vice-president — Harold Napier; 2nd vice-president — Wilbert (Pete) Fisher; treasurer — Vaughan Glover; secretary — Robert Gray; Sgt.-at-Arms — Cyril Tandy; canteen — Stanley Kerr; membership — Clayton Hubbs; sick visiting — Clayton Beckett; service officer — Stanley Kerr; public relations — John Cram; entertainment — Clayton Beckett, Stanley Kerr, R. C. Fleming; bursary and scholarship — Lloyd Fisher; chaplain — John Cram; parade marshal — Jack Prest; poppy fund — Sidney Spencer.

Points of general interest were discussed and a motion was passed changing the terms of the annual $100 bursary open to Marmora students completing grade XIII in Marmora or grade XIII in Madoc to further their education. In the past it has been necessary for eligible students to apply and in past years only one student applied. It has been decided that all students will be eligible. The Legion committee will request the principal of Marmora and Madoc High Schools to advise selections of the Marmora student. Award will be on the basis of scholarship and needs.

Youth Committed For Trial on Murder Charge

COOKSVILLE (CP) — John Emery Hartford, 19, of nearby Port Credit, a former Canada Air Lines employee, was committed for trial by Magistrate R. L. Hain Wednesday on a charge of murder in the Nov. 24 strike slaying of a TCA clerk.

The body of James Beverly Wright, 29, of Oakville, shot four times, was found in the hallway of the airline's regional operations office at Malton Airport.

Carlage driver Donald Tomlinson told the court he saw Hartford near the operations office at 4.30 a.m. on the day of the slaying, when he stopped to pick up wage barrels.

Dennis Smith, a TCA employee, said he arrived for work about 8.30 a.m. with two female employees and had gone upstairs when one of the girls called to him that a man was slumped at the end of a corridor in the building.

Mr. White said when he found Mr. Wright lying on the floor he saw no blood and thought he might have suffered a heart attack.

Mr. White said Hartford had been employed as a mail boy by TCA and got along well with the employees.

classify, he replied. He felt Russia's announced desire for a disarmament agreement is genuine.

Mr. Green said the NATO alliance is a good deal stronger than most Canadians realize.

The minister also said there is no limit on the number of refugees who can be admitted to Canada, provided they are properly cared for.

A reporter asked whether there would be any government objection to thousands of refugees coming to Canada under proper arrangements for their relationship and care. He replied: "No."

The government was spending $720,000 to bring 190 tuberculur refugees and their families to Canada from European camps during World Refugee Year.

Christmas Party For David's Store Much Enjoyed

Some 46 members of the staff of David's stores at Belleville, Trenton and Picton, their wives and husbands were guests of the manager, Mr. Enos David, at their annual Christmas party held recently at Maple Inn. Miss Nancy David assisted in receiving the guests in the absence of Mrs. David.

The tables were arrayed in true festive fashion and a turkey dinner with all the trimmings was enjoyed by all.

Mr. David introduced the new members of the staff: Mr. Angus MacKillican, manager of the new branch opened in Picton recently; Mr. W. J. Cavanagh, also of this branch; Mr. Eddie Carter as teacher of the all-day class in January, was also a guest.

Like many other children, the members of the special class were fairly speechless with excitement at the prospect of a visit from Santa Claus, and when the jolly old gentleman put in an appearance he was almost overwhelmed by his reception. Tor's were distributed and placed in receiving bags for each child to take home and put under the family tree.

Decorated cakes, ice cream and pop were consumed in such quantities that even the children complained of "tummy aches."

Following Santa's visit and lunch, the children and their parents danced to the gay tunes on the school record player.

Mr. David, in closing remarks, however, were on the faces of the persons who were finding that their nicest Christmas gift was the knowledge that their children were having fun "just like any other children."

White Gift Service Is Staged in School

TRENTON — Sunday Dec. 20, was the date of the third annual White Gift Service held in the auditorium of the ACM Shredder School at 2 p.m.

At this service the children brought gifts of toys or canned food suitably wrapped in white. During the service the children marched to the Altar and laid their gifts which would later be used to help needy families for Christmas.

F/L C. W. Bryce, protestant chaplain at No. 6 Repair Depot, who is supervising chaplain of this Sunday School of over 500 children, arranged and conducted the service. S/L R. P. Connolly, Roman Catholic protestant chaplain, read the Scripture lesson.

Lieutenant Bursey, officer in charge of the Trenton Corps of the Salvation Army, dedicated the white gifts, and in a simple but eloquent way explained the purpose behind the gift of the Salvation Army for this assistance on behalf of all who would be helped by these gifts at this season.

S/L E. D. Stuart, Staff Officer of Religious Administration (Protestant) of Air Transport Command brought the service to a close by pronouncing of the benediction.

A. Hockaday Will Operate Sewage Plant

TRENTON — Word has been received on the Ontario Water Resources Commission that Albert Hockaday of Trenton has been appointed to the position of sewage plant operator in Trenton. The plant is expected to be put into operation shortly after the first of the year. Nine applications were considered by the commission. Mr. Hockaday was formerly on the staff of the Trenton Community Gardens.

Meantime, the post of town engineer, left open when E. C. Aldersey left Trenton to take the position of city engineer at Barrie, is still unfilled. Two applicants for this position will be interviewed on Monday, December 28th.

Christmas Party For Retarded Children Held

TRENTON — One of the jolliest and certainly the most enjoyed Christmas party of the current festive season was held at the Trenton Special Class for Retarded Children in St. Peter's School on Tuesday morning. Parents and members of the executive of the Trenton and District Association for Retarded Children were on hand to join in the fun. Mr. John Wauters, who will take over as teacher of the all-day class in January, was also a guest.

Five generations of a Picton district family are shown in the above photo. Seated are, Edgar Williams, 91, and great granddaughter; Mrs. Tom May, with her three-months-old baby Patty. Standing are, Mrs. Earl Brummell and son, Keith Brummell. Mr. Williams and the Brummells reside at Cherry Valley. Mrs. May lives at Consecon. All are lifetime residents of Athol township, Prince Edward County. Baby Patty has 10 living grandparents.

Be Careful With Fire

"Let's make this a fire-free Christmas," said Fire Chief Gerald Vance this morning.

Enumerating several pointers which will contribute towards a fire-free Christmas, Chief Vance noted the following: turn off Christmas tree lights before retiring — do not leave them burning for long periods of time in any room left unattended by children alone in the house when going out to visit — always have a competent baby-sitter with them; businessmen might check their premises over the long holiday weekend — one of last year's most disastrous fires occurred over the holiday weekend; and do not keep Christmas trees up any longer than necessary — they dry out and become fire hazards.

With people heeding the above advice it is hoped that people will have a fire-free Christmas in this area and will not have to personally thank Fire Chief Vance and the members of the Belleville Fire Department who wish to extend the warmest of greetings during the Christmas Season.

The following is an adaptation of the Night Before Christmas as used by the Scarborough Fire Department which has been passed on by Chief Vance:

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.
When down through the chimney, all covered with soot,
Came the "Spirit of Fire", an ugly galoot,
His eyes glowed like embers, his features were stern,
As he looked all around for something to burn.
What he saw made him grumble, his anger grew higher,
For there wasn't a thing that would start a good fire,
No door had been blocked by a big Christmas tree;
It stood in the corner, leaving passageways free,
The lights that glowed brightly for Betty and Tim
Had been checked, proving no one touched a limb.
All the wiring was new, not a break could be seen,
And wet sand at its base kept the tree nice and green.
The tree had been trimmed by a mother insistent,
That the contents used must be fire resistant,
And mother had known the things to avoid,
Like cotton and paper and plain celluloid,
Rock wool, metal icicles and bundles of glass
Gave life to the tree; it really had class.
And would you believe it? Right next to the tree
Was a suitable box for holding debris—
A place to throw wrappings of paper and string
From all the gifts that Santa might bring.
The gift-wood was no small load to haul
As he climbed up the chimney in utter disgust,
For folks in this home had paid close attention
To all the rules of good fire prevention.
A SAFE AND A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL!

SOME COMPANIES

Most of the other intervenors are concerned with the prices to be charged by the exporting companies, or merely want the opportunity of being heard by the board.

MAY SIT LONGER

In all, the 13 interventions seem sure of prolonging the Ottawa hearings to the full three-week duration expected by some officials close to the board, or perhaps beyond.

It is understood the five-man board hopes to rule on at least some of the five applications in time to allow pipeline construction—if approval is granted — to begin early in the next construction season.

Total amount sought for export in the five applications now before the board is a staggering 6,600,750,000,000 cubic feet, scheduled for delivery to the United States over the next 20-25 years.

As an illustration, this is about six times as much as would be needed to supply Toronto for the next 25 years. His energy equivalent would be about 2,850,000,000 tons of bituminous coal or 1,331,900,000 barrels of high-gravity crude oil.

CONCERN ONTARIO

The applications include:

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, for authority to export a total of 1,410,000,000,000 cubic feet, over a period ending in 1981 to the United States through Emerson, Man., and Niagara Falls, Ont.

Niagara Gas Transmission Limited seeks authority for the transmission of 73,321,750,000 cubic feet of gas to the U.S. via Cornwall, for sale and distribution in the northeastern States during the next 20 years.

New York gas distributors interested in the Niagara Gas application and that of Niagara Gas Transmission.

Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation said it already is awaiting U.S Power Commission approval to extend its gas distribution service along the New York side of the St Lawrence River.

The firm said it would serve a larger area than would the St. Lawrence Gas line, the route by which Niagara Gas Transmission purposes to sell its gas at Cornwall. It asked deferment of the Canadian decision on Niagara's application until the U.S. officials decide who it proposes to distribute gas in that market.

New York State Natural Gas Corporation, noting that Trans-Canada plans to sell its export supplies through Niagara to Tennessee Gas Transmission Company, said much of the area gas comes from Tennessee company and for that reason is interested in the latter firm's deal with Trans-Canada.

Northern Natural Gas Natural Gas, which buys Trans-Canada supplies for resale in Ontario industrialities, said flatly it opposes the Trans-Canada applications now in its final stage, after getting U.S. sanction last November.

The Ontario firm said it can't protect consumer interest if the Trans-Canada application is granted by the energy board. It wanted assurance that the Trans-Canada supply to the Northern Ontario area will continue to be adequate at prices allowing a resale price fair to the consumer.

The other intervenors are in Western Canada.

Wait Two Hours After Having Couple of Drinks

TORONTO (CP) — Advice for a longer life: Wait at least two hours before driving after having two drinks.

And for each drink after the second one, says the Alcoholism Research Foundation, approximately another two hours sobering-up time should be added.

The foundation says this applies to the average 140 - pound person. Two drinks means two 1½-ounce shots of whisky, six ounces, two three-ounce drinks of wine or two bottles of beer.

Persons 25-30 pounds lighter than the 140 - pound average should wait one hour more than the times given. People who are that much heavier could deduct one hour provided their weight is based on a corresponding larger frame and not simply on excess fat.

The reporters were included in a Christmas release by the foundation.

Some Thoughts About Christmas

There is something about this particular time of the year which we find especially invigorating within ourselves. For weeks countless businesses in the community and across the continent have been indulging in their Christmas specials and gaily decorated stores and premises. Carols which have been with us for many years come out of radio speakers, together with the new songs which always seem to crop up at this time of the year hoping to be accepted on the seasonal merry-go-round.

There are many aspects of Christmas which are commercialized and of a temporary nature and these we prefer to let drop by the wayside as so many used evergreen trees after the new year. But there is something lasting about Christmas which we find returning like an old friend year after year. It is the feeling of the infinite good in mankind, a feeling that no matter what man's external appearance might be he is, on the whole, a warm and friendly entity at heart.

We find that no matter where we might go at this time of the year, or at almost any time, we will find a segment of mankind which will justify this feeling. Whether we find him in the Bavarian Alps, in the streets of Rome, in the sweaty jungles of South America, on the edge of the picture Siberia to be, under bright lights flashing around Times Square, or on Front Street we believe we will find man to be good.

We celebrate this time of year as Christmas. Others may celebrate it by another name or in a different way. But we think that all are celebrating an occasion during which we reassure ourselves of the worthiness of mankind and express our hope for its advancement in the future.

In the celebration of the birth of Christ we find all of our feelings wrapped up into one scene. To us the birth of the Christ Child represents the hope and faith in man and his future through the continuation of life, that particular source of energy which man has yet to comprehend. The cry of that new-born Babe may be taken as a call to all to take heart, put aside their enmity and dedication serve as an example to man to be humble and thankful for whatever achievements he may have obtained because he would have been unable to do so without the miracle of life.

The Virgin Mother Mary represents the purity, the simplicity, the basic goodness which centres around the continuance of life and the absence of any need for involvement, deceit, selfishness or lust in order to maintain life.

The shepherds and the animals in attendance on our conception of the Nativity scene indicate that all living things, no matter what their origin or place in the order of things might be, have an equal right to this great gift of life to the world.

That things about us may not seem to be part of this picture or do not promote the goodness of this scene can only serve to remind us that it is quite possible for man to abuse his life on earth with false goals and ill means. To be sure, there are those who seek goals other than the advancement of all mankind, thinking only of themselves or their own kind.

But then, this latter is not what the Christmas Season means to us. Rather it is the goodness of man, the ability to some to turn aside the inducements of the material trappings of society and to contribute in some way, either great or small, according to individual means and ability, to make the continuance of life more meaningful for those about them and for those who have come after they have left.

It is our hope that these thoughts, which we feel to be common to many at this time of the year, will not be run afoul by the transitory terms of reference and of right and wrong which our era holds important to its existence. Times, places, events and names change; societies and civilizations come and go; nations and bodies politic rise and fall; but the thread of life continues on. It is the basic advantage common to all men. They will use it as they see fit. Some will abuse it for their own advantage, others will work marvellous things with it to the benefit of all.

At Christmastime we feel our faith reaffirmed that the latter will make the greatest and lasting contribution.

Diplomacy of Investment

Montreal Gazette

Canadians may try to tell Americans how they would like American companies to run their subsidiaries in Canada. But the better it is when Americans tell Americans how their subsidiaries ought to run, in order to become more truly a part of Canadian life.

How useful this kind of counsel may be is illustrated in a speech delivered before the "foreign policy" of American investment recently. But all the same he said supplies very closely to Canada.

As Mr. Carpenter said, it is not enough simply to establish a subsidiary in another land, and run it entirely for the benefit of the parent company. The success of that subsidiary will, in the long run, depend upon the success of the parent company in making it serve also the interests of the country in which it is located.

This is, in fact, a form of diplomacy, like any other. Only recent years has the United States been cast in its present active role in international diplomacy. Errors have been made but lessons have been learned. Those who are appointed to American embassies with the necessary training in which it operates. It must be responsive to the community, to its laws, and to the market, and believe all is well. Only then can it earn acceptance for our presence," says Mr. Carpenter, "as good corporate citizens."

Among other things, it is essential to "ensure a reasonable percentage of local residents and create opportunities for them to advance." There should be no restrictions on how far local residents can go in their careers. Canadian personnel temporarily transferred from the United States should be reduced at an early date, turning over to local residents as far as possible the direction of the business."

There are other necessary considerations. Use should be made as far as possible of local sources for supplies and materials should be avoided.

Mr. Carpenter also points out the desirability of local participation in the financing and direction of American companies abroad. And the caution he recommends. And in fact local partners should be chosen with a great care, and they should be a positive factor in the success of the enterprise, not mere office-holders.

Every speech of this kind gives on by an American businessman makes a contribution to the "diplomacy" of foreign investment. And it is gratifying to see that the importance of such diplomacy, as an essential element in doing foreign business, is becoming increasingly recognized.

Strictly Personal

We Are Not As Important As We Think

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

There is a certain self-importance that, no folly more profound, than a man's belief that he can kick and gouge and scheme his way to the top — and then afford the luxury of being a good person, for no consequence is more certain than that we become what we do.

It has long amused and saddened me that wealthy women should give their time to charity luncheon — and proudly raise a thousand dollars, which represents less than the collective sum expended on new hats they bought to attend the luncheon in.

A friend is someone who persists in liking us despite our irritating virtues.

One of the most effective ways of absorbing knowledge is to remain steadfastly ignorant of things that are not worth knowing; the mind has only so much room, and the more bric-a-brac it takes in the less space is left for the basic furniture of wisdom.

"This is your country with a great deal of information so often have a minimum of sense."

It takes a lot of bitterweet maturity to accept the fact that we are not nearly as important in the scheme as we think we are; I have seen widows desolated by the death of a husband, and remarried a year later, with all appearance of happiness; when we die, the waters of existence close over our heads with scarcely a ripple.

The most forceful proof that criminals want to be caught is not their physical return to the scene of their crime (usually a fatal one), but their psychological return, which takes two forms; indiscretion in talking about it or indiscretion in spending the gain from it, either of which eventually traps most criminals.

The easiest marriages are those between ordinary persons who are selfish in the same way, and form a common front against the world. What we think of as a "responsible" partner is often one who just an interlocking of similar egotisms.

Literature is not and can never be, "realistic"; in life, a bore is a person with a definite point of from; but in literature, some of the most delightful characters are bores. It is author "realistic-ally" portrayed a bore, we often throw the book down after a few pages.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

December 24th, 1929

The Christian world will echo once again to the Yule-tide salutation, the ancient greeting which is as sincere and bears as great import today as ever. It is a greeting that everyone can understand. It sums up all that goes into Christmas to make it the greatest festival of the year. So we say at this time to men and women and children have said through the ages, "A Merry Christmas".

Mrs. Grant Taylor of Toronto, is in town to spend Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Lattimer, Bridge Street East.

Mrs. Louise Hagerman will be a Christmas guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. Stewart and Mr. Stewart, Oshawa.

Mr. Wilbur Countryman of Western University, London, Ontario, is home for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. Stanley and Mrs. B. Dunning of St. Thomas, Ont., will spend Christmas with Mrs. W. H. Blaker.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Armstrong of Oshawa, will spend Christmas with the parents of the latter, Mr. and Mrs. H. Rous who are celebrating their fortieth wedding anniversary that day.

Miss Mary Doyle of Picton and Mrs. Harry Doyle of Gananoque will spend Christmas as the guests of Mr. J. J. Doyle, Grove Street.

Miss Ira Richards who is attending Queen's University is spending the Christmas vacation at her home here.

Miss Rita MacDonald of Hamilton is spending the Christmas and New Year holidays with her mother, Mrs. J. F. MacDonald.

Word received by Mr. Angus Mowat, librarian at Ontario Public Library, from Mr. E. C. Kyte, librarian at Queen's University at Kingston, tells of Mr. Kyte has been able to arrange a series of lectures planned for this winter on the History and Development of the Novel. The lecturer announced, Miss Young, Miss Merry, Miss Mastin and Mr. Bathman has been asked by Mr. Mowat to make arrangements for the lectures to be given in the held at the library.

Capt. Arthur Booth while on duty yesterday had the misfortune to slip on the sidewalk surrounding the corner at Bridge and Front Streets, fracturing one of his legs. He was attended at the station by Dr. Stobbs. He will be away from his desk of the police station for a couple of days.

Miss Dorothy Robinson of Toronto spent Christmas in Belleville.

Mr. James Ketcheson of Turriff, North Hastings returned home after visiting friends in the city.

Mr. Redvers Ross of Queen's University, Kingston, is spending his holidays at his home on Foster Avenue.

Miss Frank Station, Reg. N., of St. Catharines Hospital, Brooklyn, N.Y., is the guest of Miss Reta Dolan of this city for the holiday season.

Mr. G. A. Bailey, Reeve of Hinchinbrooke and Warden of the County, was in the city yesterday.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CHRIST TIME!

Christmas always makes me happy in one way and sad in another, I am happy because so many hearts are made happier. And the happier one makes others, the more one is in the presence of happiness in one's own heart. I am saddened because many cannot get over down here enough to realize, through no fault of their own, that in the best place, it is so universal.

Christmas teaches much, I see it — the spirit of doing about others is so general, affecting all classes, creeds and colors, and in it all the giver counts for so much more than the gift.

In divine democracy is what makes Christmas stand apart. No wonder! For did they not call the Christ child in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn! The birth of Christ was the world's happiest event. And the more one studies that life, the more one is convinced that the greater part of it was happy. Christ was not a "man of sorrows" all the time, I believe He often smiled — and always when little children were about Him.

Christmas also always seems to bring a beautiful gesture to mind typical of the difference — almost everywhere — people with their arms full of packages — for others than themselves! "Armful time" — that's it!

And, more especially, we may extend the divine spirit of Christmas into the coming New Year. Strife and suffering still hover about millions. May we think of the helpless and unfortunate in strife-torn countries, as we think of those we love to put on at home. And help!

Remember, it is Christ time!

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

By EDGAR A. GUEST

God bless you all this Christmas Day
And drive the cares and griefs away,
Oh may the shining Bethlehem star
Which led the wise men from afar
Upon your heads, good sirs, still
To light the path that ye should go.

As God once blessed the stable grim
And made it radiant for Him,
As it was fit to shield His Son,
May thy roof be a holy one.
May it win some this house to share,
Rest sweetly in His gracious care.

Within thy walls may peace abide—
The peace for which the Saviour died.
Though humble be the rafters here,
Above them may the stars appear
In shine clear,
And this home thou lovest well
May excellence of spirit dwell.

God bless you all this Christmas Day,
May Bethlehem's star still light thy way
And guide thee to the perfect peace
When every fear and doubt shall cease,
And may thy home such glory know
As did the stable long ago.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"ATOMIC COCKTAIL" MAY REDUCE SIZE OF GOITRE

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about this drink they use instead of drinking the thyroid trouble. I've been told I have thyroid trouble, but don't want surgery. — M.J.K."

And another letter:

"My doctor advises that I take radiodine in the form of the 'atomic cocktail' to get rid of my goiter, instead of an operation. Several people tell me they took too much and then had to have surgery. Please enlighten me.—Mrs. H."

Taking an "atomic cocktail" is, as far as you are concerned, a lot like drinking plain water. Of course it is not that simple to your doctor.

The "glass of water" containing tiny particles of iodine which have been made radioactive — I 131 is the chemical symbol.

Iodine is absorbed, by the chemical workings of the body, in the thyroid gland. A very small amount is required for diagnosis. The iodine moves in the thyroid, and the particles, being radioactive, can be traced by instruments of the Geiger counter type.

For your peace of mind, remember, that the radioactivity of the luminous paint on the watch P.O. is many times as efficient to set up quite a clatter in a Geiger counter as the iodine in your throat. So the amount in an "atomic cocktail" is similarly small. There is no danger in fear of being harmed.

The job of the thyroid is to supply atoms of iodine move to the thyroid gives a very exact indication of the body's condition.

Now a goitre, of course, is an enlargement of the thyroid gland. It creates an excess which leads to excitability. Sometimes it is just so. Likewise the size of the enlarged gland may be unsightly. Surgery is indicated in addition it may press against the trachea in the throat, or do other mischief.

For a variety of reasons, there is a tendency to avoid surgery if the gland may need to be removed a second time. This is the only possible method. Now it is sometimes possible to reduce the size of the goitre by means of the "atomic cocktail." The iodine, again, is absorbed by the thyroid, and the radioactivity, or radiation from the iodine, helps to reduce the size of the overgrown gland, just as X-ray or other radiation is used to reduce the size of other tumors.

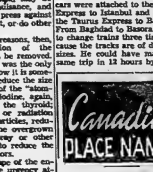
Before the removal of the enlarged thyroid, the urgency attached to the "atomic cocktail" considers dictate whether surgery or an "atomic cocktail" will benefit you. This is such a technical matter that I can only say, that the ultimate decision, for success of your treatment, your health, that is, is far more important than the surgeon you happen to prefer one method or the other.

In either case, it is not always possible to reduce the thyroid to exactly the right size and activity. Indeed, it is quite reasonable to remove a little extra" to avoid having to do the whole thing over again, and then give the patient thyroid extract to make up the amount needed, until the body adjusts to the right level.

Needless to say, after treatment by an "atomic cocktail" is not unusual, nor is it a sign that the patient "had too much."

"Dear Dr. Molner: Am I correct in believing that it is impossible for a woman to become pregnant three days before or three days after her menstrual period? — Mrs. E.F."

Let's say it is quite unlikely.



Note to Mrs. E. S.: Heavy drinkers may acquire cirrhosis of the liver, but, as with many diseases, it can be said it acquired by people who have never touched a drop. A very common cause is poor diet, which makes it more likely; it isn't the sole, or basic cause.

Want to lose weight? It can be done. A diet plan that has been given in my pamphlet, "The Secret of Reducing." For a copy, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 4866, Chicago 80, Illinois, enclosing a long, self-addressed envelope, and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

This Sheikh Likes Trains

Geneva Journal

The Sheikh of Qatar dislikes airplanes and ships to such an extent that he has spent 12 days on trains to travel home from Switzerland. His three private cars were attached to the Orient Express to Istanbul and then to the Tauris Express to Baghdad. From Baghdad to Basora he had to change trains three times because the tracks are of different sizes. He could have made the same trip in 13 hours by plane.

PORT MEADOC, N.C.

This place was named in 1880 by Capt. Richards of the Royal Navy to honor Richard Clement Meadoc, a chief of considerable influence of lands and works in the U.S. government. The town was once subjected to greatness, visioning itself a great Pacific port, but lost much of its importance when the CPR was extended to Vancouver.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

THE WORD MADE FLESH

Have you bought a holly wreath and hung it up on your door or in one of the windows of your home? If you have done so, have you asked yourself why the holly wreath is Christmastime?

We hang up a holly wreath at Christmastime because the holly is green and about the only green thing we can have at this time of the year in a temperate zone. But holly bespeaks not the birth of Christ but His death. It represents the crown of thorns pulled from upon His head. The red berries represent His drops of blood. The enduring quality of the leaves speaks of the enduring quality of life — eternal beyond the grave.

Christmas and Easter belong together. They cannot think of one without the other. The sweet days of birth, the child and the mother and the protector in the stable have as their counterpart the gloom of the man hanging on a cross with the sun refusing to shine over Him — Jesus of Nazareth, the king of the Jews." And after the resurrection comes the ascension to heaven.

But it all starts in the stable of Bethlehem. Here the parents look up into their arms the holy child and the great drama of man's redemption is begun. But it began even before that when the Christ took His death from the beginning; made flesh who was to die and sinning as full of grace and of truth.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The Packsack always devotes Christmas Eve to reminding us lucky ones of all those who won't be having any Christmas on account of us.

Are the hospitals all empty today? Are the nurses off duty? Are the doctors, the young doctors, the old doctors, have all the nurses laid off for the holiday?

Who keeps our lights burning as we give the last touches to the Christmas tree? Who keeps the lights burning on the tree?

The taps run, the stoves light, the telephone rings. Somebody must be on watch.

The police are on watch, more of them tonight and tomorrow than any day of the year. The firemen are in the fire halls, ready as ever to save us or our precious property. More trains, more aircraft, more buses are boring across the earth and sky than on any day bright of the tourist season. And all the operations depend on the thousands of them, in stations and terminals and airfields are laboring harder now than on Labor Day. From tip of Florida to Alaska, from Hong Kong to Labrador to the farthest tip of California, the incredible web of lights shones rings now with traffic, and countless thousands of girls and men are on duty all over that vast filigree. For the security, comfort and joy of our Christmas we are in debt to an unseen unthought of multitude for whom Christmas is just another day, and a tougher day than usual. So here's a thought for them.

A Lift for Living

The Wonder of the Wise

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

The little town of Bethlehem on the crest of a hill — households asleep — an inn crowded with guests now grown quiet — a stable for beasts of burden. On this night a human burden beast housed there also — a woman, heavy with child — a carpenter waiting while love endures the travail of birth. Then a boy is born.

Across the hills a road leads to Bethlehem. Three strange figures slip silently through the night. Stars are luminous in the Syrian sky — one strangely brighter than the other. The three mysterious travellers, who have been called "wise men" but who this night are baffled, gaze at the star and are guided by it. They too come to Bethlehem and find a manger, a mother, a newborn child.

Such is the picture of the first Christmas as it was painted for us in our childhood.

But wise men still follow that star, believing that at Bethlehem they find a light to lead us out of our darkness even in 1959.

With the Wise Men of old "we come to worship Him." Our first reason for coming is that in Christ we see a wisdom beyond our wisdom. When we speak of wisdom, we must distinguish it from mere knowledge. Men can become wordly wise in a way that dulls their fresh insights. Men can become wise in their own conceits or blinded by prejudice and stupid through stubbornness. Then they lose the wisdom of youth's open mind.

But whether it be the wisdom of age gained from the experience of good living or the wisdom of youth unspoiled, by hard thinking and loose living, it is something more than mere knowledge. As Cowper put it:

"Knowledge is proud that he has learned so much;
Wisdom is humble that he knows no more."

And this distinction between knowledge and wisdom must be kept in mind when we think of Jesus. We do not turn to His words for scientific facts or economic theories. When it comes to the wisdom by which we can handle physical forces and social movements or the principles by which we learn to live and live together, there Christ is the master of the ages whom Wise Men are still coming to worship.

Our knowledge cannot save us. If is His wisdom we must have. We have skill to make tools for living, but we need wisdom to keep us from turning them to our destruction.

Secondly, "we are come to worship Him" because He has a power beyond our power. It might seem that had the Wise Men been courting power and wanting to win favor and security they would have given their gifts to Herod. But they were wise enough to see there was a power at Bethlehem greater than at Herod's palace. The Babe in the manger looks little and weak alongside Herod and Caesar, but his forces grown while theirs fades.

It is the power of the spirit we need above all else. And that is the power we find in Christ. He has the power to erase the blush of shame from a sinful heart, the power to put there the glow of forgiveness and purity. His was the power to take a shifty and unstable fisherman like Simon and change him into Peter the Rock. His was the power to forgive those who were driving nails through His palms, and to put the hope of heaven in to a repentant thief on the cross beside Him.

Much as we need His wisdom which is beyond our wisdom and His power which is beyond our power, the most alluring thing about the Nazarene is that His is love beyond our love.

Our human loves look more like mirrors at the cradle's season than at any other time, but their semblance is short-lived in a world so seemingly cold and cruel as ours. Just as the Christmas tree lights must be taken down at the end of the holiday season, so our sentimental loves will are likely to be tossed in rubbish to the void. Christmas love cannot be kept alive when removed from the soil. Nor can love be kept alive when divorced from God.

If we would keep love alive we must think not of the mean things men do to love or may do to us, but of the good things which it has done and can do for us. And if we keep our strength rooted in love rather than hate, we shall begin to comprehend the breadth of Christ's love which embraced enemies as well as friends. We shall understand even as we are learned Tuesday. These applications of the royal principle of mercy have been made in the last 10 days to prisoners whose sentences normally would expire between Dec. 15 and Jan. 3.

The Committee on Christian Faith, of the United Church of Canada has recently published a book entitled "Life and Death". The committee has admitted that the doctrines it contains, "may seem new and even dangerous to some people." We admit that they seem so to us.

Since the Book has been presented "for study", we feel obliged to give it a sincere analysis in comparison with the teachings of the Bible, as have been understood by Protestants since Luther, Calvin and Knox. Therefore, Rev. Gordon Woodcock, Pastor of the Parkdale Community Church, Toronto, himself a member of the Parkdale Baptist Church, will be speaking on subjects suggested by the book in question. A hearty welcome is extended to all United Church people who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity to study this book. The claims of the Scriptures will be fully believed.

Wedding

DELANGER — DELIVE

MARMORA — A quiet wedding took place on Saturday at 3 p.m., December 19th, in St. Andrew's presbyterian church of the United Church, Marmora, when Betty Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Delive, became the bride of Guy Ernest Jack Delanger, son of Halifax, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ernest Delanger, of Marmora.

The ceremony was performed by Reverend J. D. Maurice McLeod in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride chose for her wedding an all wool suit in sapphire-blue, with white feather hat and white gloves. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. Robert Taylor of Toronto, was matron of honour for her sister and wore a dark blue all wool suit with white fur hat, white gloves and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. William Sabine attended the bridegroom.

A reception as held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Delive wore a light beige brocaded dress with brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses, and the bridegroom's mother wore a navy-figured, two-piece suit dress with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For a short honeymoon to Toronto the bride donned a coat to match her suit.

Relatives were present from Peterborough, Alliston, Toronto and Madoc.

The bridegroom who is an RNAF in the Royal Canadian Navy, will return to Halifax for posting, while Mrs. Delanger will remain here.

150 Attend Christmas Concert

WELLINGTON — A large audience filled the hall Friday evening for the annual Christmas concert by the choir of the Wellington United Church and the pupils of the Sunday School, numbering some 150.

The opening chorus, "Christmas Time," by the choir and Sunday School students was followed by remarks from the Sunday School superintendent, Mr. C. M. L. Snider.

The beginners' department of the Sunday School won the hearts of the audience with their numbers.

The junior, intermediate and senior departments of the Sunday School joined with the choir in presenting a pageant, "The Holy Nativity." The leader was Mrs. Freeman. Numbers included a duet, "Watchman Tell Us of the Night" by Betty Bishop and Joan Cockburn, a solo, "Holy Night" by Marilyn Brimsley, "Lullaby" by Muriel Mitchell and many numbers by the choir and by groups of the Sunday School children, the pageant ending with the audience joining in singing "Joy to the World."

The Rev. Alfred Poulier, in his closing remarks, thanked the congregation for attending, the participants for their work. The children then went to their classrooms to receive a treat.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart K. Rosenberg

Three there are who would do well to undertake play their overdone, frenetic zeal.

The first of the lot may be conveniently dubbed as Mr. Over — Aggressive. We find him every-where we go. He's forever fussing, fretting and fuming. His shirts are never laundered right; his coffee's never hot enough. He wears vengeance on the whole dry-cleaning industry and upon all of the world's poor and unsuspecting waiters. He makes the mistake of assuming that he has been the special, supreme target of all assorted inadequacies. For, after all, the earth is his and the fulness thereof.

His life is eloquent testimony to the presence of nervousness which he makes no attempt to control, subdue or sublimate. He has never learned to be still and reasonable, to think rather than grunt. He might live longer himself if he were willing to let others live, too.

The over-competitive man is our next victim of misguided zeal, perfect, of itself, need not destroy our values or our hearts. But it is not in such measure as our life's work, competition can spur us to the highest endeavor, competitive mac. He believes that he can achieve victory only when the other fellow loses. But life is filled with victories without defeats, and defeats, and losses which may become gains. He will never learn to operate with life's inexorable logic and unpredictability unless upon coming all the time, we have lost the race long before it begins.

The over-active man is perhaps active. And so he is constantly busy proving himself, and impressing others with his already outgrown ego. But to grow old is not a sin; it is an art. There comes a time in life when we need no longer behave as like children in order to prove how youthful we are. One of the signs of immature youth is its constant insistence upon action for action's sake. Maturity knows what not to do; it has already outgrown the urge of frantic doing and is quite prepared to let the more foolish burn out their physical machines in exciting but empty motion while they avoid being bored, tired, dull, frantic.

To those who would grow: Stop being over-aggressive, nervous-competitive, over-active. Overdoing makes you grow down, not up!

Jesus Was Born

I'm so glad that Jesus was born,
On that cold and desolate morn,

Mary his mother sweet and mild
Sang soft lullabies to this Holy Child.

Angels appeared to Shepherds that night,
Out of the night the stars shone bright
The news of the Christ Child's birth was told
While three wise men journeyed bold.

The scene at the manger was soft and sweet
With the donkey, head bowed, at the Christ Child's feet.
The star outside still glowing bright,
Added extra joy to that wonderful night.

QUESTION BOX

Question: We have a lady in our church who smokes during religious meetings. She has a cigaret in her hand during both the morning and evening prayers. Have times changed so much that this is proper now? Or am I old-fashioned with my ideas about smoking? To me this shows disrespect for both the minister and the church. What do you think?

Answer: I am frankly horrified! I cannot imagine anyone having such earthy lack of the sense of the fitness of things. It is amazing to me that the minister has not expressed his views very strongly and asked her to stop smoking while in church. You certainly are not old-fashioned. There is a time and a place for everything, and a holy place is decidedly neither one.

Question: When a mother and daughter have the same first names, how should they sign Christmas cards, or any kind of greeting cards, when sending them jointly. If no nicknames are used by either one, it makes it rather awkward.

Answer: I assume that the writer of this inquiry is a widow. If there is a husband it is fairly simple. It is Simply "Mary, Jim and Mary Jane." If this is not the case, it is wiser to send separate cards if the daughter is in her teens. "From Mary and Mary Doe" sounds rather ridiculous! If she is a small child, it can be "From Mary Doe and little Mary," which isn't too bad. Of course the way to get around it is to sign "Mary Doe and the family." This does away with repeating any names at all.

Question: What do you do when you work in close quarters with a group of people, and one of them lumps all the time? Day after day the humming (usually the same tune, or part of one, over and over again) drives everyone else in the office crazy. How can you diplomatically tell the offender to shut up?

Answer: You can't. This is a situation where it is impossible to be anything but absolutely tactful. The person who cultivates a habit of humming, drumming on the desk, or tapping the feet, probably doesn't realize he is doing it. Insidious habits like these can become so much a part of people that they are totally unconscious of the irritation they are causing. Just come right out with it, attempting to be a little funny, if you possess it, and tell him that you are sure he doesn't realize he is doing it, and would be pleased desist. Hurt feelings may result for awhile, but these can be overcome if you lackingly kid him along if he forgets and hums again!

BEDNERSVILLE W.I.

ALBURY — The December meeting of Bednersville W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Hefner on December 16 with over 35 present. Mrs. Young, the president, welcomed everyone with a Christmas verse.

The correspondence was read including a letter telling that $73.58 had been collected for the blind. The collers was voted for the World Refugee Fund and it was decided to get a new book for the Tweedsmuir history.

The next euchre will be held at Centre School on January 8th. Everyone welcome. The next meeting will be January 26 at Albury Church in the form of a banquet for the families.

The 1st and 2nd vice-presidents took charge with Mrs. C. Vandlet and Mrs. Mac Wallbridge arranging the program.

Several Christmas readings were given a duet by Linda Green and Barbara Stavely was enjoyed; also a duet by Linda Sheppard and Joan Hefner.

Jasper Klarr demonstrated making a poinsettia which was cleverly done.

Mrs. Jack Jones was the lucky winner in arranging a balloon parcel.

A vote of thanks was given to the hostess and all who helped with the excellent program.

A delicious lunch of sandwiches, fruit cake and coffee was served.

Hostesses Can Make Party Dips Ahead of Time

By EDNA BLAKELY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—There was a time when the hostess spent much of the evening hidden in the kitchen, preparing the snacks for the guests.

Now the hostesses who want to enjoy their own parties can make up party dips ahead of time. No more slaving over a hot stove. A few minutes in the kitchen produces a variety of treats which have been prepared earlier in the day.

These mixes can even be made a day earlier, heaped into serving bowls and stored in the refrigerator.

TASTY TREATS

Crisp toast triangles and thin slices of rye bread make fine dippers. The bread can be sliced and arranged on cookie sheets ready to be toasted in the oven.

Deviled Cream Cheese Dip: Beat thoroughly ¼ cup soft white cream cheese. Blend with 2 tsps. prepared horseradish, 1 1-3 tbsps. chopped parsley, 4 tsps. onion juice and ¼ cup canned deviled ham. Makes ¾ cup.

Garlic Cream Dip: Whip together ¾ cup prepared sour cream and ½ package 8-ounce white cream cheese. Add dry garlic salad dressing mix and blend well. Yields one cup.

Avocado Cottage Cheese Dip: Blend together ½ cup mashed avocado, ½ cup cottage cheese, ½ tsp. salt, dash onion salt, 2 tsps. lemon juice and ½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce. If cottage cheese is dry, add cream until right consistency is obtained. Yields one cup.

Smokey Sherry Dip: Combine ½ cup smoked - flavored cheese spread with 4 tbsps. sherry wine and 2 tsps. caraway seeds. Produces ½ cup.

Apricot Cream Cheese Dip: Combine one package (4 ounces) of white cream cheese with 3 tbsps. cream, 3 tbsps. apricot jam and 2 tbsps. chopped pecans. Yields one cup.

Cheese Ham Dip: Combine one cup cottage cheese with one cup deviled ham (4 tbsps), ½ tsp. prepared mustard, ½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce, 1 tbsp. brown sugar and a pinch of cloves. Makes 1¼ cups.

CHILDREN'S PARTY

Guests can prepare their own lunch at a "dress it up and eat it" party, particularly fun for youngsters.

At the world "go" each guest starts making a fancy open-face sandwich from bread and trimmings provided. At a pre - arranged time, everyone stops, sets the edible artwork is judged.

The hostess should provide an assortment of breads, colored sandwich spreads, and edible decorating materials such as: pimento, green pepper, ripe olives, pickled onions, parsley, chives and green cherries, chocolate chips, silver shot, candy and cookie sprinkles, biscuit cutters and a spreading knife for each guest are the necessary utensils.

ROMAN FASHION

The ancient Roman toga was made from a semi-circular piece of cloth, four or five yards long on the straight side.

Wife Preserver

Give hostess and linguists a delicate value! Impress by wrapping a set of dainty linens for serving in a small muslin bag and throw it in the washer with the garments!

"The Night Before Christmas"

'Twas the night before Christmas when all through the house,

Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse,

The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,

In hopes that Saint Nicholas soon would be there.

The children were nestled all snug in their beds,

While visions of sugarplums danced in their heads,

And mamma in her 'kerchief and I in my cap,

Had just settled down for a long winter's nap,

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,

I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.

Away to the window I flew like a flash,

Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.

The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow,

Gave a lustre of midday to objects below,

When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,

But a miniature sleigh, and eight tiny reindeer;

With a little old driver, so lively and quick,

I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.

More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,

And he whistled and shouted, and called them by name:

"Now, Dasher! Now, Dancer! Now, Prancer! and Vixen!

On, Comet! On, Cupid! On, Donner! and Blitzen!

To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall!

Now, dash away, dash away, dash away all".

As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,

When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky.

So up to the house-top the coursers they flew

With a sleigh full of toys, and St. Nicholas too.

And then in a twinkle, I heard on the roof,

The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.

As I drew in my head, and was turning around,

Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.

He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot,

And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;

A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,

And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.

His eyes how they twinkled! His dimples how merry,—

His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry,

His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,

And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow.

The stump of his pipe he held tight in his teeth,

And the remains, it encircled his head like a wreath.

He had a broad face and a little round belly,

That shook when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly.

He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,

And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself.

A wink of his eye, and a twist of his head,

Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread;

He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,

And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk

And laying his finger aside of his nose,

And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.

He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,

And away they all flew like the down on a thistle,

But I heard him exclaim as he drove out of sight,

"Happy Christmas to all and to all a good night."

THE BIRTHDAY CAKE

"A crowd is non company, and faces are but a gallery of pictures, and talk but a tinkling cymbal, where there is no love" — Bacon.

* * * * *

"According to the calendar, Christmas comes but once a year (as it should), but for me, the Spirit of Christmas (the love and goodwill that makes us all akin), like gold, is where you find it. It's a year-round affair," commented a Belleville lady. "As a matter of fact, I've seen Christmas celebrated in the middle of July."

Would she tell about it? She'd did and this is her story:

Like the title of the song, "It was a small hotel" — where it all took place. The kind you will find anywhere north in Hastings County, and where my husband and I had stopped to enquire if meals were being served. We were plain lucky.

"Yes," the whiskery landlord-cook informed us. "Just go up those stairs, the dining room is all the right." We entered, by a large double doors that revealed a mere half dozen tables in a tiny room quite frantic with splashy wallpaper roses resisting any flirtation with the waving green tropical aroma of leaves on the blowing curtains at the open window.

Due to frayed nerves from travel weariness, this gaudy note accented the much-in-evidence of three teen-age lads seated at one of the corner tables. No other guests were present and we assumed we were the last, since the noon hour was virtually over.

"But I see, others are expected," said my husband as we chose another corner table and gave our order to a waitress. He nodded toward a table that neared the room. With places set for six, it was distinctively reserved, not by any printed sign, but by a lusicious white birthday cake and pink candles.

AIR OF EXPECTANCY

Somehow the very sight of it set up a quiver of excitement which gradually charged the entire atmosphere with expectancy, as the meal progressed; excellent roast beef, buttery beets, a leafy salad, climaxed with a generous wedge of home-made pumpkin pie. Even I expressed the hope that the party would appear before we had left and get all our coffee. And it was apparent the three lads shared this feeling as well. Dressed for rough work (perhaps they worked in a lumber camp nearby) they displayed manners that matched, shorn of almost common decency. Though teen-agers, they were already rough and tough enough, at least they sprawled in their chairs, their tousled hair jammed into unremoved dirty caps and ate several rounds of dessert and drank endless cups of coffee, their eyes kept sliding covertly toward the unlighted birthday cake.

"Can't you count?" one flatly blurted out. "There're eleven candles. Only some kid's birthday. What're waitin' for. Let's get goin'. With that, the other two rose, ashamedly reluctant, eyes down cast. It was then that the double doors swung open and—well, none of us was prepared for what took place.

"Three under-teen age children, two boys and a girl, bounded in, with suppressed happy giggles and lit the eleven pink candles, together. Then a young mother, a pretty girl fashionably dressed in a soft blue tailored cotton gown, with her hair coiled on top of her head like a golden crown, kept the doors ajar. Thus entered the young father, tall, lean and well-groomed, pushing a child's wheel chair.

In it sat a beautiful child with large dark eyes. Her lovely dark curls threaded with a pink ribbon tallied with the pink organdy party dress. As her wheel chair drew closer to the table she caught sight of the candles. Her eyes grew luminous and perfectly round, like twin liquid pools and sparkled like sequins.

But no sound came from her lips. The small white hands didn't flutter with excitement. Then came the realization this child was as a baby. A baby which had never developed; the victim of an affliction.

JOY BREAKS OUT

For a moment the room was very chill and silent. Then as if a magic wand had touched us all, the room changed. Joy abounded at the sight of the little family paying homage to one of its dearest, however maimed, members. A group surely that belonged to a sort of aristocracy of the soul, the novelist, E. M. Forster, as an aristocracy of the sensitive, the considerate and the plucky, the world over, who represents the true human trait, the one permanent virtory of our race over cruelty and chaos." With such persons in the world, "the experiment of earthly life cannot by any means be dismissed as a failure."

The face of the waitress was mist suddenly radiant and smiling as she hovered about them. The three lads had barred their heads, and stood back, in awe, as if lost in memories of childhood days, when loving family ties held just such celebrations long forgotten and now which they hungrily sought to share. Their worn, lusted of expressions hard and tough, transformed.

In that moment, swiftly, they were no longer rough lads, but men of quality and breeding. They had become gentlemen. In that fleeting moment, love, that good will toward men touched the hearts of us all in the little laundry room that had suddenly become one of the happiest places in the world.

Here it was July—and Christmas.

The Friendly Magic Of Christmas

by Mary Moore

At an exercise clinic where I thrice-weekly jungle, pummel, stretch, flex, bend, steam. I was introduced to the big rolled and daydreaming. While it hummed and revolved a conversation in the vicinity of the massage began to penetrate. "... I always use potato flour in my shortbreads . . ." At this I frankly eavesdropped, then switched off my machine and went round to my fellow exerciser. "Would you mind telling me why you use potato flour in your shortbreads?" "Certainly not. It makes them crisper." She didn't think I was bold. One word about cooking and the whole world of women is akin. That is what makes our association with one another such a friendly society. We have cooking in common — and good cooking in particular.

Now that Christmas Eve is here I allow myself the luxury of imagining your kitchens, the provisions in your refrigerator, the state of your readiness for the big cooking day tomorrow.

It is so exciting, for it is the best time of the year. Christmas day brings us much closer. Acquaintances become friends, public figures together by the Christmas split. Wouldn't it be heaven on earth if that spirit could be made to stretch over the whole year?

Here is my toast to all my food column friends: May your Christmas be joyous, may your loved ones understand your unselfishness and may your Christmas dinner be the best yet!

And I would like to drink this toast to you in this delicious

CHRISTMAS EGG NOG:

6 strictly fresh eggs, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 cups milk, 2 cups 18 per cent table cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla nutmeg (spirits if desired — see below).

Separate egg yolks and whites. To the yolks add 1-3 cup of the sugar and beat until thick and sugar is dissolved. Add remaining 1-4 cup sugar to the whites and beat until stiff. Fold beaten yolks into beaten whites. Stir in cream and milk and vanilla until mixture is blended. Chill until very cold. Pour into punch bowl and sprinkle lightly with nutmeg.

SPECIAL NOTE TO MY KINDRED SPIRITS:

Deep down, usually unexpressed, is my yearning for my far-off loved ones to be here. This ache seems to swell at Christmas neers. You who will have vacant chairs will know that you are not alone. When we say Grace we'll include your loved ones and faithfully believe our fervent blessings reaches them.

Merry Christmas to you each and every one!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of a case in one history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Bernard H. — I want to patch things up.

Grace C. — We'd look like fools.

Bernard H. — I am a bachelor of 28. Nearly a year ago I was engaged to marry a wonderful girl, but the engagement was broken off because of a silly argument.

It started because I couldn't give up a college reunion for a family wedding Grace wanted me to attend. We got into a bitter argument. Grace said that if I was going to act that way after we were married she just could not take it. I said friends come before family and she gave me back the ring.

I still think I was right, but I am beginning to realize I have given up the one girl in the world I can love. I am trying to patch things up, but Grace believes it is too late.

Grace C. — I think we'd look like fools if we ever got engaged again after all the trouble we caused our family and friends. We had our wedding plans set and received many gifts which had to be returned.

My family and friends feel that I was right and that it was Bernard's obligation to come to the wedding since he was already almost a member of the family. At least if he would admit he was wrong I would be more willing to take up where we left off.

However, I must admit I'm tempted to patch things up because I have never cared for anyone as much as Bernard. I have been miserable since our breakup.

The Council: When wedding plans are called off at the last moment because of some "silly" argument between the engaged couple, there is always more at stake than the argument itself. Few differences are so serious and insurmountable that people can't smooth them over when they want to. In any case, by the time the couple has come to the point of making wedding plans, the most serious differences have usually been resolved in some way.

Grace and Bernard should face the fact their argument was the excuse for a breakup which must have been desired by both of them. If their relationship was the all-important thing it should have been, neither Grace nor Bernard would have found it too difficult to sympathize with the other's point of view. It wouldn't have been hard to give in.

The basic cause for such an upset can rest with none deep-seated incompatability. However, since Grace and Bernard are contemplating renewing their engagement, this is most unlikely. The most probable explanation is cold feet. Neither Grace nor Bernard felt quite ready for matrimony.

Are they ready now simply because they have been miserable apart? We doubt it. The aftermath of a broken engagement is beset with unpleasantness. Each of the partners is bound to think unfavorably of the sense of security and good times they experienced together. But Grace's fear of being thought a fool, her rather childish concern about who is right and Bernard's concern about the same issue don't point in the direction of a successful reconciliation. If and when they are both ready for such an event, they will know and accept they have acted like fools in relation to one another.

"IN LAWS"

You've referred to your "mother-in-law," or your "brother-in-law," probably many times, but did you ever stop to ask yourself what these terms mean? There's no law that says HER mother is YOUR mother, and what's more, she wouldn't BE your mother even if the law DID say so!

No, the phrase is a contraction of another one that DOES have a meaning — "In Canon Law." That is the Church law which lays down the degrees of relationship within which marriage is prohibited. A man is not allowed to marry his grandmother, for instance, even if she would take him! Nor can he marry his widow's sister, and I'll tell you why in a minute.

Family relationships are important, and it isn't easy to keep them smooth when everything in the house is upset. Like on moving day, for instance. Yet moving day can be a pleasure with the "Kleen Pack" system which Fox Cartage and Storage Limited were the first in Eastern Ontario to adopt. They pack everything at the old house — and it's done by trained packers — then unpack everything at the new one, putting your furniture just where you want it. No mess, no dust, no dirt — you can entertain in your new house the day you move in, if you want to! And prices are so very reasonable, too. Get a Fox "KLEEN-PACK" estimate on YOUR next move.

A man can't marry his widow's sister because, if he had a widow he'd be dead!

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"ALL MY HEART THIS NIGHT REJOICES"

All my heart this night rejoices,
As I hear, Far and near,
Sweetest angel voices;
"Christ is born", the choirs are singing,
Till the air, Everywhere,
Now with joy is ringing.
Hark! a voice from yonder manger,
Soft and sweet, Doth entreat,
"Flee from woe and danger;
Brethren, come; from all that grieves you
You are freed; all you need
I will surely give you".
Come, then, let us hasten yonder;
Here let all, Great and small,
Kneel in awe and wonder.
Love Him who with love is yearning;
Hail the Star that from far
Bright, with hope is burning.

Next to Dr. Martin Luther, the Rev. Paul Gerhardt was Germany's most gifted and illustrious writer of hymns.

He wrote many very precious religious songs including "O Sacred Head, Now Wounded", "Jesus, Thy Boundless Love To Me", and this beautiful Nativity hymn, "All My Heart This Night Rejoices".

The latter-hymn was written in 1653 and was translated into English for wide use more than 200 years later by Miss Catherine Winkworth. Miss Winkworth, an English woman, was born in London in 1829. She won world-wide renown as a translator of German hymns. Some authorities acclaimed her as the greatest in her field.

Much of Mr. Gerhardt's life was marred by tragedy and tribulation. He was the son of a German burgomaster and was born at Grafenhalnichen, near Wittenberg, in 1607. He attended Wittenberg University and later settled in Berlin. In 1651, when the Thirty Years' War ended, he was ordained to the ministry. Four years later he married, and for about a decade he enjoyed high esteem as one of Germany's outstanding clergymen.

Then, in 1665, along with other ministers of his day, he was ordered to sign an edict issued by Elector Frederick William. When he refused, he was deposed from his church post. His wife and four of his children died. He spent 10 more unhappy years in preaching at Lubben and at Berlin, but he died, in 1676. The world will treasure always those bright songs which he wrote during his happier years . . . including his Nativity verses.

"Strange," the most famed, how a golden thread of peace and a silver sheen reminiscent of the manger seem to stretch through the joyous Christmas fellowship of this family. It is as if the one stood among the lowing cattle, the piled-up gifts of gold and frankincense and myrrh and gazed raptured down on the face of the Divine Babe."

Heads again bowed under the holly wreaths and the clustered mistletoe. Once again the deep covenant voice of the father of the household breathed gratitude to God for the birth of His Son. "We thank Thee for this day; for the good fellowship and happiness we have shared for a few short hours; for the abundance of food; for our good health. May we all be spared to enjoy another Christmas such as this has been. As we depart may we do so with thankful hearts for the blessing which have bestowed on a troubled world two thousand years ago; for the rich benefits we have since enjoyed; for faith and for the growth of brotherly love and human kindness and compassion on this earth. Most of all we thank Thee for eternal life made possible for us by the birth of Thy Son."

The two reverently bowed its drooping head on its withered arms. "What a pinnacle of joy and beauty I have reached today," it mused. "Surely in God's other world there will be days of rejoicing over the birth of the Babe of Bethlehem. Perhaps even trees like me will find a place in life again. Perhaps for me this is not an ending, but a rich renewal of life and a shining new beginning."

Outside the window muffled voices of departing guests lifted in a symphony blended with the chime of sleigh bells. Part of a lovely carol floated on the frosty air, like a sad but magnificent requiem for the dying crowd. "And praise unto to God and King and peace to men on earth.

The Soliloquy of a Christmas Tree

BY ALMA MASON

Let us travel back fifty years on memory's carpet and spend Christmas in a bungalow perched on the edge of a small city.

With the floating to earth of the first fall leaves, those who lived in the rambling, white-frame house began planning for the annual Christmas party which would take place under the many-gabled roof.

For the children in the house the days preceding Christmas stretched into a captivating highway not unlike the road which Andersen's golden coach sailed over. I lived for a time in a fairy tale world, filled with the spicy fragrance of Christmas cooking, bright with silver paper chains and crudely fashioned stars and log-cabin green cardboard Christmas trees. The heady excitement of secret conferences and mysterious whispered conversations bewitched and enthralled them.

A member of the family lived on a nearby farm. It was his yearly chore to cut and haul an immense, comely tree to the old white house in the town. This he erected near the bay window in the front parlor.

From then on the proud and lovely tree presided in regal dignity over starched lace curtains, wall-to-wall hand-made carpet and red plus chairs. It waited with a quickening sense of impatience for the glance which would soon transform its majestic bows. It silently prayed that some hand would turn on those rows of small lighted candles in order that it would burn too close to its fragrant, emerald body, or too close to the yards of snowy popcorn on its fluffy skirts.

It gazed with amusement on the progress of wealthy visitors as they crept silently in the old oaken door to deposit packages of all shapes and sizes at its feet. Daily it stood more opined in pride, more erect with anticipation of the day when it would command dozens of eyes; when it would have showered on it the undivided attention and admiration of fifty or sixty happy people gathered to pay it homage.

The tree caught its breath! The day had arrived! The exquisite enchantment of Christmas morning spread through the sunny windows. The tree thought—"Only Christmas can sprinkle through the rooms of a beloved old house, this special brand of witchery, this tinsely, starry magic."

Childish voices echoed up and down the stairs. Dimpled hands emptied stockings and clutched oranges and rock taffy and carefully stuffed rag dolls.

Suddenly the house hushed. Only the soft rustle of the turning leaves of a book could be heard. The tree bent its topmost bows to listen to solemn voices tinged with age, to lisped young voices with buoyancy and confidence. Gradually the deep and ever-living meaning of Christmas penetrated the pine-scented room.

The soft strains of "Silent Night, Holy Night" stole from an organ in an adjacent room. It supported the glorious words chanted in unison by the family gathered around the fireplace—"And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field keeping watch over their flocks by night." "And the glory of the Lord shone 'round about them—" "I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people—" "For unto you born this a day a Saviour which is Christ the Lord—" A deep voice added slowly and clearly — "May we glorify and praise God, on this anniversary of the birth of Christ as the shepherds did of old."

The tree stood transfixed in thoughtful wonder. "How happy I should be to be a part of a real Christmas," it decided, "one where prayer and gratitude to God casts a halo of love and faith over the festivities of the day."

All day over fifty happy people laughed and sang and frolicked between those walls steeped in love and laughter, joy and sorrow. The tree watched curiously red-cheeked children, adults becoming children for a few short hours. Merriment reigned supreme. Music flooded continually on the air as all took part in a program of music and readings prepared many weeks ahead.

The day drew to a close. Little figures in new frocks and suits stretched to blow out the flickering candles on the tree. Faces appeared above fur collars or encircled by car-flapped caps. Reluctant feet strayed towards the large square vestibule. Again a calm quietude stole over the assemblage.

Canada's Queen Gained New Respect and Admiration In 45-Day Tour of Country

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

During 1959 hundreds of thousands of Canadians lined the streets for a glimpse of Elizabeth II, Queen of Canada, during a gruelling 15,000 - mile tour . . . Ottawa welcomed a new premier in Diefen Baker . . . Toronto men and women stared in fascination at a plastic woman . . . controversial Mom Whyte left Ontario for Nelson, B.C.

These were just a few of the events in the colorful picture of women's activities during the past year.

Canada's Queen gained new respect and admiration during a 45-day tour which took her across the continent and back. Highlight of the tour was the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway with United States President Eisenhower at Montreal.

Only when the tour was completed did Burkingham Palace announce that the Queen was expecting her third child early in 1960.

NEW CHATELAINE

In Canada's capital, Mme. Georges Vanier, wife of the newly appointed Governor - General, settled into her role as chatelaine of Rideau Hall. She is first goue to Rideau Hall as a bride when her husband was sked to Governor-General flying.

In Toronto, a plastic model of woman was the local point of Canada's first medical exhibition, Medicope '59. The anatomical model named Juno, with electronic insides, "sustained" the functions of the body to thousands who attended the exhibition.

Controversial Berths (Mom) Whyte left Bonnavantur, Ont., after provincial health officials removed 417 children from her home following an outbreak of influenza. At a closed court hearing her home, Whytehaven, was ruled overcrowded and unsanitary. Mom Whyte moved on to Nelson, B.C., amid rumblings from British Columbia authorities that she may also face legal difficulties there.

Just 90 miles from Nelson, at Kreston, B.C., the Sons of Freedom sect of the Doukhobors welcomed 77 children released from a government school after their parents spurred by the women of the sect, promised the children would attend school. Some of the children had been in government custody for five years.

In public affairs, Mrs. Alene Holt of Peterborough, Ont., was named an alternate on Canada's 16-man delegation to the 14th session of the United Nations General Assembly, and successfully defended her aldermanic seat on Peterborough city council.

Josephine D. Lyman of Saint John, N.B., was named national llama officer with the citizenship department.

The labor department revealed that married women make up half of Canada's 1,453,000 female working forces.

Also in Ottawa the 80 voting delegates at the Canadian Association of Consumers' annual meeting had hardly settled in their seats when they declared all - out war on trading stamps.

The CAC asked for the co-operation of its 25,000 members.

The Canadian Women's Press Club awarded a medal and $100 to deaf and blind Mrs. Marjorie Pigou of Vancouver for the best feature story by any of its 367 members in 1958.

At Niagara Falls, Ont., managing editor Winnifred Sickes found 40 roses on her desk at The Review marking her 40th year with the daily newspaper.

THEATRE SUCCESSES

Teresa Stratas, 21-year-old Toronto soprano who entertained patrons in her parent's restaurant as a child, was soloistic at her Metropolitan Opera debut in New York. Vancouver ballerina Lynn Seymour, 20, made a successful debut with the Royal Opera Company in London.

It was a tearful farewell when Celia Franca made her farewell stage appearance in Toronto. She has become full-time artistic director of the National Ballet of Canada, a job she coupled with her stage dancing for eight years. The 37-year-old ballerina has been dancing for 23 years.

Vera Leggett, 21, returned to her Ottawa home loaded with striking laurels won in Switzerland.

Tall blonde Rosemary Catherine Keenan, 19, of Fredericton was crowned Miss Canada and brown-haired Anna Filatyszyn, 18, of Vancouver became Miss Grey Cup. But 21 - year - old Toronto beauty, Irene Dobler, abandoned the Miss Maple Leaf title in favor of marriage. She charged that all she acquired from the Montreal contest was a bottle of

Our Christmas Story

by Mrs. Billy Graham

as told to Elizabeth Sherrill

The First Christmas

Behind them, in the manger where the cows came for food, was the Baby.

Chapter 8

Of all the times in the world to live, imagine living then! What if we had been alive on that very day! What if we had lived not only at the very time but had been in the very town where Jesus was born!

Let's pretend that we lived in a little house in Bethlehem and you and your family were among the many descendants of David who filed-come to Bethlehem to be taxed. You might very well have stayed in our house.

Bethlehem had only one small inn and that had been filled by the first travellers to arrive, so the rest had to find a place to sleep in the houses of strangers, or in stables or wherever there was room to lie down.

In those days all children were expected to help with the work. You boys would have gone with the men to the wheat fields outside the village. And the girls would have gone with me to fill our water jars at the public well down the street. We'd have balanced the big jars on our heads and stepped out cautiously into the narrow, crowded street.

A WARM SUN

At last when all the jars were filled, and the men's work in the fields was finished, I think you would have headed for the gate where the north road came into Bethlehem. You would have climbed up onto the sun-warmed stone wall and sat down beside the other children and the old men to watch the latest strangers coming into town.

The afternoon sun was hot on your back. The wall was warm. For a minute your eyes closed.

When they opened, two people were coming along the dusty road down in the valley, a man and a woman riding a donkey. But how slowly these two were coming. The woman had her hand on the man's shoulder and she seemed very weary. The man kept looking at her anxiously.

Now the man and woman had reached the hill and you could see that the donkey was covered with dust, as if he had come a long way.

A WONDERFUL SMILE

Why were they stopping so often, now that they were almost there? They stopped again, right in front of you. The woman turned to look at the man, and as she did you saw her face. You saw it had a great, glad smile.

For all the young woman's face, in spite of travel-weary, was a smile that made you forget tired and drooping shoulders and even Caesar Augustus himself. In the hot, noisy, crowded Bethlehem, her smile seemed to say that all the joy of heaven had come down to earth.

That night, wrapped up in your cloak on the crowded floor of our house, you could not get to sleep for thinking of her smile. It was an unusual thing, these days, to see a happy face. You wondered if the man and woman had found a place to sleep.

Why was she so happy? And you, why were you yourself so wide-awake and excited tonight?

A SPECIAL NIGHT

This was a special night. You didn't know how you knew it, but you knew that something wonderful was about to happen.

It was very late when you suddenly jumped up from the floor. In an instant the other children were on their feet.

There was a commotion out in the street. You ran to the door, stepping over sleeping grown-ups wrapped in their cloaks.

You stared at these men who were talking so loudly, in the middle of the night. They looked like country men, sheepherders. What was it they were saying? They had seen an angel!

And the angel had told them about a Baby born in Bethlehem and called the Baby "Saviour" and "Lord." They had just seen the Baby with their own eyes out in the stable behind the inn — and they wanted everyone else to know about it, too.

IN THE MANGER

"You didn't wait to hear any more. All of you children set off down the street as fast as you could run, past houses where sleepy people were stumbling to the doors, asking what all the racket was about. To all the inn, then around it to the stable, then, slowly, softly, to the door.

There she was. The young woman with the radiant smile. She was leaning against one of the stalls, and the eyes in the happy face were closed. The man was at her side. And behind them, in the manger where the cows came for their food, was the Baby.

He was a tiny thing, wrapped tightly in a long linen band and sleeping as soundly as any newborn baby. Sleeping as though the world had not waited thousands of years for this moment. As soundly as though your life and the life of everyone on earth were not wrapped up in His birth. As though from this moment on all the sin and sorrow of the world were not His problem.

What a moment that would have been! To have reached out your own hand and touched the Son of God.

And yet — do you know — I don't really envy those people who lived in Bethlehem that night, even though many of them must have seen Jesus and Mary and Joseph with their own eyes. For they couldn't have known all that they were seeing.

WORDS OF JOY

They couldn't know all that this Baby was born to do: the words of joy He would speak to an unhappy world, the love He would show to people too used to hatred, the victory He would win over the sin and sorrow of the world.

As they looked at Him, they couldn't know that He would be the only One who could ever make us truly glad.

You and I are greatly blessed to live now, when His work of love is finished. He is as close to us, today, as He was to the children of Bethlehem. Closer, for today we do not even have to reach out our hands to touch Him.

If we are really sorry for our sins we can come to Him just as truly as those shepherds did in Bethlehem. And He will forgive us and give back to us that joyous fellowship with God—lost so long ago in the Garden of Eden.

This is the Christmas gift that God gives to you and to me and to everyone on earth.

(The End)

Christmas in Merrie England

Old Customs Recapture Past

By JAMES STREET

For centuries Christmas in England has been the traditional time of goodwill and merry-making. The spirit of the "Merrie England" of olden times is preserved in Christmas customs which still survive.

One of the most picturesque of these customs — and one which conforms closely to the conception of Christmas made familiar to millions by Dickens and Washington Irving — is the Boars Head Festivity at Oxford.

At Queen's College, in the ancient university city on Christmas Day, a boar's head, gaily bedecked with pennants, bay, holly and rosemary, becovered, and with an orange in its mouth, is borne into the gaily-decorated hall, where it is the centre-piece of a ceremony which has been observed for centuries.

Carried head-high through the hall on a huge silver dish, the boar's head is lowered on to the Provost's table as the choir sings the last notes of a traditional carol. The Provost then takes the ornaments and embellishments one by one from the head and presents them to the choir boys and visitors. The solo singer of the year receives the orange from the boar's mouth.

BOARS' HEADS FEATURED

Boars' heads have featured in banquets for hundreds of years, especially in the north of England. There it is believed to be a survival of an old Norse custom in which a boar was sacrificed at Yuletide feasts in honor of Freyr, the Scandinavian god of peace and plenty.

The Queen's College ceremony has its own particular tradition. It is said that in the early days of it in and a student was walking in the neighboring forest of Shotover, engrossed in a volume of Aristotle, when a wild boar charged him. With great presence of mind the student rammed the book down the boar's throat and choked it.

Another old Christmas custom is observed every year in the Yorkshire borough of Dewsbury. Known as "Tolling the Devil's Knell," this custom has been carried on for 700 years, with only a short break in its continuity during the war years, when bell-ringing was forbidden for security reasons.

This year, on Christmas Eve, a team of bell-ringers will toll the tenor bell of the parish church 1,959 times — once for every year since the birth of Christ — the final stroke being timed to ring exactly at the hour of midnight.

Legend says that the custom began in the 12th century when a local baron, as a penance for killing one of his servants, gave a bell to the church and ordered that it be rung each Christmas Eve to remind him of his crime. For many years the good people of Dewsbury believed that the tolling of the bell would keep the devil away from their hearth for the next twelve months.

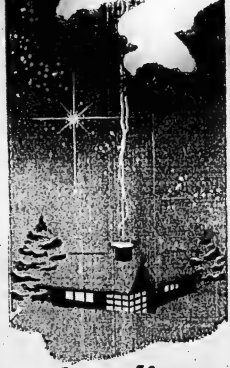
A very ancient custom observed every Christmas Eve at Dunster, in Somerset, is the burning of the ashen faggot. This custom is more than a thousand years old. Before entering the fray in the battles in Wessex in 878, the West Saxon warriors built fires of ash branches to warm themselves at night. They discovered that ash was the only fuel which would burn when green. The worthy folk of Dunster still continue this custom, but it is now a prelude to nothing more fierce than a battle for partners at a dance.

A Christmas custom observed in several parts of England is the hanging of ale garlands outside inns. This is to signify that good ale awaits within the houses that hang the sign. The garland is regarded as a simple expression of the spirit of festivity, hospitality and good fellowship which for centuries have been associated with the English inn.

Christmas mummers perform in the streets and inns of some towns and villages in the west country. At Evesham, Broadway and Chipping Campden, in the Cotswold country, these mummers perform a masque depicting two men fighting and the vanquished being raised from the dead by a doctor — a traditional version of death and resurrection. The mummers at Langparish and Overton in Hampshire, arrayed like grotesque birds with monstrous headdresses, tour the villages singing carols.

Most widespread of all English Christmas customs is carol singing by waits, who go from house to house singing the time-hallowed songs of Yuletide. Thus tradition cherished down the centuries will invest Christmas, 1959, with something of the magic of "the good old days".

With the background of merrymaking, however, an English Christmas is still, above all, a religious festival and in every church throughout the country there will be special services.



May the magical wonder of the first Christmas be renewed in all our hearts!

Christmas in Other Lands

By A.G.MATTHEWS, F.R.S.A., F.C.C.S.

From Australia to America, from China to Sweden, from India to Bethlehem, cradle of Christianity, there are the different celebrations this Christmas. In some places the festival is a time for lounging on sun-soaked beaches, but even in heat waves the Christmas pudding is still on the traditional menu. A. G. Matthews draws an interesting picture of Japan's Christians observing the day more for worship and quiet devotion than an excuse for festivity, and relates many other stories of Scandinavia's beautiful "Mother Christmas," the ritual of cackling like a hen in Yugoslavia, and children's songs to the fir-tree in France.

In one way or another Christmas is celebrated in almost every country and clime of the world.

Various European countries have their own special forms of celebration and even in most Christian lands which have had experience of what is called "western civilization" some of the customs associated at this season of the year.

Certainly wherever British people, or people of British descent, are gathered together the old traditions are observed. In northern climes people are accustomed to snow and ice and chilly winds at Christmas time and it is not easy for, say, English people to imagine a typical Christmas dinner eaten in the blazing heat of a tropical sun. But in many parts of the world, of course, Christmas falls in the hottest season.

In South Africa, Australia and New Zealand it is high summer with a temperature varying from 80 to more than 100 degrees Fahrenheit in the sun. Christmas Day is a day for lounging on sun-soaked beaches or enjoying the delights of a rustic picnic in the open air."

TRADITIONAL DINNER SERVED

One might think that in such broiling heat the Christmas dinner would be a cold collation with cooling salads and "ice cream," but although this is in fact becoming more fashionable in the Antipodes old traditions die hard, and even in a heat wave the Christmas pudding invariably figures on the menu. Although customs vary according to individual taste, the good old-fashioned Christmas dinner on the British pattern, served with all the trimmings, is quite a recognized thing in Australia, and roast duck, plump chicken, with roast potatoes, peas and perhaps a pumpkin (bring back memories of Cinderella and pantomime (frequently form the principal dish in New Zealand. Christmas coincides with the fat lamb season and there is a tendency to make the Christmas dinner a choice roast lamb, mint sauce, new potatoes and green peas, although in many homes a more elaborate meal after the British style is still favored.

So far Japan, land of the cherry blossom and the goddess of the sun, the Christian community observes Christmas Day more as an occasion for worship and quiet devotion than as an excuse for merriment and festivity. The churches organize Christmas parties at which the Sunday school children present the story of the Babe of Bethlehem in tableau and recitation, the audience kneeling close together on the floor so that there may be room for all.

In Southern India, with its varied religions, Hindus and Moslems frequently participate in the Christian festival of Christmas flowers and garlands play a great part in the people's observance of the season, and it became an establishment custom in the big houses for the bearer who brought the chotahazri (early tiffin meal) on the morning of Christmas Day to hang a garland of flowers about the neck of the recipient and not to depart until he had recited a little speech of good wishes. Members of the British community attend church on the morning and later have a good Christmas dinner of turkey and plum pudding.

HONOR "MOTHER CHRISTMAS"

Father Christmas does not have it all his own way in Yuletide celebrations in Europe. In Poland and Sweden the children also venerate "Mother Christmas". To the Polish children she is known as the "Good Star", or the Star of Bethlehem. It is believed by them that after she has distributed presents she returns to heaven carrying one of the children with her to sing in honor of the Christ Child, although the one is always found next morning safe in its cot, smiling in its sleep.

The Swedish "Mother Christmas" is the most beautiful figure in the house, and the good housewife overtaxes herself to make people's distributing gifts. Switzerland has a "Mother Christmas" all she is know at Saint Lucy who brings presents for little girls while her husband, Saint Nicholas, brings gifts for the boys.

A quaint Christmas custom is observed in Yugoslavia. There before the family sits down to dinner, the mother after throwing a handful of straw in all directions walks around the table, and goes also every room cackling like a hen, her children following her cheeping and fluttering like chickens.

DENMARK'S BIG DAY

Christmas Eve is the great day in Denmark. The feasting starts with substantial portions of boiled rice served with sweet cinnamon brown beer. In the rice bowl is an almond, and whoever finds it in his plate gets a special present. In Denmark, as in Germany, the Christmas tree has pride of place in the festivities, and in France the children pay tribute to it by singing a song in praise of the fir.

In Norway, feathered friends are not forgotten. A sheaf of corn, stuck on a pole, is placed outside the doors of Norwegian homes so that the birds may have a Christmas dinner.

There are large-scale Christmas celebrations in America, and magnificent Christmas trees, brilliantly illuminated and displaying messages of goodwill, are to be seen in prominent places. Diners gather in the grounds of the White House at Washington to witness the lighting of the President's huge tree, and everywhere there is rejoicing and merrymaking.

On Christmas Eve choirboys visit the hospitals and sing to the patients, and on Christmas Day family parties gather round a log fire while father or mother frequently reads Dicken's "A Christmas Carol".

And back in Bethlehem, the cradle of Christianity, there are special services in the Church of the Nativity, built over the grotto or manger wherein Christ was born. Thousands of people come out from Jerusalem and adjacent places to attend the open-air service in Shepherd's Field, where once the shepherds watched their flocks and the angles of the Lord appeared before them bringing tidings of great joy

Mice Chewed His Slippers So He Wrote Silent Night

By RONALD GARTH-DAVIS

Twenty-five years ago a New York music publisher proudly eyed the rejects, stacks of sheet-music of a carol he could not sell, and ordered it to be pulped for waste-paper.

His orders got deliberately discouraged him. Several took copies home to give away to their friends. One even made a Christmas gift of "Silent Night" to everyone, who passed on the goodwill. Another was sacked after distributing free copies in the Bowery.

The magic tenderness of "Silent Night, Holy Night" has been unaccountably gaining in popularity ever since. Compared with the traditional "Good King Wenceslas" or Wesley's 218-year-old "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," it is still a junior. Yet it's estimated that in orchestration fees and record royalties this favorite modern carol now earns a world-wide take of over $3,000 every Christmas.

When Bing Crosby was first asked to record it, he refused. "Who do you think I am?" he demanded. "Lily Pons?"

His agent almost had to shoulder him to the microphone. But Bing's version of "Silent Night" has sold four million copies, his own top best-seller. He regularly donates all his royalties on the carol to church charities and this sum alone nears $25,000.

Christmas Greetings
. . . Gay and Gray

By H. GEORGE FRANKS

A symposium of English quotations showing that the happy phrase "A Merry Christmas" typifies the English outlook on the festive season, even with the different interpretations put on it by pessimists ,misogynists ,and spoilsports.

The basis of festive greetings in England is surely the couplet written by Thomas Tusser in the year 1570:

"At Christmas play and make good cheer,
"For Christmas comes but once a year."

Shakespeare, strangely enough, although so English in his outlook and speech, had little to say about Christmas; yet his sound logic and commonsense was well expressed thus:

"At Christmas, I no more desire a rose
"Than wish a snow in May's new-fangled mirth;
"But like of each good thing this season grows
"With happiness and joy and mirth."

The old London street cry: "Welcome Christmas for it brings us welcome gifts," could well have mingled with the Victorian child's wish that "Christmas will not fail me in return for my promise to be good and kind to everyone for at least half a year." And each sealed his pledge in those days with a token present to the first person he met after making the vow.

Tennyson blessed "this unique season which works a miracle on human nature," whilst old Walt Whitman, with typical American bluntness, said the same greeting in these words: "May the Christmas spirit soak into your blood, my friend, and round the song. As a Christmas present to yourself, reflect upon your present blessings and not upon your misfortunes. Fill your glass again, with a merry face and a contented heart. Our life on it, but your Christmas shall be merry and your new year a happy one!"

That this is the true Dickensian spirit can well be proved: "There seems a magic in the very name of Christmas. Petty jealousies and discords are forgotten; animosities are buried in present happiness. Would that Christmas lasted the whole year through (as it ought), and that prejudices and passions which debase our better nature were never called into action among those to whom they should be strangers.

"A Christmas party — I know nothing in life more delightful.

"When Christmas begins to stay with us the whole year round, we shall make this earth a very different place. Why not make that our Christmas Greeting? It could transform the world, the nations and the people."

BAD CHILDLIKE BELIEF

That Dickens really believed in the magical properties of Christmas is proved by the way he makes it convert Scrooge that great misanthrope in his novel "A Christmas Carol". Do you remember the incident?

Said Scrooge: "Merry Christmas! What right have you to be merry? What reason have you to be merry? You're poor enough."

"Come then," replied the nephew gaily, "What right have you to be dismal? What reason have you to be more? You're rich enough."

"Let me hear another word from you," retorted the angry Scrooge, "and you'll keep your Christmas by losing your situation."

Undeterred ,the nephew celebrated his Christmas, pouring out its magic and elixir. With what result? Let old Scrooge himself reply, giving us all a greeting which we might well take to heart:

"I will honor Christmas in my heart, and try to keep it all the year."

Miracle of the Madonna

It was foretold by the bearded prophets of old. A heavenly Messiah would come to offer a new kingdom that would be a sanctuary for mankind.

In the predictions of the prophets were neither the place nor the manner nor the day—or even the century of the coming.

But now, 1959 years ago, the hour of fulfillment was come. The instrument of the Lord God's beneficence was a virgin of Nazareth, a city of Galilee. And this was the manner of the miracle:

Espoused to Joseph, of the House of David, was the virgin and the virgin's name was Mary. To her God sent the angel Gabriel, who told her the Holy Ghost would come upon her and she would conceive and bring forth a son. And the son's name would be called Jesus, of whose kingdom there would be no end.

And so it was. Thus, it came to pass that when Mary was great with child a decree went out from Caesar Augustus that all the people must go to Jerusalem to be counted and taxed. So Joseph and Mary went up out of Nazareth. Amid a multitude from all about who flocked into Jerusalem.

There was no room at the inn for Joseph and Mary, whose time was nigh upon her. So they abode in a lowly manger and there Mary brought forth her firstborn son and wrapped him in swaddling clothes.

And the angel of the Lord appeared, and suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying:

Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men.

And thus came to pass the Miracle of the Madonna. And for all the years since, and to come, Christmas Day is a day of joy for the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Pagan Rites Linked With Christmas

By DOUGLAS LIVERSIDGE

It is not entirely a world-wide festival. Yet within the coming days, age-old customs will be revived in many countries — traditions that have survived for centuries and, in many cases, found birth even before the coming of Christ.

Christmas cards bedeck the mantelpiece; a sprig of mistletoe dangles in a strategic place; the Yule log burns merrily in the grate . . . all reminders that Christmas is a festival of ancient traditions.

Actually these and other seasonal customs are, in the main, a strange assortment of Christian and pagan rites. In fact mistletoe, Yule log, and even Christmas Tree, all bear the stamp of pre-Christian times.

In the Middle Ages the burning of the Yule log on Christmas Eve was the festival's ancient ceremony — primarily as an expression of goodwill. As the massive tree trunk was hauled through the woods passers - by would respectfully doff their hats for it was the symbol of the righting of wrongs and the reconciliation of enemies.

Festivity centred around the log, and what remained of it on Christmas morn was preserved in the cellar to light the new log the following season. This charred memento was regarded as insurance against fire throughout the year.

The Yule log ceremony was derived from the ancient Scandinavians who, in honor of the god Thor, kindled huge bonfires at the feast of Juul. This festival was celebrated in Britain long before Roman or Christian times. A Scandinavian legend also tells a story about mistletoe. Baldur, god of poetry and eloquence, dreamed that he was due to die. But his mother invoked the powers of nature to protect her son in the pagetic battle of the gods. He fought gallantly and emerged unscathed.

Unfortunately she had forgotten to secure Balder from an insignificant plant — the mistletoe. Loake, his arch - enemy, having wrested the secret from her by a ruse, made an arrow from a sprig of mistletoe, by which Balder was finally killed.

Kissing beneath the mistletoe was a custom originating among the ancient Druids, who regarded the plant with veneration. And sunbough, centuries later, holly, box, rosemary, and laurel were used for church decorations from a sprig of mistletoe, by the Druids. So, too, was ivy because of its link with Bacchanalian feasts.

HISTORICAL CUSTOM

The custom of decorating churches and homes with evergreen dates back to pre-Christian days — a relic of the pagan Roman Feast of Saturn. It lasted from December 17 to 19 and, with all laws suspended, was a period of incredible orgy.

The Romans also had something very much like a Christmas Tree. Set the practice dates out in the Middle Ages, to reappear in Germany during the Reformation. Legend attributes its revival to Martin Luther because it was virtually unknown in Britain a century ago. Dickens, in "A Christmas Carol", was at pains to describe what a Christmas Tree is. It is believed that the custom was introduced to England by Prince Albert, who ordered a Christmas Tree for the Royal children in 1841.

The custom is much older in America than in England, and was introduced there by the German settlers. Some also say that Father Christmas was "imported" to Britain from the United States. The practice of children hanging up stockings or shoes on the eve (December 5) for their patron saint, St. Nicholas, to be filled by him with toys, is believed to have been taken to America by the early Dutch colonists. With the date changed to Christmas Eve, and the name St. Nicholas corrupted by Santa Claus, the festival was begun in England in the second half of the 19th century.

No Christmas would be complete without mince-pie, once called Christmas pie. Though it has been popular for centuries, there was a time when the Puritans noticed a link between the mince pie and the consecrated cake of the Druids. And so they gave a strict injunction that it should be ousted from the Christmas feast.

Why turkey crept into the Christmas dinner seems unknown, save that for centuries it has been the favored dish of Americans at the Thanksgiving festival which marks the end of harvest. In far-off days the Christmas fare included such delicacies as peacock, goose, pheasant, capon, and carp's tongues.

CHRISTMAS IN POLAND

Few countries preserve more jealously their centuries - old Christmas customs than Poland. Here it is traditional to send to intimate friends an ornamented square of rice paper from which one corner has been torn. It is a symbol of the ceremony of breaking the bread, and denotes more clearly the close bond of friendship.

Also, at the main Christmas meal on Christmas Eve—two is placed under the tablecloth as a reminder the Infant Jesus lay on hay. Everyone around the festive board draws a hand, and whoever gets the largest, will, it is believed, live the longest. In the churches, too, are special portrayals of the Nativity; the Holy Child wrapped in a veil, yet shivering with cold, is shown being warmed by the breath of surrounding cattle.

Even there is the old custom of throwing a spoonful of poppy seeds and honey up to the ceiling during the Christmas Eve repast. If the seeds adhere then it is an augury that the coming Year will be a good one for crops. The feast over, the entire family passes into the yard or forecourt and listen for the first dog's bark. From whichever direction it comes, so from that direction will come the future bride or bridegroom of the family.

The Basque country of Spain is another region in which the people cling to ancient Christmas customs. There the festivities are held on January 6—the day on which the Three Kings rode into Bethlehem with gifts for the Infant Jesus.

DO NOT HANG STOCKINGS

Basque youngsters believe that their presents are brought by the Three Kings, not by Santa Claus. Rather do they hang up stockings, instead they put a boot on the balcony or window ledge.

When the child is too old for toys, the parents will the boot with coal, underneath which are costly gifts, such as money or jewelry. It is customary, too, to carry round on a litter a boy with charcoal - blackened face. Smoking a pipe continually, he is said to have been working in the mountains where Christ was born, and has come to tell the villagers news of the Nativity.

Younger members of Basque families make it a point of honor to return to their parents' home during the Christmas period. With them they bring presents of capon or sea-bream. The Christmas Eve has its particular customs: the traditional burning of a log before the family circle. When partly burnt, the remainder — still smoking — is placed on the threshold of the house for nine days.

All members and animals of the household must step over this smoking log which, according to the beliefs of olden times, offers protection against illness.

In contrast, Scotland takes only scant notice of Christmas, despite the attempts of King James VI. After six years in England, he thought both countries should fall into line, but the Scots — on religious grounds, the Puritans having regarded Christmas as a papal — openly ignored the Royal Command. Merchants deliberately kept open their booths and ardent Presbyterians defiantly spun or ploughed.

CELEBRATION IN JAN.

Not so in Abyssinia, where in Addis Ababa Christmas Day is celebrated on January 7. Emperor Haile Selassie, in pre - war days, allowed his subjects, as a special Christmas concession, to gamble at such games as baccarat and roulette.

This festivity in January has an echo in Britain. For while the English are removing their paper - chains and evergreen decorations, villagers in the remote Shetlands, north of the Scottish mainland, are putting theirs up with defiant independence that has lasted nearly two centuries, the sturdy peoples of these northern Isles observe Christmas on January 5. The reason? When Britain, in 1752, compiled (along with the rest of Europe) with Pope Gregory's amendment of the old Julian Calendar, anti-Papal feeling opposed the change, but eventually it was only the Vikings' descendants in the Shetlands who refused to adopt it.

Christmas Long Ago

A little donkey trod along
A long and lonesome road,
He carried Mary to Bethlehem
To find a blest abode.
"No room in the inn," the keeper said,
"The fall to overflowing,"
In the stable just across the way
Could be heard the cattle's lowing.
So Mary found a manger there
All filled with nice soft hay,
'Twas there the Baby Christ was born
On that Blessed Christmas Day.
Above the stable a bright star shone
The Wisemen saw the light,
The Shepherds too were filled with awe
Hearing carols in the night.
'Twas the Angelic chorus
Heralding the Heavenly Birth,
Glory to God in the Highest
Good-will and Peace on Earth.

Christmas in Canada

This month Canadians from coast to coast are preparing to celebrate the great Christian festival of Christmas. In remote fishing villages along the rugged coast of Newfoundland and in lumbering camps deep in the heart of British Columbia's forests, in the far reaches of Canada's vast northland and across the wide prairies, in tiny French-Canadian towns and in bustling, multi-lingual Canadian cities, old and young alike are busily engaged in a flurry of activity to herald the joyous day. Across the starry stillness of December nights millions of voices will be raised in song as the familiar carols ring out across the land. This year one hundred thousand new Canadians will be celebrating Christmas in Canada for the first time. To the traditional customs of midnight service, caroling, family reunions, turkey dinner and Santa Claus, Dutch Canadians will add their delightful legend of Black Peter. Ukranians will bring the ritual of their 13-course meal and the symbolic straw beneath the table. In this way, each year, the fabric of Canadian life has been enriched, for the nearly two million immigrants who have settled in Canada since the end of the Second World War have brought with them the folkways, songs and stories from the country of their birth, adding color and variety to the joyous festivities which make up the tapestry of a Canadian Christ-

Let us rejoice now, for the Prince of Peace is born again, bringing us a renewal of faith and hope.

Christmas in Canada

The six children of a new Dutch-Canadian family celebrate Christmas eve in the traditional way of Netherlands. Little Dutch shoes are placed by the fire filled with straw and a carrot, a special treat for Santa's horse in his night-long, roof-top journey bringing toys to all good little boys and girls.

When Neptune Welcomes Santa

By IAN BAKER
(The noted author of sea stories)

Christmas at sea is much like any other day; the watches go on as usual, the furnaces are kept going, and the engineers and bridge officers carry out their normal duties. But there are two things which make Christmas a day to be remembered from the ordinary—the richer food and the evening carols and sea shanties as the goodly weather settles down for the night. Then the spirit of comradeship is more evident than ever.

A thousand ships will be at sea this Christmas—maybe more—but certainly fewer — a thousand ships ploughing a thousand furrows all the seas of the world. But it will be a great day for those on board. Large or small, passenger ship or cargo tramp, the picture is largely the same.

Christmas at sea is always a day to remember. Perhaps it has to be made up for the unpleasant scramble that takes place among ships to clear port before the day begins. For there is no holiday in a ship at sea; the watches must go on, the firemen must tend the furnaces, the engineers must be at their controls, and the quartermasters at the wheel.

There must be bridge officers and the navigator must take his morning and noon shots, and at night the look-outs must be alert in the crow's nest or on the fo'cle's head.

But allowing for all this, Christmas Day is a special time for all on board. There are special meals and work is cut to the minimum. And there is even more of the convivial spirit than usual in the songs and carols that the sailors sing at lights-out.

Four Christmas Days I have spent at sea—once in a North Atlantic gale, twice on or almost on the Equator, once in the great Australian Bight. But each day followed the same pattern.

I was an apprentice that first Christmas day. I opened sleepy eyes at the shout of the starboard quartermaster at 8 a.m. and for a moment was back in childhood at home (I was little more than a child, anyway, even then.) But the roll of the ship and the indescribable crash of the breams, and the wash and crash of the sea outside soon brought me back to realities. The deck below me was swept with water, and the sea came in at the edges of the tightly shut ports each time the old ship rolled her side under.

COLD ON DECK

It was cold on deck when we gathered for orders from the Mate. We were a silent, unfriendly lot in the grey light of the early dawn. And as I shivered there in oilskins and seaboots the cold spray that was whipped from the white tops of the waves stung my face. But even now I can remember the sea-going cherry thrill I got as I passed my tongue over my lips and tasted the salt. And then in a moment we were "washing down"—scrubbing the decks with brooms held upside down, rhythmically in a line that moved slowly backwards, as well trained as any stage chorus. And the spray came over us and the seas washed the decks around our knees.

But breakfast that day was not tripe and onions, nor Irish stew, nor fish kedgeree, but a wonderful spread of porridge and very watery milk, and real bacon and a water-glassed egg. And there was real butter in a dish in place of the usual unshapely mass of margarine.

Morning work about the decks was only cursory and at lunch there were again surprises—soup, roast lamb and tinned peas, and some tinned fruit to follow. Afterwards, for those who had no bridge watch, there was a free afternoon. But even so the Christmas spirit was still little in evidence. Everything was so unreal.

At dinner that night, however, came the great surprise. The Old Man announced around three bells of the first dog watch that he would visit us in our mess-room. And then the delicacies of the dinner menu leaked out—soup, fish, turkey and Christmas pudding. It was almost unbelievable.

I shall never forget what happened at four bells. We were all assembled in the mess-room at our places at table when the Old Man's stewards came staggering down the companionway each carrying two cases of champagne. The Old Man, complete in all his finery, brought up the rear, and, as we stood there stupefied with amazement, commenced to open the bottles.

"Come along there, some of you," he cried at last. "Give me a hand with these bottles."

CORK HITS CAPTAIN

There was a rush of volunteers, and all went well until a cork came suddenly from a carelessly held bottle and shot across the messroom with the velocity of a bullet. The true shed top struck the Captain squarely in the back of the neck, so that he bowed with pain and dropped the bottle he was opening, luckily without breaking it.

"You fool," he snarled, clasping the back of his neck. "Would you point a loaded gun at a man?"

But everything went off famously after that. By the time we had finished the meal, the Christmas spirit was on us and from then until lights-out at nine there was carol singing and sea shanties.

When I went on deck for my look-out at nine o'clock, the sound of singing came from all parts of the ship. From the officers' saloon I could hear the strains of "Adeste Fidales," from down below in the apprentices' messroom the sound of "Hark the Herald Angels," from the engineers' quarters "Good King Wenceslas," and from aft, under the poop, the wonderful harmony of able seamen and firemen singing "I'll go no more roving."

The night was dark and very overcast. The ship was lurching to the rising gale, and solid water was pouring over the fo'cle and creaming about the foredeck. It was cold and wet and unpleasant. But it was Christmas after all.

It will be like that in a thousand ships this Christmastide.

Ancient Legends Link Three Wise Men With Fire Worship Still Practised in Persia

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO (AP) — Down through the centuries, three shadowy figures have moved mysteriously in and out of the Christmas story.

They are the three wise men from the East, the three kings of the Orient, the Magi—they have many labels. But however, they are called, this trio of stately patriarchs remains a familiar part of the religious drama wherever the birth of Jesus is commemorated.

Little is known of these men who first called Christ the king. But in isolated sites across the Middle East, traces of their visit may still be found. Ancient legends link them with the fire worship said to be flourishing even today in the remote regions of Persia.

Usually identified as members of the priestly caste of Persia, they have come down to us as Melchior, Caspar and Balthasar. In the Bible itself, they are mentioned only in the Gospel of Matthew, and then called simply "wise men from the East."

Why from the East? The early centuries of Christianity, tradition has held they were three, possibly because three gifts were presented to Jesus: gold, frankincense and myrrh.

ANCIENT LEGEND

These gifts were selected for a specific purpose, according to a legend circulating in Persia during the middle ages. It went like this:

Three ancient kings once went on a long journey to visit a newly born prophet. They carried with them gold, frankincense and myrrh as a means of determining whether the prophet were a god, an earthly king or a physician. The wise men reasoned, that if he took the gold he must be an earthly king. If the incense, he must be a god. And if the myrrh, he undoubtedly was a physician.

The wise men probably made their long journey by camel-back, winding up the Jericho road from the deep Jordan Valley to the walled city of Jerusalem set on green hills. From Jerusalem, where they were summoned before King Herod, they once again sighted their guiding star and proceeded to Bethlehem to find Jesus.

GUIDING STAR

On the road from Jerusalem is a deep well known to Arab-Christian lore as the "Well of the Wise Men". At this spot, the wise men were supposed to have seen again the star leading them to Bethlehem.

When the wise men entered Bethlehem, they went to the "House of Joseph," not to the manger where Christ was born. Local traditions say the Holy Family moved from the manger to a home on the eastern slopes of the town before the wise men arrived. A little Franciscan chapel sits on the site of the house of Joseph today.

After paying homage to Jesus, the wise men returned home. They bypassed Jerusalem to avoid another encounter with Herod.

Reference to the Magi after they left Bethlehem are few. The Italian traveller Marco Polo, who visited Persia in the 13th century, was told the three wise men had returned to their home city of Saba and later were buried there in a beautiful tomb.

MIRACLE STONE

On their journey home, according to the legend Marco Polo heard, the wise men carried a closed box given them by the infant Jesus. When they opened the box, they found in it a stone, thinking the gift worthless they threw it into a pit where it burst into fire.

Realizing at last that the stone had a miraculous nature, the wise men took some of the flame with them to their homes. They kept the fire burning continuously. If it ever went out, they returned to the pit to replenish it.

This fire worship is said to continue to the present day in outlying Persian villages, which may have been the homes of the three kings of the Orient. This worship probably centres around the "eternal fires," similar to those of northern Iraq, where oil seepage on the ground has burned without interruption for centuries.

With their homeward journey, the three wise men faded from the biblical scene. But they left their memory behind in the holy land.

MOSAIC MEMENTO

When the Church of the Nativity was built in its present form in the sixth century, a mosaic over the main entrance depicted the three wise men with the new-born child Jesus.

During the Persian invasion of Palestine in 614 A.D., the Persians destroyed most Christian holy places in the region, including Jerusalem's Church of the Holy Sepulchre. When they reached the Church of the Nativity, however, they halted at the mosaic of the three wise men in Persian dress above the door, assuming this building must have a connection with Persia, they spared it.

Because three wise men once made the long journey from Persia to Bethlehem, the church currently became the only Christian shrine spared from destruction for 15 centuries.

What Is Christmas?

"What is Christmas, Mommy?" Asked our Susan, eyes like stars. "Tell me the story, once again. Don't forget the Wise Men from afar."

And now that you are tucked in bed,
After our good-night kiss,
My thoughts are all Christmas-centred,
And they march by, dear like this:

Christmas, Susie darling,
To Mommy, means God is love,
He proved this, when He sent His Son
To us, from Him, above.

"How did Christmas get started?
How did it all begin?"
It began, I think, my sweetheart,
When God's children began to sin.

So our loving Heavenly Father,
Sent His only Begotten Son,
That whoso've believeth
Is saved, when this life is done.

Christmas means much more my angel,
Than dollies, trains and toys,
Yet I know how wondrous these are
To little girls and boys.

Christmas is our time to show
The spirit of true giving,
And our greatest gift, in gratitude,
Is the life we're daily living.

When we lose ourselves in service,
To our God and fellow-man,
And find that life is richer far,
Than when we selfishly began.

We'll sing our songs of Mary,
Joseph and the Dear Wee Stranger,
Of how He had no crib for a bed
And was found, wrapped up, in a manger.

How wonderful this story,
So old, yet ever new!
It never seemed so beautiful,
As when I tell it, dear, to you.

Let's plan to share our happiness,
Our dinner, and our toys,
Let's pack a gift and send it Toward Men."

Christmas in Canada

During December, the postman, laden down with packages and Christmas mail, is a familiar and welcome figure, warmly greeted by eager children who await his call. At peak of Christmas season volume of mail rises 300 per cent.

To some needy girls and boys.

Then we'll light the birthday candles
On our cake, for Jesus made,
And we'll thank our Father, reverently,
For the sacrifice He made.

We'll thank Him for the love He brings
Into our home and hearts,
We'll pray that He may let us in His service, have a part.

We'll thank Him for His blessing,
The day when you were born,
Reminding us of Jesus' birth
On that first Christmas morn.

Now, "What is Christmas, Mommy?"
I hope I've answered you.
For to me 'tis the most wondrous of stories!
Most beautiful most true!

And I pray, my dear wee Susan,
That now, as Christmas comes nearer,
We all may pause to hear the angels' song
Of "Peace on Earth, Goodwill

The Joy Of Christmas

The universal joy of Christmas is certainly wonderful. We ring the bells when princes are born, or toll a mournful dirge when great men pass away. Nations have their rodletter days, their carnivals and festivals, but once in the year and only once, the whole world stands still to celebrate the advent of a life. Only Jesus of Nazareth claims the world-wide, undying remembrance. You cannot cut Christmas out of the calendar, nor out of the hearts of the world. —Anon.

Christmas So White in Europe One Time That Thousands Died

BY RONALD GARTS-DAVIS

We're all dreaming of a white Christmas. Parts of North America often get it, yet in England the odds against are over 15 to 1. The frosty truth is that in the past 124 years England has been blanketed in snow only thirteen times on Christmas Day and seven times on Christmas Eve.

That white Christmas could be a nightmare. Back in 1927 a Christmas Day blizzard swept Britain, piling up snowdrifts 16 feet deep. Several towns were isolated for days, food supplies ran short. Christmas parties had to be dug out of houses.

Up in the Cairngorms two geologists were found frozen stiff but not before they had noted in a diary a reading of 36 degrees below zero, coldest British temperature ever recorded.

London was warm by comparison in 1836 when 3 below zero was registered. That was the year when a butcher improvised a deep freeze by building a snow igloo in his yard and snow lay in the hollows till May. The year 1823 struck a record with Dartmoor snowdrifts big as seaside —the first flying saucers, maybe — and 30,000 people at one time joined merrily on Lower Windsor Fire.

Then there was the icy landscape of 1620 when sheep were roasted whole upon the Thames, and the freeze-up nine years before this when the fur-wrapped Duke of Devonshire drove to a Cabinet meeting in a sleigh.

Even Christmas skating in the Old Country is twice as rare as it used to be. No fewer than nine fairs were once held on the frozen Thames but it is 140 years since the last one. Evidently into the fun, our forebears erected dance halls and theatres on the ice and snack meals at most suition were sold as "England Lards."

In some of those hard winters, stage coaches were not only driven across the Thames but they actually plied up and down. To test the temperature, a host of scientific bent placed cups of water in the open air. In six minutes it was frozen solid. To warm the cockles of the heart, however, a glass of port took two hours to freeze—and a glass of brandy six hours!

The winter of 1740, too, was exceptionally severe and thousands of Christmas dinners were threatened with disaster. Even the lower Thames froze so solid that coal could not be landed. As a Christmas present from the Prince of Wales, thirteen loyal citizens of Loughborough pulled a ton of coal by road to London and the grateful Prince gave them beer with his own hands. But it's recorded that more ordinary mortals found fuel for their Christmas dinner by breaking up the furniture!

There's a warm glow about the cold weather pictures. By bleak tragedy however resulted from the Christmas of 1709, the wildest ever known. Communications all over Europe broke down. Food could not be transported, nor was it won from the frozen ground.

Thousands perished of the bitter cold and starvation. To find a precedent anywhere near so chilly, historians have to turn back to 1068. That was the year when, to fend off the bitter cold, people everywhere stoked up exceptionally big fires . . . with dire results amid the timber and wattle houses of the day.

Nearly all the great towns of the kingdom were burned down, including London itself. Buildings that had stood from Roman times were reduced to ashes. Strangest of all, according to the old chronicles, people flocked from the countryside and camped amid the glowing embers in order to keep warm.

Cold weather records keep cropping up. Five hundred years ago however the wine in the Paris vaults froze so that it had to be broken from the butts with axes and sold by weight. At about the same time, the Seine froze over and then all the bridges were carried away in a sudden thaw.

On an average, England's coldest weather comes three or four weeks after the shortest day. Folk in the Old Country need not get a white Christmas. But they're all looking forward to a nippy new year!

Birthplace Of a Custom

By G. LANGELAAN

The origins of the Christmas Tree form a perennial season-able argument. Most people know it was imported from Germany in 1840 — but how many and where in Germany it began?

The origin of the Christmas tree custom is a perennial source of conjecture and argument, and although it was not introduced into England until 1840, the custom had German ancestors earlier.

The Christmas Tree originated in the Alsatian town of Selestat 25 miles south of Strasbourg, amid the finest fir tree forest of the Vosges mountains. Selestat, even today, is a quaint old-world town with gabled houses, tiled roofs, cobble-stone streets and all the picturesque setting associated with the time when Father Christmas drives his reindeer through the winter sky.

First mention of the Christmas Tree is in a document of 1598, preserved in the town's archives, wherein a pastor named Geiler de Kayersbourg rails against the custom of decorating a fir tree at Christmas as smacking of pagan practices.

Neighboring Strasbourg caught the habit within a century, for Strasbourg's archives house a document, dated 1605 which reads: "At Christmas fir trees are set up in the houses at Strasbourg, and on these trees roses, colored paper flowers, sugared apples and gilt ornaments are hung".

The hanging of dolls on Christmas trees is not mentioned before 1812, when another Selestat pastor preached against the custom as a relic of barbarism and idolatry. Candles on Christmas trees are mentioned for the first time in 1832.

By 1785 the Christmas tree custom had become general in Alsace, for Baroness deOberkirch wrote in her memoirs: "In every home a Christmas tree is set up, with light and sweets on its branches."

From Alsace the Christmas Tree custom spread to Germany, to Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Russia.

The Christmas was introduced into England by the Prince Consort in 1840, and quickly spread to all parts of the British Empire and the United States of America.

It was late in reaching France, and it was only after 1871 when Alsatians were driven from their homes by the Germans on the annexation of Alsace, that the familiar decorated and illuminated fir tree was popularized.

Crosby Golf Hodge-Podge Of Celebrities

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tree climbers, ball players, singers, gun slingers—plus the top professional golfers in the nation—will compete in the $50,000 Bing Crosby pro-amateur tournament on the Monterey Peninsula Jan. 22-24.

Director Larry Crosby released Wednesday a partial list of the amateur celebrities who will compete.

Included were George Gobel, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Jim Garner, Desi Arnez, Bob Lisa and Phillip Crosby; Bob Hope, Jack (Maverick) Kelly, Bob Lemon, Jackie Jensen, Jerry O'Dou, Ralph Kiner, William Clay Ford, Franklin Albert, Bud Wilkinson, Robert Martin, Curt Massey, Fred MacMurray, Guy Madison, Dennis Morgan, Bill Rigney and Ed Sullivan.

Others were Johnny Weissmuller, Phil Harris, Leonard Firestone, Ray Milland, Gordon Macrae, Dennis O'Keefe, Randy Scott, Buddy Rogers and Adolph Schmidt.

AT THE BELLE — Pat Boone and Diane Baker are seen in a romantic interlude, in Twentieth Century-Fox's filmization of Jules Verne's classic, "A Journey to the Centre of the Earth", opening Christmas night at the Belle Theatre, for an extended engagement. James Mason and Arlene Dahl are featured in the film that offers wonderful entertainment for the entire family. In color by De Luxe, CinemaScope and Stereophonic Sound. An early bird showing will be presented on Saturday at 10 a.m. with continuous showings at 12.12, 2.35, 4.53, 6.45, and 9.00 p.m.

Rodriguez Gives Sugar Hart His Lumps

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Luis Rodriguez's Christmas present appears to be shot at his world welterweight boxing championship and he gave it to himself.

The Cuban, ranked No. 2 in the division, won a unanimous decision over "Garnet Sugar Hart in a 10-rounder Wednesday night. His buzzsaw attack beat Sugar, ranked No. 3, befuddled much of the time.

Promoter Chris Dundee said he had been notified by Anthony Mazzorcoi, president of the National Boxing Association, that unless champion Don Jordan defended his title by Jan. 15, the corporation time of his six - month period of office, that the winner of Wdnesday night's fight would meet the best other available contender here Feb. 10 for the crown.

Referee Cy Gottfried favored Rodriguez 98-92. Judge Gus Jacobson had it 98-93 and judge Fred Aaronson 98-94.

White Sox Led American In Fielding

BOSTON (AP) — The popular theory that a stalwart defence carried Chicago White Sox to their first pennant in 40 years was given further impetus Wednesday with the release of the final American League fielding figures for 1959.

The White Sox won the team fielding title with a .979 average. This was one point higher than New York, Boston, Cleveland and Detroit.

Chicago also had two individual leaders—second baseman Nellie Fox, the circuit's most valuable player, and his sparkling double-play sidekick, shortstop Luis Aparicio. Fox made only 10 errors in 827 chances for a .988 average. Aparicio fielded .979 to finish well ahead of the .963 mark posted by Woody Held of Cleveland.

Vic Power of Cleveland, at first base, and Eddie Yost of Detroit, at third, rounded out the top fielding infielders. Power showed a .995 mark to set the pace for the second time. Yost was No. 1 at third for the second straight year with .962.

Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees was the leader among the outfielders with .995 on only two miscues in 375 chances. He was followed by Jim Landis of the White Sox, .993 and Al Kaline, Detroit, .988.

Yogi Berra of the Yanks edged Chicago's Sherman Lollar for catching honors. Yogi made only two errors and wound up with a .997 average. Lollar erred five times and finished at .993.

Twenty - five players among those who participated in 10 or more games registered perfect fielding records. The leader based on most chances without a miscue was Washington's Camilo Pascual, who handled 73 flawlessly.

The Boston Red Sox made the most double plays, 167. Baltimore and Chicago were the only clubs to execute a triple play.

Hollywood Spokesmen Look Into Movie Industry 1960

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What will the 1960s bring the movie industry?

A number of Hollywood's more-articulate spokesmen came up with:

"Hollywood will have to follow the referentiation path of Theodore Roosevelt," said producer Jerry Wald. "He decreed that the loggers had to plant three trees for every one they cut down. Too many studios have neglected building new talent, and it is paying for it.

"First, John Wayne got $633,000, then William Holden, $778,000. Then Liz Taylor got a million. The next deal will be a million and a half. It's getting disastrous. We've got to build new names."

BLOCK-BOOKING

George Seaton believes a return of block-booking will help save the studios' ills. That was the old system of selling films in large blocks, a practice the government outlawed. Now there are indications the ban may be repealed.

"Then the studio will be sure of a return for its investment," Seaton argued. "It will know that theatres will buy the routine pictures as well as the hits. The studio could then afford to build up contract list of players and create new stars."

Samuel Goldwyn long has argued that too many pictures are being made. Seaton agrees that there will be less films in the 60s and fewer theatres. But Walter Wanger sees a rise in the so-called art theatres.

"I think we will see an increase in the small theatre with an appeal to the intelligent moviegoer", Wanger said.

What about pay-TV?

"I don't know the mechanics of it," said Wanger. "But I think that it will wait until films can be seen in color on a large screen art in the wall. I don't know how new movies will look on a 15- or 21-inch screen."

Seaton foresees pay-TV as an eventuality for the 60s—as a second run for new movies. "After a picture has played the big first-run houses," said Wanger, "it will go on pay-TV at a lower price. Then you will be saved milking it through the subsequent runs."

Nearly all the film makers are optimistic about the coming decade.

"I think we'll have prosperity such as we've never seen before," said Mervyn Leroy, "because everything will be on film. But the future belongs to the creator. "The major studios will become like filling stations," observed Seaton. "The independent producers will go from door to door gas and oil and other services. But they will do the driving."

Christmas Cards of Stars Mostly Religious in Theme

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — If the Christmas cards of the television stars are any indication of a trend, they point in the direction of earnest — often religiously inspired—messages of good cheer.

Few nowadays are moved to use photographs of themselves and even fewer send comic cards for the holiday.

The cards of both Garry Moore and Perry Como, for instance, are strongly religious in theme —Moore's, an angel; Como's, the Three Kings of Orient.

Shari Lewis's card was illustrated by a cartoon of lambchop, her lilis puppet, and that of Lamb Chopnett was decorated with a drawing of phonograph records whose centres are sparkling gifts.

Betty Furness sent a card covered with traditional Christmas tree decorations; Sid Caesar's was a handsome orange, pink and gold design of Oriental flavor.

DANCING SANTA

George Gobel chose a card with a dancing, fat Santa Claus figure and Patti Page a colorful and simple card of red and gold blocks.

Gene Barry's, carried a "peace on earth" message; Shelley Berman's, a pair of cute angels, and Dick Clark's—of course, three little singing angels.

Eddie Gleason has ordered too many cards last year or liked them enough to reorder. His red plaid and gold card was a repeat of 1958.

On NBC's live report on the president's homecoming Tuesday night, Vice - President's Richard Nixon seemed so eager to greet his chief that he was ahead of Mrs. Eisenhower at the foot of the ramp . . . NBC, A lot of young hopefuls will be interested to learn, is so anxious to find new talent that it will start screen tests. Sounds more like an answer to CBS's talent search than a new concept . . . Pat Boone's choice of the big song hits for the 1959s include Everybody Loves a Lover, April Love, Too Young, Stranger in Paradise and The Whole World. At least those are the ones he has chosen for his 2-record show Dec. 30 . . . Farley Granger will play Arrowsmith in the Jan. 17 CBS adaptation of the Sinclair Lewis novel.

Laughter in the Air

Many voices and some of the greats of radio comedy have been listeners back in the days when they helped make Information Please a radio hit as it rose in a broadcast this week.

By Brian Stewart in CBC Times

Rudy Vallee quit himself "the Fat Boom of the Hoop Ads." Bob and Ray made shabby their entertainment reason, "only about longer to go up," he says.

This week Rudy hosted Fibber's 25. The program, Laughter in the Air, was a tribute to, and a memory of, that great era of radio comedy — an era that provided laughs for millions of North Americans during the tragedy and frustrations of the Great Depression.

Jack Benny, George Burns, Eddie Cantor, Edgar Bergen, Bing Crosby and Gertrude Berg were some of the many names who took part and there were excerpts from shows like those of the late Fred Allen and of Amos 'n' Andy. Tony Thomas produced the program on tape in Hollywood.

Vallee's role at first in Laughter in the Air was fitting: the Bachelor of Philosophy from Yale, who was found most of the musicians for his Connecticut Yankees band at that institution, was one of the first great stars of American radio. He debuted on American radio in 1928 but one report says he made his radio debut in Britain while playing the Savoy Hotel). He was also the first singer crooner — distinct from the Mannyingding' bandleaders — to made his fame sweet. But most of all, many of the radio greats of the thirties owe their first microphone on Rudy Vallee's Variety Hour.

One such was George Burns, who joined in Laughter in the Air. With Gracie Allen, George had hit the big time in vaudeville, and good money. But in 1930 when an agent from Vallee's show approached them and quoted a price, George was astounded at the amount (so the story goes).

"We'll give you $750 for one show," said the agent.

"How much?" gasped George.

"All of it, a thousand dollars but not a penny more."

GOT OWN SHOW

From there they got their own radio show and Gracie achieved national fame by "fashun" and blunder. (Actually, Burns and Allen had achieved international fame earlier: they played on BBC radio before they went on to U.S. radio.)

Many years ago, as head of McCadden Corporation (film producers), George could honestly say, "The sponsors are writing me out a $45,000 cheque to make 13 million people laugh.

I don't want a good writer, I want a $45,000 writer."

Many of the radio greats were friends back in vaudeville. George and Jack Benny, for instance.

When George and Gracie married in 1926 in Cleveland, Jack who was staying in Omaha, was the only friend who knew of the ceremony. When the telephone rang in the honeymoon suite at 3 a.m. on the morning after the marriage, George picked up the receiver, said, "Send up two orders of ham and eggs" — and slammed down the phone. Hundreds of miles away, presumably, Benny stood there holding the phone, staring with a long, long stare at whatever audience was available to stare at.

Jack Benny attributes his long-lasting success to his character: he has sustained for so long on radio and TV. His meanness for instance. During the feud with Fred Allen, Benny was nominated to open a new Mr. Dimes Campaign. Said Allen: "The cheap bum! Every time I ed that would march past Jack Benny."

Then there was the time Jack heard a friend had lost $10,000 in one night at gambling. "I don know", said Jack, "I'd feel like slitting my throat next morning."

"Yeah", sympathized one of his writers, "but think: Two whole day's work".

Only once did the Benny show really go into a slump. So Jack called his wife "I don't think Benny because ..." campaign and $70,000 people wrote him letters telling him why.

If Benny knows how to save a time, two of his fellow comedians knew how to spend she: they are Edgar Bergen and Eddie Cantor, who also appeared on Laughter in the Air. As a child in New York Cantor lost or invested 39 cents in a pair of pants to make a presentable appearance at his first vaudeville show. He initiated a local publicity stunt, was $1 Later Eddie worked as a singing waiter for a Coney Island restaurant. His pianist was Jimmy Durante. Eddie (this Durante) made his radio debut on Vallee's show, later on his own radio show was credited with being the first comedian to insist on a live audience.

Edgar Bergen's initial outlay was a 25 cent investment in Herman's Wizard's Manual Ventriloquism, a book on ventriloquism. The latter, of course, gave rise to Charlie McCarthy, the wisecracking dummy who was the first crooner. Bing Crosby is probably the greatest. There is really nothing to say about Der Bingle; perhaps a few quotes about his admiration as when his brother Everett tried to persuade him to try for a radio contract in New York. He said, "Oh I'm just another baritone with a cold voice." — Everett tried record recordings anyway, and in the years 1940-1943, 60,000,000 discs carrying the gravel voice were sold throughout the world.

Then there was the time the agent of a recording company approached Bing and asked, "Mister Crosby, Sir! Who do you think I am?" asked Bing. "Lily Pons?"

In 1938 a young announcer Norman Brokenshire offered NBC a script for a show based on the life of a Jewish family. The NBC officials could not read her writing in New York, so they asked Gertrude to read it for them. That's how Molly Goldberg came to be a radio classic. Many of Molly's remarks have now gone into folklore:

"Sometimes I think of your age and 'structure already?'"

"If it's nobody I'll call back."

Then there was the time Molly rode her daughter in the greatest day of the neighborhood: Molly let her play the only dwarf in a school production with Snow White and Snow Whites.

LONGEST LAUGH

So, today's radio comedy could omit a tape of the voice of the late Fred Allen. Fred started in showbusiness with a juggling act. He was still a lad, juggling in a Boston theatre, his manager came on the stage to tell him to stop juggling: "Can you think you learned to juggle?" — The embarrassed lad answered that he had taken correspondence course in baggage smashing.

Soon Allen was on the circuit with jokes like: "My uncle is a Southern planter. He's an undertaker in Alabama".

Fred Allen made Broadway in 1922 in "The Passing Show" — to which he attributes the passing of the live theatre. In 1932 he entered radio in a show called "The Bath Club".

Clifton Fadiman saw Allen as epitomizing the revolt against authoritarianism: "Allen stuffed shirtism. He has likened the commercial to an eagle which Allen once interviewed on his show and which, half way through the interview, took off and began flying over the studio audience to exercise and the from delay. The result was the longest studio laugh ever clocked — 45 minutes."

First the give-away shows which allowed Allen — at night as it turns out — and then TV, which he regarded as a soulless monster, took away Fred Allen's audience. But many of those who listened to "Laughter in the "Air" wistfully remembered their youth.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Sports-wise, 1959 was not too bad a year, after all.

Sure, we won the world's (100) grand hockey championship but we had the name "Belleville" and "Intermediate" plastered in foreign sky sheet and rural headout in a dozen or more European countries.

And we did a helluva lot more for Canada that the seats of the mighty in Ottawa or any other place will admit.

The funny part of the whole thing is, that this was the first all-out national advertising campaign which will be paid for by a single community.

Not forgetting a single individual. H. J. McFarland, Sr.

And like the internal revenue department, the European one do not forget.

Unlike the tax department, but acting in a similar way, were the Creek state police. The infernal revenue guys do the job in a neat, methodical manner, letters, etc., and so forth.

The Czech gendarmes have a more direct approach. Fristance, when we deplaned at Prague, we had to display our currency, Canadian. Swiss francs, French francs, Eastern Spanish and what had you. We happened to have a dozen Canadian two-dollar bills.

The wily gendarme looked up into our blue eyes, this twinkled. He murmured something like "souvenirs," promptly plucked a two-spot off the top of the heap and deposited it in his greatcoat pocket.

Immediately above the pocket was a sinister-looking .38 automatic. There was no argument. He retained the two-spot.

Softball had a great year. The Roberts and Point Anne, and practically outside group, were fine many a thrill, both in league and playoff games. The misses, too, had a banner season.

While patient OBA vice-president Jack Carson sits, like a lot more of us, twiddling thumbs and waiting for the great day, the Gough Hastings League and the minor loops kept the breath of life in baseball.

And the "growlers" had a highly successful season. Salmon Jay Bowerman, with portly spouse Steve, hovering the background, led the affair off for the Country Club to a grand year of golfing. The mere males did likewise. The high spot, or one of them, was pro George Bowman's round of 67 at Kingston.

The Eastern Ontario and Bay of Quinte Football Leagues can look back with pride. They had a fine year with Quinte branching out in the minor division.

Trenkin-wise, Jack Sisson's husky young gridiron giants brought the first OSSA senior football championship to Quinte's Memorial Bridge. Valiant Alex Wood went down fighting before a vastly superior squad in Junior "B". OSSD's fine young volleyball team captured the OSSA Senior "B" championship.

Tennis, checkers, chess, darts, etc., reportedly had a fine season.

Currently the Mars' senior hockey club is occupying the basher's apartment in the Ontario Senior League. The Belleville Lumber-Rollins' stable might have been second place in the Eastern Ontario Junior "B" circuit.

So it is not going to be too bad a Christmas, after all.

And so, to all our friends, customers, bounty-seekers and confreres in this rabid business of sportswriting, we extend our very best wishes for a bountiful and beautiful Christmas.

George H. Carver

And here's a word from that very helpful mighty midget of the sports department:

"Just want to say what a pleasure it has been during the past year to be associated with the sports business and all the fine people therein.

"Congratulations to the winners and losers alike, and may 1960 bring all the success in the world to all district teams.

"AND A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL!"

Chicago in Fourth-Spot Tie After 3-0 Blank of Rangers; Bobby Ties Horvath for Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A nondescript knows as Hull and Hall has proved effective for whatever was ailing Chicago Black Hawks.

The healthy Hawks blanked the Rangers 3-0 in New York Wednesday night to move into a fourth - place tie with Boston Bruins. Their victory, in the only National Hockey League game scheduled, made their record six wins, four ties and only two losses in the last 12 games.

Left wing Bobby Hull and goalie Glenn Hall have been consistently good during the drive which has put the Black Hawks even with Boston and in the thick of the battle for playoff berths. When it began, they were 15 points behind Boston.

HULL TOP SCORER

Hull did not score Wednesday night but he was his usual dangerous self in the vanguard of the Chicago attack and his assist on the last goal moved him into a tie with Bobby Hull for top honors in the scoring race. Both have 39 points.

Horvath, slowing down after one of the fastest starts in league history, has scored only nine points in the last month, counting one in each game.

Hall, one of the best goalies in the business, seems to be getting stingier as the season progresses. He has allowed just seven goals in his last four games. The shutout was his second of the season. The other was March 29, also against Rangers.

IMPROVING

Ted Lindsay scored the scoring in the first period with his 399th NHL goal, joining a select group of members only six players now active.

WHARRAM IMPROVING

Ken Wharram scored early in the second period, battling in Stan Mikita's rebound. Wharram, who a month ago had no points to show for his efforts in 17 games, has scored five goals in the current Chicago splurge.

In the first period Red Hay, whom Boston general manager Lynn Patrick has called the rookie-of-the-year so far, finished off a play with Eric Nesterenko and Hull to complete the scoring. Hay's 17 points, made up of six goals and 11 assists, is tops among this season's newcomers.

Black Hawks' victory set the stage for a crucial Christmas night game in Boston. The Bruins are Black Hawks' only deadlocked with 25 points, nine behind threeplace Toronto.

The other Christmas night game will have New York at Detroit. Montreal is idle Christmas night and Saturday night, when they will play host to Chicago and New York respectively.

Dogs Shut Out Dutchies 6-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Don Head, Windsor Bulldogs' netminder, registered his third Ontario Hockey Association Senior A shutout of the season Wednesday night as his club posted its eighth straight victory, a home ice and its 11th in the last 13 starts.

Their latest victim: Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen who, try as they did, couldn't solve a 6-0 defeat before 2,816 fans.

In other action Whitby Dunlops increased their league-leadership to five points with a 4-3 victory over second champion Belleville McFarlands who were idle Wednesday night until Bob Attersley came through with a sneaky shot at the 19:36 mark of the third period.

Attersley snatched Pete Babando's past from the faceoff near the Belleville net and trickled the puck into the corner.

ALONE IN SECOND

Windsor's victory gave it sole possession of second place. Chatham is third, one point ahead of Kitchener - Waterloo's loss. This 20th in 27 games, drove it deeper into the cellar.

Windsor's Tom Walker also took advantage of Kitchener's plight, firing three goals to break a prolonged scoring slump. Murray Costello, Gord Haley and Lou Bendas notched the other Windsor markers.

During the fast, crisp contest Bost Hurley in the K-W cage kicked out 33 shots while Head stopped 20.

CLEAN-CUT GAME

Windsor received two of the three minor penalties handed out during the game.

At Belleville, Dunlops took a 3-0 first-period lead on two goals by Babando and one by Tom O'Connor, all in five minutes.

Belleville took just three minutes to tie the score when it caught fire in the second. Ike Hildebrand, Moe Benoit and Defalcie Marineau were the marksmen.

Whitby outshot Belleville 33-28 with both goalers, Long John Henderson and Cesare Maniago turning in top performances.

PICK CHAMPS

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Gene Littler and Louise Suggs were named pro golf's "performance average" champions for 1960 by Golf Digest magazine Wednesday. Littler, 1954 champion, became the first double winner by scoring 427 points of a possible 725 in 29 tournaments for a .603 "batting" average. Miss Suggs won three tourneys and took nine seconds, one third and five fourths, for a record .866 percentage.

ANOTHER RECORD

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League set an attendance record for the eighth time in a row despite unfavorable economic conditions in three cities, it was disclosed today. Associated Press survey of the 12 team pro "attiligt" showed that more than 2,214,535 fans attended games last season. This was a 158,617 increase over the 2,137,898 total attendance in 1958.

Juniors Play Cobourg Here Monday Night

A change was announced this morning in the OHA Junior "B" hockey league game here on Monday, December 28.

Originally, Trenton Lafferty Bees were scheduled to play at Memorial Arena here against Belleville Lambert-Rollins, but through a Trenton request, that game has been postponed.

However, Lambert - Rollins will not miss their Monday night home game, arrangements having been made to bring the Cobourg Rockets here for their first appearance of the season.

Cobourg has divided a pair of wins with the Lambert-Rollins in Cobourg and are said to have a rough and tumble team that will be out to avenge Bill's with plenty of opposition here. Game time is 8.30 p.m.

A date will be set later for the Trenton game and also for another Cobourg tilt, yet to be scheduled.

Court Action Gets Tickets

BALTIMORE (AP) — It took court action for four Baltimore Colt fans to get tickets to the National Football League championship game here Sunday.

Judge Emily Foster ruled that the men were entitled to the title game tickets because they had a definite understanding about buying season tickets through lawyer-keeper John Shipley.

Colts Study Giants' Defence

BALTIMORE (AP) — Most of the pre-game talk about New York Giants is their nearly defence. But defensive players for Baltimore Colts also speak with great respect of the offence.

The Colt defensive specialists, naturally are preoccupied only with stopping the Giant attack in their National Football League championship game here Sunday. They spent hours every day peering at movies of it.

"They look almost like superstars, don't they?" defensive end Don Joyce said Wednesday after viewing the Giants beating Washington Redskins 24-16.

One offensive play the Colts are particularly wary of is the quarterback sneak executed so ably by fullback Frank Gifford of the Giants.

"The way you have to try to stop it is to get to him quickly and wrap him in your hands right away", said defensive coach Charlie Winner. "But at the same time you have to be careful, because they want to pull your defenders in so he can pass over them".

The game, to start at 2 p.m., will be televised by NBC and carried in Canada by CBC-TV. The Colts, eastern conference champions, will be seeking their second straight crown.

Hockey Hints

by Lloyd Percival

"SHOOTING POWER"

"Boom Boom" Geoffrion or Gordie Howe can shoot at speeds from 70 to 80 MPH! Sports College has timed their shots. Few players shoot this hard — and they don't score as many goals.

Here are the secrets of hard shootings

SHOOTING POWER

Try to snoot hard every time you get a chance — most players shoot without consciously trying for full power.

Sweep the puck from well back and lean your weight on your stick as you shoot. This puts your body behind it.

Concentrate on a very hard flick of the wrists. If you don't use your wrists properly you don't get big power.

Practise shooting often — in your cellar, on the corner lot, everywhere you can shoot a puck.

Build the strength of your hands, wrists and forearms. Squeeze rubber balls, twist and turn a heavy baseball bat; work with weights.

SEEK SITE

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — A site near here for the stadium that will serve the Dallas-Fort Worth club in the Continental League is the immediate concern today.

Leonard Green of Dallas, chairman of the Bi-County Stadium Commission, said efforts would be made to have it ready by the time the league opens its first season in 1961.

Dallas and Fort Worth became joint members of the third major league at a series of conferences here today. Montreal is among cities hoping to be the eighth member.

Ottawa Riders' Russ Jackson Named Male Athlete of Year

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Russ Jackson, years—1852, 1857, 1958 — was now probably is having a quiet Christmas Eve chuckle over his selection as Canada's outstanding male athlete of 1959.

Two years ago three Canadian professional football teams passed on him in the annual college draft.

The assumption had to be that American coaches prefer American players in their backfield, particularly at quarterback. That ruled out the 23-year-old Jackson, a native of Hamilton and a quarterback-halfback of better-than-average ability with Master University in the Ontario Intercollegiate Conference.

Coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders picked up Jackson after British Columbia Lions, Calgary Stampeders and Toronto Argonauts let him go for the 1958 season.

Jackson played a major role in getting Riders to the big four final the last two seasons. The latest, announced Wednesday night, was tabulated by the country's sports editors and broadcasters who participated in the 25th annual Canadian Press year-end poll.

The selectors were asked by CP to name the best three Canadian athletes, in order. Jackson headed the vote in a close fight with 45-year-old Stan Leonard of Vancouver. On basis of three points for first place, two for second and one for third, the final count showed Jackson with 132 points against 119 for Leonard, undoubtedly the country's all-time great golfer.

This was one of the closest 12 battles in the poll's quarter-century. The voters came up with 44 names, many of them professionals in football and baseball, but Jackson and Leonard gobbled up two-thirds of the first-place marking.

Dribbler Gives Dunlops 4-3 Victory Over Macs

Puck Rolls Lazily Over Line With Five Seconds to Play In Heartbreaking Climax

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

A sneaky, wobbly puck eased itself off Bobby Attersley's stick, crept across the goal-line and gave the Whitby Dunlops a 4-3 win over the Macland's here last night.

And it came with the clock reading 19.55 of the third period after Long John Henderson and his mates had fought back from behind Belleville lads for victory.

It shouldn't have happened to a homeless pooch, let alone the win-hungry McFarlands, who, although outshot 32-28, deserved the victory on the night's play.

Any club that can whip back to score three unanswered goals in as many minutes after being down 3-0 should get some sort of break. And the Macs got the wrong kind.

The Dunnies caught fire midway through the first period and started what looked like a rout by firing home three goals in less than five minutes. After four minutes of the second frame the Macs ignited and whipped through the Allan Cuppers three times in three minutes to knot the count.

Came the third period and the teams went at it tooth and nail in an effort to break the deadlock. Bob Chesser, back to both Maslago and Henderson in the respective nets took care of everything that came their way. The Macs had the better of the play and it looked like the first overtime of the year.

Then it happened. The Macs had dropped the main power of a Dunlop drive and were set for a startle when Peter Blackstock found the puck to Attersley, 11 his big stick, wobbled drunkenly and slowly, sneaked across the goalline before Maslago could get to it. It was a heartbreaker.

The win gave the Dunlops a five-point lead over second-place Windsor who walloped the Kitchener Dutchmen 6-0 in another tilt.

Referee Gord Fevereau handed out seven minors with the Dunlops getting the odd one. The Macs had two men off for a minute in the second and got but held off the Dunnies desperate efforts to score.

The Hildebrand and Eddie Marineau had a goal and assist each while Bennett Bennett had a final marker. Bus Gagnon had two assists with Bradley and Sanker getting each.

Tom O'Connor and Hildebrand went off for roughing in the first period with Freddie Etcher drawing the third sentence of the frame with no damage being done in either case.

The Dunnies' first goal was a freak affair, the puck going into the net off a McFarland player with Pete Babando who was the closest Dunnie to the play getting the credit for the counter.

The lead seemed to fire the Dunlops and a minute later they ripped through on a three - man passing play with Tom O'Connor scoring from helpers by Myles and Kane.

The Macs couldn't seem to get anywhere and four minutes later the Dunnies racked up their third count in five minutes when Babando scored his second marker on a play with Sandy Air and Harry Sinden.

Down but far from out the Macs roared back in the second frame with Hildebrand dunking Gagnon's pass to beat Whitby Marineau after a long forward to Gagnon who flipped the puck across the goalmouth as Ike got there.

Brodie got the gate for charging at 5.44 and the subsequent power play of the Macs paid off as Moe Benoit got the club within striking distance on a play with Hildebrand and Gagnon.

Still driving, the Macs evened the score a minute later when Eddie Marineau, parked on the point, blasted a driving slapshot past Long John Henderson to make matters all even.

Chasgowski and Hildebrand drew penalties within minutes and the Macs were hard pressed to hold off the charging Dunnies. Maslago rose to some sort of heights with no damage being done.

The Macs drove back in the third period but failed to dent the Dunnies' defensive armor, even when Brodie was chased for hooking after seven minutes of play.

It was fast furious hockey with the goalies again standing out with the Macs outplaying the Dunlops, although they were on the short end of the shots-on-goal score.

Then came that dirty, sneaky little puck which staggered over the goal-line with seconds to go and Whitby home was hitched.

Whitby: goal, Henderson; defence, Bruce Thomson, Bill McBeth; forwards, Attersley, Etcher, Brodie, Babando, Kane, Air, Darling, Tom O'Connor, Myles.

Belleville: goal Maslago; defence, Benoit, Betty, Crawford, Chasgowski, Marineau; forwards, Gribbons, Hildebrand, Gagnon, Bradley, Sanker, Muir, Eddie Marineau, Bennett.

Referee — Gordon Fevereau.

Linesmen — Bill Hurst, Williams, Belleville.

Bathgate Fine Draws Blast

TORONTO (CP)— Dave Hamilton, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Federation of Labor Wednesday night criticized the National Hockey League for "the dictatorial way in which it operates".

He was referring to the $500 fine the NHL imposed on Andy Bathgate of the New York Rangers for an article on hockey salary in Maclean's magazine which appeared under his byline in the Canadian edition of a magazine.

Hamilton said if a union leader fined a member for an article criticizing the union every paper from coast to coast would have "screaming editorials" about denials of freedom of speech.

Wolves Dump Hull-Ottawa 6-3

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Many players in the Eastern Professional Hockey League headed home for a Christmas holiday as the six-team loop took a couple of days off in its first season of operation.

League competition doesn't resume until Saturday night and only one game was scheduled Wednesday night.

The league - leading Sudbury Wolves dumped second - place Hull - Ottawa Canadiens 6-3 to keep well in front of the other clubs by six points.

The Canadiens remained in a tie with Montreal Royals with 34 points. Behind them are Troisrivieres Lions, 30, Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds, 27, and Kingston Frontenacs 25.

Macs Present 'H. J.', Others With Gifts

While Santa Claus isn't assisting in their hockey stockings, the Macs stepped briefly out of character last night to assume the role of St. Nick.

There was a touch of heartbreak in the post-game ceremonies in the dressing room.

They had roared back from a three-goal deficit to knot the count with the Whitby Dunlops, and there was a sense of victory in their third-period offensive.

Then, a measly puck, which looked like a half-drunken sailor, lazily staggered across the goal-line to rob them of victory and increase the Dunlops' lead in the Ranks Class.

There could have been the glim of an masked tear in the eyes of Captain Floyd Crawford when he presented, on behalf of the Macs, gifts to Mayor H. J. McFarland and various club officials.

But in the hush of the dressing room, the team showed its keen disappointment in the way events. Heads were bowed. There was no merriment.

Mayor McFarland was presented with a handsome electric wall clock with "To Harvey from His Boys, Christmas, 1959" inscribed on the face.

The players presented plaques to coach Ike Hildebrand with a set of cufflinks and bar utensils.

To manager Keith MacDougall went a barometer.

The team trainers, "Turk" Barclay and Doug Murray, received pen and pencil sets and cufflinks respectively.

All made brief resumes of appreciation.

Through the invisible cloud of disappointment caused the "ifs" of life, Mr. McFarland:

"We all are disappointed at what happened out there tonight," he said, "But it could not be helped. It was one of those things.

"I want all of you to know that I'm still very much interested behind you," he said. "You are still my boys and I have not lost faith in you."

Toothless Sam Best Lineman In Pro Game

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Huff, the tough, tackleslungry and almost toothless linebacker with New York's Giants, is the unanimous choice of pro football writers covering National Football League games for the dictatorial way in which it operates".

Writers covering National Football League games have unanimously selected Huff as pro lineman of the year, giving him 18 of a possible 37 votes in the annual Associated Press poll.

Baltimore Colts' brilliant offensive end, Ray Berry, and another Colt, 270-pound tackle Jim Parker, received five votes. Two other Baltimore luminaries —end Gino Marchetti and 238 - pound Gene Big Daddy Lipscomb — attracted two votes, as did guard Forest Gregg of Green Bay Packers.

Huff, 25, and 230 pounds, is the very model of Giants' savage defence, which in each of the last two years has yielded a fewer low of 3.5 yards a carry to opponents.

STADIUM AVAILABLE

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mayor Richardson Dilworth has made the 100,000 - seat city - owned Philadelphia Stadium available for harness racing. He told harness conference Wednesday the city would offer the stadium on a long-term lease to any private group that wants to use it for racing.

Sickly Arsenal Meets Luton In Holiday Soccer Feature

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Arsenal, the battered blue-ribbon club of English soccer, collects a badly needed present or two from the holiday schedule.

The Gunners who have traded in the riches for a while because of the injury jinx, meet Luton Town as the feature match of the program. Arsenal has been sick recently on the injured list, quit their biggest break by being allowed to spend Christmas Day at home.

In place of the customary three-game schedule, the Football League has fixed home-and-home matches for Boxing Day and the following Monday, custom-built for some clubs with a gate money but offering a welcome respite to the beleaguered players.

Defeated six times in their last seven outings, the Gunners are due for extra solace by drawing Luton Town as their opponents. Luton has been a hard luck team, mostly are mired in the cellar of the First Division. Arsenal should offer 16th-place Arsenal a chance to pick up a few points.

STARS UP TEMP

The Gunners' hospital list includes casualties such as fullback Dennis Evans, halfbacks Mel Charles, Tommy Dogherty and Vic Groves, centre - forward Jimmy Bloomfield and winger Laverty. Charles, trying to shake off the effects of a cartilage operation, may get into action.

Tottenham Hotspur, the league leaders, are home against Manchester United in an all-Lancashire clash.

The top attraction in the Second Division is the meeting of Rotherham United, the Cup Division which has fought its way into second place, with fifth-place Liverpool. Rotherham's chances were jolted Tuesday when 20-year-old Billy Day, the club's right winger, suffered a broken leg in a practice session.

Day, the only Christmas Day activity send: Blackpool against Blackburn Rovers in a First-Division match while Coventry City entertains Wrexham in the Third Division. Both matches have been moved up from Monday.

Ingy Likes Latest Plans For Fight

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — World heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson said Wednesday he is pleased by the latest developments in the New York fight scene but will not sign anything until he visits New York in January.

Roy Cohn, New York attorney and friend of the promoter group that has taken over the corporation that holds the return agreement, plans to leave New York for Sweden Sunday to make some of the details.

"I have so far only heard about this via the telephone," said Johansson. "I do not know the people involved but I presume they are okay. I think maybe they should have called me up before signing the contract. Cohn's syndicate bought the assets of the Rosenstein enterprises, promoter of the June title bout.

Meanwhile, in New York, the Boxing Writers Association of New York reported Johansson would be on hand to accept the Edward J. Neil award as "fighter of the year" for 1959 at the association's annual dinner Jan. 14.

All Players Will Benefit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — All players of the National Football League will benefit from the Jan. 17 pro bowl game.

The first $15,000 after game expenses are paid will go into the NFL players' benefit fund. The 33 members of the winning team will receive $800 apiece plus expenses. The losers will get $600 apiece and expenses.

Boxer Asked To Put up Or Shut Up'

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Boxing Commission 'and the state legislature want to back into charges he middleweight challenger Paul Pender that "gangsters and thieves" infest professional boxing.

"I want him to put up or shut up" commission chairman Herman Greenberg said Wednesday night. "The state owes crooks in boxing? As chairman of the commission I want to know. I want to get rid of them."

Pender was ordered to appear before the commission Tuesday. Boxing commissioners Charles F. Condon filed a resolve for the appointment of a committee to investigate boxing within the state.

If Condon is successful in getting an investigation started", Pender said, "I hope it does more than scratch the surface the way most of these committees do".

Pender, 10-year ring veterm said last week boxing is in such poor shape the sport should be abolished for five years to rid it of undesirable elements. He said he will not name names, places, date or incidents to the commission.

Pender, a fireman from Brockline, Mass., is ranked No. 1 in the National Boxing Association's list of middleweight challengers. He fights Sugar Ray Robinson in Boston Jan. 22 for the version of the middleweight title that is recognized in Massachusetts and New York.

Ski-Jumper Will Need Greatest Hop

TORONTO (CP) — Canada could win its first Winter Olympic ski-jumping in 1960 but Jacques Charland of Trois-Rivieres, Que. will have to make the greatest jumps of his career to get there.

"We know he has the ability to compete with the world's best," said Lou Scherer, Ontario ski instructor, "but to win a meal he'll need his greatest jumps."

Only two jumps count at the Games in February at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Petterson warned that because of his age this might be the 29-year-old Charland's last big international competition.

He said in an interview that the reasons Canada doesn't have good long jumpers is that "no one will put up the money to build championship jumps."

Flyers Shade Spokane 4-3

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Flyers grabbed a 4-1 lead in the first two periods and then hung on a 4-3 win over Spokane Comets in a Western Hockey League game here Wednesday night.

The win boosted Edmonton into fourth-place in the Pacific Coast Hockey League. The loss left Spokane last in the seven-team circuit.

The Edmonton goals were dimmade-made skating efforts by well-do-do sports-lovers who personalized the province's hundred resorts.

But since the war the development of co-operative ski clubs has put the sport within reach of everyone and French-language Canadians have taken to the hills in droves.

And in many ways they have taken skiing into their lives and identified it with their unique blend of religious and cultural traditions.

A case in point are the members of the Val David Ski Club in the Montreal area, who have taken to spending Christmas in the club lodge, about 30 miles north of Montreal.

PRAY AND THINK

In numbers as high as 60, they spend Christmas Eve in quiet conversation, prayer, or meditation. For the first three or four years they have put solemn and meaningful religious activities in the forefront of their Christmas parties back in the city.

One year they separated into small groups, each with an informally appointed leader, and filed into the nearest church.

There each group built a fire amid the quiet of snow - laden spruces and sat around it, praying or singing softly.

The congregation was suggested by the shepherds who sat around their fires on the hills above Bethlehem on the first Christmas.

Shortly before midnight, as tradition says the shepherds did, the groups gathered to pray at a nativity scene in the woods which had been modelled in snow and then returned to the club chapel for mass.

After mass they return to the lodge itself for less religious festivities, beginning with the reveillon, a traditional midnight meal at 2 a.m., a tradition which dates back to the earliest French settlement in Canada.

Quebec Skiers Garnish Sport With Religion

MONTREAL (CP)—A modern boom in skiing has been matched by some of Quebec's city - dwellers back to an old-fashioned Christmas.

Before the Second World War most of the skiers who visited Quebec's Laurentian Mountains for their magnificent natural and man-made skiing facilities were well-to-do sports-lovers who personalized the province's hundred resorts.

But since the war the development of co-operative ski clubs has put the sport within reach of everyone and French-language Canadians have taken to the hills in droves.

Bren Gun, Close Friend of Army, Discarded

OTTAWA (CP) — A close friend of Canadian infantrymen for the last 22 years was discarded by the army this year.

The bren light machine - gun was replaced by the C-2 FN heavy-barrel rifle, a fast, automatic sister to the FN .300-calibre rifle which now is standard equipment with Canadian troops.

The army said today in a year-end review that because the new machine-gun and rifle fire the same 7.62 - millimetre ammunition, the familiar .303 ammunition will disappear from army stores. The FN rifle replaced the former .306-calibre Lee-Enfield.

Canada is the first NATO country to standardize its small arms ammunition to the NATO standard.

The army said a new Cana-

Algerian Rebels Take Fighting Soldier for Head

PARIS (Reuters) — A fighting soldier Tuesday was reported to have replaced an armchair general as head of the Algerian rebels' provisional government and will move his headquarters to Algeria from Cairo.

French officials said the action, reported by Arab informants in Cairo, would not alter President de Gaulle's self-determination program for Algeria.

According to the reports, Deputy Premier and War Minister Kerim Belkacem has succeeded Ferhat Abbas as premier and will take government headquarters from Cairo to "somewhere in Algeria." Abbas has been demoted to the job of "government spokesman," the Arab informants said.

French officials regard Belkacem as much tougher, more uncompromising than Abbas. He long has favored renewed rebel military action in the five - year war to gain independence from France.

French military intelligence sources in Algiers said Belkacem and his four chief associates represent the Communist tendency among the insurgents. All are said to have visited Communist China. Belkacem, who has been sentenced to death in absentia five times by French courts.

Officials close to de Gaulle's office said the "pacification" program is going well. They added that French troops under Gen. Maurice Challe have taken their large areas this year and local Moslem villagers are beginning to show confidence in de Gaulle's program.

Astrological Forecast

By EARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, Christmas Day, 1953

General Tendencies: A wonderful Christmas to you and may the Prince of Peace bring every good and perfect gift to you at this holiday season. This is one of those times when most everyone is so permeated with the Christmas spirit that far less materialism is present in their thinking, even though much revenue will be spent to buy presents for those one loves. But it will be done in sincerity and appreciation.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) All those about you today seem to be thinking along the same channel, and if you will think seriously you will find their views to be correct. So go along with them and make wise use of today's fine influences.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) A good day to informally talk things over with associates. An air of camaraderie and a pleasant interchange of ideas will open up new vistas for all concerned. By listening carefully this can be a very happy and wonderful day for you.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) With all the Christmas gifts about, you could very easily feel besmeared in today, but if you smile instead and be thankful, this can be a turning point in for your whole life. Be cheerful. Get into the spirit of Christ-mas wholeheartedly.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — With all that love and affection about you, see that you curb any inclination to feel a bit annoyed. Of course, there is work connected with this day but it should be joyful labor. Enjoy celebrations, parties. Smile.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Take care that in your desire to have everything at the peak of perfection you do not mar this beautiful day by being cross with loved ones. Make a special effort to be at your usually kind and loving best. Remember that Christ was born in a stable.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—It's fine to go to parties, make calls or visits this day, but be very careful while at the wheel of your car. Also make it a point to get your family in the happiest of moods so that this can be a wonderful day.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Think back upon the past Christmases that were so successful and follow these patterns for today's glorious holiday. Don't go overboard financially, however. Let everyone sing for his supper. Have fun.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—A day for real enjoyment. Keep away from big crowds and traffic. Be cozy with intimates, associates, admirers. P.M. fine for romantic leanings and quiet entertainment.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Nice day for being with a few choice friends and discussing the future, present trends, exchanging gifts, etc. Express your ideas and some fine alliances for the future can be formed now. P.M. be romantic.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — While you are enthused to get everyone to do just what you say, or think as you do, pause a moment and decide to be co-operative instead. You will get better results. Be affectionate with loved ones, romantic.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — There is a splendid chance now to influence some higher-up with your true humanitarian qualities and willingness to help others with their seemingly difficult problems. This will bring great benefits in the early future.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You now realize the true meaning of Christmas and will enter into the spirit of this holiday with real enthusiasm. Act positively and inspire others to do the same. Be joyful.

If your child is born today — The Michie Intelligent child born today is the type who will always act positively and win out, seemingly by sheer chance. Actually, every detail has been thought out. A leader is in this chart, so be very sure you give it fine an education as pocket-book will allow. There is a very successful career here and there will also be travel in foreign countries.

POWER FAILURE

TORONTO (CP) — Power failures ranging up to five minutes in length hit wide sections of Western Ontario Sunday. Officials of the Hydro - Electric Power Commission of Ontario said mechanical trouble between Barrie and Kitchener apparently was to blame. Affected were London, Sarnia, Windsor, Stratford, St. Marys, Seaforth, Galt and Kitchener.

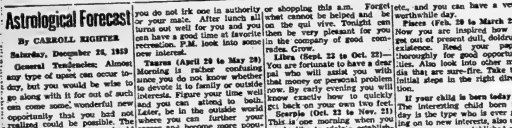
General Tendencies: Almost any type of upset can occur today, but you would be wise to go along with it for out of such can come some wonderful new opportunity that you had not realized could be possible. The early part of the day should find you watchful for this event. Then swiftly put into effect every new arrangement that applies, the happy tonight. Have a ball.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Attend to any real estate or financial matters in a.m. Be sure you do not irk one in authority or your boss. After lunch all turns out well for you and you can have a good time at favorite recreation. P.M. look into some new interests.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Morning is rather confusing since you do not know whether to devote it to family or outside interests. Figure your time well and you can attend to both. Later, be in the outside world where you can further your career and become more popular.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Saturday chores would only irk if you in a.m. Go out and visit, shop, make friends. Be sure to keep any previous appointments you have made. Tonight is then fine for getting your wardrobe in order, tending to health needs.



Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — While you want to be out for fun in a.m., it would be wiser to get duties out of the way first. Then improve others with your wisdom and give good advice where needed. P.M. tie off to some amusement that will relieve tensions.

Leo (July 24 to Aug. 21) — Avoid that altercation at home that is taking on serious proportions. Dress nicely and do about own personal business. Later, all is smoothed over and you can entertain at residence and have a fine time. Be happy.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Private worry need not stop you from keeping appointments etc., and you can have a very worthwhile day.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Now you are inspiring how to get out of present dull, doldrum existence. Read your paper thoroughly for good opportunities. Also look into other media that are sure-fire. Take the initial steps in the right direction.

If your child is born today ... The interesting child born today is the type who is ever going on to new interests, also up-setting many an established set-up. While this may be rather time-consuming, he enjoys being a most inquisitive mind and this procedure will bring forth a very dynamic adult. Here is a chart that is ideal for the active, interesting and popular.

Forget what cannot be helped and be of the quiet type. Tonight can be very pleasant for you in the company of good comrades. Greet.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — You are fortunate to have a friend who will assist you with that money or personal problem now. Early evening you will know exactly how to quickly get back on your own two feet.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) This is one morning when you would like to violate established rules. Until they are rescinded it is best you follow them to the letter. P.M. see those influential persons and you will get full co-operation.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get out of that frustrated feeling early, or you alone will suffer. This opens up new opportunities for you and you can start a definite upswing in all of your affairs. Be brave and you win out.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care you do not go off on a score or in the interim some jealous person could harm you where assets are concerned. P.M. is fine for being with good friends and having an enjoyable evening. Smile.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care you are not embroiling in some social going on between higher-up and an associate. Tend to own affairs. Be off to personal affairs, shopping,

Sunday School Lesson

Case of Practical Politics

By ROY L. SMITH

A strange principle seems to have operated throughout history in favor of moral movements. An ancient saying expressed it: "The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the Church." It is said that there is no way miracle in the matter, necessarily, but a man has to be willing to die for his belief to convince other men that he really believes.

Exact dates in connection with the history of the early Christian Church are somewhat rare, but we have some good reason to believe that the Christians were provided with their first martyr about six years following the death and resurrection of Jesus. Then, less than ten years later, one of the original band of disciples was killed with a sword, and with that the list of martyrs began to grow.

PAYING POLITICAL DEBT

Herod the Great had been one of the mightiest and most monstrous rulers the Jews ever had. The list of his crimes is a sickening one. But he was a friend of Rome, and never lost an opportunity to display his friendship for Caesar. If it could serve his own advantages in any way. Herod Agrippa, his grandson, was a true Herod. The story of his life is a lurid one, fast shifting of loyalties, and quite without scruples. He seems to have lived by a single rule: "Always play the sunny side of the street and make friends of the party in power."

Never really a religious man, he played politics with the Jews by defending their faith in the courts and in his private interviews with Caesar. Knowing that he had to keep them loyal to his personal ambitions, he made it his business to cater to their prejudices as long as it did not jeopardize his relations with Rome.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for December 27: GOD, OUR HELP." Acts 12.

Although he seems to have been rather well informed on matters of Jewish doctrine and history, he had no real interest in Jewish orthodoxy. But, when he discovered that, by defending orthodoxy, he could assure his own position, he was even more orthodox than the high priest.

To such a man, in any generation, the life or the good name of an honest man means nothing if the assassination of that man will promote his personal political ambitions. James, the disciple, was killed as a favor to the Jews, and many another disciple since that time has been sacrificed to some popular prejudice by a politician who hoped to win votes for the next election.

It was said of a certain swashbuckling politician in a midwestern city that "he is never really interested in the next generation—only in the next election."

BETWEEN SOLDIERS

There is something rather exciting in this week's lesson when it describes Peter "sleeping between two soldiers." It must have called for more than a little courage to go to sleep between armed men, with a man like Herod Agrippa in charge.

But this is the gift of a truly religious faith. The person who believes he has the friendship, and the co-operation, of God, is usually able to sleep a little better than the other people.

It is one thing to sleep comfortably and restfully in one's bed at home; it is another thing to sleep confidently in a strange town. But it takes something just a little divine to sleep between armed soldiers, in jail, with the prospect of death to follow the next day. The probabilities are that Peter could have slept well on his fishing boat on the sea of Galilee, for in that case he would have had nothing to fear but the elements. But to sleep under the black shadow of Herod Agrippa's unscrupulous ambition was another thing. And Peter's faith proved equal to the test.

OTHER PART OF STORY

It usually happens, in any great triumph of faith, that there is a chapter in the story that may not get told. That is the one which recites the experience of those who pray. "Many were gathered and praying," the Scripture says. And this seems to have been the explanation. Better to have a praying friend than a drag with the city administration.

Eisenhower Says Mid-May Date For Parley O.K.

Tuesday Meet May See A-Test Ban Extended

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower decided today that a mid-May summit conference in Paris will be satisfactory to the United States.

James Hagerty, White House press secretary, mentioned May 16 as agreeable. But he said a definite date depends upon consultations now in progress with Britain and France.

Eisenhower's decision on mid-May was reached in a telephone conference with State Secretary Christian Herter in Washington.

Herter, Defence Secretary Thomas Gates Jr., chairman John A. McCone of the Atomic Energy Commission and seven other officials are flying down from Washington Tuesday morning for what Hagerty called "a general discussion with the president of the international and defence field, including the nuclear program for 1960."

That was broad enough to cover talks about as expected extension of the U.S. ban on nuclear tests. This has been in effect 14 months and expires Dec. 31 unless the U.S. acts to retain it.

Food Poisoning Kills 2 Women

DETROIT (AP)—Two women died and 25 persons, including eight children, were stricken ill with food poisoning in Detroit Sunday.

Dead are Mrs. Anna Kahanak, 61, and Mrs. Isabella Tait, 79. Both women died shortly after admittance to hospitals. Of the others stricken, 19 were admitted to hospitals suffering from the effects and released.

Detective Sgt. Dave Harris of the homicide bureau said there was no reason for criminal alarm. There was no connection between the scattered attacks, Harris said. "In each case the trouble seemed to stem from food that had spoiled or that hadn't been properly prepared."

Only one of those taken sick had eaten in a restaurant.

Mrs. Kahanak was one of nine persons who fell ill six hours after eating a noon meal in her home. Mrs. Tait was one of three stricken after eating turkey and dressing at the home of Charles Zelch.

Gunman Makes Minister Drive To Montreal

OTTAWA (CP) — Police today were investigating the gunpoint abduction of a young Baptist minister from Ottawa to Montreal Sunday.

It was a tremendous thing to have the grace of God to rely on," Rev. Widdess Barry, 26-year-old minister of Alta Vista Church, said today of his four-hour drive with an "obviously emotionally disturbed" gunman.

Mr. Barry, from hometown St. Catharines, said the man jumped into his car as he stopped at an intersection on his way to morning services. The man, well-dressed and of medium stature, pulled out a gun and said: "Do what I tell you or you won't get hurt."

Mr. Barry, who graduated only last year from Central Baptist Seminary in Toronto, said the man into his car and "he almost got out "about two blocks from the church" and told him to get from him.

The minister said he tried to point out to the gunman that this "wouldn't solve his problems and that he should turn to God through faith."

The gunman, "using foul language," told him to speak only when spoken to. The rest of the trip was spent in silence.

Cyrus Eaton Says He Is Worried About U.S. Unpopularity in World

LAC BEAUPORT, Que. (CP)—Steel magnate Cyrus Stephen Eaton of Cleveland says he is concerned about the unpopularity of the United States in the world.

The Canadian-born industrialist said Sunday he felt there is a need for "profound humility" on the part of the Western camp.

The U.S. should recognize its shortcomings, which were colossal.

The U.S. government, he said, should be willing to tell other nations how to run their affairs.

Mr. Eaton, who has drawn world-wide attention by sponsoring the Pugwash, N.S., conferences—meetings of scientists and thinkers from Eastern and Western countries said he advocates total disarmament and feels the U.S. should act on disarmament instead of just talk about it.

He made the statements to newspapermen during a luncheon in his birthday luncheon. Mr. Eaton was 76 Sunday.

Mr. Eaton released for publication the text of a Dec. 24 letter from Premier Premier Khrushchev and e called reply to the letter.

Mr. Khrushchev thanked Mr. Eaton for sending him the documents of the Pugwash conference of scientists on the problems of biological and chemical warfare.

The Russian leader said he shares Mr. Eaton's confidence that the conference of scientists of various nations will result in further strengthening of international understanding.

Mr. Eaton received notice from V. Matskevich, Soviet minister of agriculture, that the Soviet government is presenting him with a horse for his birthday. Last year Mr. Khrushchev gave Mr. Eaton a troika—a Russian sled,

NORMAL ONTARIO LIFE DISRUPTED BY WILD WEATHER

Roads Turned Into Rink by Snow, Rain

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The weather's treachery disrupted normal life across most of Ontario as the province woke up today from the Christmas holiday weekend.

Only the northern sections escaped freezing rain and snow that garbled communications, turned highways into skating rinks and snarled the plans of homeward-bound holidayers.

The weather office in Toronto said continuing rain and colder weather today would add to the province's grief.

Most of the area was hardest hit. Ice-laden hydro lines snapped and thousands of suburban homes lost cold during the night.

Workers got up to a cold breakfast and faced a hazardous drive to their jobs in the city.

Only the road workers were blamed by police for many of the hundreds of traffic accidents during the Christmas holiday that killed 20 persons and left scores injured.

AIR TRIPS CANCELLED

Trans-Canada Air Lines hoped to resume normal operations this afternoon after having to cancel all flights in and out of Toronto International Sunday night because of freezing rain forming on aircraft wings.

An estimated 1,000 passengers were forced to wait out Sunday's bad weather, complicated by fog, or scramble for rail reservations. Another 1,000 planning to return to Toronto were stranded at various points across the continent because of similar weather in New York.

The weather office blamed Ontario's unruly weather on an intensive storm centre in Iowa. A mild little change was expected except that temperatures would hover over the whole of the province.

Town in Peril As Tug Explodes Near Gas Barge

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. (AP) For three hours it was touch and go in this northern California coastal town. A tug boat exploded next to a barge loaded with 60,000 gallons of high octane gasoline.

When the peril ended Sunday one man was missing and two were killed and another was burned. Four were pitched into the bay by the force of the blast.

The business district of Crescent City, a community of 2,750, was evacuated. Fishing boats put out to sea. Residents fled anchor. Many carried local residence.

The blast had the force of an earthquake in the waterfront area, one said, and was felt as far as 30 miles to the north.

RICHARD NIXON

NELSON ROCKEFELLER

Two U.S. Parties Trim Sails As Rockefeller Out of Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the Republican and Democratic parties strove today to exploit for a stunning political surprise the withdrawal of Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York from the contest for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960. Neither party had much to say in public about the problems posed for it by Rockefeller's "definite and final" announcement Saturday that he would not be a candidate and would not accept the vice-presidential spot.

One big power for the Republican party is the coming home drama into their convention opening in Chicago next July 25. It will be like a mystery novel of which every reader knows the ending. At present there appears to be nothing to prevent a first ballot nomination for Vice-President Richard Nixon. The only suspense lies in the choice of his running mate. And if political custom holds, Nixon and not the delegates will make that choice. He said yesterday it was too early to talk about the 1960 ticket.

For the Democrats, with their small army of aspirants, the problem is how to pick the best men to take on Nixon without ripping the party seams by fights over religion. Northern South issues and other matters when they meet in Los Angeles July 11.

Record 3 Quakes

NEW YORK (AP) — Three earth tremors originating 4,000 to 5,000 miles from here were recorded early today on the seismorgraph at Fordham University.

Rev. Joseph Lynch, university seismologist, said the tremors might have occurred in Kamchatka, near the Bering Sea.

The first tremor began at 2:32:32 a.m. EST and the others at 2:41:37 and 3:23:32.

Tough Bargaining Lies Ahead On Agenda for Summit Meet

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet party newspaper Pravda said Khrushchev will insist on talking about his total disarmament plan at the East-West summit meeting.

While the Soviet Union has agreed with the United States, Britain and France on a summit meeting in Paris next year at a date to be decided, the big hurdle is expected to be an agenda.

The tenor of the Soviet press indicates an uncompromising stand lies ahead on an agenda.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said today a long list of a summit meeting of more than 25 heads of government "is rare confusion."

Pravda says disarmament is an important subject and only statesmen invested with full powers can decide world peace problems.

The trade union newspaper Trud says "disarmament is the key to easing international tensions." Since then three months had gone by since Khrushchev unfolded his plans at the United Nations for total disarmament within four years. It is not the fault of the Soviet Union, Trud adds, that nothing has been done about it.

Pravada says "certain Western circles" fear that a thaw in the international climate would frustrate the arms power plans of the West — and that these plans are now being stepped up has

Take New Look At Ill Refugees Dymond Pledges

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Health Minister Dymond said today his department has taken a New Year's resolution to make it "a completely new look" at its files on sick refugees in European camps.

Only a limited number of sick refugees have been admitted to Canada, including the 18 families that arrived here recently and another 20 that landed Christmas Eve in Halifax and Saint John, N.B. Many immigrating families have been broken up because of sick members flown back to relatives in Europe.

"It's not human to break up families," said Dr. Dymond in an interview. "I'm opposed to it."

Elmer Fairclough, federal immigration and citizenship minister, said recently provincial approval was needed before Ottawa could give the go-ahead to sick refugees who would like to come to Canada.

"Of course the final decision is up to Ottawa," said Dr. Dymond.

The 38 refugees brought to Canada in the last few weeks, at least one person in each family was suffering from tuberculosis. It is believed there are about 2,700 empty sanatoria beds in Canada, 1,333 of them in Ontario.

SAFE STOLEN

TORONTO (CP) — Thieves stole a safe containing $16,773 in postage stamps, unemployment insurance stamps and $650 cash from a sub - post office here Christmas day. Francisco Perez, who lives in the family occupants of the combined store and dwelling, were not at home at the time.

Napanee Pastor And Wife, Three Young Trenton Men And Belleville Girl Killed

Christmas Night Crash Leaves Three Dead and Three Injured

The 1959 Christmas holiday weekend took a grim highway toll in the Quinte district as slippery road conditions contributed to accidents which killed seven persons and sent 11 others to hospital.

In addition there were many less serious accidents causing heavy property damage but fortunately not resulting in any serious injury.

Most serious of the four fatal accidents in the area was three miles west of Trenton on No. 2 highway where three Trenton young men, Ralph Jackson, 20; Robert Thompson, 18, and Gerald Cox, 28, died when the car in which they were riding went out of control and rolled off the highway striking a telephone pole.

Injured in the same accident were Richard Ostrom, 19; Donald Thompson, 20, brothers of the dead men, and Jack Peacock, 19, of Port Credit.

PASTOR, WIFE DIE

North of Napanee on Highway 41, a car driven by Rev. George Coulter of Napanee went out of control when he attempted to slow for traffic ahead. The car struck a tree, killing the driver and fatally injuring Mrs. Coulter who died later in Kingston General Hospital. Mrs. R. C. Laidlaw of Napanee and Mrs. Jackson of Madoc, is a daughter of the slain minister.

Just west of Belleville on Highway 2 at Jones Creek, a Belleville girl, Carolin Bowler, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bowler, 260 Dufferin Street, was fatally injured when the car in which she was riding left the road.

Injured in the same accident, Miss Bowler's parents and Miss Ruiter, 38, of R.R. 3 Belleville and Harry Ruiter, 16, also of R.R. 3 Belleville was the driver of the car.

Police said the accident occurred as the two families were returning to Belleville from the home of Mrs. Ruiter where they had enjoyed Christmas dinner. They were to have Christmas supper at the Bowler home. The car left the highway on the slippery pavement, slammed into once tree struck another tree and swung back on the highway.

BOY, 2, KILLED

East of Madoc on No. 7 highway a three-and-a-half-year-old boy was killed and four others were injured when another one car went out of control on the slippery pavement and collided another vehicle. The accident occurred about seven miles east of Madoc.

Dead is Lawrence Douglas Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Victor Thompson of Greenbelt Ave., Ottawa.

He was a passenger in a car driven by his father which went out of control and sideswiped another vehicle driven by John Bolsinger, 19, of Hastings.

Mr. Thompson was not hurt but his wife suffered internal contusions and is in serious condition in Belleville General Hospital. Another passenger, Mrs. Dale, 5, suffered an ankle injury.

Mr. Robinson suffered cuts to his head and face and concussion. Mrs. Mamie Robinson, 36, a passenger, received cuts and bruises to the head and is reported in serious condition in hospital.

RETURNING HOME

The Trenton accident which killed the three young Trenton men and sent three others to hospital occurred Christmas night as the party was returning to Trenton from Brighton where a Christmas visit had been paid to a sister of one of the car occupants.

Near Smithfield the car went out of control and crashed into the telephone pole, killing the three passengers in the rear seat.

Richard Ostrom managed to help.

While he was away a half ton truck skidded on the highway and slammed into the wreckage of the car containing the three dead and two injured men.

Donald Thompson was said to be in critical condition in Trenton hospital while Jack Peacock was in "fair" condition.

The accident west of Belleville on Christmas afternoon also was a promising career for 15-year-old Carolin Bowler who was a pupil of Queen Elizabeth Public School in which resulted in heavy property damages. Occupants of the two cars received minor scratches but fortunately no one went to hospital.

Belleville provincial police reported seven "reportable" accidents, along with a number of others where cars slithered off the highway and into the ditch.

Late yesterday afternoon a Montreal man, Peter Dennis, driving a new Ford Ranch wagon, had his car go out of control near the junction of 401 and No. 2 highway near Marysville and crash into a hydro pole.

There were no casualties but the car was damaged to the extent of nearly $4,000.

Furs or Feathers Have It All Over Fat When It Comes to Insulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you've developed a bit of padding, the natural kind around your middle, don't slink that your job keeps you out in the cold. Fat and down are both warm.

But isn't worth much as insulation. Who says so? Scientists whose studies have been abstracted for the U.S. defence department to use in polar operations. And how do the scientists know? From investigating Eskimos, that's how. Also reindeer, Arctic foxes and other "cold animals".

Fats and many another fact and theory can be learned in The Polar Bibliography, it contains digests of about 1,000 learned papers.

Back to fat and temperature.

From observation of the native Eskimos it would appear that the thickness of subcutaneous fat varies with the external temperature and activity without important relation to "cords for insulation".

In short, if you're fat it's because you eat too much and lie around too long. Such padding is no hazardous to your health in the wintry blasts.

Assuming that, understandably, "dogs are said to show chilling exposure to temperatures below 40 degrees centigrade", the papers brag that no healthy dog accustomed to the Arctic has ever been known to come to death. Fur or feathers, the paper concludes, have it all over fat or blubber when it comes to warmth.

Some other findings:

The thickness of vitamins don't help people withstand cold.

It's pretty hard to put out a fire by blowing ice and snow at it; so hard, in fact, that further experiments along this line were not encouraged.

When a man is quilling a sled over level snow, about the best compromise that can be made between speed and energy exhaustion avoided is two miles an hour for a 125-pound payload.

Prime Minister In Prince Albert For Holiday

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker renewed acquaintances Sunday with friends here after arriving from Saskatoon in his private railway car.

The prime minister received a life membership in the Prince Albert Kinsmen's Club Saturday, dropped the puck to open a Saskatchewan junior hockey game and attended a reception in his honor.

He spent Christmas day in Saskatoon, where he visited his mother, Mrs. Florence Diefenbaker, at the University of Saskatchewan hospital, and had dinner at his brother Elmer.

He left Prince Albert Sunday night and is scheduled to arrive in Ottawa early Tuesday.

They arrived Saturday from Saskatoon after a 90-minute stop-over visited his mother, Mrs. Florence Diefenbaker.

Headhunters Vow to Slay 100 Christians

MANILA, Philippines (Reuters) Police today were through remote Philippines mountains today for avenging tribal headhunters who have vowed to take 100 Christian heads.

Integot tribesmen in the Sierra Madre Mountains of northern Luzon Island were reported to have beheaded 12 persons in the last two months — farmers, miners and game hunters slain from ambush.

They are on a killing rampage to avenge the slaying of their chief last month by a soldier of the Philippine constabulary force.

The headhunters are said to be armed with rifles, shotguns, spears, bows and arrows.

583 Fatalities In United States Over Holiday

CHICAGO (CP)—Fatal traffic accidents saddened Christmas in the United States and Canada during the long holiday weekend.

An average of more than 450 persons killed every year are started at 6 p.m. local time tonight here.

An Associated Press compilation listed 471 traffic deaths, 42 deaths by fire and 70 miscellaneous fatalities for a toll of 583 deaths.

The weather played an important part, road safety experts declared. Blowing snow and ice-glazed highways made driving conditions hazardous.

Two Belleville Youths Held For Car Theft

Two Belleville youths, Walter Richards, 18, and Raymond Gaffney, 17, have been charged with car theft in this city after they were returned Saturday from near Ottawa, where they were captured following a police chase.

Cars belonging to Michael Anderson, Bleecker Drive, and also that of Robert Holmes, R.R. 2, Belleville, were stolen. The Holmes vehicle was badly damaged when it left the highway and struck an obstruction outside Ottawa.

After the accident the youths took off across fields and were captured by police after a foot chase of about four miles. They were returned to Belleville on Saturday.

Police say the car of Mr. Anderson was stolen Christmas night and later abandoned near Belleville Collegiate where the car of Mr. Holmes was taken from in front of 235 John St.

The youths were in provincial police in the Perth district led through to Belleville by the Belleville youths. About 2.30 Saturday morning police from that area called Belleville police to determine whether the car they were then holding had been stolen.

When informed it had been stolen a general alarm went out to the Perth-Ottawa area. Near Ottawa the Belleville car ignored a police roadblock and later was recovered when it left the highway.

Two police took out after the youths as they attempted to escape across country and after a chase of about four miles they were taken into custody.

Newcastle-to-Brighton Link In 401 to Be Open by Fall

TORONTO — Work on Highway 401 between Brighton and Newcastle continues, the Department of Highways of Ontario reports, in spite of cold weather conditions.

It is expected that the whole of the 45-mile section will be open for traffic from Newcastle to Brighton by next fall, with the section from Newcastle to Port Hope in use in late spring. Highway 401 near Newcastle is the present eastern end of Highway 401 from Toronto.

From Highway 30 north of Brighton, Highway 401 runs north of Trenton and Belleville to a point near Marysville, nearly 25 miles.

Closing the gap from Newcastle to Brighton will mean motorists Belleville will be able to drive for nearly 130 miles east from Highway 11 at Toronto, completely on Highway 401.

WORKING TO EAST

Work is also continuing on the uncompleted section of the highway between Marysville and the Highway 38 near Kingston. At Highway 38 the newly finished highway is bituminous pavement begins again and runs through to Gananoque, a distance of about 23 miles. Newly rebuilt on the east lane is the section of Highway 401 from Gananoque to Crystal Beach and from there north to Prescott is an entirely new portion of the Trans-Provincial Highway, covering 18 miles, the south lane of which was opened earlier this fall by Highways Minister Fred M. Cass, Q.C.

Much of the highway east from Prescott is also under construction.

The new section to be opened between Newcastle and Brighton will eliminate a great deal of congestion on Highway 2 which winds along the north shore of Lake Ontario. It will carry the heavy, non-local traffic past Brighton, Colborne, Grafton, Cobourg, Port Hope, Welcome, Newtonville and Newcastle, reducing the driving time by approximately half an hour.

Over and under Highway 401 between Brighton and Newcastle will be nearly 40 structures, the largest being a steel and concrete bridge over the Ganaraska River at Port Hope. Access to all the towns and villages will be provided for by interchanges on Highway 401 and the highway has been bridged at several points to carry township roads.

40 CONTRACTS LET

Nearly 40 contracts have been let over the past three years by the Department of Highways for construction, carried on under the supervision of the Department's District Office at Port Hope. The District Office is also in charge of the construction of a by-pass on Highway 7 north of Peterborough.

Even with several contracts still to be let, construction figures are staggering: more than eight million cubic yards of rock and earth to be excavated and placed; more than 30 miles of sewer(ks); culvert material in-stalled; more than 30 miles of bridge piping to be put up, in addition to 30 miles of four-inch reinforcing steel, gravel and crushed rock concrete for the base and over the paving and millions of gallons of water for compaction.

Estimated cost for the 45-mile section is about $30,000,000.

In addition to the obvious effect Highway 401 will have in the Brighton-Newcastle district of making road travel more pleasant, the opening of the new highway will also free the very important tourist area along the north shore from heavy, noisy through traffic, increasing its attractiveness as one of Ontario's most famous resort sections.

Corby's Workers Enjoy Banquet

Local 96 of the Distillery, Rectifying and Wine Workers' International Union of America, A.F.L.-C.I.O.&C.C.L. last week played host to Corby workers and friends at a banquet held in Corby's cafeteria.

The dinner was catered to by the Canniffon and Corbys Women's Auxiliary of Local 96. President, A. Austin, presided over the banquet. G. Macdonald, assistant distillery manager; R. Farquharson, personnel manager; F. Bloomfield, shift supervisor, spoke briefly on behalf of the staff. Entertainment by Azgur, barrister, and Past President of the Local.

Entertainment for the evening consisted of singing and tap dancing.

Door prizes donated by the Corby Distillery were won by Alexander, Guy Southerland, Robert Tyndale, Helen Hatzic, Lucy Skelly and Lyle Skinner.

By request of the company, shift employees were allowed to partake in the festivities by having a hot meal on the job.

The evening ended by oldtime square dances, and again the music was furnished by various local members.

Best Christmas Ever Had Say Residents of Home

"Take it from us, we have not to stay "at home" with their been here for the past few years, and this was the best Christmas we ever had."

Two inmates of the Hastings County Home for the Aged on sacrifice, Rev. Coleman, Burial Rev. Trent Road authored the roasted potatoes, hot mince pie, statement, and there was deep Christmas pudding, fruit jellies, sincerity in their voices. relishes etc.

Two of the hardest-working people in the Home, Superintendent and Matron Mr. and Mrs. Ken Yorke, modestly admitted their elderly charges "had a good time".

In several instances, they said, some of the "folks" turned down invitations to go to relatives for the holiday, preferring to stay "at home" with their friends.

The festive 203 inmates sat down to an old-fashioned Christmas dinner of roast turkey, cranberry sauce, roasted potatoes, hot mince pie, Christmas pudding, fruit jellies, relishes etc.

Six brightly illuminated Christmas trees adorned various parts of the Home.

There were presents for everyone.

City and district organizations saw to it that those who tions were kept busy during the would through circumstances be forgotten, received friendly Christmas gifts.

Entertainment-wise it was the jolliest Christmas in years. For two weeks previous to Christmas, various church and service organizations from all parts of the district gave concerts, programs and other forms of Yuletide diversion.

On Christmas morning just after breakfast the "guests" were given bags of candy, fruit and nuts. Superintendent Yorke passed the cigars and cigarets to the men.

Later the presents were dispensed in a happy holiday atmosphere.

On Wednesday evening of this week, the inmates will be entertained by a choral group from Queenborough.

And only those who loved me most
Will miss me.
The pain of parting without farewell
Is more each day we miss you more
Than words can tell
But they alone know the aching heart
Has healed;
But they alone know the aching heart
Has healed;
But they alone know the aching heart
Has healed;

Will Attend Convention In Washington

TRENTON—Doreen Cannons, daughter of Mrs. "Bud" Young, 34 Crown Street, Trenton, and Marilyn Bonter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Dow, 18 Crown Street, left by motor on Sunday for Hamilton where they will join several other young people from eastern Canada, and travel by bus to Washington, D.C., to attend a Miss Youth for Christ "Capitol Teen Convention." Rallies will be held in the National Guard Armory in Washington. The delegates to the convention have been invited to sing around the gigantic Christmas tree on the White House lawn.

General chairman of the convention will be the Honorable Frank Carlson, Senator from Kansas. Other speakers will be Dr. Billy Graham, Dr. Bob Pierce, founder and president of World Vision, an organization devoted to aiding the orphans in Korea and other war-torn countries, and Dr. Ted Engstrom, president of Youth for Christ, International.

Opposes Boost For Employees Of Municipality

TRENTON — R. J. Whitley, who was elected to town council after an absence of some years, in the recent municipal election, has stated bluntly to the press that civic employees will receive no pay increases in 1958 if he has anything to do about it. Mr. Whitley also takes exception to the ten o'clock coffee break for the employees at the municipal offices. He says that it is ridiculous for them to come to work at 8:30 or 9:00 o'clock, go home for lunch at 12 and enjoy a coffee break at 10 o'clock. Mr. Whitley also claimed out at the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board static, that the members were holding up building in the town by refusing to issue building permits individual to build on lot which do not meet with the specifications of town planning.

Three Accident Victims Buried This Afternoon

TRENTON — Christmas Day brought tragedy into three homes in Trenton with the deaths of Ralph Jackson, aged 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Jackson, 11 Dundas Street, Gerald Croston, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Croston, 7 Stella Crescent and Robert Thompson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, 169 Marmora Street, in a traffic mishap which sent three other youths to hospital. Thompson, 20, Richard Ostrom, 19, and Jake Peacock, 19, to hospital.

Ralph and Gerald Croston were first cousins a double funeral was held today at 1:30 p.m. at the Weaver Funeral Home The funeral of Robert Thompson was held at 2 p.m.

The accident occurred around 7 o'clock on the evening of Christmas Day. The boys had enjoyed the holiday dinner with their families and had left to go to Brighton in Jake Peacock's car to visit the Ostrom boys' sister, Mrs. John Hamm, R.R. 4, Brighton. They were returning along Highway No 2 when, according to the survivors the car struck an icy patch of road. Minutes west of Trenton, went into a spin and struck a telephone pole, shearing off the pole which struck the left side of the car, crashing through and killed the occupants of the back seat instantly.

Donald Thompson, the most seriously injured of the survivors, was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital. On Saturday he was removed to Kingston General Hospital On Sunday it was reported that he had regained consciousness and was able to talk, but he had not as yet been told that his brother Robert had been killed in the crash. Mr. James Thompson, the youth's father, said that he had been advised by the doctors in Kingston that his son might have to undergo surgery for a spinal condition caused by the accident.

Richard Ostrom was released from the hospital on Sunday.

Jake Peacock, who was driving the car at the time of the accident, had come down from Port Credit, where he works, to spend Christmas with his mother, Mrs. R. Dreager, 5 Stella Crescent, and his step-father. He is reported to be in good condition in Trenton hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson were notified of the death of their son Ralph around nine o'clock in the evening. Ralph had recently become an employee of the Dell Gelatin Plant in Trenton. He had previously spent a short time in the army, being discharged because of a minor physical handicap. He had been attending school in Trenton and was very popular in the neighborhood.

Slippery Roads Keep Police On Alert

TRENTON — The Trenton Police Department was kept busy on Christmas Day investigating and checking a number of minor accidents, the cause of which, in the majority of cases, was the slippery condition of town streets.

On December 24, a car, driven by William Roger Rose, 17, of 222 Dundas Street East, escaped from cred damages to the estimated extent of $500, when the driver swerved to avoid a car approaching from the opposite direction and slammed into the cement abutment of the subway on Trenton Street. The driver escaped with a shaking up.

On Saturday, a car driven by Robert James Campbell, Jr., of 3rd Avenue in Trenton, slid on icy pavement on Dundas Street and struck a pole. Light snow was falling at the time of the accident.

On Sunday, a Town of Trenton truck, driven by Robert Webb, 11 Wade Street, went out of control and struck a concrete curb standard on 3rd Avenue, causing slight damage to the truck.

CAR ON FIRE

Trenton fire department was called to the home of Jack Carpenter, 7 Dundas Street West on this Monday morning. Mr. Carpenter had started his car and returned to his apartment for a few minutes. When he returned to the car he found that it was on fire and called the fire department. By the time the flames were extinguished, the car was burned in the radiator.

Two Canadians Shipwrecked In Bahamas

MASTER POINT ISLAND, Bahamas (AP)—Two Canadians and three Americans en route from Florida to Nassau were shipwrecked on desolate beaches after their sailboat ran aground, it was reported Sunday.

They were aboard the 30-foot sloop Sandpiper, which dashed against a reef Christmas Day. The sloop was splintered in two pieces. Three of the persons rode the wreckage while one other, Bill Curry reached another, about 1,000 feet distant.

They are identified as Mr. and Mrs. Archie E. Forfar, Stouffville, Ont., owners of the sloop; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and Freed Hackerman, Forest, Ohio and Curry, Dunedin, Fla.

The shipwreck and rescue were reported by Roy Utter, a radio operator and employee of Seventh Parker who has a home on an 8,500-acre tract here.

The survivors were taken to Parker's house Saturday where they were fed, given clothing and shelter until Sunday when they left by plane for Nassau.

Miami Pilot Goes on Trial For Aiding Indonesia Rebels

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The trial of Allan Lawrence Pope, American pilot charged with flying a bomber for Indonesian rebels, opened here today and was resumed until Jan. 2 to consider defence protests.

The 29-year-old American, who flew combat missions in the Korean War, was captured May 18, 1958, after his B-26 was shot down over the Banda Sea during the rebellion in Sumatra and Celebes.

Charges against him include helping enemies of the state and carrying arms and ammunition. Conviction on either charge could mean the death sentence.

Pope's Indonesian lawyer, appointed by the court, challenged the validity of the trial. He also protested he had not been given time to prepare his case as the English translation of the charges was delivered to him the only two days ago.

Storm Hammers U.S. Mid-West

CHICAGO (AP) — Winter's most severe storm hammered the Mid-West and Great Lakes States mid-week today, stranding motorists and curtailing travel.

Blizzard conditions prevailed in some areas in the path of the storm. Heavy snow and strong winds from Kansas northward through the Dakotas, eastern Nebraska and northeastward into western Iowa and southwestern Minnesota.

The storm, which raised the coldest weather of the season, piled up speed as it moved into the Great Lakes. Falling snow, driven forward by wind gusts of 35 to 50 miles an hour, cut visibility and created hazardous driving conditions.

Obituary

MICHAEL FREDERICK HEALEY
Tweed
(Centrefield)

The funeral of Michael Frederick Healey of Tweed who died at Belleville General Hospital on December 19th was held from the Charles Cassidy Funeral Home to St. Carthagh's R.C. Church where solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Dean C. E. Baker.

The Rev. W. P. Healey of Marmora was deacon and Rev. C. R. Boland of Stirling sub-deacon. Rev. Peter Murphy was master of ceremonies and the Rev. J. Trainor of Madoc was in the Sanctuary.

Interment was in St. Edmund's Cemetery, Stoco with Tom St. Kelly, Willie Lessig, W. R. Hamilton, Harold Varty, Justin Fleming and Vincent Healey acting as bearers.

Mr. Healey was stricken with a heart attack at his home some five days before his death. He had appeared to be in the best of health and his death was a great shock to his family and friends.

Fifty-eight years of age, he was a son of the late William Healey and Margaret Ann Stacc.

He was a prosperous Stoco farmer until his retirement in 1958, at which time he purchased a home in Tweed and opened an insurance business in which he was actively engaged at the time of his death.

The late Fred Healey had numerous friends in Hungerford township, and although he was never a member of municipal council, he was vitally interested in municipal affairs. He was a past president of Centre Hastings High School Area Board, and three years ago presented a petition to have the township nomination meeting. He was a member of the Knights of Tweed Council, Knights of Columbus and during his long residence in Stoco was a faithful member of St. Edmund's Church and The Holy Name Society. Clear coming to Tweed, he attended St. Carthagh's R.C. Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Josephine Brennan, three sons and four daughters: Kevin, Madoc; Mrs. Gerald Bowling (Joan), Stoco; Mrs. Rosemary Tweed; Paul, Napanee; Mrs. Lynn Thorndilson (Anne), Brockville; Mrs. Raymond Lindsay and Mrs. Bernard Stockham (Maureen), Detroit. Mr. Healey's only brother, Casey, resides in Monrovia, California.

Departments 'Sanitized' Too Heavily

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of experts has decided that the Defence Department, education and welfare is "over-sanitized."

That means it has too many rest rooms.

The survey showed the department had a dozen rest rooms on each of its five floors. They were spacious and quite unexpected. It was decided to close half of them and convert them into offices for the conference rooms and file rooms.

GET RUSSIAN AID

LONDON (Reuters) — The Soviet Union will supply Indonesia with arms worth $ 11 e s. bulldozers, river boats, geodesical instruments and other equipment under the terms of a contract signed Tuesday, the Soviet news agency Tass reported from Jakarta. Tass said the contract relates to the survey of waterfalls, river surveys and the building of a road on the island of Kalimantan, Borneo.

Breeder, Judge Of Dogs Dies During Flight

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. M. Eileen McEachren, one of Canada's foremost dog judges and daughter of Col. R. S. McLaughlin, founder and chairman of General Motors of Canada Ltd., died early today aboard an airliner flying from Toronto to Bermuda.

Mrs. McEachren apparently collapsed from a heart attack while the Trans-Canada Air Lines plane was just beginning to climb.

Owner of the Tallteam Kerry Blue kennels in suburban Toronto, Mrs. McEachren took both the top dog show and the best Canadian-bred prizes with a her Finale at this year's Canadian National Exhibition dog show. For the last 25 years she has had international recognition as a breeder and judge.

She was a leading Canadian horsewoman until a 1949 accident paralyzed her for a while, and was also active in the Canadian women's open golf championship. A well-known amateur artist, she was also an art collector and a leading supporter of Canadian artists and theatre.

As a young girl she was a concert dancer and appeared on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

50 Natives Dead, 1,000 Hurt As 2-Hour Battle Climaxes Bloody South Africa Holiday

WELKOM, South Africa (AP) — About 3,000 Africans fought an hour-long battle Saturday in a mine-compound near this town in the Orange Free State. Police finally used armored cars to break it up.

More than 50 Africans were injured in the fighting. Police said nobody was killed in the big brawl that resulted from the death of one African in an earlier fight.

The battle climaxed a bloody Christmas holiday in the Union of South Africa. About 50 persons were reported killed and nearly 1,000 injured in two days in shootings stabbings and assaults in various places.

Police made repeated charges with batons and then drove armored cars among the warring factions to end the mine compound. The police cars were stoned and some headlights were damaged.

Think Kassem May Be Moving Troops to Prevent Revolt Rather Than to Attack Iran

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Monday, December 30, 1958 3

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Reports of unrest sweeping southern Iraq roused speculation today that Premier Abdel Karim Kassem may be moving troops into the area to counter a threat of revolt rather than to launch an attack against Iran.

Iraqui tradesmen crossing the border from Basra into Iran said opposition to Kassem's regime is mounting, with tribesmen arming farmers and other civilians for an open revolt. There was no way of determining the accuracy of the reports.

One merchant said a demonstration had been staged against Kassem in the Iraqui village of Amersh and anti-Kassem leaflets distributed.

Unconfirmed reports also of new Iraqi troop movements west of the frontier above Khorramshahr.

Frontier spokesmen reported movements on the Iraqi side of the Iran-Iran frontier raised fears Iran that Kassem might be planning military action in support of his claim Iranian occupied by Iran adjacent to the Shatt-al-Arab Estuary. Reliable sources said Iranian divisions along the frontier as well as in Azerbaijan, on the Soviet border, had been put on the alert.

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters) — The Iranian Air Force today has advised Iran to use modified civilian airliners to ferry disputed border territory near the all-important Abadan oil refinery, usually well-informed sources report.

The sources said the U.S. and British warnings were made so as to avoid any interruption of the flow of oil from Abadan.

The official view here is that any troubles provoked by Iraq, an amicable solution will be possible.

AP Editor Dies

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — George Turner, 73, former Associated Press editor who helped supervise coverage of Florida news stories in the 1920s and '30s, died here Sunday.

He served as supervisor of the eight general desk before becoming biographical editor and library chief in 1939. He had put in nearly 32 years with the AP before his retirement in 1942.

A Futile Battle

We see that a college professor at Long Island University in the United States recently resigned from his position due to the pressure being exerted by ex-veterans' groups and a few politicians. It seems that in his youth this man gave up his American citizenship to become a Nazi propagandist some 20 years ago.

Needless to say this was hardly a commendable thing to do in view of historical judgment as to the worth of the Third Reich to the betterment of mankind. But we cannot help but doubt that the current action against this man forms any commendable contribution to history either.

The professor, one Edward C. Stittler, resigned his position, despite the university's stand to keep him on its staff. This was a most commendable action to take in order that that institution might be saved from further embarrassment engendered by the actions of these veterans' groups and others whose main asset must be placed in the category of emotional diatribe.

Certainly their action indicates that the veterans must be forgetting what they fought for in the Second World War - - - the freedom of the individual and justice for all. The fact that Mr. Stittler has stated his youthful beliefs have been abandoned and that he desires to fulfill the responsibilities of a citizen within a presumably democratic state of society have not met with much consideration.

We are not, of course, in a position to say whether the professor has supported this statement by his actions or not. But we suspect that he has the inasmuch as he has had the courage to resign his position to save the position of his university.

By their action we feel that those responsible for this turn of events have indicated that the battle fought for freedom and the integrity of the individual between 1939 and 1945 was a futile one. For they have reverted to the basic manoeuvres of the "brownshirts" of Hitler's regime in condemning a man without fair judgment and resorting to emotional mob hysteria to effect their ends.

Mr. Stittler was employed for three months. No mention was made in the press report of any other reason for his dismissal other than because of this one, black mark of years past. The fact that the university, which is supported by state funds, refused to dismiss him seems proof enough that he was carrying out his work quite satisfactorily and leading a life becoming one who is a professor.

The entire incident is rather a sad and sorry affair; sorry because Mr. Stittler is not being given a fair chance by people to whom the attitudes of fair play is supposed to be something worth fighting for; and because this has become another incident which indicates that many of what are the ideals of a democratic way of life have been slowly undermined through cheap thoughts, cheap words, and cheap deeds, in the very land which is presumed to be the stronghold for these ideals.

We may have won the battle against the Nazis 15 years ago but are we not waging the battle amongst ourselves today? It seems to be a futile battle if we cannot maintain democratic ideas within our own society.

A Little Confused

Dr. Brock Chisholm has us confused. We followed his reasoning with little difficulty when he denounced Santa Claus, but his latest crusade against politicians leaves us hopelessly bewildered. Dr. Chisholm says that, though "an unbalanced politician can be much more dangerous than any (airplane) pilot" politicians are not required to pass tests like those given pilots to prove themselves "intelligent, sane and well balanced." He wants this condition remedied. The banishment of all politicians who are not sane, intelligent and well balanced might be considerably more difficult than ridding the world of Santa Claus; nevertheless, we should never condemn Dr. Chisholm for merely setting himself a difficult target. What we cannot understand is what use intelligent, sane and well balanced politicians would be, if, as he says later in the same address, "it's naive to expect politicians to lead the people; politicians will follow the people, follow where the votes lead." If this is true, what seems to be needed is not tests for politicians but tests for voters.

Don't Bottle Up All Your Emotions

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Another "model mother" has gone it. It happens quite a few times a year. This time a "model mother" in Connecticut killed her three children, 'to the utter consternation of all her friends and neighbors.

A model mother, as you may know, is one who is always calm and quiet, never shouts at her children, patiently endures their whims and waywardness.

She is usually held up as an example of all a mother should be — this tender and smiling creature). Yet, in an astonishing number of cases, her children grow up to be disturbed and rebellious than the offspring of a screaming mother.

The reason is that fears and resents most of all are hidden feelings, which he can sense in a parent who never gives them free expression. A child can cope with shouting or anger or even nagging, for these are emotions out in the open; what makes him uneasy and troubled are the evasions and hostilities which the mother never permits herself to express.

It is only in rare cases, of course, that this repression builds up to the point of emotional explosion that the parent is driven to the final tragedy of child murder. But it happens.

In an interesting book published a few years ago, called "Paradoxes of Everyday Living," a child psychologist included a chapter dealing with the neurotic child in the "happy" home.

He pointed out that the quiet, polite, well-organized home is not necessarily the happy one; and, contrariwise, that children who grow up in homes where a great deal of emotion is openly expressed do not seem to be hurt by it.

I know many parents who think their children are "well behaved" when they are merely repressed; who confuse surface politeness with warmth of heart; who imagine that good social manners imply sound character. Such parents are usually in for a rude awakening when the children begin to express their turbulence of adolescence.

Please do not write to tell me that I am condoning bad manners, or shouting, or screaming, or rude behavior. There is no place for any unattractive traits. I am simply pointing out that their opposites are not necessarily good; that "model mothers" might bottle themselves and their children more if they let themselves go occasionally. If they could get some of the ugly feelings we all have at times.

Self-control is an admirable virtue, but it carried to an immoderate degree, it must in the end lead to a dangerous loss of all control.

INGERSOLL, ONT.

This thriving and pretty town in Oxford county, long known for the excellence of its cheese product, was named for Sir Charles Ingersoll, a United Empire Loyalist, who settled in the district in 1793. He was appointed the first postmaster in 1831.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MEETING FOLKS

One of the greatest pleasures of life is the thrill that always follows a meeting of something new. We all get stale brains, stale hearts, stale bodies. And when that time comes, no matter what you are doing — move. Move away from your business, your house, your self. Change circulates, stirs and sets new currents allowing!

In my travels across the country I have seen sights that writers and their powers of description and imagination have only traced. But my greatest happiness has come from making new acquaintances — meeting new Folks.

I shall never cease to marvel over the wisdom of the great Creator in making every human from a different mold.

No matter where I go, I see and learn from new folks. And how I would like to meet you folks over here by reading these everyday little talks. How I should like to know you, for I would learn something from you. We would "compare notes." We would weigh our experiences. We would grow in sight of each other.

Once recent summer I stood and watched a great mountain road pound like white, streaked bread upward into nearly three miles of space, but I felt so myself: glorified marvelous as it is, it does not compare with one human being, living, loving, who walks unpretentiously toward a grand eternity.

Never get the idea that time, place and folks are ordinary and commonplace. There are people in your town and mine, whom we pass every day on the street, who have it in their power to lift our life to new existence. Why not walk up to some of them and "get acquainted"? I like Folks. Don't you?

One of the best bits of industrial news that has come Belleville's way for many years is the fact that the Belleville Knit Goods Hosiery Shoe Company, better known as the Rolling Mills, has been incorporated in a large merger or iron companies with a capital of $1,000,000. Particularly interesting to Belleville people is the fact that the new industry will be installed in the local plant, the output will be increased to three times what it is now, and before long the works will be running night and day. Mr. P. J. Smith will remain here as manager for the new company.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Paul of Bowmanville are visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Miller of Toronto are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carter.

High Brass Gets Gravy

Baltimore Sun

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, did not feel that he had placed himself under obligation to the Martin Company, airplane and missile manufacturers, when he spent three weeks in the Bahamas at the expense of the company and took along his wife, family friends and his fat-faced brass. Nor, we imagine, did Admiral Arthur Radford, other Martin Company guests drawn from the Pentagon and the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines.

That is perhaps the trouble. For the fact is that the Martin Company did not seek to charge off the cost of the junket to its business. To the company, if not to the high brass, these kindnesses were related to its relations with the Navy.

And if the perceptions of the high brass are so blunted in a case like this, what are their subordinates to think, right down the line to the corporals and the buck privates? We all know what they are going to think, and what they think is not going to be flattering or good for morale. Appearances count; and to use the word "bribery" in this high brass has set "a bad example."

Buying Worm May Yet Turn

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

The flummery which increasingly surrounds modern merchandising is taking the customer further and further away from the old-fashioned opportunity to buy for reasons of price, design and quality.

News and more devices of a dubious nature are being employed to exert an irrational influence upon the consumer's judgment. They are many, and varied — "gifts" attached to each consumer good or service purchased or contained in boxes of soap flakes, the quadrennial trading stamps and assorted "prizes" with or without contests. We are well on the way to the day when the merits of well-to-eat carpets will be decided only in terms of size and color of the sofa which will be placed in it as a "set" — meaning, of by the simplicity of a gland pep-up tonic with sugar between the two halves of one bun-by the equivalent of two nine-by-twelve rugs.

The day could come, and sooner than most merchants think, when the consumer will discover the defects in this marvellous system of frills — that he is stuck with a lot of "gifts" and those extras that he does not want, that he is paying more and more for something he does not want. And when this era of enlightenment returns, the merchants who refrains from trafficking in these gimcrack devices, supported by the unadorned desire to offer the best possible goods and service at the lowest possible prices may find his establishment crowded with customers bored and tired of the circus atmosphere in retailing.

Even now the technique of trying to make consumers believe that something is something it is nothing is so widespread and the laws governing it involved in so much controversy and so many notices ought to be examined by a parliamentary committee at the first opportunity.

What Should Doctors Tell?

Earnie Observer

Dr. A. Dickson Wright, vice-president of the Royal College of Surgeons says it is importing to tell a cancer patient that he cannot be cured and is about to die. This has caused a whole new field of discussion on the matter of how much a patient should know and should not be told.

There are those physicians who will painstakingly explain a patient's ills to him in the hope that if he knows what is wrong with him he will be more co-operative and more resigned to treatment. There are other doctors who follow the practice of telling the patient only the least possible. Then there are those who tell a lie bold and who have the capabilities to carry through with it. There are others whose nervous system could not stand the shock.

One doctor told me that the doctors who would bluntly tell a patient his case is few. Even if the doctor was convinced that the disease with which the patient was suffering was incurable, the doctor would probably be by the hope the Army keep striving to effect a cure or to provide a temporary respite as possible for the patient. He might suggest to the patient to go to the Mayo Clinic to see if doubts if he would be more pressed to do so.

What bothers me in this debate is what happens in the case of the patient who is told. But there has been an intimation, to the patient's relatives that he is not too far distant? The patient is bound to suspect that the doctors, who-bogus facial appearances of his kin that something serious surrounds his condition.

If a patient has the spirit to withstand the worst information about his case one is inclined to think he would appreciate it since he would be able to bear his sickness if he knew just what was wrong.

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the TV coverage of one of the great "set" football games of the season, the half-time interval entertainment was being staged by a famous American high school band and drill corps of marchers and majorettes. It was a fine show, the same old stuff.

But I was delighted to observe one pleasantly fat little girl among the majorettes who was not trying to look thin all the time. She had a bellagged waist like all her sisters, and this she waved and waggled just one beat behind the rest, so that when their waists were down, hers was up. And so on.

She caught everyone's attention to her in my living room, and an elderly neighbor, a retired judge, who had dropped in for the game, studied her performance for a while.

"Oh her," said he, "reats the fat and symbol of the truth that you can't regiment all the human species. Most of us, yes, But in this stage of human society, when the human race is being assembled by hundreds of millions into the semblance of ants, and when, in consequence, ants are becoming to regimentation only a species, like us, that refuses to be regimented, we can rejoice in the spectacle of that little fat girl bulling up the whole show and making monkeys out of her thousand school-fellows by bulging in a basically human fashion."

As the half-time hour ended, there she was, hopping high-footed in the vanishing parade, out of step again.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

PEOPLE WHO KNOW THEY HAVE WEAK HEARTS SHOULD SLOW DOWN

Mr. R. B. S., a healthy, semi-retired business man, wrote to me:

"In business, I tried to analyze each process in advance, so I always believed that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

"We read and hear about so many perfectly well people who just drop dead from heart trouble. It possible I would like to use my own 'ounce of prevention' to prolong our lives if possible."

Then he outlined the way he eats and lives; a husky breakfast, skimpy lunch, solid dinner. Sometimes a "small martini," never more than one highball in the evening, from one to not more than four cigarets a day, sunbathing, moderate but regular activity like gardening, cutting the grass, and so on. He is 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs 170 pounds overweight, not much.

He likes butter — and likes it on a pair of rolls and a pound of steak he has baked potato. So, he asks, "What about cholesterol?"

Let me say one thing at the outset: Yes, many "unexpected" deaths occur from heart trouble. However, most of these "unexpected" cases are of people who knew for some time that their hearts weren't up to par.

Very particularly, I can think of one physician, and a very good one, who collapsed in his own driveway one night and died there. It was a shock to all who knew him, of course, and it was, to many people, including members of his patients, a surprise.

Yet my friend, and he knew, that his electrocardiograms had not been good for a long time. He knew, under the present circumstances, have been other signs that he overworked, and that whatever reasons, he chose to keep going full speed, working until all hours, getting up at all hours for emergencies. And one night all this caught up with him.

I've known some people quite like this casualty, who were aware that their hearts were weak, yet by their own choice insisted on living at the same rapid pace, on the theory that it was better than slowing down.

Such an idea, to me, is utterly ridiculous.

And there are people who are convinced, for some reason, real or imagined, that they have a "heart trouble" and thereafter insist on behaving like semi-invalids.

That, I think, is just as ridiculous.

I say that I've digressed quite far. I'll answer the questions of R. B. S. when I write Molly Morrow.

But I wanted to make clear that these cases of people "dropdies by suddenly without warning" are not nearly as common as one supposes. True, a clot or embolism can bring death without warning to a person who is, to the best of anyone's knowledge, in perfect health. It does sometimes happen. But it is the exception, not the rule. Most of the time we have clear forewarning.

By the same token, we most certainly can take the "ounce of prevention" and correct the hearts and prolong our lives. So we'll go into that later.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can prevention occur at any time during the menstrual cycle?—J.P."

It usually occurs about midway between periods, because that is the usual time for the ovum, or egg, to come from the ovary. Because of peculiarities or irregularities in individuals, it is impossible to make any general rule that will be true for everyone.

Food Output Beats Stork

Financial Post

There's some Christmas cheer in the report of a special study of the U.S. Census Department. It shows that in the last 19 years the population has been outgrowing soaring population growth in several underdeveloped countries. This could mean that has outgrown the predictions of future continent-wide famines and shortages may prove to be exaggerated.

There are some solid reasons for such optimism.

In western countries food production has expanded enormously since the beginning of the century, despite the fact that the human population has shrunk by more than half. New and better varieties of crops, methods, better chemicals for control of weeds and pests and finally much better ways of storage are the answer.

Now thanks to the scientific know-how introduced by the Colombo and other plans, food production in the less developed countries is beginning to expand, too. With up-to-date methods and ease to handle and ship many large areas, now seriously underfed, will be encouraged to become self-supporting or nearly so. Gloomy old Malthus, who said that the world population would have exhausted its food supplies long before this, would have been amazed.

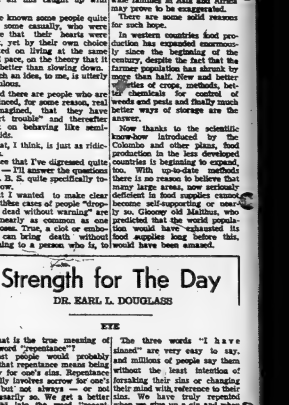
DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

EYE

What is the true meaning of the word "repentance"?



Most people would probably say that repentance means that we are sorry for one's sins. Repentance usually involves sorrow for one's sins, but it is not always or must necessarily so. We get a better insight into the word "repentance" when we go to the New Testament and examine the Greek word "metanoeo" which means "I repent."

The basic meaning of this Greek word is "to change one's mind." Repentance, therefore, is not just being sorry for one's sins or just forsaking one's sins but completely changing one's mind with reference to one's sins.

The three words "I have sinned" are very easy to say, and millions of people say them without the least intention of forsaking their sins or changing their mind with reference to their sins. We have truly repented only when we have changed our mind with reference to its desirability and value.

Five Baby Boys Born Christmas Day in Hospital

Santa Claus had a good deal of competition in the Belleville area Christmas Eve from another "flying delivery service" — the Stork.

Belleville-General Hospital reports five babies, all boys, were delivered in the hospital by "Mr. Stork" on Christmas Day.

The first "Christmas Baby" was Bradley Donald Rose and he arrived at 12.52 a.m. Christmas morning. Bradley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Rose, 140 Catharine Street.

The second Christmas "pudnik" was Burton Ralph Thompson. He arrived at 3.23 a.m. Christmas morning, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thompson, 81 West Bridge Street.

The third Christmas baby arrived at 9.47 a.m. and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Sills, R. R. 5, Belleville.

He was closely followed at 10.46 by Christmas baby number 4, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Begley, 223 Station Street.

The last Christmas baby, Brian Douglas Murray, arrived on the scene at 6.04 p.m. Christmas Day. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Murray, 53 Catharine Street.

June, New York Time, Place For Big Fight

STOCKHOLM (AP) — World heavyweight champ on Ingemar Johansson agreed today to meet Floyd Patterson New York next June. The agreement was reached after a conference with a group of New York promoters.

Once again the employees of Deloro Stellite, through the Deloro Stellite Social and Athletic Association, gave treats to the children in the plant lunch room last week. A big Christmas tree with all kinds of decorations and lights gave the room festive air, 'Gay old Santa' was the centre of attraction and produced squeals of delight with toys and candies for over 160 boys and girls.

Before Santa arrived, ice cream and soft drinks were enjoyed by all, while a sing-song took place under the direction of George Brooks. Music was supplied by Alex Cunningham on the banjo, Mrs. Delores Cunningham on the organ and Mrs. Dorothy Aitchison on the piano. Stanley Gallinger looking particularly smart in his light jacket, dark trousers and snappy bow tie, played a piccolo clarinet solo and drew a long round of applause from the audience of well over 250 people. Susan Sloane followed with a Christmas recitation that added just a little bit more to the Christmas spirit that filled the air.

Bedlam broke loose with the triumphant entry of Santa Claus running through the screened whirling one and all a Merry, Merry Christmas. This was followed by the usual screams and sometimes tears, as each boy and girl was presented with a gift from Santa himself.

After Santa left to keep his other appointments, candies, oranges and many other goodies were the order of the day, and the boys and girls all went home with little round bundles closely resembling the one in the red suit, that was the cause of all the celebration.

Many hands worked many hours planning and preparing (and cleaning up after) this party and the following helped to make the party a success — Harold Crozier, Frank Pelling, Tom Walsh, Charles Doran, Marg. Gallinger, Kathy Cunningham, Dorothy Bennett and Fran Moon.

Private Clubs Using Charters Long in Disuse

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says Toronto police have discovered a club charter operation which is falling into disuse as big-time gambling in the city.

The newspaper says millions of dollars a year are wagered in private clubs operating on charters that were in disuse. Files at Queen's Park and now have been brought out to replace charters revoked for gambling convictions.

Club charters are issued by the provincial government under the Ontario Companies Act and may be cancelled if five years in arrears of annual returns.

However, unless a charter is cancelled, it remains valid even when the club is no longer functioning.

The Star quotes police as saying the charters of many dormant clubs are being sought after because government officials are "slow" to make it appear the club never ceased to operate.

Ragweed Biggest Cause of Hay Fever in Canada

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Hay fever sufferers note: Some aerial detective work is pinpointing areas where ragweed-wracked victims can expect the best or worst.

Results from 164 pollen-catching stations across the country show the ragweed as the chief villain in eastern skies, the agriculture department reports.

Beware the Russian thistle on the prairies, added John Bassett of the department's plant research institute. At the same time, he cleared some plants long suspect as hay fever sources, including golden rod.

The pollen survey has the two-fold purpose, he said, of warning people when they are most likely to suffer from hay fever and pollen pollution so that the pernicious pests can do something about it by control measures on the ground.

Mr. Bassett singled out the ragweed as the biggest plant cause of hay fever in Canada.

The heaviest concentration is in Southern Ontario and Quebec.

A lot drifts from New York state.

He warned further that the ragweed probably is on the march right now into the northern part of Ontario, ready to stir up new waves of sneezes and red eyes with its toxic, windborn pollen. Unless controlled, the weed will spread elsewhere too, he said.

The Canada-Canada survey uses coated slides of glass to collect pollen over 24 hours. An index is worked out which rates the pollen county as heavy or otherwise.

Monty Called Nitwit of Year

LONDON (Reuters)—The Sunday Reynolds News today picked Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as "nitwit of the year" for praising South Africa.

The pro-Labor paper said it was just "brash juvenile political delinquency" when Montgomery said during last fall's British election campaign that pro-Labor voters should be locked away in insane asylums.

"But," it declared, "when a man of Montgomery's advantages proclaims himself as apostle of the loathsome creed of apartheid (race segregation) then the joke is over and the nitwit has set in."

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Years of Preparation Completed, Now He Retires to Country Home

By THOMAS COLLINS

Harold W. Smith is taking it easy at home this week.

He was 65 last October 3, and with three months' grace under his company retirement policy he will be retiring January 1. He's scheduled to go back in the office Thursday for a luncheon, a retirement gift — an engraved watch, probably — and his final pension papers.

Since the middle of last week, at the suggestion of the boss, he has been loafing.

Mr. Smith is retiring rich. He has an estate of about $75,000 and a retirement income of about $850 a month. His $75,000 is divided as follows: $34,000 in stocks which pay him $1,180 a year (included in his $850 income) a home worth $25,000, $5,800 in Government bonds and about $2,000 in cash. The $850 income includes the Social Security for himself and wife, company pension and the stock payments.

He began retiring four years ago.

"I started with my home," he says. "A $35,000 house in the city can give you good living. And it can impress people when you're on the way up the ladder. But after age 60 it's economic stupidity. With retirement coming on, a home worth $35,000 should give you more than housing."

So he Smiths sold their home for $25,500 net. They bought an 80-acre farm for $23,750 net. They bought it 43 miles from the city, two miles off a super highway and next door to a farmer who would rent 50 acres of their land.

"This took some doing," Mr. Smith said. "We had to decide first to swap our home for a farm, instead of for an apartment house or a hotel — which also could give you income with your housing.

"Since I had four more years to work, the farm had to be near enough for me to drive into town every day. The land had to be good enough to rent out, if we were to rent income, and so located that it could be rented."

The Smiths set out immediately to remodel the farm home so their living could conform reasonably well with their city standards. From then to this week they have done the following:

Remodeled constantly, spending more than the monthly salary would cover, developed a small flock of laying hens and a substantial garden, acquired a dog and two cats, converted part of the barn into sleeping bunks for Boy Scouts from the city who make visits to the farm invited a town of 2,500 people three miles from the farm, became acquainted with everybody important, joined a church and established chore accounts.

They have become members of a bridge club, started taking an active role in a county political organization and become leaders of a campaign to raise money for a town hospital.

Meanwhile, Mr. Smith has:

Moved all his investment money into mutual funds ("because I'm no investment expert and this seemed next best"); started taking a five-day week, despite the fact most of his colleagues went in the office on Saturday ("because it was time I had the same rights as a clerk-typist, and I had things at the farm to do"); started driving old friends in the city to the farm on Friday afternoons, for a weekend in the country.

Mr. Smith, with all his money, a heading toward a modern version of his country squire, standing next week. He thinks they will be able to arrange for their children and grandchildren to come home for a "country Christmas" every year. Then after every New Year they will lock up the house, hire a farmer to watch it and head south for the winter.

They're in clover, not just because of the money but because they derived a magnet that at age 65 would pull them away from the job and the life it had built up for them. There's no better way to retire.

Wedding

RICKS — MARTIN

FRANKFORD — A quiet house wedding took place on Christmas eve, December 24th, at 7.00 p.m. at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Sid Martin, Frankford, when the Rev. C. Judd united in marriage Wanda Myrtle, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Sid Martin, of Frankford, and William Herbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Ricks of Trenton, Ontario. The ceremony was conducted in the living room before the fireplace which was decorated with silver sprayed cones and pine boughs and poinsettias.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a street length gown of white velvet with cummerbund, trimmed with satin at neckline, illusion finger-tip veil and crown headdress of sequins and seed pearls. She wore velvet suits and white satin shoes and carried a bouquet of poinsettias, holly and baby white 'mums, and silver sprayed pine.

The bridesmaid, Miss Allison Vallance of Bancroft, wore a street length gown of red wool trimmed with red satin and matching velvet hat, headdress and gloves, matching accessories and wore a corsage of red poinsettias with silver leaves and white baby 'mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Jim Fleming of Toronto.

The traditional wedding music was played by the bride's cousin, Mrs. Doug Livingstone of Hamilton, also Christmas carols and recordings of soft Christmas music.

The home was decorated with silver sprayed pine boughs, where the reception was held.

In the centre of the bride's table was a three-tier wedding cake. Wedding bells and pink and white streamers decorated the living room.

The bride's mother received, wearing a street length dress of moss green and coral pink silk faille with a corsage of baby pink 'mums and silver ribbons. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a street-length navy dress and corsage of pink 'mums.

For a short wedding trip the bride chose an ankel taupe turquoise jersey dress, with beige and brown accessories, corsage of red poinsettias and white baby 'mums and a teal blue coat with mink brown fur. They will reside in Toronto.

Out-of-town guests were present from Hamilton, Toronto, Belleville, and Park Hill.

GYMNASTIC STAR MARRIES — Ernestine Russell, gymnastic-champion and Olympic star, married John M, Carter Jr., at Saturday noon ceremonies at the St. John's church in East Lansing. The bridegroom, native of Lansing, now teaches and coaches at Flint St. Matthew high school. The couple had both attended Michigan State University. They will make their home in Flint. 25 Friends Fete Bride With Shower

WELLINGTON — Mrs. Ed Marshall and Mrs. Duncan McKenzie were co-hostesses on Wednesday afternoon at the former's home, when about 25 friends and neighbors of Mrs. C. Cruickshank, a recent bride, gathered there to honor her with a bridal shower.

Games formed the amusement for the afternoon with Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mrs. Harry Bedford winning the prizes.

An address read by Mrs. W. Burrus was followed by the presentation of many lovely gifts for which Mrs. Bradshaw thank thanked her friends.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Pat Bryant whose small son was celebrating his third birthday on the same day.

Guests of honor were the bride's two sisters, Mrs. Morley Dempsey of Ameliasburg and Mrs. Wright of Belleville.

Christmas Concert

CENTRE ST. UNITED S.S.

Centre Street United Church Sunday School held its annual Christmas concert on December 18th. In the school room with a large attendance. The room was decorated with the true Yule spirit of Christmas. The concert on the evening was the Rev. W. E. G. Dovey.

The program opened by "Welcome To All" by Lynda Gingley; primary and kindergarten sang the lovely old hymn "Jesus Loves Me." The congregation sang a few carols.

Mr. Dovey's junior boys gave a skit titled "Christmas," each lad telling what a letter in the word meant; recitations by Jerry Lucas and Jerry Deeter, a Christmas song by Explorer girls; recitation by Richard McMorrow, a small skit was given by four junior girls; recitations by Beverley Lucas, Gary Colemorrow, a small skit was given by four junior girls; recitations by Beverley Lucas, Gary Colemorrow and Kipton Hewley.

"O Holy Night" was sung by the CGIT girls followed by a tableau by Mr. Dovey's senior boys, which was nicely done. Thanks went to Miss Sullivan for her assistance.

The children all sang "Jingle Bells" and Santa Claus came rushing in with gifts and candy for the boys and girls and found out what the little ones wanted him to bring them.

Mr. Dovey showed three films, two were comical ones, the other, "Silent Night," is a beautiful film. During the skit and the tableau, the giving of gifts, singing of carols and the parts by the children gave one the true meaning of Christmas, and Whose birthday was celebrated.

A word of praise and thanks goes out to Mr. Dovey, Mrs. D. Hudgins and Mrs. Boyd who supplied the music, and to Santa and all who helped to make this happy event so successful.

Mother's Helper

AN EFFECTIVE and quick remedy for poison ivy or poison oak is a paste of baking soda and water. Make the paste quite thick, plaster it over the rash with a patting motion. Let it dry, leave it on as long as possible. Repeat the treatment often, to stop the itching and keep the spots from spreading.

Q. Victoria H-S Assoc. Holds 'Open House'

On Monday December 14th, Queen Victoria Home and School held its annual "Open House".

The meeting was opened by the president of the Home and School Mrs. Beatty, who welcomed the parents.

Mr. McLean led the devotional period by reading the Christmas Story.

The auditorium looked festive with a lovely Christmas tree decorating the stage. Mr. Frink, school principal, extended greetings to all attending.

After the business part of the meeting, the parents were directed to the different rooms where they were greeted by the grade mother and teacher.

The evening ended with the serving of coffee and Christmas cookies.

Mrs. T. C. — Maud doesn't know when she has been slapped.

Mixed C. — I am a 15-year-old girl and I am extremely upset about the breaking of a friendship with one of the nicest girls I ever knew.

Linda has been my very best friend for the past two years. We've had wonderful times together. But I don't think her mother ever liked me and she finally succeeded in breaking up our friendship. I think she did this because she is very ambitious for Linda. She wants her to go on the stage and expects her to devote all her time to music and dance lessons. I think this is very wrong.

I got the idea of writing a note to Linda in school and telling her to meet me secretly, but my mother is against this. Who is right?

Mrs. T. C. — I don't want Linda's mother to get the satisfaction of feeling that Maud needs Linda's friendship so much. Maud is popular with both girls and boys — much more so than Linda — and she doesn't have to run begging after anyone's friendship.

In my opinion, Linda's mother is one of the first snobs I have ever met. We opened our home to Linda, even took her to the country with us on weekend trips, but her mother always looked down on Maud. Even more than being concerned about Linda's music and dance lessons, she wants her to mingle with those of the more important families in our community.

I don't understand my daughter. She doesn't seem to know when she has been slapped in the face.

The Council: We get the impression that Mrs. T. C. feels she is the person who has been slapped. Her bitter indignation suggests that she feels she has been put down by somebody of a lesser station in life than herself. Mrs. C. is of the world's secure of her own status. She could afford to sit back and relax while she watches Linda's mother scramble up her ladder.

Maud, on the other hand, seems to have taken this situation as a challenge. The idea of having a strong secret friendship is appealing to most adolescents and we believe that Linda gained considerable glamour in her eyes since she has become forbidden territory.

If parents wish to help adolescent children with their problems, it is important for them to be as uninvolved emotionally as possible. Mrs. T.C. should try to withdraw herself and her feelings and take a cool look at this problem in order to help her daughter put it in perspective.

If she takes a cool look, Mrs. T.C. will soon see that Linda's mother has a duty to guide her daughter in the direction she considers right. She, like every other parent, might be wrong, but she must make an effort to instill the goals she values and encourage the abilities she sees in her own child. If Maud doesn't fit well into the pattern she considers desirable, she will naturally try to eject her.

All of this is no insult to Maud. It is possible that a different kind of mother who also had ambitions would place great value on Maud as a friend for her daughter. Mrs. T.C. is too ready to assume that Linda's mother has placed a kind of price tag on her daughter — and the price is low.

Maud should be told that she must accept this situation, that secret friendships are not desirable and are rarely much fun, and that she should look around for another best friend.

Press Club Christmas Party Ideas For New Year's Buffet

by Mary Moore

All day I had fun — on a sort of human's holiday.

The Canadian Women's Press Club was having its Christmas party at night and guess who was food convener and guess what i selected for our place de resistance? A roast suckling pig.

When the little pig was delivered he was so soft and white and smooth he looked like a baby looking at me through his little slitty eyes.

I put all sentiment aside and stuffed him full of dressing, skewered his stomach shut, wrapped him in foil and put him diagonally on the broiler rack, as a wived. He overhung both corners but I managed to close the oven door. No roast was ever more carefully basted and watched and when I had him on the silver platter and garnished he was a lovely sight to behold.

Press Clubbers are such enthusiasts it is worth a day's work to cook for them for they smother you with praise whether you merit it or not.

The menu also consisted of roast turkey prepared by Marjorie Brandy, Polish cucumber salad made appropriately enough by Estelle Salata, scalloped potatoes by — Jean Knight, tossed salad by Lovina Saltzberg, relishes by Marjorie Wilkinson and the rest by me: port wine jelly, peas in onion cream sauce (below), ice cream with various toppings including apricot brandy sauce — which, of course, was most popular and served boiling hot from my chafing dish. Fruit cake and fruits made up the rest. The whole business was served from a ping pong table, covered with our three largest tablecloths, at the Men's Press Club.

Entertainment was by the pipist of Kathy Robertshaw, and one of the games was a guessing match which boiled down to my sister Peady and me. She won with "dried-chow" but admitted that "chilliad," which came before and I spelled rightly was better.

ROAST SUCKLING PIG:

To serve 16 to 18, order a piglet weighing between 14 to 16 pounds. Ask your butcher to dress him ready for the oven. Stuff him with onion-celery-apple bread stuffing, using at least 1-½ loaves of bread. Skewer the opening shut. Force his mouth open and fill it with a ball of foil the size of a tangerine, to accommodate an apple or tangerine later. Rub the skin with butter, sprinkle with garlic salt. To get him on the pan I had to bend his hind legs and make 'im sit on his haunches with his feet spread for balance. The forelegs rested on the sides and were spread out too, to keep him upright. The whole business was encased in foil and roasted about 6 hours — allowing 30 minutes per pound. I varied the oven heat between 275 and 300 deg. throughout — loosened the foil about the last 2 hours to brown the back. I never took the foil from the snout or legs or tail or ears. When he was on the turkey platter I garnished him with 2 bunches of parsley on top of which were halves of canned pears tinted red. Into his mouth I pushed a small red apple.

PEAS IN ONION SAUCE:

There is a new "tray" pack of peas in a poly bag on the market at 49c for 2 pounds. I made this cuisine cream sauce in which to serve them: Melt 8 tablespoons butter, gently saute in it 10 small green onions — 6" lengths chopped — for 3 or 3 minutes then stir in 6 tablespoons flour and when blended, 3 cups milk until thick. Add salt and pepper. To the 2 pounds fresh frozen peas add 2-3 cup boiling water and when they come to the boil for 2 minutes they are done. Drain and add to sauce and reheat until onions are a little bit tender. I estimate that at a buffet meal this amount is sufficient for 25.

THAT THANK-YOU NOTE

I had occasion yesterday to drop by Mrs. Inexperienced's home. I found her seated at a wobbly card table, obviously very much put out — with herself and everything in general. She was in the throes of writing her Christmas "thank-you" notes. After listening to her fuss for a few moments, the reason for her ill temper became apparent! Her intentions were good, but her equipment was lacking. The envelopes didn't match the odds and ends of writing paper that she had; her pen had sprung a leak and, to top it off, she had forgotten to purchase stamps. The final result was, of course, that the note-writing was put off indefinitely.

We all know that it's a poor return, when someone has spent thought, time and money to remember one with a gift, not to acknowledge it as soon as possible. After all, writing a "bread and butter" note is such a simple matter. It shouldn't assume the proportions it usually does — something to be dreaded and put off from day to day. I think the trouble is that many people, like Mrs. Inexperienced, don't have the things to make letter-writing easy — this, plus the fact that they are just plain lazy. A desk in a proper light, a good pen and plenty of ink, stamps and an up-to-date address book will go far towards turning the chore into a pleasure.

A word on the kind of stationery to buy when planning to acknowledge gifts: white is preferable for the man or matron, but soft pastel shades may be used by the young girl or woman. Avoid printed "thank you" cards. They are definitely in bad taste.

In writing your appreciation (make sure it's handwritten — not typed) be natural, sincere, never garrulous. Mention the article by name in the first line, don't just refer to it as a "gift." The first paragraph should tell of your pleasure. The second can be in general about the holidays, about mutual friends, or any subject in which you are both interested. The third and closing paragraph might express the hope that the holiday season was an enjoyable one, or inquiries can be made about other members of the family of the person to whom you are writing.

Closing may be accomplished by the phrase, "Again thanking you so much for your thought of me," followed by "Sincerely," "Affectionately" or "Devotedly," depending on the status of your relationship with the person to whom you are writing. Above all, take the time and trouble to write legibly! Scribbling your letters in a mad rush to get the job done certainly does not show consideration for the recipient.

To wind up the subject: unless you thank the giver in person, same manner.

Pretty Disguise

By ALICE ALDEN

Fashion's answer to that well-known disguise for a plain-curled head—the babushka—is a handsome suburban turban, flattering, comfy, toasty warm and nice enough to wear to town. This example, of wool jersey, is prettily tucked and adorned with amber colored stones. The cost is only about four dollars.

ROADS INTO NORTH — New roads into Canada's north are opening up a storehouse of minerals and petroleum

This map, based on a department of northern affairs map, shows existing roads (solid lines) and roads either under construction or being surveyed (broken lines).

In the Yukon, work progressed on a road running northeast from a point near Dawson through the Eagle Plain district, where the first oil gusher blew in last August. This road eventually will reach Tuktoyaktuk on the Arctic Ocean.

Survey crews worked on another Yukon road from Watson Lake on the Alaska Highway northwestward for about 200 miles to Ross River. This road will be extended another 125 miles to the west into the territory known to contain substantial deposits of gold, silver and base metals.

In the Northwest Territories, construction crews worked on the road circling the west end of Great Slave Lake, linking Yellowknife with the MacKenzie Highway which provides an avenue between Edmonton and the north. Survey parties also investigated an extension of this road 250 miles beyond Yellowknife through mineral-bearing territory to Fort Reliance. Also under consideration was a 90-mile spur to reach mineral deposits near MacKay Lake. There are hopes this spur may be stretched to Coppermine, providing another route to the Arctic.

The Mackenzie River waterway system will remain an important artery of transportation in the north. To facilitate movement of goods by this route, the portage road from Fort Fitzgerald to Bell Rock was being reconstructed over its 23-mile length. A spur from the portage road runs south and west through Wood Buffalo Park lying across the Alberta-N.W.T. border. (CP Newsmap.)

Nigeria, Nation of Roughly 35 Million Africans, to Join Commonwealth in October

By DAVE GANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Commonwealth family will gain a new member in 1960.

Next October, Nigeria — a nation of roughly 35,000,000 Africans living near the Equator — joins the multi - racial and multi - national family of nations embracing more than a quarter of the world's population.

The birth of this new nation will stregthen the "flexible framework of the British Commonwealth and demonstrate the trend towards more self-reliance and eventual partnership in the unique grouping of nations.

HIGH ON AGENDA

Almost certainly this event will rank high as a discussion topic for the Commonwealth prime ministers when they meet in London May 3. As in any family, the older brothers will help the new member to start on the road to maturity and independence.

This should make the emergence into nationhood for Nigeria a relatively easy event. For this reason it will be a sharp contrast to other possible developments elsewhere on the dark continent.

The African giant is starting to awaken. Already, in his state of half-sleep, half-wakefulness, he is torn between opposing forces. For the British government this may make the next 12 months a crisis year.

By the end of 1960, Britain will largely have discharged her obligations to African territories that are predominantly black.

With the problems of these areas cleared away, the British government has indicated it will give the highest priority to the tasks of developing multi-racial communities in Eastern and Central Africa.

BRIGHT SPOTS

There are some bright spots. In December, Britain agreed to establish an African-majority parliament for the 8,000,000 people of the East African trust territory of Tanganyika.

During the previous month the new colonial secretary, Iain Macleod, authorized as early ending of the emergency that had kept the East African colony of Kenya under virtual police rule for nine years.

The next step forward for this colony comes in the shape of a constitutional conference in London in mid-January.

The big problem in Kenya, as in the Central African Federation, is to find a way in which a white minority and an overwhelming African majority can live amicably in the same territory.

This problem is developing into a new crisis of race and empire in Britain's three Central African territories of Southern and Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

MUCH AT STAKE

One of the things at stake is the success or failure of the federation founded in 1953.

Success would mean the development of a Commonwealth nation in which black and white would live side by side in friendship and mutual trust.

Failure might mean the division of Africa south of the Sahara into militant black nationalist states on the borders of white-dominated nations rigidly enforcing racial separation. Some British ministers fear this could develop into the world's first all-out racial war.

The British government seems committed to the task of making the federation work. It has appointed the 26-member Monckton Commission — which includes a Canadian and an Australian—to prepare for the 1960 conference on the constitution.

The Labor party—asked by the government to co - operate in a bilateral approach to federation problems — boycotted the commission by refusing to appoint three of its parliamentarians as members.

The primary motive behind Labor's action was that Macmillan refused to give an assurance that the commission would be able to consider breaking up the federation if that was what the native Africans wanted.

OTHER PROBLEMS

Problems almost as pressing face Commonwealth leaders in other parts of the world. The gulf between rich and poor in the family 2¼ nations still is as wide as ever.

When they meet next spring, the prime ministers of the 10 member countries will give much attention to ways of narrowing this gap.

Some members, too, had both serious internal troubles as well as difficulties with neighbors.

Communal strife arising from opposition to the Communist government in the Indian state of Kerala erupted last summer. India dealt with this by dismissing the state government and ruling the state from New Delhi.

India had trouble on her borders as well. Red Chinese troops were poised on her frontiers and even occupied some Indian - administered territory.

The Kashmir dispute seemed as intractable as ever as 1959 ended, but there were signs that India and Pakistan were approaching more amicable relations.

Despite the troubles and immense problems, most Commonwealth leaders agreed the family ties were strengthened during the year.

WHITE GIFT SUNDAY

MARSH HILL — On Sunday Marsh Hill Sunday School held a White Gift Service.

Mr. Allyn Finkle, superintendent of the Sunday School was in charge of the service, and after quiet music, "Away in a Manger", gave the call to worship with: "Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea, behold there came Wise Men from the east to Jerusalem".

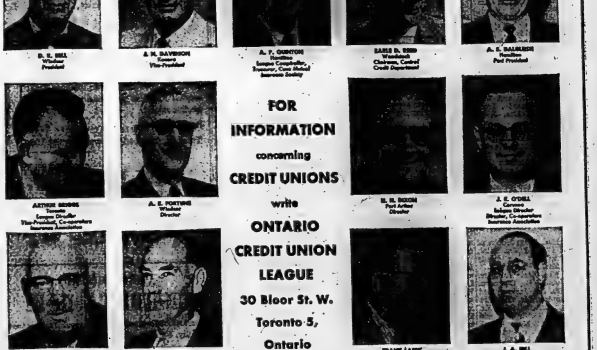
After singing the hymn, "Angels From the Realms of Glory", all joined in unison in the prayer. Marilyn, Elizabeth and Linda Finkle then favored with, "There's a Song in the Air".

The Scripture reading from St. Matthew 2:1-11 was read by Mrs. Burtindale's class in unison.

The singing the Christmas carol, "Joy to the World" was followed by Mrs. David Hollinger's class reading a poem in unison.

At this time the pupils placed their white gifts before the Nativity Scene.

A Christmas poem was read by Raymond Ross. Miss Gwenda Detlor sang a solo, "Angels From the Realms of Glory".



Mrs. Allyn Finkle told a Christmas Story of a man named Simon who was sent by his wife to Bethlehem with gifts for the Baby Jesus. On his way he met a crying child to whom he gave the gifts. When Simon returned home, his wife cried when he told her his story, she was truly glad that Simon gave his gifts to the child as it showed the Spirit of Christmas.

After a short period of study of the Sunday School lesson, all joined in singing "The Christmas hymn, "Silent Night, Holy Night" which was followed by the benediction.

Your Car

Headlights Can Help You Find Starting Trouble

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

When your car won't start any number of things might be wrong. Among them are loose or corroded connections, an open circuit, defective starter, heavy fuel or other engine resistance.

Sometimes it's possible to pinpoint the trouble area by switching on the headlights before trying the starter switch. If the lights go off as you crank, look for poor connections, especially at battery terminals.

When the starter refuses to function but the lights remain bright, an open circuit is indicated. If the lights dim noticeably, it could be due to the battery. However, if the battery is strong, the most likely cause is poor connections, starter trouble or abnormal engine resistance.

From M.Y.: "Is checking over my car yesterday, I saw a long, hairline crack in the ignition coil. Will this cause trouble eventually?"

(A) It usually does, by allowing moisture to enter and cause a short.

L. A. writes: "What causes the spark plugs to become fouled by carbon? It has happened to mine twice in 2,000 miles."

(A) Plugs that are too cold for the driving needs, faulty piston rings, an overrich fuel mixture or a leak in the diaphragm of the windshield wiper vacuum pump.

Mr. M. Mc. asks: "After my engine starts, it takes too long to warm up, coughing and rocking until it has been running for ten minutes or more. The thermostat, choke, carburetor and fuel pump were all checked over."

(A) A sticking manifold heat valve should be the next thing to look for.

From N. O.: "If the wrong spark plug air gap causes the engine to run poorly, should the gap be opened or closed slightly?"

(A) If the engine idles all right but performs badly when you accelerate or try to reach high speed, a narrower gap may be the cure. Should rough idle be the complaint, try a slightly wider gap.

Unemployment Insurance Facts

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission. If you are interested in any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. An inspector called on me some time ago, and showed me a paper filled out by my former employer as to the days I had worked and the money I had received while I was on claim. The information the employer gave was not quite correct. I realize now that I should have declared my earnings but I am wondering what protection claimants have against wrong information given by employers.

A. You mentioned that the employer's statement was shown to you: that is part of your protection against error. Before taking action, the Commission makes every effort to ascertain the facts of a case and clear up any discrepancies in information reported.

Q. A neighbor of mine was drawing unemployment insurance and working part time, and I wrote the unemployment insurance people about it but I do not think they did anything. How can I find out? I do not want to sign my name.

A. The Commission investigates every report of this nature, whether it is signed or not. Sometimes the investigation reveals that the circumstances are not as they appear — for instance the person may not actually be on claim, or the part-time work may have been for brief periods and may have been reported by the claimant to the local office; in such cases it may appear that nothing has been done. You may rest assured, however, that such reports are followed up carefully and are a valuable aid to the Commission in protecting the unemployment insurance fund against unlawful claims.

Q. Is a girl who is presently attending Teacher's College, but would quit if she could get steady, suitable employment, entitled to draw unemployment insurance benefits if she has sufficient contributions to enable her to do so?

A. Generally speaking, a person attending a school or university to take a full-time course is considered not available for employment and is not, therefore entitled to benefit.

Q. I have not worked on a salary basis for the past five years, but I am now taking a job. How many weeks will I require to be entitled to insurance benefit and what type of benefit can I draw?

A. To qualify for regular benefit you require 30 weekly contributions in a period of 104 weeks prior to the date of a claim and eight of these contributions must have been made during the last 52 weeks. To qualify for seasonal benefit, which is payable from the week in which December 1 falls until the week in which May 15 falls, you would be required to have at least 15 contribution weeks since the Saturday prior to the March 15 immediately preceding your claim.

Q. I caught fish in May and sold it in June. Do my stamps apply to the time I caught the fish or to the time it was sold?

A. A fisherman acquires stamps for the week in which he sells his catch to the buyer. Where the sale consists of cured fish and the fisherman is entitled to more than one stamp, the first stamp is for the week of sale and the remainder are placed in the spaces for the immediately preceding weeks.

Ike's Decision to Shoulder Burdens Probably Will Aid Party's Fortunes in Election

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower's decision to shoulder the burdens of political diplomacy at the possible risk of recurring illness may perhaps the most significant United States political development in 1959.

For out of this decision came his bilateral talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev and his unprecedented and triumphant venture into Asia. Because of his successes, there was a rising tide of Republican sentiment at home that probably will aid the party's fortunes in the 1960 presidential campaign.

Republicans hope that the momentum of his peace-in-freedom drive might help set another Republican in the White House when Eisenhower steps down at the November, 1960, election.

Four years ago Eisenhower suffered a mild stroke — the third of his illnesses — and prominent Republicans were wondering openly whether the wartime allied commander might step down from the presidency and allow Vice-President Richard Nixon to take his place.

Now many regret the constitutional barrier which limits Eisenhower to two terms in the White House.

There is no doubt that the 69-year-old Eisenhower has secured a solid spot in the hearts of a majority of his countrymen.

Yet the adoption last May 15 has produced its political problems, because the Democrats likely will try hard to exploit as serious issues they begin for the presidential fight.

Experts have acknowledged that the U.S. was behind the living standards in the world, but has fallen sharply behind Russia in the missiles race. On the industrial front the nation's big steel dispute may force the administration to demand legislative action that could antagonize management or labor.

In the midwest farmers continue to blame Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson for their woes, exacting as much political revenge as they can. Republican reaction that some Republicans suggested Benson resign. Benson has refused.

It seemed that even in such a tricky business as politics his genius of getting persons, charges out of the Democratic party. The Democrat hierarchy complained that the Democrat leaders of the House of Representatives and Senate were cheating by co-operating with the Eisenhower administration.

It is likely this political hocus-pocus will come to an end with the opening January 6 of the last session of Congress before the big election battle. The Democrats hold 65 of the 100 Senate seats and 281 of the 437 House seats.

And while the political jockeying moves into high speed, it is unlikely that much serious work will be done in Congress.

At least six persons — one Republican and five Democrats — aspire to the presidency. They could be looking for ways to capture the attention of some 100,000,000 U.S. voters.

Only Nixon appears to have the edge over the entire Republican field. Rockefeller, who is believed he might face competition in his own party from Nixon, has declared he is not a candidate. Nixon has declared he would not be a candidate.

The Democrats have trouble. The strong crowd-holder has shown up. Among the various candidates who got most of the applause at a party social and dinner at a committee meeting was Adlai Stevenson, twice defeated by Eisenhower in reluctant starter for a third attempt. Stevenson insists he will not be a candidate, though some of his supporters say he can be drafted.

Other possible Democratic candidates mentioned publicly include such names as Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri and Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, a hard-driving Senate majority leader.

11 Year Old Boy Rescues Five Sisters, Brothers

ORLEANS, Ont. (CP) — An 11-year-old boy Sunday suffered second degree burns in rescuing five of his young brothers and sisters from the early - morning fire that destroyed their home in this community 10 miles east of Ottawa.

Leo Laverdure, awakened when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emile Laverdure, saw that he and the other five youngsters were trapped when flames began roaring up the stairway.

The boy smashed a bedroom window and shepherded the other children through it to the roof of an adjoining building—that of the town's volunteer fire brigade. They were taken off the roof on a fireman's ladder.

Leo was taken to St. Louis de Montfort Hospital in Eastview, on Ottawa's outskirts, where he was reported in good condition. Also treated for his three-year-old sister, Rachelle who suffered minor burns on her face and body.

Meanwhile, the fire spread to the Cross-Canada Survey

Shooting Mishaps Generally On Decline and Hunters Had Lots of Game Survey Shows

By BOB EXELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It was an odd year for hunting in Canada.

If you were anxious to bag some particular game you could usually find some place that had too much of it.

Saskatchewan had too many deer, Manitoba too many elk, the Northwest Territories too many buffalo, Alberta too many bear.

More than 40 hunters were killed in shooting mishaps, a cross - Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows. Shooting accidents, however, were generally on the decline.

Prince Edward Island, Canada's smallest province, decided it had too many cats and the legislature passed an amendment allowing hunters to shoot them on sight. But just before the legislature's session ended, the amendment was revoked, to stem the outcry from cat lovers.

In Wood Buffalo National Park in the Northwest Territories beyond Alberta, buffalo hunting licences were issued for the first time in Canada. But Canadian hunters didn't shoot many—only 20.

Ontario reported 12 hunting deaths compared with 14 last year and 20 in 1956, the record year. Manitoba had two deaths, against four in 1958. There were four in British Columbia, compared to seven in 1958 and 13 in 1957.

Some provinces do not list hunting fatalities as such. Alberta estimated there were "six or seven" hunting fatalities during the season. In Quebec province, divided into the districts of Quebec and Montreal, police estimated there were "eight or 10" fatalities in the Quebec district.

New Brunswick had four shooting fatalities, as did Nova Scotia, which had double-that number last year. Prince Edward Island had none. No figures were available in Newfoundland. In the Yukon and Northwest Territories there were no shooting accidents.

Throughout the country more licenses of all types were issued and game generally was plentiful.

In Saskatchewan, because farmers were complaining that deer were destroying unharvested crops, hunters were permitted for the first time to shoot three deer each.

Bears were bothering Alberta residents, so the provincial government increased the bag limit to three bears from one, although the limit was not to include more than one grizzly.

The "biggest elk crop in Manitoba" persuaded the government to extend the elk season to Jan. 1 instead of closing Nov. 30. It may be extended further.

"Worried about the growing deer population in Nova Scotia, former provincial wildlife biologist D. A. Benson said that "hunting pressure" must be increased by all possible legal means to reduce the deer population to a number the province's forests could support.

When the bird and big-game hunting seasons ended in Ontario, the lands and forests department encouraged hunters to go after rabbits. They're lurking behind every tree stump because foxes, their chief natural enemy, have been greatly reduced by rabies in the last two years.

As with game laws, the hunting safety regulations vary in each province, but all show an awareness of the need for education.

In British Columbia, Dr. James Baxter, chief biologist of the fish and game branch, noted recently that "the likelihood of a hunter getting shot has decreased over the years." The proportion of accidents and fatalities to the total of hunters was continually declining.

The Manitoba federation of game and fish associations sponsors 127 clubs for boys and girls, backed by an annual provincial government grant.

In Manitoba it is unlawful to hunt big game unless clothed in a complete outer suit and cap of white or bright red material. Similar legislation exists in Saskatchewan and Alberta, and most provinces forbid hunters to carry loaded guns in any vehicle.

Saskatchewan and Ontario are the only provinces that supply figures on the number and types of shooting accidents to the U.S. National Rifle Association at Washington.

Send us your party clothes now, and discover how magically fresh they can look for the party season ahead. We clean away that limp, drab look, put back the sparkle of newness. Clothes come back bright and perky as new. Call us today. Satisfaction guaranteed.

North Scores 27-17 Upset In Shrine All-Star Battle

MIAMI, Fla. (CP)—Joe Caldwell, Army's fine passing quarterback, bombed the South team mercilessly Saturday night and accounted for three touchdowns as the North scored a 27-17 upset victory in the annual Shrine all-star game before 33,121 college football fans.

The game was one of three college bowl games Saturday.

At Tempe, Ariz., the national all-stars combined a rockwall defence with a well-balanced attack to defeat the southwest all-stars 21-6 in the second annual Copper Bowl game.

In Montgomery, Ala., an underdog northern all-star team defeated the South 20-8 in the annual Blue-Grey game before 20,000 persons.

In the Shrine game, Caldwell, operating behind a hasty north line, threw a scoring pass to Bill Carpenter, and set up two other touchdowns scored by Iowa's Don Horn, Pat Bodula of Penn State also scored.

The South struck back late in the third when North Carolina's Jack Cummings threw a touchdown pass to Florida's Dan Edgington. In the closing minutes of play, Fran Curci of Miami threw a 49-yard touchdown pass to Gordon Speer of Rice. Speer also kicked a field goal.

NEVER REARED

Some 14,000 persons at the Copper Bowl and a television audience watched the national's strike for nine points in the second quarter and 12 in the fourth.

Willie Wood of the University of Southern California directed the first-half attack for the nationals and Penn State's Richie Lucas and Michigan State's Larry Bielat shared honors in the fourth quarter.

The game was primarily a defensive war until a wild fourth quarter in which 18 points were scored.

The southwest scored, when Arizona's Jim Giest tossed a 41-yard pass to Arizona State University's Bill Spanko.

The national defence was spearheaded by Bill Burrell, all-America guard from Illinois, and Roe Mig. tackle from Southern California.

Southern Cal's Angelo Cola swept over for the first touchdown, Centre Rog Leclerc, Trinity University, booted a 28-yard field goal, Lucas blasted over from the nine and Bielat got the final score.

It was the first time in the 21-game Blue-Grey series at Montgomery that the Blue team was able to win two in a row. The Blues triumphed 16-0 last year.

The Blue-Grey game takes its name from the color of uniforms worn by present-day players as well as opposing soldiers in the Civil War.

The Blue attack was engineered chiefly by quarterbacks Tom Fichtner of Purdue and Jack Lee of Cincinnati, who handled the passing chores, and Jim Joyce of Maryland, who ripped through the Grey line time and again.

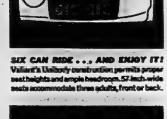
NEW FROM CHRYSLER OF CANADA...

THE MATCHLESS Valiant



THE ECONOMY CAR YOU'D WANT AT ANY PRICE

30-35 MILES PER GALLON! Valiant 6-cylinder engine is inclined 30° to allow unique manifold system and straight-down air intake. Result: 101 h.p., up to 35 mpg!

LUGGAGE SPACE? 24.9 CU. FT. of it! Valiant has more trunk space than either of its new competitors, more than many large cars. Pack the family gear with ease in a Valiant! There's plenty of room for it!

SIX CAN RIDE . . . AND ENJOY IT! Valiant's Unibody construction permits proper seat heights and ample headroom. 57 inch-wide seats accommodate three adults, front or back.

BODY FOUR TIMES AS RUGGED! Valiant's solid Unibody hasn't a single bolt to shake loose. Four times as durable as two-piece bodies, more rustproof than any ever built!

FAMOUS TORSION-AIRE RIDE! It keeps your 2,700-pound Valiant flat on the curves, keeps you easy in the seat. Valiant is the compact car that gives you big-car comfort!

Chrysler of Canada's Valiant is the newest car in the world. And it looks it—with a daring new kind of styling that says more than just "economy". But new as it is, Valiant is already answering some very old questions.

How much "go" can you get from a car this size? Valiant shows you. When you take your first cruise in a new Valiant you'll discover that it can out-perform cars half-a-ton heavier and twice as powerful. Yet it visits the gas pump only half as often! Secret: Valiant's incredible new six-cylinder engine—an ingenious overhead-valve power plant that inclines to the side at a 30° angle, quietly puts out a practical 101 h.p., but hoards fuel like a confirmed tightwad. Valiant gives you up to 350 miles on one 11-gallon tankful of regular gas!

Can a compact car have a "big-car" ride? Valiant does. It is only 184 inches long. It has a 106½-inch wheelbase. Yet, compact as it is, Valiant rides like a car double its size. That's because Valiant (like other Chrysler of Canada cars) has famous Torsion-AIRE Ride—the finest suspension system yet devised for taking the sway out of a corner, the lurch out of a stop or the bumps out of a road. If anything, Torsion-AIRE's superiority is just as obvious on a shorter-wheelbase auto as it is on the larger cars. Yet Valiant is the only one of the new compact cars that has it. It's the only one with the "big-car" ride.

What can be done about rattles and rust? Valiant's done it. In one fell swoop, Valiant features a new Unibody construction that combines frame and body in a single steel unit. Not a single bolt to rattle. And it is nearly four times as durable as the other two-piece kind. On top of that, every Valiant Unibody is dipped seven separate times to make it more permanently rustproof than any car before it—ever!

Where do you put all your luggage in a smaller car? If you own a Valiant, you put it in the trunk. It's hard to believe you can tuck so much usable space into a car only 184 inches long. But Valiant does it. All your luggage stows handily in a trunk that measures 24.9 cubic feet! And Valiant's new Unibody lets you sit down inside the frame with plenty of daylight between hat and roof. Six can ride comfortably.

These are only a hint of the questions that Valiant answers. You probably have a few to ask yourself. We urge you to do so. Just visit your dealer today. Drive a Valiant—the economy car you'd want at any price!

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Sports-wise it wasn't a bad Christmas—if you were a Maroo, Canadiens and Baltimore Colts fan. The Montreals hit their stride handing the revitalized Chatham Maroons a 7-4 setback in their own ballyrick. Canadiens walloped the Black Hawks 9-2 with Jean Beliveau picking up four goals; Bentley Hall his four goals and his night to regain the NHL points leadership, while the Colts broke loose in the last quarter to thump the New York Giants for who the world pro football championship.

Most folks were not forgotten in the festive season but a lot forgot to do something that will benefit a lot of less fortunate people. That was to send in the donation for Christmas Seal Sinners. Shriner Orrell "Buddy" Lloyd, chairman of the Hastings Tuberculosis Association now under the aegis of the Belleville Shrine Club, said: "People can still send in their donation and needless to say they will be greatly appreciated. Let them to do it right away. It would make a fine resolution for the New Year.

Tuberculosis is no respecter of persons or associations. It has invaded the realm of sport. All sportsmen, especially baseball fans will remember the heroic and successful fight of "Red" Schoendienst, famous second baseman of the Milwaukee Braves.

In November, 1957, "Red", who had sparked the Braves to a pennant, taped a radio message to millions, "This is Red Schoendienst telling you that when you use Christmas Seals, you fight TB."

A year later the words "Schoolyard and TB" were again linked but tragically the word was "A Good Man Gets Bad News." "TB has perhaps ended the playing career of Red Schoendienst, Milwaukee's great second baseman."

"The Little General" faced the toughest fight of his career.

In 1958 "Red" was plagued with illness and injuries from spring training on. His injuries were followed by a bout with the cold developed into pleurisy. Breathing was difficult and his side caused him considerable pain. But pain and fatigue failed to dampen his performance on the field. The Braves again won the National League pennant. In November events moved with incredible swiftness. On November 3 it was stated "Red's" X-ray pictures did not look so good. He went into hospital where rumors had it he was dying. Four days later it was official, "Red" was suffering from active tuberculosis.

He had plenty of time in hospital to reflect upon what seemed like the irony of an athlete, a 15-year veteran breaking down with tuberculosis. "I never dreamed it could happen to me," he said. "But I found out it can happen to anybody."

Prescription for recovery included regimen of rest and modern drugs, and in time, surgery. Red underwent surgery in February. He responded favorably to hospital treatment and to the vital therapy of good wishes, a renewed contract for 1959 and anticipation of return to his wife and children. The happy day came on March 24.

Still ahead was more rest, continued treatment. By mid-May Red was able to attend a game, talk shop with Braves' catcher Del Rice and enjoy "backyard practice with daughter Cathy.

Six weeks later "Red" was back in uniform taking light workouts with the Braves. One thing was certain; November, 1958, would be a happy contrast to November, 1958. Schoendienst had racked up his biggest victory.

"Seller" Lloyd and his Shriner committee have been doing yeoman service for the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association. They are grateful for the fine cooperation shown by so many people in their purchase of Christmas Seals, but also they feel there are a great many more who through oversight or rush of holiday business, etc., have not sent in their donation.

It is not too late. The Seals can be used any time. So why not send in your donation now since you have a few days' respite before the New Year festivities.

Remember as Christmas Seals go into thousands of homes, and this is democracy in action, an investment in hope and faith that our homes and our lives will one day be free from tuberculosis.

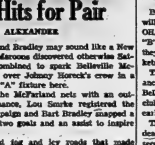
Smrke, Bell Spark Macs' 7-4 Victory Over Chatham

Lou Racks up 1st Hat Trick With Gordie Superb in Net; Bart Bradley Hits for Pair

By GARRY ALEXANDER

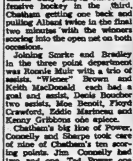
CHATHAM—Bell, Smrke and Bradley may sound like a New York legal firm but Chatham Maroons discovered otherwise Saturday night when the trio combined to spark Belleville Bulldogs to a key 7-4 victory over Johnny Horeck's crew in a bitterly contested OHA Senior "A" fixture here.

Gordie Bell returned to the McFarland nets with an outstanding goal-keeping performance, Lou Smrke registered the club's first hat trick of the campaign and Bart Bradley snapped a prolonged scoring slump with two goals and an assist to inspire a fine team effort.



The Macs, battling against ice and icy roads that made them half an hour late for the game and several hours behind schedule in arriving home Sunday morning, have apparently lost the services of goalie Cesare Maniago to Kitchener. Also missing from the lineup Saturday through sickness was Bus Gagnon.

Bell, rushed into the nets at the last minute when word arrived that Maniago would not be present, was tremendous, mask and all, as the Maroons peppered his citadel with 41 shots. Albani was tested just 22 times at the other end but the Macs made no mistakes when they did get the chances.



Belleville took a 2-0 lead in the first period and watched the Maroons deadlock it at 3-3 during the middle heat. But the Macs were not to be denied and regained their two-goal margin for a 5-3 lead before the second frame ended. They played smart defensive hockey in the third as Chatham getting one back and pulling Albani when in the final two minutes with the winners scoring into the open net on both occasions.

Joining Smrke and Bradley in the three point department was Ronnie Muir with a trio of assists, "Weiner" Brown and Keith MacDonald each with a goal and assist, Denis Boucher two assists, Moe Benoit, Floyd Crawford, Eddie Marineau and Kenny Gribbons one apiece.

Chatham's big line of Power, Connelly and Sharpe took care of nine of Chatham's nine scoring points. Jim Connelly had two and one, Ted Power one and two and Gary Sharpe three assists Copper Leyte also scored.

BART BRADLEY

The McFarlands also doubled up on the homesters in penalties, drawing eight to Chatham's four, much to the glee of the 1,943 hometown fans. Maroons scored twice with a man advantage and once while playing shorthanded themselves. Both clubs were at full strength for all Belleville markers.

Bradley took care of both first-period markers, snapping home a short backhander when the Maroons were careless in front of their net at 6:26 and making it 2-0 at 11:37, batting Benoit's point-drive into the open corner. Muir was instrumental in setting up both goals. Marcons outshot the Macs 13-8 but Bell slammed the door time and again.

LOU SMRKE
. . . First Hatter

Benoit drew his third penalty of the period at 19.50 and Gribbons went out at 1.25 of the second. The latter was still serving time when Power rang in 3-1 at 2.14. Two minutes later Smrke got his first, walking around Albani's cage and slamming it home. Chatham was shorthanded when Leyte's drive fooled Bell at 11.39 and Connelly tied it with a high backhand blast at the 14-minute mark.

The tie lasted for only 40 seconds however as Brown blasted home passes from Boucher and MacDonald to give the Macs the lead for good, Smrke's second goal closed the period scoring at 13.38, Chatham having nothing on the visitors 17-8 on the period, but finding Bell tough to beat.

Chatham carried the play and the Macs dumped it out in the third. Muir was thumbed for interference at 13.50 and the Maroons really applied—the pressure. It paid off with Connelly scoring from the first faceoff in the Belleville end, a beautiful low bullet to the right-hand corner.

Bell and his mates held on. Cleary falling on a clear breakaway, until Horeck lifted Albani in favor of six attackers with a minute and 48 seconds left to play. Bradley got the draw, carried down with Smrke who completed his hat trick after his linemate's accurate pass.

Albani returned just long enough for the faceoff but this time Brown, MacDonald and Boucher totted the rubber down the toward the empty net. No one was within 20 feet of MacDonald as he closed the scoring at 7-4 with 33 seconds left.

Dutchmen Suffer 2 Losses, Beaten by Dunnies, Bulldogs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Olympic - bound Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen failed in a desperate bid to better themselves during the holiday weekend, losing their fifth and sixth straight games to remain in fourth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Windsor Bulldogs continued to exhibit their newfound mastery over the Dutchmen Sunday, thrashing them 7-2 before 2,500 fans. It was Windsor's fourth consecutive win and third at home ice. They blanked Kitchener 6-0 last Wednesday.

At Kitchener Saturday, the Dutchmen were edged 3-2 by league-leading Whitby Dunlops while Belleville McFarlands upset Chatham Maroons 7-4 at Chatham.

The Windsor victory tightened the Bulldogs' grip on second place. They trail Whitby by five points but are four up on third-place Chatham. Belleville still is holding the cellar.

FIVE GOALS

Benny Pepin had his best day of the season for Windsor Sunday, scoring twice and assisting on three others. John Dineen also scored two goals while Murray Costello, Bob Brown and Don Diedrick scored singles.

At Lobberg and Ron Casey were the Dutchmen scorers.

Whitby held at 59-36 shots-on-goal edge in a game marked by four minor penalties, incr. two to each side.

Lou Smrke paced the Belleville squad in the other Saturday game with a three-goal effort. Bart Bradley also scored twice while Ron Marineau, Moe Brown and Keith MacDonald getting one other marker.

Jim Connelly scored for the Chathen with Ted Power and Copper Leyte getting singles.

Belleville's goaltender Gordie Bell proved a major stumbling block for Maroon marksmen opposed to be suffering the effects of a "virus" bug. The goaler stopped 37 shots compared to 16 handled by Chatham's Johnny Albani. On Saturday a record of 2,925 saw Whitby lead 1-0 at the end of the first period and 3-1 at the end of the second. Dene Brodie, Bob Rossard and Gordy Myles scored for Whitby, Butch Martin and Ralph Hosking counted for the Dutchmen.

Kitchener's goaltender Bost Burkey turned aside 45 shots while John Henderson kicked out 37.

Juniors Play Cobourg Rockets Here Tonight

Belleville Lambert - Rollins will be out tonight to grab the OHA Eastern Ontario Junior "B" League's second spot when they play host to Cobourg Rockets here.

This will be the first appearance of the Cobourg club on Belleville ice this season, the clubs having split a pair of earlier decisions in Cobourg.

The Lambert - Rollins are deadlocked with Kingston for second place at the present time, each team having won eight, lost four and tied one game for 17 points. Peterborough Lakes, who play host to Picton tonight, are atop the heap with 22 points.

Game time here tonight is 8.30 p.m., immediately following the squirt games, and it is hoped a large crowd will turn out to cheer the locals on to victory.

Soccer Fight Sends Three To Hospital

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A fight among players and fans marred a National Amateur Cup soccer game here Sunday and sent three players to hospitals.

Pittsburgh Beadling won the game, defeating Detroit St. Andrews 3-1.

The fight broke out in the middle of the second half. Beadling Manager Vic Tranquilli said it started when his forward, Jerry Bressanelli, was kicked in the face.

Players from both teams began throwing punches, and a number of fans rushed onto the field and joined the fracas.

Order was restored 15 minutes later. Bressanelli was taken to hospital with a possible jaw fracture. His teammate, Sonny Yalnpez, needed several stitches in his jaw and Detroit right halfback Matt Brown was examined for a possible concussion.

Hull Gets Third Hat-Trick; Has 4-Point Lead

Scores Three Goals, Assist In Chihawks 6-1 Victory; 'Pocket' Racks up Six Points

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Henri Richard of Montreal Canadiens broke more ice hi famous brother Maurice with every game he played.

In national hockey league play over the weekend, the Pocket Rocket collected six points as Montreal beat Chicago 9-2 Saturday and Detroit 3-1 Sunday.

In other weekend NHL games, Toronto Maple Leafs completed a double over New York, beating the Rangers 4-1 Saturday and 6-3 Sunday while Chicago Black Hawks defeated Boston Bruins 6-4 Sunday.

The Pocket Rocket collected in the first of the weekend points in Saturday's 8-2 drubbing of the Chicago Black Hawks at the Forum, shooting one goal and assisting on three others. Marcel Dionne, with three goals, Bernie Geoffrion and Belliveau two each and Dave Trottier, hosted.

Rookie Stan Mikita and right wing Ken Warman answered for Chicago.

Sunday, Montreal went to Detroit and handed out a 3-1 defeat to the Red Wings, all the goals coming in the third period. Richard, Geoffrion and Phil Goyette scored with Jack McIntyre hitting the lonely goal for the hosts.

The double win kept Canadiens well out in front in the NHL standings. They have 48 points on 24 games, 8 more than second place Detroit.

Toronto won both weekend games and New York Rangers (7) is close the gap with Detroit from five points to one.

Johnny Bower registered his third shut-out of the season, when Maple Leafs blanked Rangers 4-0 on Saturday. Goals were scored by Ron Stewart, George Armstrong, Frank Mahovlich and Gerry Ehman.

The Rangers fared little better next day at theld own Madison Square Gardens, dropping a 6-3 decision. Armstrong and Bob Pulford scored two goals each with Mahovlich and Billy Harris addthe other.

Dean Prentice scored twice and Andy Bathgate once for a second period rally that tied the game at 3-3-3. But eight minutes later the Leafs were back in the lead with a goal from defenceman Armstrong.

In the other Sunday game, Bobby Hull showed 13,344 fans in the Chicago Stadium there's still life in the Black Hawks despite their lowly position in the League.

The young left wing scored three goals and assisted on an other in the 6-4 slamming of Boston Bruins. Ed Litzenberger, Murray Balfour and Ted Lindsay made up the six-goal tally.

Indians, Reds Win Games in American League

The leading contenders for the four American Hockey League playoff positions took a firm hold on their positions as each chalked at least one weekend victory. Springfield Indians, leading the field by eight points, made only one appearance and defeated third-place Quebec Aces 3-2 Saturday. Second-place Providence was off on the road but the Reds made the most of the opportunity Sunday by beating Quebec 4-1.

Rochester Americans and Buffalo Bisons, deadlocked for third place, each came through with two brilliant performances. Hershey Bears twice 6-2 Saturday but Bisons whipped Cleveland Barons 5-2 at Cleveland Saturday and 5-3 at home Sunday.

A pair of rookies played an important role in Providence's victory over Aces. Goaltender Bruce Gamble posted his third shutout of the season and Stan Baluik, who recently returned to the league after brief service with Boston Bruins of the National League, shot three goals. Ray Ross got the fourth goal.

Bisons Sunday scored four third-period goals to overcome a three-goal deficit and make it two straight. Max Barons. Larry Wilson scored in the second period and again at 7:45 of the third to start off the Buffalo rally. Denny Lewicki, Howie Glover and Phil Maloney got the others. Bill Dineen, Ed Hoekstra and Fred Glover tallied for Cleveland.

Rookie Dick Van Impe tallied two second period goals to pace Rochester to their Sunday victory over Hershey. Cec Hoekstra added another for good measure. Hay Hemerich scored for the Bears' lone goal late in the game.

Hull-Ottawa Breaks Slump; Kingston Splits

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull - Ottawa Canadiens broke out of a scoring slump in their week ending title third place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The Canadiens, who had lost three straight, downed Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds 6-4 at home Sunday night to preserve a second place tie with Montreal Royals.

The Royals meanwhile were gaining revenge for a 7-1 pasting they got at Kingston December 15 by defeating Kingston Frontenacs 7-5 at Montreal.

In the only weekend game Trois - Rivieres Lions, always dangerous on home ice, downed the league - leading Sudbury Wolves 5-3 at Trois-Rivieres.

The Wolves remained in fourth place with 52 points, four fewer than Hull-Ottawa Canadiens and Royals and five more than Thunderbirds and Frontenacs, who are tied for fifth with 47 points each.

Sudbury leads Hull-Ottawa and Royals by four.

LEAD LIONS

Jean-Paul Denis led the Trois-Rivieres attack with two goals and Gilles Thibeault, Dave Balon and Lucien Sarrazin each added single. Gord Fraser, Jimmy Moore and Walter Boyer registered for the Wolves.

The top offensive effort of the weekend was turned in by Sudbury Sunday night when pasted the Royals 7-3. Three Sudbury marksmen went to Bill Sutherland, Lash Hayes, Yves Sarrazin and Reggie Grigg.

Kingston, which scored only twice in losing to Montreal, is known to bounce back from a six-goal deficit, was paced by Coach Cully Gardner and Orval Tessier, each with two goals, Stan Maxwell tallied the fifth Kingston counter.

At Hull Sunday, Billy Carter and Percy Galbraith scored twice apiece for Canadiens. For Carter, the league's top point-getter, the two were his 24th and 25th of the season, John Annable and Gilles Tremblay added singles for the Ottawa, Wayne Hicks scored twice for Sault Ste. Marie, with Lionel Hills and Merv Kurylak scored singles.

Saturday night at Kingston, Frontenac goals were divided seven ways among Cal Gardner, Red Ouellette, Skip Teal, Willie O'Ree, Buddy Boone, Glen Cressman and Don Head.

Skippy Burchell got Montreal's lone goal late in the first period.

Confidence Men Rob Russ Fans Of Many Rubles

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Thousands of rubles went into the pockets of two Muscovites who took a train of secret agents to more than a dozen remote cities posing as the famed Moscow Dynamo squad.

The story was told in Sunday's papers which reported the team played against local clubs before packed audiences in small cities thousands of miles from Moscow.

Although the team was beaten by most local clubs the spectators were able to make out the deception over a long period last summer.

Fans at one game in Latsk, western Ukraine, became slightly suspicious because the goalkeeper did not resemble the celebrated Lev Yashin. There was "a small man who couldn't manage the high balls." It was then the fact the real Dynamo team was playing in Moscow on the same day failed to give the game away.

The ringleader of the bogus team, Alexander Petrick, liaved Moscow, happened to have the same surname as one of the Dynamo officials. He arranged games by telephone from a Moscow apartment with local officials who plastered their cities with posters announcing the meeting with the "Dynamo masters."

Moscow's acceptance explained the frequent defeats which the excited the players were off form.

The newspapers did not mention the fate of the two men but reported Petrick is now a master in metallurgical institute, already had served one year in prison for forgery.

TeePees Beat Marlies Twice; Irish Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Tiger-Cubs and St. Catharines TeePees knocked over Toronto Marlboros and Toronto Junior A leaders during the weekend.

In last-place Hamilton club was defeated 6-4 by Guelph Biltmores at Hamilton Saturday and downed Toronto St. Michael's 5-2 at Toronto Sunday in Maple Gardens Sunday.

St. Catharines, last year's Memorial Cup winners in the Junior A series, edged Toronto Marlboros 5-4 in St. Catharines Saturday night and then came back Sunday to down the Marlies 6-3 after starting during a double - bill feature at Toronto.

The Irish lost for Marlboros did not alter their first - place standing which remained four points over Barrie Flyers and St. Michael's but the win by Cubs moved them into fifth place, six points behind Guelph. Hamilton Tigers are in last place, point behind the TeePees.

Stewart Keenan and Bob Davidson were the only scorers for St. Michael's Sunday, Pat Hanlon scoring for the big gun with his two goals, Ray Cullen, Duke Harris, Bill Cook and Bob Cain the singles. This was the TeePees' fifth victory in a row.

Following a 5-0 lead built up by St. Catharines, Howie Bassett and Gaston Gendron spoiled Ron Crosier's bid for a shutout late in the third period.

About 3,337 fans saw Burt Templeton open the scoring for Tiger Cubs, only to have Davidson tie the score at the end of the period.

In the second, Furih and Bob Bassett put the Cubs in front and Gaston Gendron and Ron Crosier of the third period Keenan took Dave Keon's drop pass and beat Bob Haworth to it. But Templeton, with his second goal, and Bassett's long shot settled matters 16 seconds apart.

Fans at one game in Latsk, western Ukraine, became slightly suspicious because the goalkeeper did not resemble the celebrated Lev Yashin. There was "a small man who couldn't manage the high balls." Al Kaline Won American Slugging Title

HOUSTON (AP) — Al Kaline of Detroit, runnerup in the batting race, built out home run total to 27 and won the American League slugging title over Jimmy Dykes of Baltimore by a margin of 43 points, Manager Bill Adair announced today.

Kaline had 271 total bases in 511 times at bat for a slugging mark of .530. Washington's Earl Torgeson was next with 231 followed by Ted Kluszewski of Cleveland's Indians, .512. Kiluszewski also collected 25 home runs and batted in 108.

Dykes finished with 42, Mantle will hit next Kaline 27.

Kaline batted .327 to finish only behind champion Harvey Kuenn of the Tigers, had 200 hits, also smacked 19 doubles and two triples. Slugging averages are computed by dividing the number of total bases by the total official times at bat.

Kaline also drew the most intentional walks, 12. However, Mickey Mantle of the Yankees had 9 bases on balls with 135. Only one of Yank's passes was intentional. Mantle struck out 126 times to lead in that department.

YANKEE

Minnie Minoso of Cleveland was hit by pitched balls 18 times to take the top target for the eighth time.

The Indians had the highest club slugging percentage, .408. Yankees led in batting average with .320. Detroit left the most on the sacks, 1,161.

Several other league records were set in American League play during 1959.

Nelson Fonef Chicago, the circuit's most valuable player, batted in most runs, 114. Mickey Mant years leading league in pinhots, successive games played at second base — most years leading in chances accepted, second base—eight; most years leading in double plays executed by second baseman in singles—and also assists by second baseman in forest strikeouts—eight. Mellie whiffed only 13 times in 1959.

Old Man Did Fine Job, Says Coach

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Those old men did a fine job," chuckled Weeb Ewbank.

The stubby Baltimore coach, still glowing over the 31-16 victory his Colts racked up over the New York Giants Sunday for the Eastern Conference championship, was referring to his defensive line of blanking in the doubt, of pre-season comments about it being "too old."

"that age had robbed the Colt front seven of all its brilliance.

But it was "the old men" who put the sloppe on the Giants' attack and helped turn a tense defensive struggle into the rout.

Leading 3-2 in the third quarter, the Colts were on the march. With fourth down and inches to go Alex Webster tried a line smash. The ball was in the yielding mass and wound up in the arms of Gino Marchetti and tackle Ray Krouse.

"I think holding them like that fired us up," said Ewbank.

"The Steam seemed to go from a 5-3 lead to a 24-3 rout," Giant coach Jim Lee Howell.

In the last quarter-hour of play, Colts scored for 24 points, quarterback Charlie Conerly threw four touchdown passes —compared with four he had completed in the game.

Colts line stars included all-pro tackle Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb, who was pushing 20, 34-year-old tackle Art Donovan and the pass-catching end Raymond Berry.

Colt quarterback Johnny Unitas, who tossed the fourth 56 yards, compared with 45 yards by Conerly for the Giants, downs in New York pass protection.

How does this Colt team compare with the one which beat the Giants 23-17 last year?

Not as good, said Giant tackle Dick Modzelewski.

"We faced a much better club last year," he said. "They don't take it away from them. They're champs."

The stars shone bright in Western Hockey League action during the weekend as the seven-game loop hammered out a six-game schedule.

The one bag for Winnipeg Warriors was Gerry Brimson, a 30-year-old veteran, who scored two goals and three assists in a weekend effort that helped lead Spokane Spokane Comets to a 7-3 win Sunday.

Spokane clinched second place in the league standings with the win and moved within two points of the third place Cougars.

Cougars also fell to another scoring star Saturday, when Edmonton Flyers' Cliff Thompson caught 19 yards behind the line and Don Chandler punted over goal line.

Baltimore gained 20 yards in four plays, Unitas completing Moore out of his pattern but free, and the fleet Penn State halfback led Colts' Ed Hughes across the goal line.

The Giants gained again late in the quarter on a beautiful draw play, with Mel Triplett driving down to the Colt 17. Conerly hit Kyle Rote with a pass to the Colt 10, inflicting a mild concussion. Rote didn't get back in action until mid-way of the third quarter.

RUSH BY PEREZ

The Giants worked the ball down to the three-yard line before Joe Perez crashed through and threw Clifford and then Conerly for losses back to the 17, but Summerall came in then to kick the first of three Giants' field goals.

Summerall's second threepointer was hotly disputed when the Colts scored. Referee Ronnie Gibbs was not in position to get a clear view.

New York played the Colts off their feet during the third quarter but couldn't quite "smell" more than a third field goal.

Then came that fourth.

After the Colts had taken the lead, Conerly tried to get the distant downfield but Carl Nelson intercepted a pass, and after one plunge, Unitas hoaked

Colts Win Football Crown Over New York Giants 31-16 With 4th-Quarter Offensive

By JACK DAVIS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Colts, pounders of the pavement in the National Football League, are champions of the world.

They clinched the title for the second straight year by staging an inspired 34-point fourth quarter Sunday to rout the eastern division champion New York Giants 31-16. Last year the Colts defeated the Giants in the playoff 23-17 in overtime.

Colts quarterback Johnny Unitas, voted the pro football player of the year, proved to a capacity crowd of nearly 60,000 in Memorial Stadium that the experts to all states that he deserved the honor. He threw two touchdown passes and ran for a third. It was the 30th straight game he's hit thrown a scoring heave.

DEFENCES SHONE

Still, it was the defence on both teams that shone.

During that wild last period, when Giant quarterback Charley Conerly and Colt Unitas put on a passing duel that had the ball game with many passes, Baltimore's defense picked off three interceptions, Conerly had two intercepted, one of him during the entire season.

The Giants started out impressively. Quarterback Conerly caught 13 yards behind the line and Don Chandler punted over goal line.

Baltimore gained 20 yards in four plays, Unitas completing Moore out of his pattern but free, and the fleet Penn State halfback led Colts' Ed Hughes across the goal line.

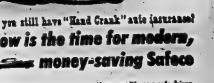
The Other Day

Ken Plasher

A friend was talking to Ken Plasher about coming New Year, and said, "You know, this has been keeping tabs on the weather. It's just as long as he has been keeping tabs on chisel marks or pencil marks on walls or tablets.



"It goes back into history a long way. I know little about it, but one of the strange things is that primitive man could not have had communication with each other often kept track of time in very simple ways. The ancient civilizations had "An Aztec calendar stone representing the solar system which has been traced back to the Mayan system of 400 B.C., was found embedded in an Aztec temple on the site of Mexico City. This gives you that a solar calendar system was in use on the American continent at least 1800 years before Asian-European man, although they had no idea there was any other continent or any other people.

It's obvious that the world is full of mysteries, but let there be no mystery about our shoes wishes for a most happy and prosperous New Year to YOU!

The Value of Outdoors Research

In the waters which surround us; the seven seas, and rivers, streams, lakes and ponds of our inlands; there are approximately 25,000 kinds of fish which have been identified and recorded. How many unrecorded species there are, of course, nobody knows. Every now and then new species come to light.

When this happens, the new fish is given a common name, a generic name, and a classification in the group to which it probably belongs. Careful dissection can tell a biologist a great deal about the probable origin of a fish. The location of its capture often can throw some light on its background.

When this is done, the biologist has gone about as far as he can go with that single sample of the species. Unless more of this species can be found and their habits and territorial preferences traced, little of any useful nature can be learned of a new species save simple identification.

Of the 25,000 known species of fish, only about one per cent has been studied so that we know in its entire life history. Thus, such a thing as intelligent management of the great majority of our saltwater game fish can, at best, be only a matter of guesswork.

For example, consider the white marlin. It is a magnificent game fish, when caught on the proper tackle. The late Paul Townsend, of Washington, D. C., did much to popularize this fish along the shores of the central eastern states. The basic research that he did off Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and the Carolinas has opened the door not only to much pleasure for the sport fisherman, but also to new knowledge of the species for the ecologist.

KNOW VERY LITTLE

At the present time, however, all too little is known of the white marlin. We know that it is migratory, but we don't know the migration terminus. We don't know where they spawn, when they spawn, what the eggs are like, the young look like, or how fast they grow. A study of the growth rate and life span might very well give us many answers to questions about their sporadic appearance in our coastal waters.

If there were any way to determine the approximate population of the white marlin, then, applying knowledge of age and growth rate, the probable population, of next year and future years might be determined and the bag limits and seasons intelligently fixed, should it seem to be advisable to take such measures for the good of the species.

Such information also would give us some idea of longevity and mortality rate. Present indications are that the white marlin does not live very long.

Such research, however, costs money. With fresh-water species, a certain amount of research can be financed from the sale of licences. With salt-water species, the matter of financing is more difficult. Only three states — Alabama, California and Texas — now license most or all of their salt-water anglers.

Congress has passed an authorization of $2,700,000 to be used for research into the biology of marine game fishes. A second proposal, which has cleared the Senate and has gone to the house, would, if passed, finance other research investigations. These are steps in the right direction and it is to be hoped that the second proposal will be passed.

METHOD OF FINANCING

But when we add up our total knowledge and balance it against the total of what we do not know, the need for research becomes glaringly apparent. Obviously, some new method must be devised to supply the necessary funds to finance such research; finance them year after year, automatically, and not by the dubious means of annual Congressional approval. Therein lies a rather vexing problem.

Time was, and well within my lifetime, that a man could go afield with rod or gun and take what he wished to take, not what the law said he could have. We learned, the hard way, that the public cannot be depended upon to protect its own interests. The individual human being is far too selfish to be trusted along those lines.

Naturally, the people who benefit from any expenditure of funds should be the ones to supply those funds. The more we know about our salt-water species, the better chance we have to provide better fishing in future years. We are reaching the point and quite rapidly, where intelligent management methods must be applied to salt-water fishing just as they are now applied to fresh-water fishing.

All right, if a fellow enjoys doing something, he should be willing to help pay the bill to keep that same something enjoyable. Surely a salt-water fisherman is decided.

Perhaps it could be handled in the same way that our duck management is handled. If you want to shoot ducks, you buy a duck stamp. (Migratory Bird Stamp) If you want to fish in salt water, why not buy a salt-water fishing stamp to be affixed to your state fishing licence? Think about it for a minute and see if you don't agree with me.

Have you ever wondered just what makes the "picture" on your television screen?

The TV picture is much like a newspaper photo in that it is made up of thousands of tiny dots. These dots are transmitted from the broadcast station in a series of horizontal lines sweeping across your screen from top to bottom at the rate of 30 times per second. This rapid scanning of the minute dots gives you a perfect picture.

When the picture on your screen isn't perfect, the quickest way to make it right is to call CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St. Their trained technicians have the experience and equipment to quickly put your set back in top condition. Phone WO 8-7791.

Charges Head Amateur Union Hurts Hoopsters

PORTLAND, Ore. (CP) — An American who has made a career of coaching national basketball teams in Europe charged Sunday that Dan Ferris, head of the United States Amateur Athletic Union, is damaging the prestige of the U.S. by "trying to enforce a policy of isolationism."

Jim McGregor, 37, made the statement in commenting on a Ferris announcement Saturday night that a Swedish national basketball team had been refused AAU sanction to play a series of basketball games in the U.S. because a professional promoter was arranging the tour. The promoter being McGregor.

McGregor, home for the holidays, said that was nonsense. "I am in no way a professional promoter. I have no financial interest in the game."

He predicted that the Swedish team would come to the United States anyway and that college teams would play it. The AAU, he said, had failed before in similar efforts.

Abe Nilsson, president of the Swedish Basketball Federation, said in Stockholm that McGregor had only supplied names of possible opponents, got no money from the federation, and "we will make the trip."

Pierre De Gaulle Dies in Paris

PARIS (AP)—Pierre de Gaulle, younger brother of President Charles de Gaulle, died Saturday night after undergoing surgery for a circulatory ailment.

Pierre de Gaulle was 68, seven years younger than his brother. President de Gaulle had hastened back to Paris earlier in the day from his country home in east-ern France and went at once to the hospital where his brother was a patient.

Pierre was an army officer in both world wars and later engaged in public life. He served several times as president of the Paris municipal council. As a member of Charles de Gaulle's Rally of the French People, he was elected to the Senate. Later he served as a deputy in the National Assembly.

On Christmas Eve he was made a grand officer of the Legion of Honor for his wartime activities.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mr. Leo Meehan of the Royal Canadian Navy, is spending a few days leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Meehan. He has recently returned from the continent aboard the "Iroquois" and reports a very rough crossing.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Walker are parents to a new baby girl.

Mr. Russ Lamb has opened a club in addition to Marmora Heights restaurant. The modern dance and banquet hall is 40 feet wide by 105 feet long and is beautifully furnished in plywood hardwoods. They opened on Friday night with the Modernaires orchestra in attendance.

Word has been received of the death of James Leonard in British Columbia. The body is being brought to Marmora for burial.

WAREHOUSE DESTROYED — Firemen battle fruitlessly to save warehouse from destruction by flames in east-central Montreal. The blaze raged out of control for three hours and forced evacuation of 69 families from nearby apartment buildings. No one was injured and cause of the outbreak is not known. (CP Wirephoto).

Space Race Between Russia, U.S. Steals Spotlight in 1959

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space race between Russia and the United States stole the spotlight from man's other achievements in flight during 1959.

The Soviet space men loped well into the lead with three successful hits on the moon with probes.

The U.S. had by far the most elaborate program: no fewer than 18 major launchings in the first 11 months of the year, six of them placing satellites in orbit. But there also were eight failures—all highly publicized—to none announced for Russia.

The Soviet launching vehicles were far more powerful, heavier and larger than those of the U.S. But most American scientists considered the information-gathering equipment aboard the U.S. satellites generally better designed than that aboard equivalent, and productive of greater volumes of useful information.

PHOTOGRAPHED MOON

An exception was the camera device aboard Lunik III which photographed 70 per cent of the far side of the moon from a distance of more than 9,000 miles and relayed the pictures back to Russia.

The Russians inaugurated 1959 with Lunik I, a 3,245 pound space probe that went into a 15-month-cycle orbit around the sun, and became the first artificial planet.

The U.S. successes of 1959 included two Vanguard satellites and two Explorers in equatorial to polar orbits, and three Pioneer deep-space probes in orbit around the sun.

During the last year the U.S. chose, from among a large field of candidates screened military test pilots, seven who will be the country's first Mercury astronauts.

In the missile field, Thor intermediate range missiles went into sites in England, and the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile made numerous successful flights.

PLANE MISHAPS UP

There was an increase in volume of civilian air travel, there was an increase in accidents.

The new Electra turboprop smashed into New York's East River killing all but eight of the 73 aboard, and another of the 1958-59 jet-prop airliners only nine days, exploded in the air southeast of Waco, Tex., killing 25.

A Vircount turboprop blew up in mid-air, killing 35, including all 31 occupants. A Chicago-bound propeller-driven Constellation was lost in a lightning storm near Milan, Italy, killing 71.

A Cleveland - bound Allegheny Airlines plane struck a mountain while attempting to land in north central Pennsylvania, killing 26 of the 25 aboard.

Queen's Usual Yule Message Brief This Year

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen, Friday told the people of the Commonwealth of her "continued interest and affection."

The 33-year-old Queen, expecting her third child early in the new year, spoke only 136 words in her traditional Christmas broadcast.

The broadcast was recorded so that copies could be flown to all parts of the Commonwealth for hearing at any time after 9 a.m. London time.

The Queen spending a quiet family Christmas at her Norfolk estate, did not appear before television cameras this Christmas.

The message, recorded eight days ago at Buckingham Palace, said: "I send you best Christmas wishes by without sending my best wishes for a happy day to all those who may be listening, and especially to my own people in the Commonwealth.

"Whatever you are and whatever you may be doing, you cannot have my continued interest and affection.

"I am particularly grateful to the many kind people all over the world who have sent me their good wishes at this time.

"I am glad to have this chance to thank you all very warmly indeed."

As the old year passes, let us celebrate Christmas with thanksgiving and carry its message of peace and goodwill into the year ahead.

"All of us at Sandringham wish you a very happy Christmas. May God bless you all."

The Queen, smiling and happy went to church Christmas Day. She looked well as she arrived by Royal car from Sandringham House to attend Holy Communion and morning service at the parish church, Sandringham. About 600 villagers stood outside the church.

With her were other members of the Royal family. Prince Charles, Princess Anne, the Queen Mother, and Princess Margaret.

The Prince Philip walked to church with the rest and celebrates with other members of the Royal Family.

What's Ahead for 1960?

What's ahead in 1960? The Associated Press asked that question of its foreign correspondents in bag across the globe the world. Here are their answers:

SOVIET UNION

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union probably will shoot at Mars or Venus in the coming Year, and perhaps at both since early slightly more propulsive power is called for than for the photographic Lunik that rounded the moon last fall.

But this is only the more spectacular of Soviet plans.

Most important will be a continued effort to establish Soviet prestige in the world politically, economically and militarily.

One of the greatest events of the Russian year will be President Eisenhower's visit.

The effort to isolate Germany from the Western camp will continue. There is no military rearm of Germany at present because Soviet citizens believe that, with Germany, it limited to that, would be over in the first hour.

At home, Russia will push the seven-year-plan. Great emphasis will be laid on extension of the electrification grid providing power to industry.

More economical agricultural production also will be pushed.

Tightening of industrial, banking and political ties with the socialist camp will be advanced. An oil pipeline is being built to connect the Ukraine, Poland and Czechoslovakia and an increasing effort made to harmonize the whole East European production on lines most suitable to the general program.

BRITAIN

By GARVEN HUDGINS

LONDON (AP)—A royal baby; independence in African territories; East - West summit talks; continued prosperity—these are the things that loom largest in Britain's outlook.

The first baby to be born to a reigning sovereign since Victoria's time is expected early in the new year.

In Africa, Britain plans to grant independence Oct. 1 to 22,000,000 people in Nigeria.

Britain also will review the move toward independence for the 6,000,000 people in the federation of the Rhodesias and Nyasaland.

Britain shares with its Commonwealth partners an expectation that world trade will be strengthened in 1960 as statesmen move toward the East-West summit conference.

EUROPE

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BERLIN (AP) — Europe may see more thaw in the cold war in 1960 but East-West problems are not going to melt away entirely.

International conferences may clear the heated air over Berlin but just how nobody can guess. Germany will not be moved.

Political controls will remain tight in the Red satellites and they may get tighter in Poland, least tied to Russia.

Marshal Tito will keep aloof and try to see to it that Yugoslavia and other neutralist countries have more say in world affairs.

Germany, Italy, France and the Benelux countries are expected to strengthen their economic ties through the Common Market. There's a danger, however, of economic division of Europe between the Common Market countries and the Outer Seven, which includes Britain and Scandinavia.

President Charles de Gaulle has not yet solved France's greatest problem, the five-year Algerian rebellion, but he has created an atmosphere for its solution with his offer of self-determination.

MIDDLE EAST

By WILTON WYNN

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — For the last five years, the cold war has featured Soviet attempts to lure Middle Eastern governments with economic and military aid.

The new year is likely to bring a big Communist ideological drive.

The base for this drive will be Iraq, where Prime Minister Abdel Karim Kassem has veered sharply toward the left. Political parties are scheduled to be legalized in Iraq in January, and that will mark the beginning of an Arab Communist propaganda campaign that will stretch out toward Syria, Iran, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia.

A bulwark against such a drive may be the man the West once considered its biggest enemy in the Arab world — Gamal Abdel Nasser.

ASIA

By WATSON SIMS

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Chinese dragon will continue to frighten this area in 1960.

More border incidents between India and Red-ruled Tibet are not unlikely.

Pakistan may for the first time feel the weight of Peking's claims to the Pakistan-governed part of Kashmir.

Nearly every country in the area has a "Chinese problem." Indonesia has slapped restrictions on Chinese traders. Thailand is controlling trade with Red China. Laos remains a potential tinderbox.

Japan's Parliament will choose between neutrality or a firm posture beside the West when it accepts or rejects a new security pact with the United States.

AFRICA

By LYNN HEINZERLING

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo (AP)—Four new, independent nations will be born in Africa next year and 41,000,000 Negroes will be freed from colonial rule.

Millions more will press for their own emancipation. Another year of unrest appears certain.

The Belgian Congo, Kenya, Uganda and Nyasaland are the most sensitive territories at present.

In South Africa little change appears in prospect for the 9,500,000 blacks who have no political rights.

LATIN AMERICA

By BRIAN BELL

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Latin America faces a year of political strife and economic problems. Argentina, Brazil and Peru are examples.

Argentina is trying to escape from the bondage imposed by one - crop or raw material economies. Several countries are pushing industrialization to lessen the drain of imports.

Ice Topples Trees, Lines; Roads Are Treacherous

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Southern Ontario's power, communication and transportation systems today were gradually being restored to normal in the wake of a crushing ice storm that did little short of prodigious damage but caused a great deal of personal inconvenience.

The heavy ice toppled trees and telephone, hydro, manger power circuits, grounded planes and left roads in a treacherous condition.

Freezing rain turned to heavy snow Monday night, petering out early today when forecasts were for cold, cloudy weather with snowflurries.

The snow depth varied from two to four inches in Toronto, Hamilton had 6½ inches and 7½ inches fell on Ottawa in the storm moved east.

The snowfall made it a bleak prospect for snow working throughout the night to repair disrupted power and communication services. In some areas, full restoration of hydro services was expected to take another two days. More than 800 men, including reinforcements from areas that escaped the brunt of the storm, worked on the lines.

SHELTERS ESTABLISHED

The storm left thousands of homes without light or heat in Scarborough and North York townships. Shelters and other emergency shelters were set up in community halls, schools and churches.

Few persons, however, stayed in the shelters overnight. Many were worried about basements being flooded when their furnaces were out of action. Others wanted to keep watch over their homes.

The problem along a wide front from Lake Huron to the Bay of Quinte. Officials of the Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission said it is gang, from their most widespread trouble since hurricane Hazel in 1954.

Many rooms are still at a near isolated temporarily as telephone lines went down and roads were blocked. At one stage, Hamilton was in danger of blackout as three of its four 115,000 - volt power circuits were knocked out.

Icy roads in many parts of the province, but traffic was light as thousands of motorists left their vehicles at home. Hospitals were

SOUTH ONTARIO—Page 9

Crops to Suffer From Ice Storm

TORONTO (CP) — Just how heavily Southern Ontario farm crops will suffer from Monday's ice storm probably will not be decided for another week or two.

Mild, rainy weather within that period could save winter wheat and fringe crops, said D. D. N. Hunley of the Ontario Agricultural College. But continued cold, or snow on top of the ice covering, would be disastrous.

Dr. Huntley said three weeks in a row of mild weather before smothering effect of ice on wheat, rye and fall seedings would cause serious in their dormant winter state.

Wheat planted after Sept. 15 in the Toronto area, or after Oct. 1 in southwestern Ontario, would be subject to the greatest damage since it has not reached sufficient height to provide silt pockets under the ice.

Dr. R. J. Hilton of OAC's horticulture department said fruit orchards could not be hurt much by

NEW DIRECTORS FOR CHAMBER NAMED

The members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce through a primary and final ballot have elected six new directors for a two-year term, commencing first of January 1960.

The newly-elected directors are Mr. H. F. M. Cane, Mr. E. David, Mr. A. O. Drysdale, Mr. P. McCabe, Mr. C. A. Vincent, Mr. J. N. Yahoyer.

On January 6th, 1960 the six new directors together with the six directors whose term of office still has a year to go will meet to elect Chamber officers for the coming year.

Coin-Operated and Unattended Laundry Now Open for Business

A new innovation in the laundry business, the coin-operated unattended, do-it-yourself installation has made its appearance locally today with the official "grand opening" of the new Econ-O-Wash Laundry, 142 North Front Street.

Housewives who don't own a washing machine or dryer will now be able to do their laundry at a greater economicality, and more conveniently than ever before.

They will be able to wash and dry up to 10 pounds of laundry for only 30 cents, 2 cents for washing and 10 cents for drying. And it will only take them a half hour to do it, providing they have no one load before them.

The Econ-O-Wash is equipped with 19 Speed Queen washing machines and a large commercial, gas-heated dryers.

It is also equipped with two long tables for sorting clothes, a detergent and bleach machine for those who don't bring their own, which dispenses either at five cents a cup, and a coin-changer machine. There are large instructions for use on the premises locally and also instructions for operating the washers and dryers on the machine, so there will be no confusion in operating the machines.

WELL-LIGHTED

The building is well lighted with fluorescent lighting, well-heated and attractively decorated in a blue and white color scheme.

In addition there is a small, modernly-furnished lounge for the convenience of customers waiting for their laundry to be done. In the near future coke and cigaret machines and a pay telephone will be installed.

The building will be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to allow customers to do their laundry at their own convenience.

For the added convenience of customers there are large parking areas in the front and rear of the building.

In many service clubs, the post also carries with it the job of collecting fines for infractions of club rules and against those individuals who, through wisecracks and other means, threaten the order of the club.

The post generally carries a one-year term in office.

It also carries several dandy vantages.

Where the average member can leisurely enjoy his meal chatting with acquaintances, then relax with after-dinner coffee, listening to the business and other speaking, calmly and deliberately the Sergeant-At-Arms is generally up and down like a jack-in-the-box, keeping a watch for infractions.

NO TIME TO RELAX

A conscientious type like Harry scrutches busty bites of his meal between collections, and seldom has a chance to relax until the meeting is over.

And although he may appear to be deep in conversation, he always has one cocked for the unwary Rotarian who steps out of line.

His only piece of equipment is a plain collection box which he hangs from his belt as he would his way between the tables. (Characteristically, an admirer once Ottawa, Sunday. Leo, who suffered second degree burns, heads a welcome for the youngsters onto the next-door roof when fire trapped them upstairs.

Rotarians Proud of H. Burns, Sergeant-at-Arms of Club

Could one call a Sergeant-At-Arms an artist?

One could if the Sergeant-At-Arms was one Harry Burns, who currently holds that post at the Belleville Rotary Club's weekly meeting.

At a time when clubs, organizations and individuals are looking back over the past year to take kock of their accomplishments, the club can be proud of Harry's record.

Firstly, for those who don't realize just what a Sergeant-At-Arms is supposed to do; strictly-wise, his job is to "keep order".

In many service clubs, the post also carries with it the job of collecting fines for infractions of club rules and against those individuals who, through wisecracks and other means, threaten the order of the club.

The post generally carries a one-year term in office.

It also carries several dandy-vantages.

And although he may appear to be deep in conversation, he always has one cocked for the unwary Rotarian who steps out of line.

His only piece of equipment is a plain collection box which he hangs from his belt as he would his way between the tables. (Characteristically, an admirer recently presenting him with a ten-gallon hat and bandit's hat-chief!)

Few can beat him in the friendly off-the-cuff repartee which precedes each collection and in many cases the member's refusal in the verbal exchange is accompanied by a doubling of the fine!

Among subjects which will send Harry on his happy, clinking way are politics and advertising, taboo Rotary conversation pieces.

The recent municipal election gave Harry lots of fuel as candidates Ben Corke, Wilker Elliott and Jack Ireland can rue-fully testify.

However, if the members are behaving themselves too well, Harry can always provide several casional subjects that they have been uttered.

The collection which has reached a low of about 90 and a high of $20 generally averages $10 per meeting. The money is handed over to the Rotary general funds to help with the club's work amongst crippled children and other activities.

NEVER QUESTION HIM

Fines range anywhere from a nickle for minor infractions to $1 or $2 for major remarks incorrectly connected with advocating the overthrow of governments or hops promoting a political affiliation.

And in truly democratic fashion, no one ever disputes your fine is to question Harry's zealousness — then dig your hand deeper in your pocket!

This man is questioning the Sergeant-At-Arms' conclusion Harry in mock indignation.

Harry, backing up with a reflection of confidence, then president Bill Hurst, Harry will insert on club policy. He will then turn to his (cold) coffee, all set to pounce on the next divergent

Member Invites Rotarians to Visit Ottawa

Les Grills, MP for South Hastings in the Federal Government, yesterday extended an invitation to Belleville Rotary Club members to visit Ottawa as his guests.

With no regular guest speaker arranged for the meeting, President Bill Hurst asked Les Grills if he would like to say a few words about government policy and plans.

Mr. Grills said he could not discuss policy or planning for the coming year, but he offered to entertain any Rotarians who would like to go to Ottawa and see Parliament in action.

He said that it was a good time for a visit to Ottawa as the Christmas bloom certainly enhance the beauty of the capital.

An especially "spicy" item for the visitor to watch is the question period.

"This is when the opposition tries to embarrass the government," he pointing out.

Mr. Grills said he was always glad to see anyone from home.

"I am in the public service; I am a public servant," he said. "If you have any problems I would be glad to hear from you."

BIG FAREWELL

Bob Tenner received an official farewell from the club yesterday. He is moving to Toronto to take up a post in Ottawa in electronics research.

Earlier part of the meeting came from Montreal and Pennsylvania.

For the latter part of the meeting, members enjoyed an entertaining session of 4-11 in which — for the benefit of any newcomers who didn't know other members of the club — each member was given and listed his name and "classification."

"Classification" is the profession or job which the member practises. This was a lively session as the members endeavored his name and told members:

"It won't be long, now."

The minister's name was not mentioned.

Driving Blizzard Plugged Highways, Disrupting Traffic

The city and district bent its shoulders and its wheels against the force of a driving blizzard last night that plugged highways, byways and generally disrupted traffic.

This morning at nine o'clock between seven and eight inches of snow had fallen "on the level"—and Mother Goose was still shedding her feathers.

The low temperature during the night was 21 degrees.

Straggling enough the city public works department reported that the tree damage in the city was comparatively light. Very few large branches were down.

The sun-waster threw out warning gusts at five o'clock yesterday afternoon and by 11 o'clock the blizzard was at its driving height.

City crews started removing snow from Front Street at midnight and with the storm showing no decrease all city plows went into action at 3.30 a.m.

This helped pave the way for only a mere delay in the flow of bus service. But officials said their vehicles were away at 6.15 and no reports of delay were received from drivers.

WANT CARS REMOVED

City public works officials request that all cars be removed from the downtown areas by midnight tonight so that snow-clearing work can be done without delay.

The heavy drifting caused serious inconvenience to a number of city drivers. Private driveways were plugged and drifted in some places with over two feet of snow. Downtown parking areas were snowy wastes.

Suburban and rural districts in the outlying districts were delayed, with some totally snowbound.

The highway situation was in a treacherous condition.

Reports of 11 highways plows were out all night, but this morning all the snow was a slippery icy surface caused by definite slowdown in traffic.

TRAFFIC MOVES SLOWLY

From six to seven inches covered the highways but "snow belt" but highways were clear with traffic moving slowly through.

The situation was general in the district. Prince Edward main roads were cleared early but travel from Picton to Trenton was hazardous.

Colonial Coach Lines reported its night bus from Montreal to reached Kingston but did not proceed further. A westbound night bus was an hour late in departure.

There was little delay in postal service in the city and district. There was a slight hold-up at the railway station.

Rural couriers all reported in fairly despite heavy roads while city letter carriers experienced only a slight delay before proceeding on their rounds.

Building Inspector Snowfall Observer For Research Council

Being a volunteer snowfall observer for the National Research Council at Ottawa is a rather impressive sounding title, but it is but one of the various responsibilities now given by city building inspector Grant Stickle.

As the title indicates the job is a purely volunteer one and is one which generally falls to the building inspector in each Canadian municipality.

The daily duty of the position is to take readings of the amount of roof snow on public buildings and together with the amount of ground snow, the figures are forwarded to Ottawa for compilation of a nation-wide picture of the amount of snowfall each year.

Readings are taken after each snowfall of more than three inches.

IN MEMORIAM

CASEMENT. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Casement who died December 20th, 1958.
We watched you fade away
Our hearts were really broken,
Then kissed you fondly
But when we saw you sleeping,
We could not wake you.
We could not call you back.
God took you home.
Sadly missed by your family.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. Grace Alexander and family of the late Mr. William Alexander, 19 Ann Street, wish to express their sincere thanks to relatives, friends, neighbors of the Ameliasburg community for their kindness and sympathy in the beautiful floral tributes, cards and telephone calls received during the loss of a beloved husband and father. Special thanks to Rev. Lloyd Smith and Rev. Gregory, Dr. Wallington and Mr. John R. Bush and staff.

Magistrate's Court

Two drunk drivers, apprehended by police over the Christmas holiday, will pay for their indiscretions by serving seven day jail terms. The two men appeared this morning in city magistrate's court before Magistrate T. G. Wills and were sentenced to seven days in the country jail.

And a Cherry Valley man charged with false pretences as a result of passing a worthless cheque to a local car dealer was sentenced to two months in jail.

Two Belleville youths charged with car theft had their cases adjourned for another 30th and were released on bail.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market, led by a resurging industrial index, was higher during relatively heavy morning trading today.

The 11 a.m. volume totalled 232,000 shares, much lighter than Monday's 634,000 shares at the same time.

Steel Company of Canada led winning industrials with a gain of 1¾ at 82¾.

On the losing side Eddy Paper lost 1¼ at 34¼ on a single sale of 100 shares.

Mines were relatively quiet with only a few lower-priced issues trading actively. Senior uraniums were mixed. Algom gained ¼ at 17¾, Gunnar went up five cents at 39.25 and Consolidated Denison was off ¼ at 11.

On Monday the market plunged downward.

Index changes: Industrials down 2.20, at 327.75; golds up 1.

Rotarians Told Of Aims, Needs, Achievements

TRENTON — The regular weekly dinner meeting of the Trenton Rotary Club was held last evening in the Clifford Hotel. President Fred Preston announced that he had asked Rotarian Grover Saylor to arrange a "Rotary Information" program.

Rotarian Leo Fownes said that Rotary Club activities could be divided into three sections, intern tional, district and local. International Rotary, said the speaker, encouraged international goodwill, peace and service. There are 400,000 Rotarians in 83 countries. The Rotary Club is not a political organization, but can be described as a world fellowship of business and professional men united in aims and ideals of world service. These ideals, said Mr. Fownes, are exemplified by the Rotary Fellowships whereby the most outstanding students are picked from various countries and given the opportunity to study in the countries of their choice, thus becoming unofficial ambassadors of their own country and taking home with them a new love of government and culture from the country they have visited.

Mr. Fownes urged his fellow Rotarians to attend district and international conferences wherever possible. On the local level he stressed the need for new members.

NEED MORE MONEY

Rotarian Grant Rathbun spoke on the financial status of the local club. He said that there was a great need for new ideas for money-raising projects to keep the three main accounts of the Trenton club liquid. Mr. Rathbun advised the members that the general fund, the benevolent fund and the bright old children's fund all had healthy balances, but he said that more money would be needed to carry out certain activities necessary to keep the club in the future.

Mr. Rathbun recalled that the club had donated around $18,000 towards completing and equipping the operating room at Trenton Memorial Hospital, and he said that the club could be expected to contribute to the fund for the proposed new addition to the hospital.

Rotarian William House Sr. said that the club had donated around $2,000 on landscaping the grounds at the hospital. Rotarian Ken Couch told the members that the first fill in the spot which is known as Fraser Park had been put there by the Trenton club.

Rotarian Clarence Kaylor spoke briefly on the importance of Rotary in world affairs. He said that the local clubs gave business and professional men in town a chance to meet one another socially and to work together to develop and assist in community welfare projects. Mr. Saylor said that the club provided leadership opportunities and said he had its members becoming a part of civic projects.

A cheque for $1000 was given to President Fred Preston by the bingo committee. Mr. Preston praised the committee and said that the early bingo games raised between $2,500 and $3,000 each year for the club's welfare projects.

SOLDIER REMANDED

PEMBROKE (CP)—Pte. Donald Ellis, 21, charged with murder in the fatal beating of his four-months-old son Roger, appeared in court Monday and was remanded without plea to Dec. 31.

200 Appeals Being Heard Privately by Revision Court

TRENTON — The Court of Revision is presently holding a two-week session of sittings in Trenton to consider appeals against the recent re-assessment values set by J. Alan Smith, town assessor and his staff on residential, commercial and industrial property.

Approximately 4,000 assessments were mailed out and around 200 appeals have been registered for the consideration of the court.

Present at last night's meeting of the court were: O. W. Larry, J. Alan Smith, Councillors W. H. Bradshaw and Lloyd Worrall, D. R. Fraser, Harold Blakely and Harold Turney.

This year, each appellant has been sent a written notice advising him of the time when his appeal will be heard and each case is being dealt with separately and privately by the court.

The complaints against the assessments are, in a great number of cases, from persons who are unaware that a general reassessment of town property has taken place this year. Another factor on which the appellants base their complaints is the considerable increase in assessments in the comparative sizes of the outbuildings, garages, etc.

One property owner objected to the assessment on the grounds that his "E" type house, built in 1950, was rented to a relative from whom he received only $35 a month rental. The court decided that because the property was rented to a relative it was not a true indication of the property's value.

Mr. Smith advised them that they were being assessed this year, for the first time, on their recreation room, which explained the increase.

The court advised them to write to council requesting the instruction of the zoning by-law and there was a general discussion as to the re-assessment of certain properties in this area on the basis of improper representation.

RELATIVE VALUES

The question of relative values of property on the north and south sides of Dundas Street East, immediately adjacent to the town bridge, was raised.

It was pointed out to the court that the business places on the south side of the street attracted more customers because of the service stations, car-lots etc. on the north side, and it was suggested that the latter should be assessed at a lower value.

However, a number of those present felt that the court's powers lowered the value of the assessment, while the land value remained the same, and that each side should be assessed equally. Another point of contention with the property owners in this area was the inconvenience caused by dust from coal piles in the rear of the south side properties. Mr. Larry pointed out that the coal business had been established a number of years ago and that several property owners had built knowing of this problem. Councillor Worrall said that the coal dust problem should be dealt with by council rather than the court.

It was decided to postpone a decision on the final assessment on this area until more information concerning the relative values of property could be obtained.

The court will sit again on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Monsignor J. P. Sullivan New Pastor at St. Michael's

Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan, DP, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, has been appointed pastor of St. Michael's parish, succeeding the late Dean E. B. Garvin. (The appointment was announced Saturday by Archbishop J. A. O'Sullivan.

Monsignor Sullivan, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral for the past 10 years, is expected to take over his new appointment here on February 1st.

He was born in Kingston on September 24, 1914, and has since resided there except for his years of study in the seminary. He attended St. Mary's School and Regiopolis College, Kingston. In 1933 he went to St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, for courses in philosophy and theology.

Monsignor Sullivan was ordained by the late Archbishop M. J. O'Brien in St. Mary's Cathedral on June 11, 1939.

He was immediately appointed assistant on the cathedral staff and chaplain of Hotel Dieu Hospital, positions he held until 1949 when he succeeded Rev. J. A. O'Neill as rector of the cathedral.

As chaplain of Hotel Dieu Hospital, his duties have been responsible for its post-war expansion of facilities and the development which led to its affiliation with Queen's University as a teaching hospital. During this time he was appointed as diocesan director of hospitals, and was also responsible for the establishment of St. Mary's of-the-Lake Hospital, a hospital for the chronically ill.

He became a diocesan director of the Holy Name Society, director of the St. Vincent de Paul Society and its representative on the Kingston Community Chest and Kingston Council of Social Agencies; he served for a number of years on the executive of the Catholic Aid Society.

Monsignor Sullivan has also served as a member of the Kingston Separate School Board and in that capacity served leadership which brought about the construction of Cathedral School, Kingston, as the first senior elementary school to be opened in Ontario.

NAMED PRELATE

On May 16, 1955 it was announced by His Holiness Pope XII that he had named a domestic prelate. He was invested with the robes of a monsignor in St. Mary's Cathedral on June 13, 1955.

Archbishop O'Sullivan also announced Rev. E. J. Wade, principal of Catholic School, Kingston, since its opening in 1951, and a native of Kent, Ont., has been named rector of St. Mary's, succeeding Msgr. O'Sullivan. Rev. W. J. Downey, who has been on the Cathedral staff for the past two years, and a half, will become principal.

The Archbishop further announced that Very Rev. J. Gregory, pastor of St. Gregory's Church, Picton, will be the choice of Rev. Dennis Deasy as by the late Dean Garvin.

Reds By-pass Panchen Lama As They Start Remaking Tibet

TOKYO (AP) — The Chinese Communists are by-passing the Panchen Lama in remaking the crazy-quilt society of Tibet, according to her lhasa, his capital, shortly before the October anniversary celebrations of the start of the Red Chinese have put the Panchen Lama "on the world" firmly on the path to eventual communism.

Ten days ago they created a Tibetan "people's political consultative conference" to plan steps toward regional autonomy under Red control. The Panchen Lama was not named to it.

Peking has so far offered no hint of explanation for the prolonged vacation they have given the 21-year-old puppet ruler at a critical period in his country's history. There have been no complaints of the expected departure for Tibet of the eminent young Communist who is governor of South China after 11 days of thrilling fanfare in Canton, Shanghai and exhibitions in Shanghai.

The Panchen Lama is the highest religious figure in Tibet in the absence of the Dalai Lama who disappeared in 1950 and fled to India after the unsuccessful revolt against the Communists last March.

Since the Dalai Lama's flight Peking has stepped up the indoctrination of communism. Peking has indicated it will no longer rely on the Buddhist priesthood who formerly ruled Tibet to lead the country into the Communist version of democracy.

The fact it has been able to push through the important first phase of Tibet's conversion from feudalism suggests that the Chinese are using the old noble class as a front.

Travellers from Lhasa to India reported in September that the Panchen Lama had spoken out against some Communist land reforms, particularly the stripping the abbots and monks of their properties.

If this is so, it would explain why the Chinese have kept him away from Lhasa for so long. It more logical to suppose, however, that Peking wished to show far it could go using only the Communist and Chinese weapons to carry out the form program. For Panchen Lama may be headed even further into the background.

All-Time Building Record Of $6,253,023 Established

An all-time record for construction was rung up in Belleville during the past 12 months it was noted today by City Building Inspector Grant Stickle.

During the year 1959 a total of 506 building permits were issued at city hall with a total construction value of $6,253,023.

During the year there were 259 permits issued for the construction of new homes and garages, value of which was just about one-half the year's total of $3,118,052. Value of new homes was $2,818,044 and garage $300,000.

Institutional construction was also at a high level during the year with permits for the new Hastings County courthouse, the new Nicholson College and the new Our Lady of Fatima separate school being the major items in swelling the list to $1,464,950.

Commercial construction totalled $1,148,300, this list including the new Victoria and Grey Trust Company building for which excavation is now in progress at the corner of Front and McAnnany Streets in downtown Belleville. Other large commercial structures for which permits were issued during the year were Bishop's office and warehouse on Station Street, and the Bell Telephone workshop in West Belleville.

March was the really big month during the year with 83 permits being issued for a total of $907,500.

By comparison the year 1958 was a small year construction wise. Last year there were only 238 permits issue for a total construction value of $1,139,071, while in 1957 the total was $1,674,908 with 192 permits being issued.

A New Development --- As Per Schedule

Fidel Castro, whose tenure of office as Cuba's boss seems to be not as secure as might be expected by one who had let his people out of the wilderness previous Cuban political chicanery and oppression, recently announced that an invasion of his people's island may be expected in the near future by those who would oppose his regime.

This announcement, of course, calls for a tightening of the belt and the observance of numerous restrictions upon economic development and the individual freedom of the citizens in order to protect and prepare the country against the predicted "invasion." It is said that the economic advocates which the Castro government has promulgated will have to be curtailed, if inconvenient, however, for by reports of the effect these advancements one gets the impression that the country's economy would have to suffer via deficit financing if they were to be put into force long.

The freedom of the individual will not, probably, be as much since Cubans have not been accustomed to this advantage to any great degree under previous governments, if we are to accept the present government's statement. And we do not feel that the curtailment in Cuba offers any great scope for personal freedom for those who would care to express their opinions openly unless the word Castro is used in the affirmative form only.

If we review the life and times of previous governments, whose rise to power has been achieved through fire and sword, we might find a significant similarity, though to be able to predict with almost mathematical efficiency the coming moves of Senor Castro's regime.

To begin with a government which has captured imagination and support of the people, as well as power over them, through an initial atmosphere of goals sublime and enthusiasm for particular causes, will be able to keep the support of the people either through fulfilling its promises or through the maintenance of the emotional level which won the new government its initial support and success, if it finds disappointment in the fulfilment or denial of justice as its circumvention by economic necessity "can't".

That is so true, particularly in this day of so many traffic charges. Many a time the accused pleads guilty, against his conscience, because of the fine, rather than go to the expense and inconvenience of fighting the case. We don't say that is right or that the police make a habit of laying charges that they can't back up. But just the same, that is what it is often easier and cheaper to accept an infraction than to take the courts that to try to obtain justice.

Similarly many a civil action goes by the party best equipped to sustain the high cost of successful litigation. Many a party has settled for less than he felt was his due rather than go to law because he could not afford the high cost of justice.

What the remedy is, or whether there is one, we don't know. But it is heartening to see that someone so prominent within legal circles is also concerned about it.

Hamilton's Hair Crop

Hamilton Spectator

We are indebted to United Press International for providing us with the "Hair Crop" from which taken together, the following conclusions of alone can be reached about one's head.

The first test:

"The average scalp has between 120,000 and 150,000 hairs, according to the public health committee of the University of Minnesota State Medical Association."

And the second:

"Hair on the head grows at the rate of about three-quarters of an inch a month."

Many of these present an arithmetical charge to one prepared to scratch his head for science. Taking the lower hair figure in Fact One of 120,000, and multiplying it by the three-quarters of an inch in Fact Two, the researcher can deduce that the head of the child grows at the rate of 90,000 inches or 7,500 feet a month. Each lady does its bill.

The hair is roughly a mile and two-fifths per head per month. The census takers say there are 2,000,000 heads per in Hamilton these days, and all of them combined in that many hours their grown on local heads monthly, which is quite a crop.

Considering the fact, let's be really absurd and conclude that the Hamilton dimensions produce 43,000,000 miles of the stuff which, if it were in a long strand, would girdle the globe 1,800 times. All of which arithmetic indicates more than why there are so many hairdressers and barber colleges in town, and why some editorial writers are bald before their time.

Justice Cost Is Too High

Calgary Albertan

Mr. A. E. Purdy, retiring president of the Vancouver Bar Association, has appealed for an investigation into the efficiency of the administration of justice. He declares that the cost of civil cases, interminable delays and technicalities often force litigants to lose their just rights. Victims, he says, are faced with the alternative of a denial of justice as its circumvention by economic necessity.

That is so true, particularly in this day of so many traffic charges. Many a time the accused pleads guilty, against his conscience, because of the fine, rather than go to the expense and inconvenience of fighting the case. We don't say that is right or that the police make a habit of laying charges that they can't back up. But just the same, that is what it is often easier and cheaper to accept an infraction than to take the courts that to try to obtain justice.

Similarly many a civil action goes by the party best equipped to sustain the high cost of successful litigation. Many a party has settled for less than he felt was his due rather than go to law because he could not afford the high cost of justice.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE TIME TO GIVE UP

Everybody experiences the desire to quit, to give up, at one time or another. It is a natural, common reaction. But it is the very wise man to know exactly the time to give up.

The greatest minds of history have touched their experience to this question. Almost all has never been published in so many words as Abraham Lincoln of the ages has left his opinion as to the best time to give up.

Here it is: The time to give up is — Never!

You see, if any of the wise heads of the world had decided that is the best time to give up, they wouldn't have gone down into history as wise heads at all.

Thomas Edison freely admitted that he had tried out thousands of experiments working toward a new idea before he found one. If anybody ever heard him say he will ever given up on one of them.

But if there were a time when Edison should give up, that time certainly would not be when everything he had invested in Winston Churchill didn't give up the ghost. Back in 1900 he made his celebrated speech in which he said, "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat." I prefer a Democracy to a Monarchy. But I like the word "King." King comes from two words meaning "able man." Able men never give up. They say it differently, "the king is the man who can."

YOU

By EDGAR A. GUEST

You are the master of yourself, you tell yourself how far to go,
You hold the throttle of your power, you make your schedule fast or slow;
You bid yourself to toil or rest,
you choose the joys you wish to claim,
And you determine just how much of strength you'll spend to win a game.

The whistle blows at quitting time, but you command yourself to quit;
You either choose to drop the task or stay right there and finish it.

Success from distant mountain tops looks out her joys for you to gain,
But you decide how hard you'll fight those splendid glories to attain.

You bow to rule or conquer all the obstacles that bar your way;
You make the choice 'twixt toil and ill, you make the choice
'twixt hell and play;
You say how much or little here you'll do for glory or for pelf;
From manhood to the silent grave you're alone or master of yourself.

Consolidated Smelters poured their first bar of gold at Cobalt down on Friday morning. That bar was a comparatively small but avant gratefal and probably the most important news at the year coming out of Peterborough County. Its full significance can only be surmised because there is no accompanying information to indicate the value of the ore that Consolidated M. and S. Company has been running through their mill—a new it was completed and put into operation.

Strictly Personal

What Most People Ask Of Religion

By STUDENT J. MARKIN

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Why do the righteous suffer and the wicked prosper? Why are the righteous from the self-righteous? Why are the righteous from the priggish? Why are the righteous from the virtuous? Why are the righteous from the righteous? God knows where the line is drawn.

Excessive grief is a kind of overwhelming moral unwillingness to face the fact that nothing ultimately belongs to us, that we will leave the world as naked as we entered it.

More men remain little boys than women remain little girls, for mothers tend to cripple their sons by coddling them, and are more objective about their daughters.

To have entertained a great number of differing opinions is the path to maturity; to die at a strong and flexible mind; while the person who has entertained but one or a few opinions is the victim of arrested development and is under the dominion of prejudice rather than reasonableness. Final opinions should be arrived at rather than inherited.

It takes a heap o'people bills to make a heap o'people.

One of my favorite comments of the year came from Dr. Diana Hirsh, of Chicago, who, as I listened to a football coach who spoke straight English for perhaps at least, I could detect no higher origin in anything he said."

Dr. Hirsh's comment that economic factors are the principal and determining motives in human behavior, despite our Marxist philosophy, however, is not to be considered as anti-Marxist.

What most people ask of religion is that it permit them to live comfortably with their foibles, that it give them a method to pay the price of an occasional fling, that it condone and that pleasant penance of a collection plate.

The truest generosity is to give recognition to those who have not yet attained recognition, which is rarely done; for instance, the Nobel Prizes were originally designed to encourage gifted youngmen, but they have largely degenerated into awards for elder men who have already demonstrated their talents.

Goethe was right in asserting that "You can't get rid of what is part of you, even if you throw it away," but he was remiss in failing to add that you can subdue it to a better part of you. Psychotherapy does not mean "curing" as much as it means "controlling."

Willie Whale Does His Duty

Calgary Daily Mews

Another notable "first" for Canadian medical science was made the other day when a team of doctors recorded the heartbeat of a baby whale.

Several big, expensive superstitions have been organized in recent years to accomplish this feat. They all failed. Then along came Willie Whale.

He nosed up on a Cape Cod beach, came into shallow water when the Coast Guard towed him away, lay quietly until every detail was recorded. After the electro-cardiogram was taken, he died.

The circumstances are a little puzzling, and since Willie passed away in small agony there will be wee a hypochondriac, a heart disease or two looking for a doctor, or just a mixed-up mammal. Either way, he becomes a martyr to science.

It is not immediately apparent to the layman what the heartbeat of a whale is important. But basic research likes to understand the way animal chassis thesis days.

Chances are, in keeping the doctors' verdict that medical science is enriched. And thanks to Willie, the Soviet Union, Russians, who have no surprised whales that we've heard of.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most songs are written in one of two ways: either a poem or clever lyric is written first, and a suitable music designed to suit the words; or else a composer dreams up a beautiful or interesting melody, and words are cooked up to suit the tune.

Most of the popular songs written in the past thirty years were composed by committee in search of a fast buck rather than of a good song. If the tunesmiths, so called, knew of a faster way of making a fast buck, they would have adopted it instead of writing songs.

The only a limited number of songs have survived — the good ones. These are played and sung over and over again, not only year after year, but day after day, by singers and bands that have no personal touch. The result is, after a few years of being hooted around by all manner of acrobats and conscientiously at music, that no vestige remains of the relationship between the meaning of the words and the sound of the music — the secret of the song's continued popularity.

Birds by strike, we are astonished that this art of creating lasting is sacrificed for a fast buck.

To Your Good Health

HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF AGAINST SUDDEN HEART ATTACKS

Question: What are the chances of a person getting sudden heart attacks?

The answer to the inquiry of R.B.S. yesterday, the answer is, first, to consider what (from science is like) the factors which contribute to the problem. After that is thought to "probable."

Here are a baker's half-dozen of the important factors:

Heredity: If you have had long-lived ancestors, then you are pretty sure to have inherited good arteries and good cellular structure. That being the case, just avoid needless abuse of them.

Diet: Excessive fat in your food is thought to "predispose" to coronary heart disease — coronary thrombosis, or "coronary attacks" being the ones that can cause sudden death. But there's a difference between a "predisposing" and "exciting" and trying to avoid fat altogether. A moderate amount of fat is needed. How much is "moderate"? Well, one guide is:

Obesity: If you are overweight, pay attention to the amount of fat or fried foods, you eat. You can, without starving yourself, cut out much starch and sugar or, for that matter too much of any kind of food. Fat is the source of the calories, is so often part of the "predisposing" factor, and when fat ones, and the heart is only one of many organs affected by obesity.

Dr. H. E. S. said he was a bit surprised when I suggested he added that his weight hadn't changed in 22 years. A little weight reduction (as in Fact Number Eight — would be in order.)

Exercise: Regular exercise — and R.B.S. gets it, cutting the grass, gardening, doing chores around the house, golfing) is important. People who spend too much time in bed get soft muscles and fat. Regular exercise is the treatment for angina pectoris, often bursts of exercise, with none between, do more harm than good, more.

Sex: Men are more subject to coronary heart disease than are women. However, women are subject to such heart attacks after menopause. Sex is not necessarily distinguished from female hormones. Sex is not a vice. But here again I don't see much to be done about it — except to keep in reasonable bounds. It may be the sternest sex but not necessarily the strongest, so far as the heart.

Stress: Anxiety, constant rush, worry, working to exhaustion, staying up late, missing sleep, trying to get too much done without taking a break to relax and ease the tension — these are prominent factors in bringing on heart attacks. You don't have to be a "nervous wreck" to be a victim.

Cholesterol: It is perfectly feasible to measure the cholesterol in the blood — but it is the cholesterol which is deposited in the arteries wall that is important. Cholesterol is only one factor in blood. Likewise, recently there is evidence that other fat factors in the blood are just as significant. If I had a high cholesterol reading, I'd take it as a clue to start being careful about all of the factors involved.

Mr. R.B.S., I think, already is doing all the things he ought to do to protect himself, including:

Moderation: Moderation in all things important to living. R.B.S. is sparing in alcohol (One highball in an evening) and in smoking (one or two, sometimes as many as four cigarets a day) I think he'll be with us for many, many years.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Could beer cause a gain in weight? — Mrs. H. J."

Yes, it's high in calories. The fact that it is liquid doesn't mean it won't pack on pounds.

Note to Mrs. C. C.: Bronchial asthma in a young child means that every effort should be made to trace any possible of allergy.

Can you a victim of "vitamin starvation?" Breakfast In Jamaica

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Many medical men say one should start the day well with a good breakfast. Every effort should be made to trace any possible of fruit juice, toast and coffee. There is in Kingston, Jamaica, a restaurant Regular, Kingston who are funny as regards the kind of food they eat, but make up in the quantity. Nevertheless, the Kingston Gourmets like to let their stomachs digest delicacies and combine quantity with quality. Here is their idea of a typical breakfast, as when they assembled for breakfast.

They started with black coffee with coconut milk and sugar, then a delicious curry dried codfish and Jamaica ackee, a savory native fruit which when cooked looks like scrambled eggs. Then came fried fish, followed by pecled oranges and cassava warfers. Other dishes served Monday were fruit cup, rum 'n' lime juice, curried lamb with savory condiments with baked plantain, baked breadfruit slices, flaming bananas (made by basking bananas with, molasses sugar, drenching the mixture with liquor and touching a match to it), ending up with Cafe Blank — Blue Mountain coffee containing a liberal dollop of Jamaica's liquer supreme, Tia Maria.

About the time they got perhaps not to the breakfast stood. Likewise, recently there is necessary in the search for definition. The general practitioner cannot be an authority on diseases of the eye nor can he be expected to perform major operations. If a man is going to treat history or English or any other erudite subject, he has to give a large portion of his life preparing himself to do so. He cannot be expected to be an authority on science and mathematics or teach mechanical drawing.

Specialization means the ferreting out of specialized knowledge and the application of this knowledge to practical situations. Where a specialist in diseases of the feet that the specialist may fail to realize that he is part of a larger group and that he must integrate his knowledge into the whole body's common body of information.

SPECIALIZATION

We live in an age of specialization. One need only to call a patient to a hospital to appreciate this fact. He is passed around from one specialist to another until he is sometimes more ill from hurrying about and climbing stairs than from the disease for which he is seeking cure.

The value of specialization is emphasized. To ask a carpenter to install a wiring or an electrician to paint a square inch of surface would be the same as asking him to do both all the Ten Commandments at one time. Likewise, a medical game one sees the offensive and defensive players running on and off the field and assuming their separate coaches giving them instructions.

CPR President Crump Sees 'Further Curtailment' of Railway Passenger Services

MONTREAL (CP)—CPR President N. R. Crump said Monday night "further curtailment" in railway passenger services is indicated in face of growing public preference for air travel on long trips and private car travel on short hauls.

In his year-end statement, Mr. Crump scanned 1957's impact on the privately - owned Canadian Pacific company, pointing to progress in many fields but also stressing major problems facing the CPR.

"Business conditions in Canada improved in 1958 although the improvement was not uniform in all segments of the business community," he said, pointing to agricultural and mineral products and lumber logged holding adversely reflecting rail traffic. The increase in the volume of railway traffic in 1959 has been small."

MAJOR PROBLEMS

"Notwithstanding the progress made, as the following approaches, the company is faced with major problems.

He said the foremost problem stems from statutory rates on grain and grain products moving in western Canada pegged at the level of 1899 and bearing "no relationship to today's greatly increased costs."

Mr. Crump referred to the CPR-CNR proposal to Canada's royal commission on transportation—a proposal for government help to cover the full cost of moving western export grain.

He said CPR recognized that "the national economy would be adversely affected by an increase in the export grain freight rates." With this in mind, CPR has proposed "that freight charges by western grain growers remain under the control of Parliament as they are at present" but that the Canadian treasury accept as a "national obligation" the difference between a fair freight rate level and the level statutory level.

CAR CAUSES CHANGES

Mr. Crump also said:

"The growth of private automobile travel has made it necessary to eliminate passenger trains on many branch lines. Reduction of train services on main lines has also been undertaken. Further curtailment is indicated as the public's preference for air travel for longer distances and private automobile travel for shorter distances continues to grow."

Canadian Pacific Air Lines, granted authority this year for daily flight each day in addition between Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal, has found the service "so popular that many patrons have been carried without reservation as a result of the restriction on the number of seats in flight."

Future expansion in Canadian and international services was anticipated.

The CPR's piggyback service—movement of truck trailers on railway flat cars—now covers 6,000 CPR route miles and extends from Atlantic to Pacific.

GREEN AT UN — Canada, through External Affairs Minister Green (right), stressed the "forward look" at the 14th general assembly of the United Nations in New York. Green's address dealt with the issues in which Canada 'took a lead in the 62-member Assembly was a call for a detailed study of the affects of atomic radiation. External Affairs Minister Emphasized Forward Look in Debut Before U.N. Assembly

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Canada worked with the future at the 14th General Assembly of the United Nations.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green emphasized the forward look from the day he made his debut before the 82-member body, when he called for a long-range, comprehensive study of atomic radiation and its meaning to the health of mankind.

The Canadian delegation took the same attitude in tackling such outstanding problems as disarmament, outer space studies, assistance to refugees, the future of the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East and the danger of war in Southeast Asia, where Laos was involved.

Canada has a special interest in all these, and progress was made on all fronts. But on some other issues, the UN experience wasn't so happy.

The assembly passed resolutions condemning Communist oppression in Hungary and Tibet, with little or no hope that conditions would be improved in those countries. Canada supported both resolutions.

UNGLAMOROUS ISSUE

The Canadian team took its main initiative on radiation — a subject with little glamor but holding immense implications in this age of fallout from nuclear tests and growing use of nuclear energy for industrial purposes.

Striving to keep the issue from becoming bogged down in cold war animosities, Green invited Communist support and the Canadian resolution won unanimous East-West agreement after only a brief discussion.

Co-sponsored by 10 other countries including Communist ones, some native communities when they take their caribou here, or the seal falls to appear.

Shadowy Network of Roads Being Laid After Oil, Base Metals Found in Far North

By GERRY MCNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—The search for oil and base metals is touching off a flurry of exploration activity in the Northwest Territories into great jigsaw pieces—a puzzle hundreds of miles square. A thousand rivers and creeks, frozen mountain ranges, great forests and vast stretches of muskeg fight each step.

The Yukon's first oil well gushed this year at remote Eagle Plains. Oil men are drilling or exploring more than 93,000,000 acres in the Plains and Mackenzie districts, and 34,000,000 acres in the Arctic Islands.

ARCTIC ROAD

The Eagle gusher blew in August at a 450-mile road was being slashed from Dawson City, Yukon, to Tuktoyaktuk, N.W.T., an Arctic port. The road field is about 150 miles northeast of Dawson City.

Another route to the Arctic is being shaped from Yellowknife to Coppermine. There it will end. Truckers hope to reach the port on Coronation Gulf. But beyond the route is still more of a hope than a reality. It consists mainly of a winding trail of blasting ice floe lake to lake.

Its future lies in nickel strike made north of Great Bear Lake and computed by mining men with shrines in Northern Ontario and Northern Manitoba.

Southeast of Great Bear Lake, a base metals find made in 1939 has drawn 2,000 men to the Wop May Lake area, a Jeep's bounce from the route to Coppermine.

Yellowknife now is reached by a nearly-complete 276-mile highway circling the west end of Great Slave Lake and linked with the Mackenzie Highway, which is being widened and improved.

MAY GET RAILWAY

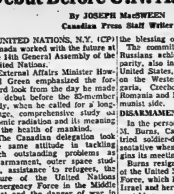
Pine Point, site of promising lead, zinc and copper deposits on Great Slave Lake, may get its railway after a dispute over the location of the Northern Alberta Railway terminus is settled. A royal commission was established to go to work to settle the northern and western Alberta railheads at Waterways and Grimshaw.

In Saskatchewan's 100 - mile road from La Ronge to Uranium City was started in 1952. Uranium's immediate future is shaky since a federal government announcement that contracts with the United Kingdom and United be renewed.

Troubles is opening, its south with a $15,000,000 program which will result in 675 miles of roads. The biggest mining project in the province is the International Nickel Company's development at Thompson, expected to reach the extraction stage in 1960.

The old Canol road from Whitehorse, Y.T., to Norman Wells, N.W.T., may be reopened. A molybdenum mine began production in the northern Yukon in 1956 and high-grade tungsten deposits were discovered.

Another major northerners hope to see would stretch from Pine Lake, east of Lake Athabaska to Eskimo Point on Hudson Bay, sparking exploration of the barren-lands north of it.



THE NEW NORTH

Miners, technicians, geologists, engineers, nurses and government clerks are pouring into the area and a new type of Canadian—the northerner—is emerging.

The result is a stable population base that will enable the area to develop a diversified economy and demand more comforts. Several northern communities are getting round and seasonal jobs ranging from fishing to surveying.

But many remain at the mercy of the northern elements. Malnutrition, even starvation, strikes some native communities when caribou take their leave, or the seal fails to appear.

Even for the white man, the most winter is a trial. Yellow fires flash along the Mackenzie and Alaska Highways in sub-quitoes plague the outdoor worker, the number of mosquitoes machine in a quicksand grip.

LAKE SUPERIOR LASHED

Wind gusts of more than 80 miles an hour sent 20-foot waves against the shore of Lake Superior in Minnesota and Superior, Wis. Snow and sleet lashed wide areas in northeastern and western Minnesota and eastern South Dakota.

The churning waves swept two badly decomposed bodies ashore Monday in St. Louis Bay on Lake Superior, between Duluth and Superior.

Dr. Cyril Smith, St. Louis county coroner, said one body was that of a man between 40 and 50 years of age. Only the torso of the other was found. Both fact and officials weren't sure whether it was that of a man or woman.

The storm in the Beltot, Kan., area left an estimated 300 motorists stranded, and hundreds of others met the same fate throughout the Midwest storm belt.

Temperatures dropped as much as 25 degrees lower than Monday morning from Michigan, Illinois and Indiana southward into Alabama and Georgia. Readings ranged from the 30s in the Great Lakes region to the lower 60s.

Toronto Suburbanites Take Worst Winter Storm in Stride

TORONTO (CP) — Ice-laden power lines, broken and drooping like frozen tentacles, still locked many suburban homes in paralytic today in the aftermath of one of Ontario's worst winter storms in years.

A big task faced Hydro workmen as they gradually restored power to provide heat and light for hundreds of people. Things were not expected to be fixed for normal until tonight—and possibly the weekend.

Many families who had no hope of returning to warm homes quickly found refuge with kin, relatives or at various emergency shelters set up in the stricken areas.

Ice storm, which struck Monday and caked power lines and trees with up to two inches of ice, ended this morning. On its heels came a new disturbance that dropped as far as 12 inches of snow in many areas, adding to the woes of Hydro repairmen.

No deaths were directly attributed to the storm, although there were scores of traffic mishaps as motorists battled the tricky going on glazed roads. Police and firemen were hurt in falls on icy sidewalks.

SUN MAY SHINE

Warmer weather expected to get a break today. Light snowflurries were forecast for the morning, with sunshine with temperatures around 30.

The hardest hit areas were the townships of North York and Scarborough, with a combined population of 250,000. At one time about 4,000 homes in North York and 2,000 in Scarborough were without electricity.

A Hydro official estimated today that perhaps 1,000 homes in North York were still without power. Emergency calls were flooding the office switchboard and residents being very co-operative, he said.

Air traffic was disrupted. Extra trains and buses were put into service to ease the strain.

Fruit trees in the Niagara Peninsula were covered with sleet. Damage, if any, to tender-coated crops will not be known for about three weeks, said Dr. J. N. Hartley, with the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Power failures at Hamilton curtailed production at the Steel Company of Canada and Dominion Foundries and Steel Corporation.

LINES BROKEN

Hydro officials said most damage was caused to distribution lines in the Toronto, Niagara Falls and London areas.

One 230,000 - volt line running from Barrie to Claireview was out, but a second line was able to carry needed power without interruption of service. A 115,000-volt circuits between Hamilton and Niagara Falls was severed during the day.

Still two volt line crashed down outside London Monday night, cutting off power to Goderich, Clinton, Exeter, Seaforth, Brussels, Blyth, Dublin, Mitchell and Bayfield.

The Richmond Hill, Newmarket, Markham and Woodbridge areas were also troubled throughout the day and communities were cut off in Orangeville and Caledon districts. Hydro officials in Oshawa, Whitby and Belleville areas. Delays in industrial production occurred at Brantford when power service was disrupted.

Tyendinaga Twp. Council Returned

Acclamation for all municipal offices was seen yesterday as the deadline of nominations held for the township of Tyendinaga.

All of last year's councillors were nominated for another term and will have qualified although withdrawal could be made until the deadline at nine o'clock this evening.

Reeve for another year is Gordon Wallbridge while Deputy-Reeve Hoonigman was returned as deputy reeve.

Councillors for another term are Sidney Fitzgerald, Bernard O'Sullivan and Russell Glass. Jack McFarlane and Alvin McKenzie complete the township members for the May 1 Tyendinaga Public School Area.

The township is expecting new a good attendance as township ratepayers meet to hear an accounting of the year's municipal affairs.

Castro's Military Revolt In Year Has Changed to Leftist-Tinged Revolution

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — In the year since Fidel Castro and his bearded followers marched out of the hills his military revolt has changed into a leftist-tinged social revolution.

And no matter how popular—or unpopular—it may be here or abroad, his regime has dug so deeply into every phase of Cuban life that even his most severest critics admit Castro may be around a long time.

The liberty he promised remains far away as do the national elections Castro expected after the 26th of July Movement toppled Fulgencio Batista's regime last January.

Looking back over a year of Castro rule, Cubans still in Castro's most popular public figure. He may at the same time be its most hated.

MANY DESERT CASTRO

Castro has lost thousands of his original supporters, many disillusioned by appeals to class hatred and his attacks on the United States and the political Probably he has gained many thousands more, but on balance Fidel Castro lost ground during 1959.

Last January he promised Cuba free elections as soon as a groundwork of economic and political parties could be re - established.

Today his own 26th of July Movement is the only political party tolerated in the Communist Cuba, aside from the Cuban Communist Party (Partido Socialista Popular). Others have been virtually driven underground.

ARMS BACK DICTATOR

His regime has sent more than 500 persons to firing squads, mostly on charges of terroristic activities under Batista. Castro has all the power of a dictator. And that power is backed in the toughened way, with Cuba's armed forces, and national police plus a new "people's army" of workers, peasants and students loyal to Castro.

Anticommunist hatred against the government has been driven underground by Castro's well guarded obscurity or into a Castro political prison.

Hence the left is left freer and direct a program of social, economic and agricultural reform.

This began in the Sierra Maestra hills where Castro conversed with peasants and set out to begin a drastic land reform program. Through the National Institute of Agrarian Reform rapidly becoming more powerful than the Cuban government itself.

This institute today controls more than 2,000,000 acres of farmland and ranchland seized from Cuban and American owners, has created 200 state-farm rural co - operatives and opened more than 400 "people's" stores.

CASTRO AT HEAD

The institute is headed by Castro with left wing geographer Captain Antonio Nunez Jimenez as his executive officer. Che Guevara, Castro's right hand, moved far into Cuban industrial activities, taken over the coffee and poultry business, seized for operation fishing and tobacco in-

Motorists Must Have Liability Insurance Cards

Ontario motorists will again have to secure liability insurance cards or certificates from insurance companies before they apply for their 1960 licences or else be charged with driving cars "in chief" penalties.

This was indicated today by George Olsen, local auto licenses issuer, who said it appeared that most insurance companies had apparently been under the impression that the liability insurance cards would not be required. It is expected that insurance companies will be mailing out liability cards to owners in time for them to receive their new licences.

Mr. Olsen also reminded that registration fees for certain types and models of cars have been increased when they go on sale January 2nd.

Meanwhile, speaking licences for the so-called small cars will remain at $15, while the fee for minimum for station wagons and trucks is $20. Also the fee for motor cycles has been raised to $10 from $5, while the new minimum for trailers will be $5 instead of the former $2.50.

With few exceptions, the motorist $15 rate for cars with up to 33 horsepower, is that for four cylinder cars manufactured prior to 1933.

The licence for these cars will be $8 in 1960 instead of the former $3.

W.S.G. Hears Story of Carol's Origin

"The spirit of Christmas was captured in a program of Christmas carols and legends from different lands at the December meeting of the Women's Study Guild, held at the home of Mrs. Vernon, Burwood Drive.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Reid, the meeting was chaired by Mrs. Murdock. Mrs. Lambert reported that a $10 Christmas collection had been sent to the Outlook Committee. The Guild decided to continue its sponsorship of the Italian foster child for the coming year.

Mrs. Orr, who conducted the worship service, read the Christmas story from St. Luke, and gave a short meditation on the importance of stopping to listen to the Christmas message.

Mrs. Wylie, who presented the program, gave a brief but interesting history of the Christmas carol. Mrs. Meades, who was unable to be present, Mrs. Wylie played recordings of Christmas carols from England, Wales, France, Germany, Australia, the United States and Canada and told the origin of their origin. From England, France and Germany came the legends of the Glastonbury Thorn, the Yule cake and the Christmas tree.

Mrs. Wylie concluded by playing the Huron carol and telling the story of the first Christmas celebrated in Canada by the French settlers.

Christmas carols formed a tuneful background as refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Stenton.

Church, S.S. Hold White Gift Service

JOHNSTOWN — Sunday School and church services were held together on Sunday afternoon, it being white gift service time.

The church was nicely decorated with a blue imitation Christmas tree with pink lights and the nativity scene in front of the church.

Quiet music was played by the church organist for the occasion, Mrs. Alec Vandervoort. The call to worship was given by the superintendent, Mrs. Alvin Meyers, with prayer led by the Rev. G. A. Patterson. The Scripture lesson, read by Evelyn Berry, was found in Matthew 2:1-11.

A Christmas poem was given by Rosemary Bush and the offering was collected by Phillip Lobnes and Bruce Wrightmen. A story was read by Joan Vandervoort.

Mr. Patterson spoke on the platonic of Christmas, saying "It was 306 years after Jesus was born that they added celebrating his birthday.

Grant Vandervoort was then presented with a Bible for good attendance for the year having attended all Sundays.

Carols were sung throughout the service.

Christmas Concerts

CENTENARY CHURCH

On Monday evening the annual Christmas concert was held in Centenary church, with a good attendance. The Sunday School superintendent, R. E. Edmondson, welcomed the guests and introduced the chairman, Mrs. Ross Bicknell. The following program was presented:

Christmas chorus by senior class chorus with accompaniment, Doll's Christmas Eve, junior room; Hiding the Christmas Present, senior room; recitation, Roy Mack; dialogue, senior room; Christmas Blessing, boys' senior room; piano solo, Marilyn Nobes; three choruses, kindergarten and Last Little Letter, by the senior room.

Santa Claus appeared thanks to Mr. W. Dever, principal of Sir John A. Public School, room teacher and Miss Pitman, junior room teacher, who arranged the program and trained the pupils.

Santa arrived at 10.15 and distributed candy and gifts to the children. Mr. Bicknell pronounced the benediction.

MOIRA SUNDAY SCHOOL

MOIRA — Moira Sunday School and Victory Class held their Christmas concert on Friday night in the church hall. Mrs. Milton Vanderwater, superintendent, was in charge. Invocational with his classmates, Linda Ketcheson, Linda Wall, Donnie Farrell, Gordon Ketcheson and Billie Vanderwater taking part in the Christmas story.

Mrs. Milton Vanderwater's class sang a Christmas carol with Mrs. Gordon Foster at the piano.

The awards were given out by the superintendent, Donald McInroy, to the child that had highest points in each class. Miss Dianne Bronson received a hymn book; Donnie Farrel and Jimmie Hutchinson, a Bible, which were dedicated by Mr. Dyson.

Miss Bronson read a Christmas story.

A film was shown of a missionary family working in a foreign country and the wonderful work they were doing, also a film of Jesus' birth which was enjoyed by all.

Santa Claus arrived and distributed bags of candy, nuts and gifts to all the children.

HARMONY CLUB S.S.

MARSH HILL — A Christmas program was presented by the Harmony Club and Sunday School on the Marsh Hill church on Thursday night.

Mrs. Allyn Fiskin presided over the following program:

Worship service was opened with the Harmony members singing "Away in a Manger." The Scripture reading from Matthew 2: 1-12 was read by Bruce Coulter. Mrs. Allyn Fiskin gave a meditation of the Scripture, followed with prayer.

Mrs. Ivan Clare and Mrs. Charlie Kammer sang the duet "Star of the East"; Mrs. Charlie Ross read "What Christmas Means to You."

Mrs. Allyn Fiskin's Sunday School class gave a number entitled "Gifts for Jesus and Himself," followed by Mrs. Albert Clare's class gave a Christmas number and the Marsh Band gave "Christmas Gifts" and closed with singing "The Wise May Bring Their Learning."

The public school pupils favored with two numbers, "Silent Night" and "Sing Thy a Ling a Jingle."

Mr. David Hollinger's class presented a playlet "The Same Christmas," followed by the school children singing "He Is Born the Holy Child."

Mr. Bartlindale's class each gave a Christmas reading which was followed by Messrs. Berson Mills, Farley Lindenfield, Fred Campbell and Walter Lindenfield who served with refreshment, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

At this time Santa Claus arrived and each child was presented with a bag of candy.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, pie and ice cream were served.

Women Victims of Ancient Plot by Men Over Clothes

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Why do today's women wear bobbie shirts and needle heels?

They may think they are selecting the latest fashion by their own free will, but actually they are victims of an ancient plot by the male sex, says Lawrence Langner, noted playwright director of the Theatre Guild and author of a new book, The Importance of Wearing Clothes.

Says he:

"The differentiation in clothing between men and women arose from the male's desire to assert superiority over the female and to hold her to his service. This he accomplished through the age by means of special clothing which hampered or handicapped the female in her movements."

Watch a woman trying to get into a taxicab in one of this season's bobbie skirts and you'll see what he means. Watch her trebling along a city sidewalk in a pair of stiletto heels, and the point is apparent. It would be much simpler for the ladies just to stay at home, which is what men have had in mind all the time.

FREEDOM OF ACTION

Langner notes that from earliest times men's clothing has permitted freedom of action while women's garb has been designed to hamper any movements.

In ancient China, where women disappeared into gynecocracy and gynecocracy Langner points out, other means were adopted to hinder movement—bobby pins were driven into the head of the chiffon which dips upward to reveal some of the black taffeta underskirt. A beautiful party dress, it is perfect for a slim blonde.

Modish Memory

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Dramatic and highly reminiscent of the evening fashions of the Irene and Vernon Castle era, is this dancing dress of black chiffon built over a sheath of black taffeta, a glamorous expression of the tunic. A band of black ostrich feathers enlivens the hem of the chiffon which dips upward to reveal some of the black taffeta underskirt. A beautiful party dress, it is perfect for a slim blonde.

Double Yuletide Party Held by Court Sharron

Recently Club Canara was the scene of a wonderful double Christmas party. The ladies of Court Sharron No. 1982 Canadian Order of Foresters, went all out to make the party one of the best ever held at the club.

In the early evening a party for the children was held in the basement hall a the club, where Christmas and comic films were shown by Donald Reid of Court Belleville No. 736. Immediately after the films, Santa Claus came bounding in, his rollicking laughter resounding throughout the building. The children were delighted, and Santa lost no time in getting down to the business of handing out the gifts, fruits and candies, assisted by several of the ladies.

The gifts and goodies were provided by Court Belleville and Court Sharron, and Santa made sure that no one was left out.

At also p.m. the main hall on the second floor was thrown open for the big adult party and Court Sharron was crowded with a packed house. This party was open to members of Foresters and their friends were present from Belleville and surrounding districts.

Charlie Kammer and his band kept the crowd on its toes with modern dance numbers, also an old-time quadrille. Mrs. Bill Conley called for the square dance.

A delicious lunch and coffee was catered and served by the C.N.S. Ladies' Auxiliary.

Robert Lancaster was the lucky winner of the door prize, a miniature of a local Delft ware. A grocery hamper and turkey were won by Allan Hamilton.

The Club was beautifully decorated and everyone agreed that it was one of the best Christmas parties they had ever attended.

Court Sharron ladies, organizers of the event, were happy with the results, and are looking forward to planning a bigger and better party for next year.

Women's Activities

MARSH HILL W.M.S.

MARSH HILL — The Christmas meeting of Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Switzer, with 15 members and four children present.

The president, Mrs. Farley Lindenfield, opened the meeting with a Christmas reading and the Christmas carol, "Angels From the Realms of Glory", followed by prayer and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The study secretary reported that a bale weighing 53 lbs. had been sent to Toronto for overseas relief.

The Christian stewardship read a letter from the Presbyterial stewardship secretary that the allocation for 1960 is $185.

Mrs. E. B. Finkle read, "You Don't Have To Drink", from the Canadian Boys' Sunday School Paper.

The members reported sending 23 cards and making four house calls and one hospital visit. Mrs. Searles, Christian stewardship secretary, read "Are We Real Women, Stewards"; and Mrs. Tanner read, "A Statement on Christian Tithing".

After singing the hymn "Come Let Us Sing of a Wonderful Love", Mrs. Bartindale presided over the following program and read the Scripture lesson Luke 2 and 8 to 20. Christmas Carol Magic was read by Mrs. Harold Detlor; and "A December Night" by Mrs. Leslie Little.

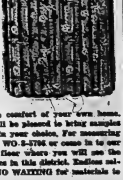
A discussion followed with the following questions asked: "Is Christmas Too Commercial?" What would be an ideal way to celebrate Christmas? "Should be the real meaning of Christmas?

Mrs. Detlor read, "Forgive Our Christmases"; "Inside Christmas" was read by Mrs. Bartindale.

Mrs. Walter Lindenfield read "The Miracle on Spadina Avenue", and Mrs. Bartindale "In the Music of a Song".

After the benediction, the hostess served refreshments.

HAGERMAN — LEACOCK



St. Phillips Church, Montreal, was the setting on Saturday, December 13, at 2.30 p.m. for a pretty winter ceremony when Barbara Gisele Leacock, of Montreal, daughter of Mrs. James Leacock, was united in marriage to John Douglas Hagerman, of R. R. 1, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Hagerman, by the Reverend C. C. Compton.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Stephen Leacock, the bride was lovely in white brocade with finger-tip veil and cascade of white and red roses.

The reception was held at the home of F. B. Hoyland, 6675 Bankland Avenue, Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Hagerman will reside at 48 Lakeshore Drive, Apartment 8, Dorval, Quebec.

Still Doing Pushups Says Woman of 84

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Louise Tandy Murch has been doing pushups and exercises in her class all her life and can see no reason why she should stop now because she's 84.

"Why shouldn't I do pushups every day," she asked reporters recently. "I'm not old yet."

A singing teacher for 35 years, Mrs. Murch says she got her daily exercises as a girl as part of her singing training.

"Now they've become a habit I enjoy. And I haven't taken a drop of medicine in 40 years."

Mrs. Murch, a lean, alert grandmother, has found her age has forced a few concessions, mainly that she limits herself to 12 pupils.

Tandy, her maiden name, is well-known in Toronto. Her father, the late Rachah Tandy was the tenor soloist of the city in the 1880s and was for many years on the staff of the Royal Conservatory of Music.

Each of her sons is carrying on the musical tradition in the family. One is a commercial artist in New York, another a television actor. A third son is a boy no young," she says.

Court Sharron Elects Officers

An interesting election of officers for Court Sharron No. 1, the Canadian Order of Foresters took place recently in St. George's Chapel on Station Street, Belleville.

Officers elect for 1960 are as follows: past grand — Mrs. Pomeroy; president — Mary Rattan; vice-pres. — Levina Lalonde; rec. sec. — Wynn Reed; fin. sec. — Dorothy Taylor, treasurer — Marion Draney; chaplain—Gideon Jonston; warden — Grace Marsh; inner guard — Marie Hawley; outer guard — Florence McFarlane; conductor— Barbara Brady; auditors — Dorothy Taylor and Marie Murray.

The Sisters of Court Sharron were assisted by Dist. Deputy High Chief Ranger Doug Pomeroy and Dist. Manager, Russ Rattan.

piano teacher and the other a church director.

These days, she is busy preparing six of her pupils for the Kiwanis music festival, followed by the Toronto East festival to be held in March. There is a $25 scholarship each year for the best singer.

"It's music and my interest in my young pupils that have television actor. A third son is a boy no young," she says.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. P. V. — She has no right to explode in my face.

Harriet V. — They should not interfere.

Mrs. P. V. — My daughter-in-law and I have had a serious argument and I feel she owes me an apology.

My husband recently asked our son how he was getting along financially. He knew Bill had some debts a year ago and was worried about whether or not he had gotten ahead. My husband is unable to work at this time and we can't help them — which makes us worry even more about their financial difficulties.

Anyway, it was all meant in a good spirit, but my daughter-in-law didn't think so. She came to me fuming, saying we had no right to interfere in their financial affairs. We didn't interfere. My husband just asked. Is that a crime? Harriet had no right to explode in my face.

Harriet V. — I certainly feel that we have no right to stick their noses into a young couple's finances. We aren't asking for anything from them. In fact we have helped them beyond our ability with gifts and things.

It isn't my fault that we haven't yet gotten out of debt. We didn't spend any more than necessary to start our home. I am a very careful shopper and I don't overpay for anything.

I realize that a lot of women bring in money, but my husband doesn't want me to work. He says he'd rather have me stay home and keep a nice house. I agree that this is the best thing for a woman to do. Eventually, we'll manage to get ahead financially.

The Council: The P. V.'s are making a big mistake in worrying about their son's financial problems, but we see little more at fault in their conduct.

Harriet's self-righteous indignation smacks of guilt. She childishly defends herself against charges that haven't been made. She doesn't accuse her in-laws of having said she is extravagant or should go to work.

We can only guess why Harriet defends herself against these charges. Our guess is that she is one who is making the charges against herself. She should try to analyze this situation for herself. Perhaps she feels that she is imposing to/o great a burden on her husband or that she should spend less since she isn't bringing in any money.

We are not urging Harriet to cut her budget or to go to work. We merely think she ought to be honest with herself. If she feels she is placing too great a burden on her husband she ought to do something about it. If not, she ought to stop recriminating herself.

As parents of fully grown children, the P. V.'s should do themselves the service of refusing to worry about things that are no longer their problem. They are able to help their son out of his financial troubles. But even if they were it is doubtful that this would be desirable.

Mr. P. V. should recognize that although his son hasn't entered the retirement, he might be somewhat resentful at being placed in the childish position of having to answer to his father for the conduct of his personal affairs. Mr. P. V.'s question in itself doesn't constitute interference, but it does hint at an involvement which shouldn't exist.

New Year's Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Willy-nilly many of you will have what you jolly well always have on New Year's, so I am taking a guess and suggest three meals which you might select.

It will be a glorious meal regardless of your choice for the very atmosphere of New Year's is so exhilarating.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Baby Beef Liver Baked in Sour Cream; Mashed Squash; Brussel Sprouts; Shredded Carrot and Cabbage Salad; Cottage Pudding with Lemon-Nutmeg Sauce; Coffee.

NEW YEAR'S DINNER MENU:

roast goose

or roast suckling pig (see Monday) or standing rib roast of beef

orange sauce (for goose or pig) or horseradish cream (for beef)

fresh frozen pea in onion white sauce (see below)

delicate mashed turnip (see below)

Polish cucumber salad (see below)

vanilla ice cream with hot butterscotch sauce (see below)

Christmas cake, shortbread, salted almonds, coffee.

POLISH CUCUMBER SALAD:

One medium head iceberg lettuce, 1 medium cucumber, 4 full-length small green onions, 4 tablespoons vinegar, about 2-3 cup commercial sour cream, salt. Cut head lettuce roughly into 2-4" cubes. Wash, pare and slice cucumber paper thin. Wash and chop onions small. Toss together in bowl with the vinegar. Add just enough commercial sour cream to moisten adequately. Chill. Sprinkle with salt and serve at once.

DELICATE MASHED TURNIP:

To serve 6, wash, silce and pare 1 medium turnip. Cover with boiling salted water, bring to boil and drain. Add 2 medium potatoes, pared and halved. Add 2 cups boiling water and boil covered until turnip is very tender. Drain. Add 2 tablespoons (or more) butter, 1-4 cup top milk or cream, salt and pepper and beat the daylights out of them, as you reheat them over low heat.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE:

1 1-3 cups light brown sugar, 1-4 cup water, 4 tablespoons butter, 1-2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-3 cup chopped nuts (optional).

Boil sugar and water together to the soft ball stage, 234 to 240 deg. Fahr. Add butter, lemon juice and nuts, if used.

Tomorrow I am giving you, in answer to many requests, some general ideas for your New Year's Eve party. Most of you have your plans well laid by now, so anything I have suggested will be little extra help will have no trouble in finding, or buying. For instance there will be ideas for a buffet table centrepiece featuring the attractive foods you are going to eat.

QUESTION BOX

Question: A widow, whose husband died a year ago this month, is anxious to know if there is a specific length of time that should be observed before remarriage. She is anxious to avoid appearing disrespectful or bring criticism down upon her head from her friends and acquaintances.

Answer: In years gone by, a long period of mourning was strictly adhered to. A woman who remarried for at least three years after her husband's death, was not only criticized, she was practically ostracized. While there is no definite rule today regarding the length of time before remarriage, it is generally accepted that, for the sake of appearances, it should be at least a year. Actually, it would seem to me that this would be a decision that should be made by the individual, based on the circumstances. It might be wise to consult your spiritual advisor and be guided by him.

Question: A Junior in High School is going to receive a hope chest for Christmas from her boy friend. They are not engaged, but expect to be in about a year. Is it proper for her mother, or girl friends, to give her a "hope shower" after she receives the chest? If this isn't proper, when can the shower be given?

Answer: It would seem to me that in this case everyone is getting ahead of themselves! Hope chest or fillegs can happen in the year before this engagement is announced. Even if it does survive that length of time, no showers should be given until after the formal announcement of the engagement is made. Then only friends of the girl should be hostesses at showers, never her mother or any relative. The reason is that guests are asked to come bearing gifts, and members of the family of the bride-to-be should not ask for gifts for one of their own.

BIG FAMILY TREE

IPSWICH, England (CP)—The libraries committee of this Suffolk town has bought a real family tree — a 9½-foot-long collection of records on parchment dating even as far back as 1066, belonging to a family that has lived here since the 10th century.

GALLUP POLL!

GALLUP POLL — By CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION

Where Available 6 in 10 Homes Have Stamp-savers

WHAT impact have trading stamps made throughout the communities of Canada in terms of availability? Back of all the argument that's going on, how many households are collecting them?

To get the first property organized national measurement on this contentious issue the Gallup Poll sampled a national cross-section to report on what was actually happening in regard to consumers and retail stamp programs.

In Canada as a whole, stamps are now available in 61% of the communities. They are collected in 59% of the households, averaging the country as a whole.

This national average varies greatly with the regions. In Quebec province, where stamps have been in use for many years, they are available in 94% of the communities. Across the province 80% of Quebec homes are collecting stamps.

Ontario has known stamp plans for several years in some areas, such as the Ottawa valley, but they were only introduced in a big way in August of this year. Today they are available in 80% of the communities in Ontario, and saved in 59 per cent of the households.

In the west, where stamps have just been introduced, and have recently been banned in Alberta, stamps are available in only 16% of the communities. They are collected in 14%-of the homes.

To find out impact of stamps in its varying degrees across the country, interviewers for the Gallup Poll asked this question:

"As you may know some stores give stamps to customers when they buy. These are saved, pasted in books and exchanged for products illustrated in catalogues. Do you happen to know whether such stamps are given by any stores in this community?

	YES	NO	DON'T KNOW
CANADA	61%	21%	18%
Maritimes	70	6	24
Quebec	94	2	4
Ontario	80	3	17
The West	14	65	21

Interviewers put a second question to those men and women who said that stamps were available in their community.

"Is anyone in your family saving these stamps?"

Columns below compare Quebec, Ontario and the west with the national average. Number of interviews in the Maritimes in those communities where stamps are available is too small for sound reporting.

	YES	NO	DON'T KNOW
CANADA	59%	41%	*
Quebec	86	13	1
Ontario	59	50	*
The West	19	81	*

* Less than 1%

Stamps are available to a greater degree in the nation's cities than they are in rural areas. Among the largest cities, 68 per cent of the households are saving stamps. In rural areas 30 per cent of farm homes are collecting them.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JCT. — The annual Christmas party, sponsored by the pupils of Eagleton public school, S.S. No. 36, Madoc, and several members of the Eagleton Women's Institute, was held at the church on Friday night with a large crowd in attendance.

Mr. Bruce Donaghy was chairman for the program, which opened with chorus by the school, "Christmas Bells", followed by the welcome given by Lloyd Gregory.

Eight little junior pupils took part in an exercise, "At Christmas Time." A dialogue, "Christmas Adventure", was presented by six boys, Ivan Robb, Glenn Stapley, Kenneth Bamford, Wayne McMullen, Grant Reid and Sam Danford.

The musical skit, "I Come to Your Wedding," with the senior girls' and senior boys' Sunday school classes taking part, provided considerable amusement. Mary Judy Johnson and Sandra Stapley were the two little flower girls. A recitation, "A Boy's Letter to Santa," was given by Wayne McMullen.

The junkers in grades I, II and III sang two songs, "The Little Teapot" and "Mary Had a Little Sheep."

An amusing dialogue, "What Became of the Turkey," was well presented by Isobelle Prest, Emily Clarke, Lois Bamford, Rosanne Prest, Lloyd Clancy and Gerald Stapley.

The next number was the Nativity pageant, "The First Christmas" with carols by Allen Reidd. Those taking part were: Linda Prest as Mary; Lloyd Clancy as Joseph, and Lin Stapley, Michael Browning and Brian Rowsch as the shepherds. Several carols were sung with the audience joining in.

Two songs, "Christmas" and "Keep the Christ in Christmas" were sung by a group of senior pupils; a recitation "Christmas is Coming" was given by Michael Browning and Carol and Lois Danford sang "Away in a Manger".

A dialogue, "Miss Santa Claus" was presented by Stapley, Beverley Stapley, Vickie Browning, Carol White, Dianne Prest, Marilyn Stapley and Isobelle Prest, showing the true spirit of Christmas when several less fortunate ones in the town were remembered with gifts at Christmas.

At this time Mr. Stapley, on behalf of all present, expressed appreciative thanks to the school teacher, Mrs. Ross Stapley, the music teacher, Mrs. Shepherd and to all the pupils for the splendid entertainment.

The closing chorus was: "Don't Wait 'Till the Night Before Christmas" and "Here Comes Santa Claus."

Just then, Santa in his traditional costume, made his appearance and with helpers soon distributed the prettily wrapped parcels, beside the beautifully decorated and lighted tree. Each child also received a bag filled with treats, oranges and a variety of candies and chocolates.

Mrs. Ward McIlvoy and pupils held a concert and social period in S.S. No. 16 on Monday evening. After a short program Santa arrived and all received gifts and candy.

Mr. Bob Cosby's children are ill with measles and Bob's brother son also.

The Y.P.A. held its Christmas meeting and program in St. Mark's Parish Hall on Wednesday evening.

CROP MOISTURE GOOD — Rain and early snow which slowed down 1959 harvests across the Prairies is expected to provide generally good moisture conditions for the 1960 crop. The heavy precipitation followed a parched 1958 spring in which early-sown grain failed to mature or was blown out in dust clouds.

Map shows Prairie precipitation in the early fall months of 1959, indicating a gradual moisture buildup in the crop belt and good to excellent content likely for most of the area in the spring of 1960. (CP Newsmap.)

Rain, Snow Halted Early Harvest in West But Good Moisture Built up for 1960

By STAN McCABE
anadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rain that was the bane of many Prairie farmers in 1959 may prove to be a boon for 1960.

The rain and early snow halted the 1959 harvest in many areas. But it has built up moisture reserves that had been seriously depleted in 1958 and 1809, and therefore should help get the 1960 crop off to a good start.

That was the picture shown by a survey at the end of a season marked by moisture problems.

Spring weather in 1959 was pretty for good growing conditions. Early-sown grain failed to mature, some was blown out when dust clouds—reminiscent of the dirty 30s—darkened the sky in southern Saskatchewan.

FIRST RAIN WELCOME

Rains came just in time, Early in July, a record million-dollar rain soaked the parched land and sent the hopes of farmers soaring.

But September rains terrified the harvest in many areas and early in October, up to 20 inches of snow fell over a wide belt of the Prairies to halt the harvest.

The Searle Grain company reported that all precipitation for Western Canada during August, September and October averaged 168 per cent of normal compared with 70 per cent of normal in 1958.

"Since moisture reserves generally are much more favorable than they have been for several years, crops to be seeded in the both stubble and summerfallow will have ample moisture with which to commence the growing season," the report said.

"This is especially true in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. There are a few areas, however, in both Saskatchewan and Alberta where, because of less - than-normal fall moisture this year, reserves are still only fair, particularly at depth."

UNKNOWN LOSS

A big question facing western farmers in 1960 is how much can they save of the 1959 crops left in the fields through the winter. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics last Nov. 18 estimated Prairie wheat production at 398,-000,000 bushels but said more than one quarter of this, or 112,-426,000 bushels, still was unharvested.

The situation was so serious that the federal government proposed an emergency aid plan for farmers who left more than 30 per cent of their crop in the fields. Manitoba and Saskatchewan accepted the federal proposal that they pay 50 per cent of the cost of the plan, which provided farmers up to $600. Alberta rejected the federal proposal.

Farm officials said the amount of the crop that will be saved in the spring will depend on spring weather conditions. All the crop left in the fields is expected to suffer a ten is grade and about 50 per cent will be lost, while the remainder will be damaged to some degree.

INSURANCE PLAN

A test will be made in 1960 in Manitoba of a crop insurance plan designed to help farmers overcome such setbacks. Under a provincial plan designed to dovetail with a federal crop insurance program, test areas will be established to see how crop insurance will work.

The usual big question mark on the western farm picture is provided by wheat markets.

The board of grain commissioners reported that 288,860,000 bushels of wheat and wheat flour were sold for export in the crop year which ended last July 31. The figure for the preceding crop year was 316,190,000 bushels.

At the year end, elevators were heavily stocked with last year's surplus grain and a new crop but

Party Programme

Games for the holidays

Peeling the Orange. Guests are paired off, and each pair is seated at a table. Each member of the pair places one arm around the other's waist, thereby leaving free the left arm of one and the right arm of the other. The couple is then given an orange to peel. Obviously one has to hold the orange, and the other act as the peeler. The resultant attempts to peel the orange can be quite difficult—and quite funny. It's a good idea to provide the participants with aprons.

Coin-in-the-Bottle-Race. For this game you need two coins, two milk bottles and two teams of people. The idea is for the first person in the team to place the coin between his knees, walk to the milk bottle, and drop the coin, without using his hands, into the milk bottle. When he has done this successfully, the coin is passed to the next person on the team until everybody has put the coin in the bottle. The first team to finish is, of course, the winner.

Hot Foot. All the guests are given balloons, which they tie to their ankles. It is necessary for the balloons to have a fair length of string attached to them. Everyone then attempts to burst the other balloons by stamping on them. As soon as a balloon bursts, that person must retire from the game. The owner of the last balloon to remain whole is the winner of the game.

The "Ad" Game. All that is required here is for the person who is throwing the party to cut a number of reasonably well-known advertisements from newspapers and magazines, cut out the parts which say the name of the product, and paste the unidentified advertisements onto a piece of board. The guests are divided into two teams and are given pencils and paper. The object of the game is for the teams to identify the name of the advertiser in every case—the team who has the most correct answers is the winner.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Kitchener Dutchmen, their spare-ribs ruffled and their pig-tails sobered, will be in the grotto of the McFarlands tonight.

And they won't be in any sausage mood.

As Canada's Olympics representatives, Ernie Geisman's crew doesn't relish the idea of being kicked around by the Germans in their own country.

For that is what has been happening. The Dutchies took a couple of bad trimmings over the holiday week-end and that did not sit too well with the team, the management or the Dutchie fans.

Every team in the league has soundly whacked the Kitchener Dutchies with the Chatham Maroons plainly having the Indian sign on them. The Maroons, finesse or no finesse, have won seven, tied one and lost two in their ten outings with the Men o' Gemas.

And this is the team the rejuvenated Macs chased to the showers the other night with a 7-4 defeat attached to their sacro-iliacs.

Ernie Miller, Chatham sports editor, who tills a lease with the Dutchmen at the slightest provocation, says the Olympic representatives are headed for trouble. The last two games they played with his Maroons he says "proved that the Dutchmen are not capable of taking the heavy stickling."

He makes a rather strong statement, "We question whether or not highly-touted Cliff Pennington really has what it takes in view of what happened here Friday and in Kitchener Saturday. Pennington failed to upset a couple of times Friday—and the rookie centre was noticed slowing up considerably when he neared the Maroon blueline."

"The Maroon defence," he goes on, "had the fear of something in their hearts and I see no reason to do much about it. How does Kitchener ever expect to beat these Romines when a leader like Pennington quits under heavy fire or under the Manchester fresh the Romans haven't learned to check yet?"

Now there's fightin' words, podner, unless you smile. And no doubt friend Len Taylor of Kitchener will have something to say about it.

Personally, we do not go along with the statement that young Pennington "quit" under the heavy going. We have seen him play on not a few occasions and in our opinion he is a fine young hockey player. He has a big frame that could be toughened by the push and attempting to break through a defence when his wings are right beauty.

Pennington is rated highly by the professional heroes and, although he is a year older than most of the boys he's mashed the calibre of a Red Berenson, he has lots of potential.

Nevertheless the Dutchmen will have to take their hockey bellicose if they want to grab a lead substantial enough to carry them into the playoffs after their rendezvous from Regent Valley. And these two four-point games with each member club could easily make or break their chances.

And Cecil Mellagh has been recalled by the Dutchmen to "protect the scrambled Dorenbos" "Dort" Hurley, but it is not known at this writing if he will play against his former buddies here tonight. The tall, gangling, six-foot-three youngster made no issues about which team he preferred to play with, and in case you're guessing, it wasn't the Dutchmen.

But Cecile Bell, playing his first game in some time, came up with a superb effort against the Maroons on Friday night. Cecile was tossing rubber back into the faces of close-in, middle-ins and far-outs in the Mac 7-4 victory.

And it seemed the hearts of the fans to see Bert Bandler get back into the scoring limelight. Bert has had some very tough luck this season and if the statistics were known he is the champion post-hitter of the circuit.

In fact he was one of the two Tootes with Lou Sneirke, who with his slashed Mac nose, certainly provided a lot of the spark for the victory over the Maroons:

Bradley generously helped Lou to his hat trick the other night. The pair broke from the clear with the Kitchener goalie pulled from his nets. As they neared the blueline Lou slipped the puck over to Lou who sank it for his third goal of the night. Both had scored twice at the time.

With Kitchener in fourth spot twelve points in front of the Macs, Chatham's tilt is a must against both clubs. The Macs were bet in Chatham and a good weekend rest should see them in fine fettle for the joust with the Dutchmen. Game at eight o'clock.

BCI Hoopsters Beaten by Ottawa In Opening Round of Tournament

OTTAWA (CP) — Out-of-town teams fared badly in the opening senior round of the Carleton University basketball tournament Monday, Ottawa teams winning all four games.

Ottawa Fisher Park School downed Kingston CVI 57-48. Ottawa Nepean downed Sudbury High School 54-38. Ottawa Tech dropped Belleville High, 69-50, and defending champion Commerce of Ottawa crushed Deep River 57-32.

The most exciting game was that between Fisher Park and Kingston. A rally in the fourth quarter yielded Kingston 10 points and narrowed Ottawa's margin to 49-46. However, Fisher Park pulled away in the final two minutes.

Fraser Tindall, Jr., son of the Queen's University football coach, led the Kingston revival with nine points in six minutes. Altogether Tindall scored 22 points. Bill Purcell scored 13 for Kingston.

NEPEAN UNBEATEN

Nepean racked up 33 points in the second half in downing Sudbury. Nepean is undefeated after four games in Ottawa's inter-scholastic play. Sudbury was led by centre Jim Hann with 11 points, while Guard Don Irwin scored nine.

Belleville bowed to Ottawa Tech despite a superb performance by Brian McKenzie, who scored 25 points.

Commerce was ahead throughout its game with Deep River, but the Deep River team kept high scorer with nine.

In action Nepean plays Fisher Park and Tech meets Commerce in quarter-final matches, while Sudbury plays Kingston and Belleville plays Deep River in consolation games.

In junior contests Monday, Ottawa Glebe CYO beat St. Pat's 41-35, Fisher Park topped Ottawa High 46-42, Ottawa Rideau Scouts downed Renfrew 56-38 and Ottawa Glebe walloped Carleton Place 59-16.

Lazy Swede Won't Hurt Himself In Training Grind

Was Mere Two Pounds Over Fighting Weight on Holiday; Fight Set for N.Y. in June

By DICK SODERLUND

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Now that a rematch with Floyd Patterson has been arranged, world heavyweight champ Ingemar Johansson jokingly said today he'll be even lazier in training than he was for the bout that brought him the title.

The return bout, set for June 20 in New York at either Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds, was announced Monday by Roxy with Ahlquist, the champion's adviser, and Roy Cohn, the New York attorney who heads a 10-man promotional group.

In an interview Johansson said he was all set for the return despite a little too much of his mother's cooking.

"Just before Christmas," Ingo said, "I was just over my best fighting weight, 196 pounds." He was 198 when he knocked out Patterson last June in Yankee Stadium.

TRAINS EVERY DAY

"During the holidays I was at home, and of course ma's meatballs may have put on some extra weight. But my clothes still fit me, so I guess I don't have to worry, I train every day and keep in shape easily."

Asked if he plans to train as he did for the first meeting with Patterson, Johansson said he always trains the same way.

"As lastly as you did before?" he was asked.

"This time," said Ingo with a grin, "I will be lazier."

DEER INCENSED

Cohn said he will make a formal application to the New York State Athletic Commission for a promoting licence on his return home later this week.

Johansson's manager Rumbert (Jack) Fuquay, a member of the Cohn group, predicted a gate of $1,250,000 for the return bout, not counting film or closed - circuit television.

Under terms of the contract formerly held by Johansson Enterprises, Johansson and Patterson each would receive 25 per cent of the gate plus an equal split of 70 per cent of radio, TV and movie receipts.

Juniors Take Firm Grip on Second With Easy 13-1 Win Over Cobourg

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Lambert-Rollins regained sole possession of second place in the OHA Junior "B" hockey league for the third time in ten days and at the same time finished their scoring averages with a 13-1 triumph over Cobourg Redcoats Monday night.

It was strictly one-sided from the start, Belleville leading 3-0 at the end of the first, 7-0 after two periods of play and adding a disorganized visitors 6-1 in the final twenty minutes.

Belleville's victory, their eighth against four losses and one tie, left the Quins two points ahead of Kingston but the Limestone City crew still have an opportunity to tie the L-R's again Sunday in a game against Peterborough.

Gary Goyer led the way in the winners' display with three scoring two goals and earning four assists. Goyer's linemate had the lone hat trick and also drew an assist while Gerry Rowbotham' drew a pair of helpers on goal and three assists. Jack Elliott, Bob Bowden and Ron Ryder had two goals, his second and third of the year, with Ronnie Dyer also scoring his first and adding an assist. Larry Mavety contributed a goal and two assists as Bucky Zehner one and one, Moe Hunter a goal and Ron Boyd another assist. Ralph Plane two, Don Forsythe and Gary Reid one apiece.

Garnet Harris ruined Billy Mooney's day by getting the only 1.08 of the third period, with help from Dave Doyle and Brian Hillier, but the visitors had had built an 8-0 lead.

Cobourg's Dave Ewart injured one of his knees at 3.28 of the first stanza and was out of the game.

Belleville's sub goalie, Barry Duguid. The redhot Quins had no mercy on their teammate, adding their first three goals by Kerrulik, Goyer and Ehller, after Ewart's injury.

Mavety had potted his goal in the opening seconds of the third on a high sticked drive past Duguid to Cobourg's looser. Kerrulik made it 5-0 with a great wrist shot at 5.33 and Goyer followed with a beauty. The high-scoring centre took the puck at centre and walked his way through three or four Cobourg players before beating Ewart neatly. It was on this play that the latter was injured.

Ronnie Hull sandwiched his two goals around one by Elliott for the 3-0 first period lead. Elliott, Kerrulik, Hunter and Rowbotham increased the lead to 7-0 in the middle heat.

Referees Tim Williams and Vern Goyer kept matters well under control although elbows and sticks came up on several occasions. All of the game's 11 penalties were minors with Belleville collecting the odd one. Cobourg had three goals scored against them while short one man.

Tunney Thinks Patterson Should Prove Himself

LONDON (AP)—Gene Tunney told British sports fans Monday night he thinks Floyd Patterson should have to prove himself before getting a return title fight against Swede heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson.

In a British Broadcasting Corporation television transatlantic interview, shortly after Johansson agreed to meet Patterson in a June rematch in New York, Tunney said a better world title fight would have been between former champ Rocky Marciano and Johansson.

Marciano has been thinking about making a comeback, Tunney said.

Turning to the complications surrounding the first Patterson-Johansson fight, Tunney said he thought Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, had done boxing a "disservice." He said he hoped D'Amato would never be allowed back into boxing.

Soccer Referee Orders Teams Off Field

LONDON (AP) — London traffic policeman Sturgeon Monday became Britain's most controversial soccer referee—and he's not even a football man.

It's the first time such a thing has happened in British soccer. He's the boss of the game one of their biggest-ever headaches. Precedent gives no guide to his decision.

The big scrafft came 10 minutes before the end of the Dartford-Gravesend match in the southern League game.

Sturgeon blew long and loud on his whistle. The 2,000 fans thought he'd thought his calculated on the time.

Then Sturgeon waved his hands in the air, told all 22 players that they could go off and abandoned the match.

"Each one player was socked in the stomach by another player after a lot of thought," he said. "I thought enough and off they went," he said.

Sam Leitch of The Daily Herald, discussing Sturgeon's action, suggested that if we are to clean up the private lives of footballers we should back ball in some leagues. All Sturgeon's way is the one.

"What a good finish his career. But it took courage."

Reach Shuttle Semi-Finals

TORONTO (CP)—Bonnie Elmsley of Peterborough, defending junior girls' singles champion, and Nancy Vincent of Orillia, rated third in the junior women's division, were among the few visitors to reach the semi-finals of the Ontario badminton championships Monday.

The tournament, with 280 entries, began with singles. Doubles finals today, semi-finals Wednesday, and finals Saturday.

Miss Elmsley easily routed junior players Joyce Richardson and Denise Hinchcliffe, defeating them 11-2 and 11-4, 11-3 respectively.

Miss Vincent defeated Mollie Strahan of Toronto 11-2, 11-0 in second-round play to enter semi-finals.

Margaret Stewart of Broadview YMCA also scored upset victories in junior girls competition to reach the semi - finals with upsets over second in senior man's (under 19) by Peter Howard of Oakville who retained to semi-finals.

Junior 'B' Booster Club Members

Stan McMullin, Karen Tebworth, Roberta McDonald, Judy Moore, Ross Chalmers, Bruce Ceithorpe, Lasse Waite, Roland Wagner, Bill Ellis, Pat Scrymgeour, Bill McGuire, Bob Hillier, Jim Murphy, Lisa Gray, Morris Douglas, Sheila Canning, Jane Mavety, John Thompson, Peter Carver, Wayne Woods.

Indians Top American League

NEW YORK (AP) — Springfield's high-scoring trio — Paul Bibeau, Bill Greenwood and Art Stratton—continue to hold top three spots in the American Hockey League scoring race although held to five points between them last week.

Smith retained his hold on first place, league statistics showed today, by picking up two points for a total of 50. He has scored 21 goals and assisted on 29.

Stratton added two points while Sweeney connected for one and the Indians' teammates were tied for the runner-up position with 45 points.

Sweeney is tied for the league lead in goals scored with another teammate, Harry Pidhirny, and Providence' Ray Ross. All have 23 goals to their credit. Pidhirny and Saturdays at 8.00 p.m.; Juniors on Saturdays at 8.00 p.m.

Rochester's Ed Chadwick is the No. 3 goaltender, allowing a low of 2.61 a goals a game.

Edmonton Grads Starry Feats Recalled by Former Coach

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — "I'll give it a try."

John Percy Page, then a young school teacher, said that 41 years ago when asked to coach a girls' basketball team.

His Edmonton Grads went on to become a perennial Canadian and world women basketball champions.

During 25 years the Grads won 502 of 522 games. Many of their losses were against Canadian men's and women opponents were not counted.

The 72 - year - old retired teacher and politician was appointed lieutenant - governor of Alberta Dec. 19, succeeding the late J. J. Bowlen.

Mr. Page—he signs his name J. P. Page or Percy Page—looks back upon his 25 years of coaching as "the finest five feet, 8½ inches carries 165 pounds and is topped by a thick crop of white silken hair.

NOW A FAN ONLY

Today the new lieutenant-governor sits quietly from the sidelines. Bursitis forced him to quit golf and curbing a couple of other sports.

"All I do now is sit in a cold seat and watch hockey," he said in an interview. He also watches an occasional baseball or hockey game.

Mr. Page, born in Rochester, N.Y., studied at Queen's University and came here in 1912 to teach. He opened McDougall Commercial High School and agreed to coach its newly-formed girls' basketball team.

He had coached at St. Thomas, Ont., and had played at collegiate but an ordinary player."

His team won the Edmonton high school championship during the first year "and the girls were all themselves so they formed the Commercial Graduates Club." That was the official birth of the world-famous Grads.

A perfectionist and tireless worker, coach Page used "every-thing available" on basketball, watched others play and discussed the game with other coaches.

In 1922 the Grads won their first Canadian championship by beating London Shamrocks. The world title was captured a year later. They held the championship until the team was disbanded in 1940.

AMAZING SHOOTING

Speaking of the Grads' amazing shooting accuracy, Mr. Page said:

"We played a type of game that gave our opponents as many shots as we had. Our accuracy was better and we won.

"Grads' accuracy record was much higher than that of any team we ever met. I remember we won one game 126-14. That was one of the very few times we had a high score.

"I imagine now with the difference in style our score would be much higher."

Mr. Page, a bricklayer, retired as a teacher in 1952 after 40 years. He was a member of the Alberta legislature for 15 years and for several of those years was Liberal leader of the Progressive Conservatives.

Rangers May Seek Rollins For Goalie Job

NEW YORK (CP) — New York Rangers, who already have turned to Winnipeg Warriors for help in coach this year, may go west again to try to find a solution to their goal-tending problems.

The Rangers, mired in last place in the National Hockey League, were reported interested in the Western Hockey League club's goalie Al Rollins, 32, voted the WHL's most valuable player while playing with Chicago Black Hawks.

Marcel Pailie, 27, was brought up from Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League to replace Gump Worsley, Misl Patrick, general manager, said that time put much of the blame for the Rangers' poor showing on Worsley.

In 15 games Pailie has allowed 38 goals, a 2.37 average, though the Rangers have won six games by scoring four or more goals in each.

PIKE LIKES AL

The Rangers brought Al Pike from Winnipeg to replace Phil Watson as coach early in December. It is reported to be considering getting Rollins if possible.

Another goaltender that Patrick is reported to be considering is Hank Bassen, now with Vancouver Canucks.

Several Ranger players were reported to be unhappy with Pike.

"He lost seems to be standing around," said one. "You would be's trying."

Another said: "We can't make the playoffs with him—too many cheap goals going in."

At Winnipeg, Warriors' general manager Jack Perrin said he talked with Patrick Friday night by telephone but no mention has been made of Rollins or a goaltending switch. He declined to say what they discussed.

Hull Has Three-Point Lead In National Scoring Hassle

MONTREAL (CP) — Bobby Hull, six days shy of his 21st birthday, has shaken loose from Don's fanning Bronco Horvath from a two-month grasp on the scoring leadership in the National Hockey League.

The chunky Chicago left-winger with the hustling style and big burst of speed turned in a great, three-assist performance for the Hawks to take over the spot Horvath had held since the start of November.

Official league statistics released today show Hull with a pace-setting 28 points balanced with the same number of assists for 64 points and a three-point cushion in the scoring parade.

His three goals came in one game—Chicago's 4-1 victory and triumph over the Bruins Tuesday night. It was the third three-goal effort of the campaign for the muscular native of Point Anne, Ont., who two years ago made the jump to the big league from junior hockey.

ONE ASSIST FOR BRONCO

For the slumping Horvath, the week produced a lone assist in the Boston's Sunday night tally and he fell to fourth place behind Andy Bathgate of New York.

Bathgate added to four assists to push his total to 41 points—a league-leading 36 assists and 13 goals.

Montreal's Jean Beliveau scored twice and added one assist to run his output to an even 33-30 and climb into a tie with Horvath, who has 31 goals and 19 assists.

With a six-point outburst while Gordie Howe was held off the scoring sheet, Montreal's Henri Richard vaulted into position No. 5 over Jean Ratelle of Boston.

Richard bagged a pair of goals — the 99th and 100th of his hurried and illustrious career — and a production in 34 with 36 points and a three-point edge over Howe and Barrie Geoffrion of the Canadiens.

GOOSELY GROUPED

Dean Prentice of the Rangers and Don McKenney of Boston, with 34 points apiece, and Montreal's Dickie Moore and Vic Stasiuk of the Bruins, in the 3-point bracket, round out the top 10 men.

At this point in last season's scramble, Geoffrion topped the scoring race with 49 points. He ultimately gave way to Moore and finished with 84 points.

The Canadiens won their two games during the week to increase their margin in the team standings to 10 points over twice-defending champion Boston which gave the Habs a total of 48.

In the only other team standings, the Black Hawks moved up to fourth-place six with the Bruins.

Montreal's Jacques Plante, still wearing his fibre-glass protective face mask, plastered three goals in Montreal's low games record as his lead in the netminding department with a 2.33 average.

Swedish Team Defies American Athletic Union

NEW YORK (AP) — War has been declared on the international basketball front.

A Swedish national basketball team, in defiance of a ban by the United States Amateur Athletic Union, was scheduled to arrive here today for a series of games with small U.S. colleges.

Dan Ferris, head of the AAU, refused to sanction the trip. Because, he said, a professional promoter was behind it. He identified the promoter as Jim McGregor of Portland, Ore.

McGregor denied it. The president of the International Basketball Federation said he could see no irregularities.

Before leaving Sweden Monday night, Abe Nilliam, head of the Swedish Basketball Federation, said:

"The AAU has no right to do this. We aim to make a test case out of it. It's a personal feud between McGregor and the AAU and Ferris is penalling both the American and Swedish players."

Commented Ferris: "If any of the colleges play the Swedish team, they will face automatic suspension by the AAU. And if the Swedish team plays in defiance of us, the international federation will have no choice but to suspend them."

Tom Landry 'Greatest Coach in Football' Is a Man Without a Club

DALLAS, Tex. (CP) — Tom Landry, "the greatest coach in football," is a coach without a team.

He signed a five-year contract Monday to guide Dallas Rangers, who hope to land a franchise in the National Football League next year.

Landry moves west from New York where he was defensive coach for the NFL New York Giants, Giant head coach Jim Lee Howell recently called Landry "the greatest coach in football."

A native of Dallas who played with the University of Texas, Landry was also sought by Bud Adams, owner of the Houston Oiler franchise in the newly - organized American Football League.

Adams indicated he now will let the Oiler franchise die for-fiance or uz, the international federation will have no choice but to suspend them."

The Rangers hope to receive a franchise next month, when NFL club owners meet. Despite opposition expected from George Preston Marshall of Washington, who has an expansion committee headed by George Halas of Chicago Bears fawers adding Dallas.

Landry expressed delight that the Rangers have quarterback Don Meredith of Southern Methodist under contract.

"All we've got is a coach and a pitcher," he said, "But that's a start. Now we've got to get some more players."

If Dallas has pro teams in both the NFL and AFL it will get great oil fortunes in a battle for gate receipts.

Hunt is the son of H. L. Hunt, said to have the greatest income of any man in the world. Murchison is the son of Clint Murchison, one of the world's wealthiest men. Wynn's family is listed among Texas' "big 10" with a net of $100,000,000 or more.

Landry's salary was not disclosed. Tex Schramm, general manager of the Rangers, said the NFL will provide the club with a nucleus of players.

Larks Lose Only Three Of 20 Prospects

MONTREAL (CP) — President Ted Workman of Montreal Alouettes said Monday that of 20 American college players on the club's negotiation list only three have been lost so far.

In each case, he said, the Als offered $2,000 to $3,000 more than did the National Football League clubs which signed them.

Workman named the three as tackle Lou Cordileone of Clemson, who signed with New York Giants; end Monty Stickles of Notre Dame, who is with Los Angeles Rams, and halfback Bruce Maher, University of Detroit, with Detroit Lions.

He said he thinks the three signed with NFL clubs because they wished to play in a particular area or for other personal reasons.

"We have signed players against 100 per cent more competition this year than we did in the NFL and the new American Football League. We can't divulge any names yet because some of the players still have college games to play and others are engaged in other college sports."

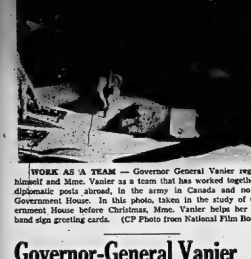
Colts' Coach Was a Little Hoarse When He Said 'What a Great Team'

BALTIMORE (AP) — "You're great and you're going on," coach Weeb Ewbank told his Baltimore Colts after they had defeated the executive National Football League champions Sunday.

Only four other teams in 27 years of NFL playoffs have won consecutive titles. The Colts won three in a row.

Weeb's confidence shouldn't be taken lightly. His announced five-year plan for a Baltimore championship was on schedule last year.

The Colts were especially happy with the wide margin of their 31-16 victory over New York Giants in Sunday's playoff game. Some critics had suggested the Colts were lucky to edge the Giants 23-17 in overtime last year.



George Halas, owner of Chicago Bears, said: "I definitely would class the Colts with the great teams I have seen."

WORK AS 'A TEAM — Governor General Vanier regards himself and Mme. Vanier as a team that has worked together in diplomatic posts abroad, in the army in Canada and now at Government House. In this photo, taken in the study of Government House before Christmas, Mme. Vanier helps her husband sign greeting cards. (CP Photo from National Film Board.)

Governor-General Vanier Wants Government House to Belong to All Canadians

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The most evident thing about Governor-General Vanier's first three months in office is his apparent desire to be everybody's governor-general.

"I want to show that Government House doesn't belong only to Ottawa or to central Canada," he said recently, "I want to stay travelling in as many parts of the country as possible, to show that it belongs to all Canadians."

Maj.-Gen. George P. Vanier, a spry-looking old soldier of 71, still is just getting acquainted with his job, but he's already making plans to travel. His aim for the new year: a visit to every province, starting with a spring-time swing through the four western provinces, followed by a tour of the Atlantic area.

NOT WHISTLE STOPS

"His visits to provincial capitals and other major cities won't be whistle stops. He hopes to stay two or three days wherever he goes, whenever possible.

His first visit outside the capital was to Toronto, specifically asked in part to thank English-language Canadians for the many messages of good wishes he received from that city and from Ontario.

Later, he visited his native Montreal, where he lived after retiring from the army and diplomatic tasks in 1953, and Quebec City, home of the Van Doos, the 22nd Regiment—of which he is a founding member, a former commander and now its colonel.

It is known he and Mme. Vanier were genuinely sorry that the date of his installation, Sept. 15, surpreceding St. Hon. Vincent Massey, and the time needed to get his vice-regal household organized, made it impossible for more formal before winter set in.

At Government House, where he served in the 1930s as aide-de-camp to two former governor-generals, Gen. Vanier has had a busy time, receiving delegations of various groups asking for his patronage and getting to know people with whom he must deal.

VERSED IN DIPLOMACY

His diplomatic savoir - faire, picked up during his year as secretary to the high commission in London and as ambassador in Paris, comes in handy when foreign ambassadors come around to present their credentials.

Usually, this ceremony is little more than a formality, but Gen. Vanier makes it a practice to learn more about the foreign lands whose representatives call on him.

An aide said that when the ambassadors for Venezuela, Norway, Lebanon and Burma called with their letters of credence, the governor-general was waiting intelligently knowledgeably develop minuts in their countries. He had spent a few hours earlier cramming available information about them.

His sense of humor, at times, can be a little disconcerting—but only momentary. One example of this was when a delegation from the Canadian Jewish Congress presented His Excellency with a scroll on the bicentenary of Canadian Jewry.

Larry Becker, chairman of the national bicentenary committee, began his address by remarking that the scroll was written in four languages: English, French, Hebrew and Yiddish.

"Are you going to read it in all four languages?" Gen. Vanier asked in jest.

STUCK TO ENGLISH

Mr. Becker laughed and said no, and read only the English section of the scroll, as he had intended all along.

In his reply to the Congress' delegation, Gen. Vanier repeated part of his installation address:

"... We Canadians of every origin, irrespective of race or creed, must go forward hand in hand to assure the greatness of our country. We are all God's children."

That typifies Gen. Vanier's inner belief and basic principle of national unity. He put it another way in his reply to Mayor Nathan Phillips' address of welcome in Toronto:

"In every province, in every man of whatever race he may be, there is some good. Our duty is to look for that good. Let us extend the hand of welcome any other than the stone of judgment."

With dramatic flair, he chose his visit to Roman Catholic Quebec City to make clear his position towards the participation of non-Catholic church services. He referred in a speech there to a letter from an Anglican who had written:

"I can not see anything wrong with our governor-general being at a Roman Catholic. However, I have been told that you, as a Roman Catholic, will not be allowed to take part in the services of worship or other denominations."

EXPLAINS POSITION

Gen. Vanier said he replied in part: "In the footsteps of my illustrious predecessors, I will worship in private life according to the dictates of my conscience, in my particular faith, as is the prerogative of all free men. When duty or obligations call for my presence as governor-general at a service of any other faith, you may rest assured that I shall be happy to attend and shall do so with entire freedom."

Gen. Vanier has received thousands of letters in only four months of all faiths and all parts of the country, congratulating him on his appointment as Canada's second native-born governor-general. He still is replying to them, writing individual letters, not sending out a form reply.

He is known to regard these messages as evidence that understanding between French- and English - language Canadians is growing. This he is grateful for.

Gen. Vanier is devoting much time and his own resources—such as the Boy Scouts and 4-H Clubs.

"The youth of Canada IS Canada," Gen. Vanier is known to have said in private.

To a group of 4-H Club members recently, he said: "I am very pleased to see you here today because I love my country."

WORD FOR QUEBECERS

He told young Quebecers in the group to take a larger interest in 4-H and other national groups because it is their duty to the whole of Canada to extend their French culture outside the borders of their home province.

For relaxation, Gen. Vanier reads a lot, often reading aloud for Mme. Vanier from Shakespeare and the romantic poets of the 19th century like Keats, Shelley and Byron.

His age has cut short his tennis and golf which he played even after losing his right leg above the knee in front-line action with the Van Doos during the First World War.

But his injury did not prevent him from giving up a law practice in the early 1930s to rejoin the regiment. For a couple of years during the Second World War he commanded the Eastern Quebec military area.

"There have been two great things in my life," he said once. "My family and my regiment."

Boy Improves After Dropping Name Bulgania

NEW DELHI (AP)—A sick four-year-old boy has begun to improve since his name was changed on the advice of fortune tellers and astrologers from Bulgania Singh to Khrushchev Singh, according to a newspaper report from an Indian village near Abohar.

The Hindustan Standard says the boy was named during the 1955 visit of the two Soviet leaders to India. Since then Bulgania has gone into eclipse and Khrushchev's star is in the ascendant.

Despite the best medical care the boy's health deteriorated. So his parents accepted the advice "with a view to saving the kid from the malefic influence of the stars", the report said.

Atlantic City Crane Drips Dollar Bills

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Nicholas Anthony, a crane operator, has been fired from his carriage to see a mob of people running after dollar bills that were dropping from his bucket.

The owners of the property Anthony was tearing down ran him off the job from a nearby building and told him to stop.

An examination of the demolished three-storey house showed a hollow in an wall where the bucket had just eaten through.

At that moment, Anthony's dump truck driver drove up in a car.

"Scavengers followed me all the way to the city dump," he said. "When I stopped the truck, I saw they'd been gathering money off it all the way out of town. There wasn't a dollar left."

Passers-by told Anthony they had seen people picking up $10, $20 and even $100 bills. There was no way of telling how much money had been uncovered.

Where did it come from?

The owners of the building said that in recent years the demolished room had been occupied by an accused tax dodger who later used as an illegal gambling hall.

Hugh O'Brian in New York To Do Broadway Musical

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Consider the plight of Hugh O'Brian, an actor who for the last five years has been eating regularly and doesn't want to outgrow Wyatt Earp's pants.

Hugh has become famous playing a frontier marshal in television, yet he is spending a vacation in New York rehearsing long hours to take over the leading role in a Broadway musical Destry Rides Again, for one week.

"Sure," says O'Brian, with a certain amount of grimness, "it's hard work but it is also a big challenge. I'm an actor and I love my work. And every actor who loves his work wants to do a stage show."

What O'Brian is interested in demonstrating, of course, is that he can play a part other than Wyatt Earp. The TV series has been rolling along nicely now for the last two years, but O'Brian doesn't want it to be his life's work.

He goes into Destry for the week of Jan. 4—but he will be playing a role not unlike his more famous one. Destry is a western sheriff who likes to solve his problems with his brains instead of his gun. It is O'Brian's contention that the same is often true of Wyatt.

"Actually," he insists, "there isn't a shot fired in many of our shows."

Edward R. Murrow's Small World last week was a funny, witty and lively discussion on a tired old subject: Whither women? Malcolm Muggeridge, the British editor whose stock-in-trade is the outrageous statement, was put to flight by two sharp - tongued women writers, Hansyin and Lesley Blanch. Miss Blanch, author of The Wilder Shores of Love, is one of the frequent conversational bargains

General Tendencies: This is a day when you have all sorts of chances to work out in a very hi-brott fashion whatever has to do with the emotional phases of your nature and character, as well as get the articles and accessories of apparel you need. Also fine for arranging entertainment or amusement outlets. You have to make the moves for fullest success.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — You sort make this a most successful day if you use more up-to-date methods of operation. Then tonight, by a change of attitude you will reach greater rapport with loved one.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — If you take a charming friend with you today to new places and people who has a delightful way with people, you will get excellent results. Also, you must learn to be more broad-minded and courteous to make this day entirely successful.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — If you take the financial page into consideration when conferring with authorities today you can quickly come to a meeting of minds. P.M. this can also apply in your relations with loved ones. Reach true understanding.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Take that taciturn partner out to a fine restaurant today and you can reach a fine understanding. Go into any misunderstandings in a cordial way and charming fashion and make quick adjustments. Become great friends.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Fine day to get residence in A-condition and to bring about greater harmony among members of family. P.M. excellent for entertainment at abode invite those persons who can be of real help to you in the future.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Give all your time and attention to getting ready for the big holiday just ahead. Don't neglect the youngsters and creative interests. P.M. have fun quietly with closest of kin. Retire early.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — There is much that needs your attention at home now. Spend whatever time and money is necessary to bring about greater harmony and make your home more lovely valuable.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You feel very dynamic today, so be sure to contact those persons whom you can win over in business or personal life. Explain your ideas and they will co-operate with you. Fine benefits for all. P.M. good or real fun.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Now you know exactly how to have a greater abundance, what to do, whom to see, etc. Also the data you need is easily accessible to you. Authorities and friends will help secretly. Get busy.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Survey your best day in a long time to be with groups of people or special individuals who can help make your life happier and more abundant. Exchange ideas and helpfulness. Plan intelligently for a brighter New Year.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Studying seriously whatever puzzling to you right now will bring early clarification in business or personal life. Later, help the needy. Your humanitarian quality can be enjoyed to the full now.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Your best possibilities either in business or personal life will come from out-of-town today, very likely through the mail. P.M. have a little gathering at home with kin and intimates. Relax and have fun.

If your child is born today—The very handsome child born today is so attractive that soon a selfish attitude is acquired, though quite unconsciously, and friends will not be kept very long unless you early show your youngster that the only way to live happily is by co-operating with others. Once this lesson is learned there will be a marked success in this most promising chart. A movie star could be here.

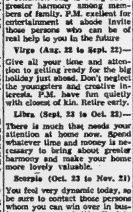
Centenary



CENTENARY — On Wednesday evening the Centenary Y.P.U. carol singers visited many homes in the community serenading with familiar Christmas carols. They returned to the church hall where they enjoyed a hot meal served by the W.A.

On Thursday afternoon the Mission Band held their regular meeting in the school under the leadership of Mrs. Sutherland. The president, Marilyn Nobes, opened the meeting. The Rev. Roy Rickard told the children a Christmas story. A short program of readings and musical numbers by the pupils were much enjoyed. The W. M. S. members treated the children to candy and cookies.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

PEOPLE KNOW
WE SELL HOUSES

Just the last week have listed and sold four modern bungalows, all wonderful deals — all wonderful terms.

1. On the North Side—3 bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen, bath, full basement, oil furnace. Can be bought with 3 acres of land if desired. This is a real cozy deal. Only $11,500. Terms. Call us for more details.

2. $500. Thirty days payments on our mortgage $72.

3. S. Hutchinson Ave. — A brick story and one half on a large treed lot. Living room, dining room, modern stroud in the back, 3 bedrooms, three piece bath, 2 rooms. The down payment is just around $2,500. Have you got all its features?

Hutchinson Ave. Near to B.H.S. — A home that is just as complete as one could be, with a two-car garage and a long, but concrete drive. The lot is all fenced. There are plenty screens and storms. Living room, dining room, 3 good-sized beds, kitchen and bath. The kitchen is big — 12 ft. by 12 ft. Look — only $12,500. The best of terms — maybe even $1,500 down.

4. On the Bexil Bay — about ten minutes drive from here — a mighty fine modern two-bedroom home with all city conveniences. In addition there is lots and lots of room and there's the frontage. Look, only $9,500 and we can arrange terms to suit. You will save yourself in the spring for buying this home and land now.

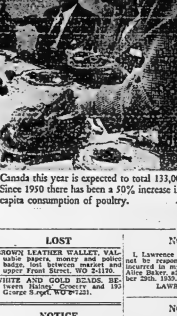
Turkey Dinner Fattens Economy

CANADA

Once a prized game bird, roaming the wilds of North America, the turkey today lives an indolent life of pampered domesticity as number one dollar earner for Canada's poultry breeders. Life is one long preparation for festive occasions, with Christmas the crowning glory.



Turkeys live in complete welfare state, their every need provided for. During a brief 7-month life span, fast-maturing birds consume some hundred pounds of gallons of water, and vitamins washed down with hundreds of gallons of water.

- National Film Board of Canada Photos by Chris Lund.

Christmas dinner in Canada is a $50 million dollar proposition, with Canadian housewives picking up the tab. Biggest single item on the bill is the traditional turkey which runs to around $11 million. Turkey production in Canada this year is expected to total 133,000,000 pounds. Since 1950 there has been a 50% increase in Canada's per capita consumption of poultry.

TAX DEALS IMPROVE — As far as the provinces are concerned, there has been a steady improvement in tax deals with the federal government in the last 10 years.

This graph shows the amounts of federal tax money granted to the provinces during 1950-60.

Unconditional grants are mainly tax-sharing payments. Conditional grants cover shared-cost programs such as the Trans-Canada Highway, welfare payments and health grants.

In the 1949-50 fiscal year, the total of the two types of grants took nine per cent of the federal budget. In the fiscal year ending next March 31, they account for nearly 15 per cent of federal spending.

A sharp rise in unconditional grants in 1953-53 was caused by a new tax-sharing agreement and Ontario's entry into the tax-rental plan.

Conditional payments fell off in 1955-56 when Ottawa assumed full responsibility for pensions to those over 70. Inception of hospital-insurance caused a sharp rise in conditional grants in 1958-59. (CP Newsmap.)

Provinces Have Scored Marked Success in Strengthening Position During Last Decade

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Strong new pressures from the provinces are shaping up which could bring a new look to the complex picture of financial relations between the federal and provincial governments.

In this field, touching the vital problem of constitutional powers of the two levels of government, the provinces have scored marked success in strengthening their financial position during the last decade.

They now have a fresh opportunity to better their position in negotiations with Ottawa, starting next summer, on a revised tax-sharing plan to take effect in 1962.

AWAIT RESULTS

It remains to be seen whether the provinces can continue their successes in shifting increasingly-larger shares of the heavy federal budget to provincial coffers.

But if provinces like Quebec and Ontario have their way, the future emphasis could switch to greater autonomy — with provinces having more independence in collecting and spending their own revenues — and staying from the past pattern of centralized financial control.

This is the principle tenaciously fought for in the past by Quebec's Union Nationale government. The late Premier Duplessis refused to follow the other provinces in "renting" their direct taxing powers to Ottawa in return for federal payments. Quebec has collected its own personal and corporation income taxes and death duties.

Now Premier Paul Sauve, successor to Mr. Duplessis, sees more provinces sharing that viewpoint — Ontario, British Columbia, Alberta and possibly Saskatchewan. Their efforts could bring "an appreciable improvement" in federal - provincial financial arrangements, he said recently.

Much depends, of course, on whether the federal government can give the provinces more financial elbow room and still meet its own heavy requirements.

Another big factor is the position of the smaller provinces, especially in the East, who have benefitted from centralized tax collection by Ottawa.

POSSIBLE SIGN

One straw in the wind was the recent federal proposal to settle the long - standing dispute over federal grants to Quebec universities — payment opposed by Mr. Duplessis and thus turned down by the universities. The new proposal, in line with a plan presented by Premier Sauve, indicated at least some federal willingness to concede to Quebec's constitutional arguments.

Whatever develops, the provinces have the encouragement of history — a steady improvement in tax deals since the Second World War.

Not only have there been larger payments from the sharing of direct tax fields, but the provinces have received growing amounts from the federal government in the expanding field of shared-cost programs.

Many of these so-called "conditional" grants have been used for new activities shared by the two levels of government, such as hospital insurance, the Trans-Canada highway and Civil Defence. Others have a long history of joint co-operation like welfare payments, agricultural programs and health grants.

A decade ago in the 1949-50 fiscal year, the provinces received $103,900,000 in unconditional payments from Ottawa under the first of the post - war series of tax - rental agreements. That amounted to 4.3 per cent of the federal budget. Another $113,700,000 in conditional grants also was provided. Together, the two types of payments took nine per cent of the federal budget.

LARGER PORTION

Now these types of payments account for nearly 15 per cent of federal spending in the current year. Unconditional payments — under tax - sharing arrangements — amount to $506,500,000, just over eight per cent of the federal budget. Conditional grants, including the new hospital insurance payments, will total another $418,900,000.

The comparison would be even more marked if old age pensions were taken into account. Ten years ago, much of the conditional grants were for Ottawa's half-share of the cost of means-test pensions to needy persons. In 1952 the central government began the present program of universal pensions to all at age 70 without easing a big provincial burden.

During the decade there were two major improvements in the provincial position brought by new tax-sharing agreements.

In 1952-53, unconditional federal payments to the provinces totalled $338,700,000 compared with $103,900,000 three years earlier. Conditional grants declined to $70,900,000 from $115,700,000, reflecting the start of the Means-pension program.

In 1957-58, unconditional payments by Ottawa rose slightly to $382,600,000 — a figure which marks the real improvement because Ontario in 1957 began collecting its own corporate income tax instead of renting the tax field to Ottawa. But conditional grants for shared-cost programs more than doubled to $145,800,000 from the 1952 level.

The perennial concern over federal - provincial fiscal relations has its main roots in a 1942 agreement whereby the provinces "temporarily" gave up their direct taxing rights to Ottawa to strengthen the central government's hand during war-time.

Involved were three tax fields —personal and corporation income taxes and succession duties — which both federal and provincial governments have constitutional claims.

Agreements since the war have had practical benefits: the avoidance of overlapping double taxation, and the efficiency of central tax collections. As well, they have given the federal government the means to help equalize the financial position of less prosperous provinces.

The 1957 agreement allotted the provinces 10 per cent of the federal personal income tax take — later boosted to 14 per cent — together with nine per cent of corporate income and 50 per cent of death duties.

INCLUDES EIGHT

Eight of the provinces — all except Quebec and Ontario — allow the federal government sole occupancy of those three tax fields in return for payments based on the 13-8-50 formula. Ontario follows suit only on personal income tax; it levies its own corporation income tax and inheritance tax. Quebec exercises its right to collect all three taxes on its own.

To offset the effect of the Quebec and Ontario taxes, federal tax collections are reduced along the lines of the formula — an adjustment this year of an estimated $148,400,000 in Quebec and $137,200,000 in Ontario.

This year equalization payments of some $170,000,000 will be paid on top of the tax-sharing formula.

As well, a special $25,000,000 annual fund is provided for sharing among the four Atlantic provinces. This payment will continue until 1962.

U.S. May Propose Limiting A-Test Ban To Air, Sea

Eisenhower May Order New Underground Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain are freeing a new crisis in their negotiations with Russia for an enforceable treaty outlawing test explosions of nuclear weapons.

It may reach a head soon after the three-power talks resume Jan. 12 in Geneva. But it is not the first time a deadlock has threatened.

The crisis centres around development of an international inspection system strong enough to discourage cheating with sneak explosions.

Unless Russia modifies its opposition in Geneva, the system is term already proposed, President Eisenhower indicates he may order a resumption of underground test explosions.

STRATEGIST CHANGE

Before such a step would be taken, officials said, the U.S. would likely change its strategy in the negotiations at Geneva to seek a treaty rather than a comprehensive test ban. A limited ban would apply only to explosions in the air, on land or sea. They could be policed more easily than underground explosions.

A lengthening American policy with respect to the Geneva talks was disclosed Tuesday when Eisenhower substituted a day-to-day voluntary moratorium of nuclear weapons tests for the present three-month moratorium which expires Dec. 31.

WORLD WARNED

In effect, Eisenhower put the world and particularly Premier Khrushchev on notice that without substantial progress toward agreement at Geneva the U.S. test suspension policy may be revoked some time next year.

This is not the first time that disputes over the inspection system have endangered Eastern-Western negotiations. Concessions by Russia toward strengthening the proposed control machinery caused another threatened collapse last summer.

The new dispute is made more serious by the fact that it has involved not only the political negotiators but also the American and Soviet scientists who have recently participated.

DISTORTION CHARGED

The state department released Tuesday night a statement by Dr. James B. Fisk, chairman of the U.S. scientific group which met with British and Russian experts in Geneva earlier this month. Fisk accused Dr. E. K. Fedorov, the Soviet scientific chief there, of having made an "incredible distortion and misleading statement" about information furnished by American scientists.

Fedorov told a Geneva press that a U.S. report on difficulties in detecting underground nuclear explosions contained "many errors and even some conscious distortion." He accused the U.S. scientists of "manipulations" in developing their conclusions.

The new American information was derived from a series of underground explosions in the fall of 1958.

This information, the American scientists said, showed that underground tests of any magnitude could be muffled to such a degree that it would be impossible to distinguish them from ordinary earthquake tremors.

Fell Down Shaft

SUDBURY (CP) — Florest Pellerin, 20, of Nairn was killed Monday night when he fell down an underground shaft at the Crean Hill mine, 25 miles west of here.

The mine is being re-opened by International Nickel. Pellerin was employed by Patrick Hanlon Construction of Nemenda, Que., a mine development firm.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — The remnants of the storm that will storm which struck at the beginning of the week continues to give Southern Ontario cloudy skies and light snow. A slow change in the weather is forecast with the sun expected to break through in intervals on Thursday. Most of Northern Ontario will continue sunny with only slight changes in temperatures.

ANTI-SEMITISM HAS ADENAUER'S GOVT. WORRIED

'Synagogue Damaged On Christmas Eve

BONN, Germany (AP) — An outbreak of anti-Semitism, with Nazi overtones, has Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government worried.

The new reports of anti-Semitic acts were received Tuesday as authorities moved against the Christmas Eve desecration of a synagogue and a memorial to Nazi victims in Cologne.

In Rheydt, police said swastikas were painted or scratched on windows of several stores Christmas night. The word pig accompanied the swastikas on the window of a shop owned by a Jew. Police said they reported also an 80-year-old survivor of a Nazi concentration camp received an anonymous threat in Seligenstadt near Frankfurt.

Interior Minister Iold Seligenstadt police he was warned that the hand of Adolf Hitler and Gen. Rommel were to die "so that your Jewish breath does not longer poison the air."

RUMORS IN BONN

Bonn is full of rumors of a dramatic move by the governing most, perhaps against political opponents. The rightist Deutsche Reichspartei has a representative position would confirm these rumors.

Adenauer was pictured as distressed by the Christmas Eve desecration of the Cologne synagogue in the chancellor's private car. The swastika on the Jews" was painted on the walls.

Jewish leaders were disturbed about this black eye for German democracy.

Three members of the neo-Nazi German Reich party were detained in connection with the synagogue desecration. They include Arthur Ehrhardt, chairman of Cologne branch.

Their homes were found to contain swastikas and similar reminders of the Hitler period. One of the three arrested reporters with a "Heil Hitler" salute.

MAY BAN PARTY

Adenauer's government has threatened to ban the party if it can be proved responsible for the Cologne incident. The party's leader has denied responsibility.

More than 20,000, has denied responsibility for the incident. Cologne is a centre of Nazi activity.

Some government officials were saying the Communists might have been behind the incident. They said the three men had been recruited by Communist agents in Communist East Germany.

There now are only 30,000 Jews in West Germany. Before Hitler took power there were 500,000. Many died in the Nazi terror.

There is today no more anti-Semitic feeling in Germany than in other countries, the government insists. But attacks against Jews bring back memories of sadism.

Adenauer has worked hard to restore Germany to civilized society. Incidents such as the Cologne desecration damage his efforts and damage world opinion about Germany.

FAN BLADE KILLS MAN

Most Canadians to Welcome '60 at Home or Private Party

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The majority of Canadians on New Year's Eve will welcome 1960 in their homes or at private parties but some hotels will provide ample opportunity for those who want to celebrate on a larger scale.

Public celebrations are expected to be unusually quiet this year in Quebec. Night clubs in that province must stop serving liquor at 9 p.m. according to provincial law and close their doors an hour later.

In previous years some Quebec night clubs have put on floor shows that were opened to just about anyone who wanted to attend. But parties confined only to those who have tickets.

Montreal's Bonsecours church synagogue and a memorial to Nazi victims in Cologne.

In Rheydt, police said swastikas were painted or scratched on windows of several stores Christmas night. The word pig accompanied the swastikas on the window of a shop owned by a Jew. Police said they reported also an 80-year-old survivor of a Nazi concentration camp received an anonymous threat in Seligenstadt near Frankfurt.

Interior Minister Iold Seligenstadt police he was warned that the hand of Adolf Hitler and Gen. Rommel were to die "so that your Jewish breath does not longer poison the air."

RUMORS IN BONN

Bonn is full of rumors of a dramatic move by the governing most, perhaps against political opponents. The rightist Deutsche Reichspartei has a representative position would confirm these rumors.

Adenauer was pictured as distressed by the Christmas Eve desecration of the Cologne synagogue in the chancellor's private car. The swastika on the Jews" was painted on the walls.

Jewish leaders were disturbed about this black eye for German democracy.

Three members of the neo-Nazi German Reich party were detained in connection with the synagogue desecration. They include Arthur Ehrhardt, chairman of Cologne branch.

Their homes were found to contain swastikas and similar reminders of the Hitler period. One of the three arrested reporters with a "Heil Hitler" salute.

MAY BAN PARTY

Adenauer's government has threatened to ban the party if it can be proved responsible for the Cologne incident. The party's leader has denied responsibility.

More than 20,000, has denied responsibility for the incident. Cologne is a centre of Nazi activity.

Some government officials were saying the Communists might have been behind the incident. They said the three men had been recruited by Communist agents in Communist East Germany.

There now are only 30,000 Jews in West Germany. Before Hitler took power there were 500,000. Many died in the Nazi terror.

There is today no more anti-Semitic feeling in Germany than in other countries, the government insists. But attacks against Jews bring back memories of sadism.

Adenauer has worked hard to restore Germany to civilized society. Incidents such as the Cologne desecration damage his efforts and damage world opinion about Germany.

FAN BLADE KILLS MAN

DENVER (AP)—Evarisio Quintana, 30, drove into a service station Monday and complained that his car was running too ragged. As he lifted the hood, a blade of the engine fan flew off and hit Quintana on the forehead. He died two hours later.

Says Impaired Driving Clause Enacted to Protect 'Big Shots'

TORONTO (CP)—A traffic safety director said Tuesday night the impaired driving provision in the Criminal Code was enacted to protect "big wheels" who can afford to pay fines and avoid jail terms.

Art Bryan, executive secretary action, said: "Ridiculous," "he has put the 'foot in it,' and" "I wouldn't dare to make application to statements like that."

MAY BAN DRIVING

Magistrate Wilfrid Henrich, traffic safety director for police in Toronto.

He told a provincial youth conference on alcohol:

"The impaired driving charge automatically brought seven days in jail. Only the rich people can pay a fine if they get convicted and get out of going to jail. But the little guy who gets convicted the fine still goes to jail. The Great Golfing Hit and Run case that said if a man was drinking he should be severely because of the difficulty of getting convictions under the impaired driving law.

He said Sgt. Henrich's statement to provincial legislators were ridiculous and "hardly merited a reply at all."

Drinking Water Is Being Polluted By Hundreds of Chemical Products

CHICAGO (AP) — Drinking water is being polluted by hundreds of new chemical products whose effects on human health are largely unknown, a water expert says.

These include plastics, detergents and insecticides. They cannot be completely removed from water supplies by purification, said H. W. Poston of the United States public health service's water supply and water pollution division.

"We do not have reliable methods for predicting their effect on man. We don't know how to remove viruses from treated water. We don't know the effect on the human system of the chronic accumulation of small increments of present-day chemicals."

Poston called for immediate and expanded research to find ways of securing safe, plentiful water, in a report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Control of pollution control and adequate water supply will being expanded, Dahl said,

RAID LESSENS SIU CHANCES GETTING BACK IN FOLD

Pulled Boner Against Wayman

OTTAWA (CP) — A comedy of errors has left the Seamen Seafarers' International Union with little chance of getting back into the Canadian Labor Congress.

The seafarers, pot out of the 1,100,000-member congress by a vote to be raised a small union, pulled a boner in raiding the suspected and peaceful Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way employees.

The CLC-affiliated, 20,000-member brotherhood has slapped a raiding charge on the Seafarers with the congress, making the case more difficult in its appeal to the congress executive the CLC's executive council late in February.

The catch in the latest Seafarers' episode is that in raiding a small group of Wayman, the union thought it actually was raiding on the anti-communist Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

Both brotherhoods are affiliated with the Congress.

The Seafarers were dropped from the congress because members from the small Nanaimo, B.C., branch of Marine Engineers, which eventually tied up with the transport brotherhood.

The Seafarers staged the letter raid Dec. 15 on the Canadian Port of Erieau where they picked up a number of employees of the Lake Erie Navigation Company.

The SIU's house organ, the Canadian Sailor happily tells in its December issue how it swept over on the hated Transport workers.

Meanwhile, the other brotherhood filed the raiding accusation. It interpreted the men as members of its local at Chatham in mitten north of Erieau.

The congress sent two officials in Erieau to study the odd case.

They hardly knew the CBRT existed," one official said.

Cost of Direct Relief Down In October

TORONTO (CP)—Cost of direct relief and the number of persons receiving it in Ontario decreased by 8.3 per cent and 7.6 per cent respectively in October this year compared with the same month recorded in 1958, it was announced today.

However, figures released by Welfare Minister Cecile Taschereau showed there was six per cent in October as compared with September.

For the first 10 months of 1959 relief costs amounted to $15,982,-000, up 10.3 per cent from the 1958 expenditures totalled $11,-

Miss Taschereau said the increase attributed to the recession of last winter.

Welfare department statistics are compiled from 40 municipalities in the province.

Net relief expenditures were sent about 75 per cent of the people receiving direct relief.

Worst Coastal Floods In Century in New Eng.

BOSTON (AP) — Thousands of persons fled their homes as hundreds were rescued and damage was in the millions from a record ocean tide which gave New England coastal areas the worst coastal floods of the century.

Communities along 30 miles of the Greater Boston shoreline suffered the brunt of the flood destruction although the Atlantic Ocean spurted in stormy anger Tuesday along the whole coast.

The highest tide in 108 years —14.2 feet—brought ocean water to a depth of seven feet on some streets and into the first floors of many homes.

The flood tides were driven by a northeast storm which battered the northeast United States for the second successive day.

MUCH DAMAGE

The storm dropped up to 14 inches of snow in New England Tuesday but not until the flood tide struck did the communities were so many lives lost and was so much damage caused.

At least nine deaths were blamed on the storm in the six New England states.

Thousands of families were forced to flee their homes from the Maine coast to Hull on Boston's south shore. Scores of overcrowded children were plucked from windows in rescues.

Coast guard and private boats aided in the evacuations and in rescues in boiling rain, sleet and high winds.

HEROISM FREQUENT

Patrolman Paul Dunn waded shoulder-deep in water to rescue two women and two children in Hull. Other deeds of heroism were reported in the surrounded.

There also were evacuations and rescues in Quincy, Scituate, Marshfield and Duxbury shore and at Revere, Winthrop and Nahant north of Boston.

At Scituate, the Coast Guard was looking out her window when the sea wall gave way. Then came the sea wall. Then came the sea wall. Then came the sea wall

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

POLICE REPORT QUIET 24 HOURS

City and provincial police reported a quiet 24 hours with no major accidents to be investigated.

Provincial police had only one mishap to report since yesterday morning. This was near Marysville where a truck driven by Ken Vick of Grimsby rolled on the ditch. The driver escaped injury.

Advertising Techniques Debase Tongue

TORONTO (CP)—Arnold Edinborough, editor of Saturday Night, said Tuesday night that techniques used by modern advertising are a prostitution and debasement of the English language.

Addressing a dinner of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation convention, he said it is amazing that teachers are able to teach English usage and correct grammatical construction in competition with the advertising of the "idiot box" and other media.

He called it unfortunate that the values of show business had been erroneously adopted as the correct values by much of society today. Society had failed to face up to the challenge of television's adverse practices.

Mr. Edinborough urged teachers to seize control of teaching standards from government.

HOUSECLEANING PLEA

"I commend to you to do some real housecleaning to bring true professionalism to your organization," he said.

Fred T. Hart, Soldier, Govt. Official and Writer, Dies

Highly esteemed resident of this city and former well-known newspaperman, Fred Tupper Hart, veteran, President Thomas Hart of Belleville Business College, General Hospital this Wednesday morning. Mr. Hart had been in failing health for a year. He resided at 216 George Street.

Fred Hart was respected and loved by all who knew him. He enjoyed a full-time career, particularly with his friends in the many walks of life in which he moved.

Born in Berkshire, England, he was a staunch Belleville Liberal to the land of his birth and his loyalty kept to the country of adoption.

He was a soldier, writer and government official. He served each capacity honorably and well. He served his country with a courage born of loyalty and he never faltered in the course he set for himself. He was a writer but returned to serve with his pen until the end of his days.

His military service did not end with the close of the war. He continued to serve after his return to Canada and was associated with the Militia Department in which he held the rank of captain quartermaster.

As a writer he had a delightful sense of humor. His wrote several articles for the local paper which overflowed with the mercy current with which he treated his subject. The Wharf Street Debating Club will long forget the "Old Country-for." Mr. Hart's nom-de-plume.

Fred Hart was a wonderful family man, comrade and citizen. He lacked upon this with a deep sincerity, although outwardly he treated it in somewhat lighter vein. He was a good friend, a good man, and a fine gentleman and he will be doubtful if any man called Fred Hart "cranky."

Nor did the loyalty falter in his long tenure of duty with the Government of Canada. He was a trusted, highly respected guardian of the public interest as the Department of Weights and measures.

SERVED EFFICIENTLY

He came from Warwickshire England in 1913 and in 1920 joined the departmental staff. He served long and efficiently until his retirement in 1951 after establishing the position of district inspector. His trustworthiness and efficiency were such that the government requested he remain with the department for two years following the official date of retirement.

Fred Hart never liked idleness. He liked to be with his friends and with people. So he became secretary of the Quinte Chess Producers' Association here and served it for many years following his severance from the government.

He was a valued member of the famous "21st Battalion" Association. He was the editor of the battalion's official newspaper "The Growler" and during the war many times complimented on the fine efforts he put forth in its publication.

His military love was the "Fighting 21st". He joined the 39th Battalion here and later transferred to the 21st with which he served until the end of the war. He was beloved by all his comrades of the unit and was one of the most popular figures at the many reunions he attended.

Other of his comrades will miss him too. These are the members of Branch 301 Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada here. Here too, his jovial personality and enjoyment of comradeship gained him many new friends. He never forgot his friends when he served in the holocaust of war in France and Belgium in World War One.

TIES WERE STRONG

His ties with his motherland were strong. In 1951 he visited England on holiday and spent many days with his brothers and sisters. But Canadian roots were deeply embedded too for he returned to live to spend his remaining days.

He came to Peterborough, Ont., in 1913 and joined the government service. Twenty years ago he came to Belleville and had resided here to the time of his death.

He was a member of St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

Surviving are his wife the former Ethel Orrin of England; two daughters, Mrs. Huson (Meta) Coon of Peterborough, and Mrs. Ellsworth (Tina) Deyell of Orillia; one son, Frederick Rose Hart of Belleville; two sisters, Mrs. Emily Copeland and Mrs. Albert Linton of England; two grandchildren, Albert John and Walter all of England, and nine great-children.

Mr. Hart was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hart of England.

Humane Killing Of Food Animals Now Required

OTTAWA (CP) — The agriculture department announced new measures to require the humane slaughter of food animals.

Regulations drawn up under an act approved at the last session of parliament following a two-year study prohibit shackling of animals before slaughter unless unconscious.

They approve use of stunning devices, carbon dioxide gas and electrical current as means of rendering animals unconscious.

Stunning devices—usually spring guns which fire a steel bolt into the animal's forehead—are almost universally used in meat plants.

With one exception, they prohibit killing of food animals while unconscious.

The exception is kosher slaughter in the ritual slaughter of animals called schechita. Experienced butchers use a razor-sharp knife and with a single cut kill the animal instantly without suffering. However, the animal cannot be shackled.

The regulations are effective Jan. 1, except those sections requiring that sheep, swine and ritually - slaughtered cattle be rendered unconscious before shackling which become effective Dec. 1, 1960. The delay in the latter cases is to allow slaughter houses time to install new equipment.

Kerr Crescent Residents Seen To Have Exactly Same Complaint

Eleven Inches Of Snow Fall Since Monday

TRENTON — According to the report of the duty foreman at R.C.A.F. Station Trenton, eleven inches of snow has fallen in this area since the rain storm on Monday. Operations at the aerodrome have been suspended, a fact which would ordinarily have landed at Trenton are being re-routed to other points.

Snow plows in town worked most of the night last night and the workmen were faced with a steady fall of snow this morning. Town laborers have been kept busy shovelling walks for which the town by-law requires residential citizens are clearing their own walks. School children have been out enjoying the Christmas holidays and welcomed a small fortune with their shovels.

Surprisingly, there have been only a few accidents on town streets, and these were of a minor nature. Service garages however, have answered many calls to pull cars out of snow drifts. Many people left their cars at home and walked to work, taxi cabs being at a premium.

Heavy trucks and trailers are experiencing difficulty on the hills at Sidney and Glen. There has been a considerable amount of excavation in the Bonnycastle area, and the Trenton police department is kept busy directing traffic.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — The inaugural ceremonies in which Trenton's new mayor, James MacDonald, and members of the 1960 council will be officially inducted into office, will be held on Saturday, January 2, at 11 a.m. in the town hall on the market square. The ceremonies will be conducted by the Reverend J. T. Irwin.

NO ENGINEER

Trenton is still without a town engineer. Two applicants for the position were interviewed on Monday but no decision could be reached and qualifications will be discussed at tonight's council meeting.

WEEK OF PRAYER

The 1960 Week of Prayer service will be held in Trenton churches starting January 4th to 8th. Sunday, January 3rd, January 5th the service will be in the Baptist Church; January 6th at King Street United Church; January 7th at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and on January 8th at St. George's Anglican Church. Services will begin at 7.30 p.m. and the theme of the week-long prayer service will be "Christ Reconciles in Christ." The meetings are sponsored by the Trenton Ministerial Association.

WILL HOLD SERVICES

Watch Night services will be held on New Year's Eve in a number of Trenton churches starting with the United Four Square Gospel Church, Bethel Church, Sherman Avenue North, reformed Church and the Salvation Army Citadel will all hold services on New Year's Eve, while other churches in town will hold special services on New Year's Day.

DEATH NOW WINS

CHICAGO (AP) — A Nativity corkscrew, designed by a concert pianist, will be the star of the electric chair, Monday was adjudged the best Christmas decoration by a prisoner, in the Cook County jail's holiday contest. Winner Thomas, 27, a Wilton Manor, will be electrocuted Jan. 15 for the slaying last April 16 of Detective Homer Ar. during a tavern robbery.

GRITCH — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Gritch, who passed away December 30th, 1958.

We think of you often, and will to the end,
For the thoughtful kindness you were ever kind.
We do not forget you, nor do we forget,
We think of you often, and will to the end,
—Always remembered by sons, daughters and grandchildren.

GRITCH — In loving memory of a dear wife, Hannah Pearl, who passed away December 30th, 1958.

Our dear kind face is now at rest,
Our hearts are sad and sore,
That memory is all we have of heartache,
Only those who have each can tell,
Of the pain that is never in silence,
For the one I loved so well.
—Sadly missed by husband, Roy.

LEPORE — A tribute of love to a dear mother, Marie Lepore, who passed away December 30th, 1958.

Gone, dear mother, gone forever,
Left us with a heart full of pain,
We miss you more than ever,
Now that you are gone.
We cannot hear your voice,
We cannot see your smile,
But in our hearts you have a place,
Dear mother, you are not forgotten,
Nor will be while life shall last,
Till memory dies and we are laid,
Where we hope to meet at last.
—Sadly missed by Nina, Jack, Jessie and children.

LEPORE — In loving memory of a dear mother, Marie Lepore, who passed away December 30th, 1958.

Gone but not forgotten.
—Remembered by Tony, Rose and Aileen.

LEPORE — In loving memory of our dear wife, Marie, who passed away December 30th, 1958.

December comes with deep regret,
The month we lost our mother dear,
Our hearts are sad, our eyes are wet,
We can mourn the bitter pain,
Of the one we loved the most,
Along the road to yesterday,
That leads one straight to rest,
Are memories of the happy days,
We spent with mother dear.
As you, dear mother, I had you,
To nurse and to love,
Where we can find happiness
With love without alloy,
And death shall not end our love.
—Lovingly remembered by husband Nick.

IN MEMORIAM

COULTHARD — In loving memory of my dear husband, Ernest Coulthard, who passed away December 30th, 1957.

As I kneel you, it takes you,
In my memory you are near,
For memories are golden,
And treasured always dear.

Maine's Governor Dies in Sleep

AUGUSTA, Me. (AP)—Maine's Governor Clinton A. Clauson, 64, died in his sleep early today. He was in his first year of a four-year term.

A Democrat, he will be automatically succeeded by the Senate president of the state Senate, John H. Reed of Fort Fairfield.

Clauson was elected in 1958 as Maine's first governor to serve a four-year term. He was elected to succeed Edmund S. Muskie, now a United States senator.

2nd American Girl Reported To Be Missing

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—A second American girl is reported missing in the Watertown area where police are seeking the identity of a girl's body found sewn in a sack. The remains are believed those of an American girl, from the girl.

The parents of 22-year-old Harriet Sinclair, Watertown, N.Y. say they have not heard from her since receiving a post card from Toronto, Ont. Oct. 24.

The United States state department, court paralyzed says have been asked to help locate the tall, brunette college graduate, who was in a Toronto hospital.

The body of a girl or young woman was found near Lake Ontario in the brush outside Tuggler, Oswego. Tuggler is 35 miles from Watertown. Authorities from Gibraltar, Police said the victim had been strangled and then beaten to death.

Tuggler police chief identified the body as that of a 19-year-old American named Helen Muller. Henry Monfer of New York City said that his daughter Helen, a former classmate at Hunter College, sailed in mid-October for a trip aboard alone and that her last letter came from Tangier.

Later reports from Tangier, however, said that police were not sure the body was Miss Muller's. An Englishman, identified as William Moore, was being held for questioning in connection with the body. He was under guard in a hospital where he was taken after slashing his wrists.

The downtown area was expected to be cleared by noon today and tonight operations will swing to Coleman and North Front Streets.

New Members Are Inducted Into Kiwanis

Two new members were inducted into the Belleville Kiwanis Club Tuesday at the final meeting of 1959 held at the Kiwanis Centre, Dundas Street East. The meeting was under the chairmanship of retiring president Gerry Wishart.

The new members are George Van de Water, a native of Lisbon, Ont., who relocated to the city in 1956 as C.N.R. division engineer, and Lloyd Moorhead, a native of Ivanohoe, Ont., who came to Belleville about six months ago as an associate of chiropractor Rogers Riedel, and who has since opened a private practice.

Mr. Van de Water was introduced by Bob Freestone and Mr. Moorhead by Tom Edgecombe.

The induction ceremony was conducted by Mark Venner, who outlined the Kiwanis organization, objectives and regulations, and presented the new Kiwanians with their Kiwanis literature, buttons, certificates and lapel pins.

Following the induction an inspirational and thought-provoking address was given by Rev. C. W. Coleman.

In his brief address Mr. Coleman suggested people take "forward and looking glances" as the old year draws to a close and a new year and decade begin.

"We should look back over our shoulder at the old year 1959 so we can better understand the new year," Mr. Coleman said, in urging his audience to look to the future and examinations of the past and concentrate on doing more good deeds in 1960.

He stressed the new year is a "gift" but a gift to be used and it should be used wisely.

"Our Heavenly Father sends us the gift of 1960 — clean, unspoiled, unused — but to be used. And it is our responsibility whether we let selfishness, greed and extravagance spoil its virgin beauty.

"1960 lies before us — try to keep it a little cleaner and finer than the year 1959," he concluded.

The thanks of the club were extended by President Wishart who noted "if we keep these thoughts in mind we'll all have a better year in 1960."

He announced the new executive for 1960 will be installed by Lieutenant-Governor Bill McNeely at next week's meeting.

Maritimes Hit By Foot of Snow And High Winds

HALIFAX (CP)—Winter's first major assault on the Maritimes brought more than a foot of snow to some areas Tuesday. A fresh fall of four inches was also expected today.

The storm, which swept into the Maritimes after lashing Ontario and New England, clogged highways, railroads, airports in Nova Scotia and also tied up shipping.

No major damage has been reported. The big danger was from freezing weather expected today which would set up a nice hazardous driving conditions.

Gales reached 50 m.p.h. on the southwestern tip of Nova Scotia, felt the storm at Yarmouth and Digby. Eight inches of snow fell there Monday and snow, sleet and rain fell Tuesday. Rain fell in all coastal areas.

The RCMP reported numerous highway accidents. Winds that reached 70 miles an hour in some areas caused drifting. Several airline flights were cancelled.

An early survey indicated ice-ster fishermen were braced for the blow and little damage was expected.

Snowfall reached 12 to 14 inches in southern sections of Nova Scotia. New Brunswick expected only a fall of from three to four inches.

CANADA'S ECONOMY GROWS — Canada's gross national product—the sum of all goods and services—more than doubled in dollar value in the period 1949 to 1959. Nearly half the increase, however, was due to price increases. The actual increase in volume was something more than 50 per cent.

In 1949 the gross national product was $16,543,000,000 compared with an estimated $34,500,000,000 in 1959. The 1959 figure, if expressed in 1949 dollars, would be more than $25,000,000,000.

Snow piled into the centre of the street by snowplows slows traffic until it is scooped up by the snow-blower and removed. Scene here is Market Street. Minutes later the snow had been removed.

City's New Snowblower Given Opportunity to Prove Itself

With eight inches of snow dumped over the area Monday night and Tuesday, the city's new snowblower was given its first real opportunity to prove itself last night as public works crews set about a big cleanup job in the downtown area.

This morning the snow removal job was well along with Front Street from Dundas to Station, Bridge Street from Church to James Street had been cleared away and Pinnacle Street from Dundas to Station was expected to be cleared by noon.

This morning McAnnany and Market streets were being cleared.

Public works officials noted that tonight the snow removal job would continue with clean-up operations in the downtown area following which the blower would go into operation on Coleman Street and also do a cleanup job at the North Front Street and Moira Street intersection.

Last night city plows were out until about midnight with snow removal operations commencing in the downtown section about the same time.

Plows clearing the snow into continuous piles in the centre of the street with the blower then passing up the street at a crawl loading trucks as it progressed.

Average time for the new blower to load trucks is about two minutes and with the next truck waiting to move into position as one truck is loaded no time is lost by the blower.

Augmenting the snow removal force were half a dozen welfare men who were hired as shovellers.

Major Contract Awarded Northern Electric Company

With the recent receipt of another major contract officials of the Northern Electric Company plant at Belleville are looking forward to a busy year in 1960.

This was noted today by Mr. J. C. E. Pinchard, production manager for Northern Electric, who confirmed that the Belleville branch of Northern Electric had been awarded a larger than usual government contract.

Mr. Punchard noted, however, that this was but one of several contracts which the local company was now working on. "With the three or four other large contracts on which we are working this new contract will mean we will be busy in Belleville for some time to come," he said.

He emphasized that Northern Electric in Belleville was a large operation and large contracts were necessary to keep the plant operating at its present level.

Currently there are about 900 persons employed at the Belleville plant.

At the same time plant management was not striving for such large contracts that would mean enlargement of the Belleville plant.

"We are trying to hold the Belleville plant at its present size. We do not feel that it would be good for Belleville or Northern Electric to get too big," Mr. Punchard said.

"We would rather strike an even pace and strive for stability," he said.

Normally about 50 per cent of government contracts received are sub-contracted to other firms.

This fits in with the government wish to spread the work around, and also means that Northern can complete large contracts without the necessity of enlarging their Belleville plant.

Charge Board Nomination Meet Kept Secret

MATTAWA, Ont. (CP)—Charges that the Mattawa separate school board failed to properly advertise its nomination meeting scheduled for noon yesterday in St. Anne's Separate School were made today.

Mayor Salem Turcotte and John Gilligan, who had previously attempted to unseat three members of the Mattawa separate school board, said the nomination meeting was being railroaded" by the board.

Jean Paul Mirault, school board secretary, said the nomination meeting had been advertised "according to the act."

Mayor Turcotte said the meeting had not been announced in the local newspapers.

temperatures that stopped the freezing rain.

In Orangeville, without power since Sunday night, residents bought all available space heaters and camp stoves. Homes with power shared their accommodation. Two local restaurants, equipped with gas, did a booming business.

In Toronto, emergency shelters were opened again in the North York community hall and the King Edward Hotel in Scarborough.

Bell Telephone Company officials said more than 2,000 lines were still out in Toronto, Etobicoke, Eglinton and Brampton.

More than 3,100 lines, 350 poles and 2,400 wire breaks were reported in the Toronto area but all but a few hundred were expected to be repaired today. Many telephones, however, are broken lines, may not return to normal service for a week.

Hydro officials said most of the power breaks in the province occurred in secondary distribution lines. All high-tension lines were repaired on Tuesday.

Driving conditions became more difficult after Tuesday's snowfall and most roads in the southern section of the province were either wet and slushy or snow-covered with icy patches.

In the Kingston district a 14-inch snowfall disrupted traffic. Motorists were urged to leave their cars at home and walk. Snowdrifts hampered clearing. But no major accidents were attributed to the storm.

Chief Probert Appeals for Safe Driving

An appeal for additional caution due to street conditions and a warning against drinking and driving was made today by the police Chief Walter Probert who made it plain that charges would result against drivers who contributed the New Year unwisely.

"With street conditions as they are, it is a must that extra caution be observed both by motorists and pedestrians alike", stated Chief Probert.

Chief Probert said the police force would be especially on the alert for drinking drivers and any drivers suspected of having indulged too strongly would be charged according to circumstances. This could mean charges for drunken or impaired driving and careless driving.

The chief quoted the Alcoholism Research Foundation as noting that the average person should wait at least two hours before driving after he has consumed two alcoholic drinks. Then roughly another two hours of sobering up time should be allowed for each additional drink after the second one.

By two drinks the Foundation means two 10-oz. glasses of whiskey, gin or rum, or two 5-oz. drinks of sherry or port or two 12-oz. bottles of beer.

Aneurin Bevan On Danger List After Operation

LONDON (CP) — Aneurin Bevan, 62, deputy leader of the opposition Labor party, is on the "danger list" in a hospital here following a major abdominal operation Tuesday, his wife reported today.

Mrs. Bevan, also a Labor member of Parliament and better known as Jennie Lee, looked distressed as she left the hospital after spending 30 minutes with husband.

But she added: "Let us not accentuate his illness. I am sure he will get well."

She said Bevan "has to be carried very, very carefully for the next few days."

Max Rawhide Ferguson Has Received Many Strange Gifts

By BILL SCOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's top disc jockey in the field of folk music says he's never been offered payola. Max (Rawhide) Ferguson says "payola just isn't a paying proposition for folk-song record companies." And he has interested in the other kind.

But Max, bigger-than-life hero of Rawhide and a score of other characters, has received many strange gifts from listeners during the 12 years he has been with the CBC in Toronto and the Maritimes. He now is in Toronto playing records and doing the usual pot-pourri of weird characters. Long and satire, as well as work-out on CBC television's Tabloid. He says most of his gifts have come from "Marrumiders."

When he was in Halifax, Rawhide often received knitted items from Newfoundland or Nova Scotia. One woman sent him a pair of heavy fisherman's socks, to be worn over the shoes, to save the soles. Another listener made him a bulky toque, to wear when he was playing for the CBC Halifax hockey team.

GAVE BROAD HINTS

Max said the gifts weren't always practical, but that didn't came in after obvious hints. "It came in very handy in the winter days," he said. "I would go on the air and say, 'Well, I'm sittin' here with my feet up on a chair watching my toes pokin' through the holes.' I usually got enough, the next mail would bring a pair of handknitted socks."

Rember Harold? He was a spider, one of the more colorful characters played by Rawhide, who got side one time, and had to go to hospital. Fourteen kindhearted people promptly knitted tiny spiders and sent them to Max.

During the last few years Max has received about 40 different caricatures of Rawhide from imaginative artists. He has also received many tape recordings from individuals and groups interested in folk music. Max says these aren't gifts, but a sort of exchange.

One of his fondest memories goes back to Rawhide has left Halifax for Toronto in 1955. Winter was approaching and Max had a yearning for "a good old rumtiddler" cider, to Rawhide and "the Trotters" on the Trans-Canada network and listener-sponsored letters.

HEARD AT ACADIA

A few days later a letter arrived from a group of students at Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S. They promised to send a keg of cider in time for Christmas. Rawhide read the letter on the air, thanked his fans, and sent back to wait. Christmas came and went, but there was no sign of the promised keg.

Rawhide went back on the air and said somebody at Acadia seemed to be procrastinating.

Eventually a quart of cider arrived, and with it a letter. The station agent at Wolfville had heard Rawhide reading the student's letter, and when they brought their order in to mail, had refused to accept it.

They went away with the cider and waited. Next day they packaged it, with a large amount of false filling to change the shape of the parcel. It finally reached Rawhide, labelled as a used radio.

Milk Production Will Be High In Coming Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Record milk production next year — equal to more than half a tan for each Canadian—was forecast Tuesday by the National Physical Council Canada.

"Well in excess of 18,000,000,000 pounds of milk will flow from Canadian dairy farms next year," W. G. John, executive secretary of the dairy industry's trade association, said in a statement.

This would be enough "to provide each man, woman and child in Canada with over 1,000 pounds of milk or cow or more of its many forms."

Allan Bell Wins Safety Award

MARMORA — Mr. Allan Bell of Percy Street, Marmora, has the winner for last area in the province-wide Traffic Safety contest from 50 entries. He was awarded the Jack Hammell Award of $50 for his essay in which he suggested the erection of pill-boards giving figures of killed and injured in accident-prone areas. His entry with those from the other two areas will go before Attorney-General Kelso Roberts for a final choice of the province.

Keith Brown, M.P.P. for Peterborough, made the award to Mr. Bell.

Soccer Players' Wives Refused To Be Left Alone

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Fear of a maniac killer today forced a Birmingham soccer club to call off a training trip to the south coast.

Wives of the Aston Villa club's players refused to be left alone while the sex slayer who sliced off a girl's head with a kitchen knife still is at large.

It was typical of the fear gripping the women of this great industrial city.

For 58 days hundreds of police throughout Britain have hunted the man or the crazy-haired killer who beheaded 29-year-old Stephanie Baird in a local YWCA dormitory.

Women rarely are seen alone in the streets after dark. Night nurses are being taken to local hospitals in buses.

Road Conditions Over Province Not Good Yet

TORONTO (CP)—The highways department today reported that highways in the Sudbury district are generally wet to centre-bare and snow packed with drifting up to six inches in some sections.

Roads in the Kirkland Lake-Timmins-Kapuskasing area ranges from bare, centre-bare to snow covered and snow packed. But the Lakehead and in the Sioux-Rainy River regions highways are bare, centre bare with some ice patches.

Haliburton highways are generally snow covered although some are bare and dry with slippery sections. Highways in the Lake St. Clair and central Lake Ontario districts are bare and wet to slushy.

In the remainder of Southern Ontario roads are mostly snow covered and slushy with some slippery sections.

SAYS IMPAIRED

William H. Collings, chief commissioner of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, said legislature and other "big shots" would receive the same treatment as anyone else before the courts."

"I wouldn't pay too much attention to statements like that," he said.

Mayor-elect Harry Wansbrough of Kitchener said Sgt. Henrich had made some wild statements and would have to account for them before the police commission.

"It looks like he has put his foot in it," Mr. Wansbrough said.

"I'm not a lawyer but it seems to me the impaired section was brought in because of the difficulty in obtaining convictions under the drunk driving section."

Sgt. Henrich also criticized bus-agers who drink in cars. He said that with two or three teen-agers in it, the family car after midnight "turns into a bawdy house and drinking place."

"There is more alcohol consumed in cars than gasoline."

Dr. Eugene Forsey, research director of the Canadian Labor Congress, told the conference he prefers not to limit his capacity to help those in need by spending money on liquor while two-thirds of the world's people rarely have three square meals a day.

He criticized the many-of-distinction theme in liquor advertising and said Prime Minister Diefenbaker, External Affairs Minister Green and Finance Minister Fleming are all teetotallers.

Believe Kassem Creating Artificial Crisis With Iran

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A growing number of observers hear rumor over to the belief that the new tension around Iraq is the picture of a desperate dictator promoting an artificial crisis to stave off a real one at home. Iraq's current conflict with neighboring Iran over an issue that most thought was settled 20 years ago probably will blow over without serious shooting.

But it is the latest in a series of events that can be interpreted as a deliberate attempt by Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem to lose friend; abroad in a bid to influence people at home.

CRUCIAL DAY

The crucial day for Kassem is Jan. 6—the date he promised to restore "normal political activity" in Iraq. It may be that by provoking an atmosphere of crisis, Kassem hopes to justify retention of real control in his own hands.

The Iraqi premier long ago sacrificed any possibility of better relations with his Arab neighbors—King Hussein's Jordan and President Nasser's United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria.

The result was that he became the focal point of one of the most vicious propaganda battles ever waged by Arab brother against brother.

More and more Kassem relied on Communists to help undercut write his power. The Communist motive undoubtedly is to keep the premier in power until the time is ripe for them to take over.

If normal political activity is restored next week, the way would be cleared for a "coalition" takeover by the Reds. Their highly - organized cadres throughout the country could almost certainly be relied on to engineer a Communist victory through the polls.

ARMY DIVIDED

The National Democrats—the strongest opposition to the Communists—are firmly entrenched in Kassem's cabinet but are viewed as untrustworthy by the popular level. The army too, is reported to be divided.

Ten days may, at least for a little while, be seeking ways to play one side against the other until a way can be found out of the impasse.

But some Middle Eastern experts now question whether Kassem is capable of maintaining such delicate manoeuvres. The impression given is that the attempt to shoot him down in the Baghdad streets and his subsequent convalescence seriously shook his self-confidence, nerve and strength of will.

Hugh Gaitskell Criticizes U.S. A-Test Decision

TORONTO (CP) — The United States' decision to free itself to resume nuclear weapons testing was criticized Thursday by Hugh Gaitskell.

The leader of Britain's Labor party, in Toronto for a television show, told a press conference: "I am sorry that the United States should have felt it necessary to take this step and can only hope that they will themselves not resume nuclear tests.

"For if they do then it is only too likely that the Soviet Union will follow suit and we shall be back again in the same position as before with one notable difference—the atmosphere will possibly be dangerously the health of future generations.

Mr. Gaitskell said there was also the danger that international tension may increase.

"One would have hoped that no action of the kind would have been taken at least until after the election."

Mr. Gaitskell said the Conservative victory in the last election was due to a generally favorable economic situation. Still unemployment, a rise in living standards, particularly in the home area and a decline in the social platform, creating more while collar workers and fewer manual workers.

He went through with his appearance on a CBC television show although his identity as a "mystery guest was revealed by a newspaper dispatch before his arrival here from London.

"I was told that my publicity is to avoid it," Mr. Gaitskell remarked during the Canadian Front Page Challenge, in which panel members attempted to identify news stories or famous persons in the news.

JUDY GOING BACK

at the Ambassador Bridge.

"I began to look for directions from people on the street. I met a nice girl who took me to her home, gave me some Christmas cards, then drove me to the Detroit-Windsor tunnel entrance. I got across with my passport with a friendly nod for Canadian Customs. Detroit and naked at a hotel to get directions how to get to the railway station. I found it very quickly and started searching."

Judy spent most of Sunday wandering about the railway depots and the airport. But Judy's name is hopes that the dog would hear her.

"I had a hamburger and some popcorn but after arriving in Detroit", Judy said, "and I knew that that was going to have to last for a while."

BENCH WAS HARD

Judy went to bed on a bench in the ladies' room at the depot just before midnight.

"It was very hot in there. The bench was pretty hard too. I couldn't think of much to do. Finding Judy so it wasn't bad."

Judy arose at 7:30 Monday morning and resumed of her search. The New York Central's public relations chief Al Paul, helped her look. He bought Judy lunch, a pair of socks and a ticket to St. Thomas.

Hedda and Ed Feuding Over Charlton Heston

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A feud broke into the open today between Hedda Hopper columnist Ed Sullivan and Hollywood columnist Hedda Hopper over Mike Hopper's forthcoming television show.

Actor Charlton Heston withdrew from the Hopper program after Sullivan charged that it was a network production and not a local one.

This prompted Miss Hopper to remark that the show would go on as scheduled Jan. 10.

Sullivan wired a complaint to two actors' groups Monday. He said: "I am shocked to learn that Miss Hopper was using her influence to get certain performers for her show free".

SCARED TO DEATH?

Miss Hopper retorted:

"Ed Sullivan says I don't pay my people, he's a liar. I'm sure he won't be shocked Sullivan is scared to death going to knock him off the air".

They are all set to appear Dec. 31 on Sullivan's show.

Sullivan said the screen Actors Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists had protested the charge that Miss Hopper called performers free dressed to perform on her show for nothing.

Sullivan added that Heston was paid $10,000 for appearing on Sullivan's show.

Heston had been scheduled to tape a scene for Miss Hopper's show Dec. 19 spectacular. His agent told Miss Hopper Heston wouldn't do it.

HESTON COMMENTS

Heston commented later:

"There is no question about my willingness and eagerness to do an interview with Hedda any time—now or later. My only sponsor is going to beam it over 160 stations in competition with guys who have a lot of freedom money for the same thing, then I'll be doing them a dirty trick to go ahead."

Miss Hopper and several of Heston's friends said that Mrs. Ben Hur were ahead with their taping Tuesday.

"We played the scene without Heston", she said. "And we all make him!"

Heston plays the lead in the movie.

OFFER INCREASED

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York City Transit Authority Tuesday night offered pay increases totalling $20,000 in an effort to avert a crippling tieup of the city's massive transportation system after negotiators promptly rejected by the Transport Workers Union. The 30,000-member union, however, simultaneously set the wage demands by more than half.

Jodoin Assails 'Hold Line' Policy on Wages in Message

OTTAWA (CP)—Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, has hit at the idea of a "hold the line" policy on wage increases.

In a year-end message, he said Canadian workers undoubtedly "deserve to get a fair share" of Canada's increasing prosperity during 1960.

Another message issued Tuesday, Labor Minister Starr said an optimistic view of the winter employment outlook and the prospects for 1960 generally.

"Present indications suggest that the unemployment figure for this winter will continue to be lower than that of the year before," Mr. Starr said.

"Continued effort, however, on the part of industry—both employer; and workers—of governments and of every individual citizen are needed to ensure this result."

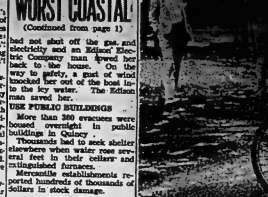
CITES OPTIMISM

Mr. Jodoin said "there is a spirit of optimism in our country as we reach the turn of the year."

"We in organized labor share that spirit.

"We recall that many months ago unions were told to 'hold the line.' We were warned of dire consequences if workers insisted on wage-cost wage increases. We did not share the rather pessimistic view of the economy that a 'hold the line' position was necessary to avoid a depression."

The congress got a "hold the line" suggestion from Prime Minister Diefenbaker in the spring of 1958 when he spoke to the bi biennial convention in Winnipeg. Mr. Diefenbaker also addressed the same caution to management as regard prices. Mr. Jodoin said he was referring to this, as well as to admonitions he has taken from industry.



SPOT IN ARMS

We felt Mr. Jodoin said, "that steps were necessary to give people new confidence and their buying power to create demand for goods and services. Such demands would naturally follow increased earnings.

"Trade unions did seek wage increases and, to a considerable extent, obtained them. . . .

"It is encouraging now to find the prime minister reporting to the nation that 1959 will prove to be one of the best years in Canada's economic history, and that 1960 may be even better.

SLEEPING IN SCHOOL — Civil defence worker Doug Drew tucks in Paul Jolicoeur, 12 (top) and his brother Michael as they bed down on a school floor. Their parents brought them there to sleep when hydro failure cut off power at home. About 5,000 homes were blacked out and left without heat in the Toronto suburbs of Scarborough and North York. (CP Wirephoto).

SUDDEN DEATH FROM THE SKIES — Mrs. Jane A. David, 32, of Tucson, Ariz., was burned to death when a 1750-gallon fuel tank fell off a Davis-Monthan Air Force Base B-47 bomber on takeoff. The woman was riding her son's bicycle on church work. The burning bicycle is seen in the foreground. The victim's body is at the rear. Flames from the explosion went 300 feet high. The B47 pilot knew he was in trouble and banked so that the tank would not fall in a densely populated area. (AP Wirephoto).

LINES DOWN — Many hydro and communications lines such as these at Toronto were felled December 23 when freezing rain fell throughout Ontario. Many areas were without electricity and accidents on slippery roads were numerous. (CP Wirephoto).

3rd Cubs, Scouts Enjoy Yuletide Party

The Yuletide party for the 2nd Belleville Cubs and Scouts was held on December 17, with 70 boys being present. All the boys brought gifts to be exchanged, which were placed under a gaily decorated tree, as well as canned goods, donated for a basket cause.

Several skits were put on much to the enjoyment of the parents and the three group committee members present.

Refreshments, followed by games, some baked goodies and hot chocolate.

Nine mothers were on hand to serve. Afterwards gifts were presented to Scout Leader, the Cub Leader. The boys exchanged theirs.

The festivities were closed with everyone joining in carol singing.

Simply Sumptuous

By ALICE ALDEN

The season's big fashion success appears to be the dress or costume of sumptuous fabric, simply styled. This formula is shown at its best in an evening ensemble of polo coat and dress in a lustrous gold tone. The slim dress has a camisole bodice. Anne Klein designed this specifically for the younger woman of great chic and charm, as a frame for her youthful beauty.

Charles R. Bone Displays Fact-Fantasy Art Exhibit

The versatility of one of the foremost artists of the day, Mr. Charles R. Bone, now of Toronto, formerly of the "Little Gallery" on Pinnacle Street, may be seen in his art exhibit which has been on display for some time at the McCarthy Studios.

Among the 16 pictures, entitled "Fact and Fantasy," are three of well-known flowers, a blue bowl of petunias, in shades of deep purple, white, pink, wine, single and frilled; one of pansies, some white with small ring faces and dark eyes, large velvety purple ones soft, dark blues, a few in orange tints, and a purpled-greenish bowl containing mixed flowers of the garden, spears of flaming salvia; verbenas in rusty-pink and maurve and single white petunias. All show a delicateness of touch and restrained coloring.

LORDLY BULLDOG

A lordly bulldog in tawny coloring with black touches, sagging jowls and an ugly nose and eyes alert, held the attention. How a dog with such a kindly nature has achieved such a repellent exterior one long has been a conundrum to the writer. Mr. Bone, in his painting, has caught both characteristics.

The landscapes, among which was one of a winding forest road with arching trees resembling the lofty arches of cathedrals, the background by wooded lands, accented by a lonely pine, with autumn coloredness here and there making a place where one might sit and dream.

LITTLE HAMLET

One painting depicted a little hamlet town with tall spire-like poplars, and wooded hillside at the foot of which nestles a little church, with its slender finger pointing to the One it represents. A space of yellowish sky, we might be the Bay of Fundy.

Another interesting sketch was that of still life of grapes and rosy-tinted apples, backed by a fantasy of interlacing slender boughs.

One sketch which also held the attention, was that of a small boy learning to skate, drawn by a honey-colored Cocker Spaniel, who did not appear to relish his part in the venture, but loving his little master, was willing to continue to the bitter end.

The painting, the boy, the dog, and the flowers was also a study in human and canine emotion, each of one side and the boy on the other with the bowl of white hyacinths, and red tulips between. The attitude of the aristocratic poodle whose nose just touched the forehead of the boy, well a touch not to be missed.

HOODED BIRDS

The hooded birds with blue-green-black bodies, with golden topknots, and flamingo-like legs displayed motion and lack of motion, as some were relaxing; others standing-in various positions, and one asleep. A nice painting, bringing out the sheen of the plumage.

One picture, which might be labelled, "After the Party," showed a collection of empty bottles in casual formation, some standing upright, some leaning as if cast aside when no longer containing the tempting draughts.

The wheeling white gulls hovering over the shoreside of azure blue peaceful lake backgrounded by wood stretches, and sandbars, was restful and pretty; while that of the red-rimmed home, nestling among trees, depicted both quiet and motion in the gulls from the white wash gently swaying in the soft breeze.

ENIGMA

The portrait of a young woman in a bluish brocaded evening gown was rather an enigma as to the interpretation the artist meant to portray. The face was carefully done with heavy dark lipsticked half-open lips, and heavy brows.

A nice exhibit showing the artist's delicate touch of nature, his love of detail, with exquisite gentle coloring.

AID TO GLUTTONS

WARSAW (Reuters) — The Warsaw ambulance service was called out more than 2,000 times during Christmas week to treat cases of excessive eating and drinking, the evening newspaper Express Wieczorny reported Monday.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

We might start out by saying "doing exchanging" in this last column for 1938. Even the exchanging may be done by now and, certainly all the shopping rout will need to do will be for the New Year's celebrations.

Christmas has come and gone and soon the gay laughter and song of the New Year festivities will have died away on the wintry air. There is always a sharp contrast between the lively excitement of the holiday season and the back-to-the-old-routine dullness which gives us a let - down feeling. Should this be so or must this be so?

The holidays, to be sure, have their glitter and fanfare and hold-up; the climax comes and is gone. Ahead are slower paced days and spring is still along way off.

If we really gathered something from the fullness of Christmas, we can hold its warmth around us to comfort us through what may be the winter of our discontent.

The making of resolutions at the New Year probably comes from the fact that we realize more than a gay party with noise makers and good cheer. New Year brings out some philosophical depth which gives our days a finer sense of meaning and purpose. In a moment of high confidence we often make resolutions a little beyond our reach.

This is when we need to keep up our enthusiasm; it is the very spark of life. One dictionary defines it as an energy of mind as if from inspiration or possession by a spiritual influence. Enthusiasm is not only beneficial for the enthusiast but it benefits all those with whom he comes in contact. It can even stimulate health and give a greater zest for living.

With enthusiasm, new doors need remain closed. The New Year reminds us that there are many new doors for us to open; with resolution and enthusiasm, what might we not accomplish?

Oliver Wendell Holmes once said, "Many people die with their music still in them." Maybe we miss the opening door of opportunity because we are so busy looking in the mirror pridefully or looking critically at other people.

The root word from which we get the word opportunity means "open door." In the book of Revelations it says, "Behold, I have set before you an open door which no one is able to shut."

A poet, whose name we do not know, says:

Before me swings an open door
That no man has the power to close.
Its portals widening disclose
Some high adventure to explore.

All hindrance that has gone before
My striving spirit overthrows—
Before me swings an open door
That no man has the power to close.

There is no task life can impose
To mark for me a losing score,
Nor aught appear to daunt or scare
That soul
The freedom which my spirit knows
Before me swings an open door
That no man has the power to close.

And so to all of you, with best wishes and resolutions — Happy New Year!

Adults Are Not Thinking Of Their Figures at Parties

MONTREAL (CP) — Cocktail party hostesses should allow 11 to 15 hors d'oeuvres for each guest, suggests Jean Paré in her book "Hors d'oeuvres and Canapes," published here today.

That's the advice for successful entertaining for a woman who in December arranged parties for 1,000 guests, sometimes a day.

Mrs. Bertha Dansereau, who has been catering for parties for 20 years, says also that men look for double portions.

Mrs. Dansereau, who has organized refreshments for parties ranging from 10 to 1,000 guests, says that in their preference for smaller titbits, such as olives, radishes and pickles, adults are not thinking of their figures.

"I was once a master of appetite and convenience for cocktail parties. There were several rules, however. When guests travel to a party in the country they should be given substantial food and they stay longer, Mrs. Dansereau said.

OTHER PARTY HINTS

Here are other tips from Mrs. Dansereau for the housewife who does her own catering:

1. If the guests are expected to stay until 10 or 11 o'clock at night, additional food should be served late in the evening.

2. The most popular fare for a buffet supper in winter includes hot dishes, cold meats, several different salads and, instead of a large dessert, French pastries and cheese.

3. If the guests are all men, more meat and more dessert should be served than for a party for women. Men like their desserts in quantity.

4. Buffet luncheons are more convenient than sit - down meals

Friends Hold Stork Shower

FRANKFORD — On Monday evening a "Stork Shower" was held at the home of Mrs. Carl Anderson, in honor of Mrs. Dorcas Smith.

Mrs. Reg. Elliott was in charge of the evening and opened with the singing of "Sweet Adeline" with Mrs. Doug Flood at the piano, after which Mrs. Anderson led in prayer.

Mrs. Reg. Elliott gave a reading, "What Is A Girl?" Miss Gail Carl Andrews also gave a reading, "What Is A Girl?" Miss Gail Walker rendered a vocal solo, "It's In My Heart" and Mrs. Mary Patrick conducted three contests: "Ice Cream Contest" winner, Miss Lamoine Post of Toronto; "Age Contest" winner, Mrs. Gordon Pierce and "Disremembled Baby Contest" won by several ladies.

Miss Dorcas Patrick read a poem, "What Is A Boy?" Mrs. Doug Flood gave a reading, "I Never Dreamed."

Mrs. Gordon Smith, the honored guest, was called upon next after opening her lovely gifts extended thanks to all the friends for their kindness and love.

Miss Kathleen Gunter led in prayer and refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Carl Andrews, assisted by Mrs. Reg. Elliott and Mrs. Mary Patrick.

REMOVE PADLOCKS

FAIRFIELD, Me. (AP) — The superintendent of the Central Maine Sanatorium says all padlocks have been removed from fire escape doors and one of the men's buildings at the state tuberculosis hospital. Dr. William B. Grow said the practice of locking to halt the smuggling of liquor to the 52 patients in the building, but he said the problem now is "under control."

MODERN MANNERS

THE TEEN-AGE HOSTESS

I have had several requests from Miss Impatient to tell her how to give a bang-up party during the New Year's holiday. Along with this request comes the invariable question of how to be popular at their own party. I guess I'm expected to know a magic formula to deal with these age-gaps into Circes, or at least Fairy Godmothers, and I don't know any magic!

I think the secret of popularity is courtesy, courtesy and unvarying kindness to everyone with whom we come in contact; being natural, and showing an interest in the other person. Tact, flexibility, and a sense of humor, and, of course, looking your best. That should do it. Also, it's important to the young girl that she have the right clothes, and has been to be abashed by being called "stuffy" or old-fashioned. Clothes are important, and knowledge of some of the social graces the teen-ager can be successful party-giver. Let's suppose that Polly, aged sixteen, has asked Jane, her best friend, to spend the night with her, which girl, and it's best to talk that over. So she has called the Jane before she has asked her own beau, or perhaps it is Saturday night, and she has certain boy to bring a certain girl.

Unless the party is to be an extravaganza, and Polly knows the young ladies should wear evening dress, she should decide exactly what she is going to wear. Plenty of time to get her clothes ready. Next, she should decide exactly what she is going to serve, and what kind of party it is going to be. Is it a buffet supper, or a sit-down affair? Is it a bridge party, or a dancing party? Is it a party at home for about twenty guests? Then she should decide during this coming week. She should also add up the cost of the affair, and see if it is within her own means, or perhaps it is within her father's high, and

Here's How They Are Rated

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Federico Thompson, the obscure Argentine who kayoed welterweight champion Don Jordan in a non-title bout, jumped to third among the 147-pounders in the United States National Boxing Association's monthly ratings released Tuesday.

There was a general reshuffling in the welter division with Sweaten Luis Rodriguez of Cuba moving up to first place by outpointing Sugar Hart of Philadelphia.

Charlie Scott, who had been rated Jordan's top challenger, dropped to fifth place behind Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba, Rudell Stitch of Texas and Jordan to second and Paret to No. 4, while Hart dropped to seventh.

Thompson was named fighter of the month while heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson was chosen fighter of the year after his spectacular TKO over former champ Floyd Patterson.

The Ratings

Heavyweight—Champion Ingemar Johansson, Sweden; 1 Floyd Patterson, New York; 2 Eddie Folley, Phoenix; 3 Sonny Liston, Philadelphia; 4 Zora Folley, Northland, Ore.; 5 Henry Cooper, England.

Durnan Quits Dutchmen; No Rush To Fill Vacancy

Says Club's Dismal Showing Because 'Not Enough Horses'; Primeau, Blair Refuse Offer

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, trying to shake off a miserable slump and their date in the Winter Olympics fast approaching, were in another jam today. No coach.

In addition to a record of 10 defeats in 14 hockey games this month, the Dutchmen ran into more grief Tuesday when coach Bill Durnan, former National League great, resigned. Nobody seemed anxious to jump into the breach.

Dutchmen are reported to have gone after Joe Primeau, only man ever to coach Stanley Cup and International Cup winners, to succeed Durnan but appar-ently were turned down.

PRIMEAU UNAVAILABLE

Primeau said in Toronto that he could not undertake a coaching burden.

"I'm a little past that stage, he said. "I'm pretty well tied down in business, too."

Primeau would neither confirm nor deny that he had been approached by the Dutchmen.

He has been out of the game since 1952 when he stepped down as coach of the NHL Toronto Maple Leafs. He led Leafs to the Stanley Cup in the 1950-51 season. He earlier coached the Toronto Marlboros to the Allan Cup and senior Canadian crown and Toronto St. Michael's Juniors to the Memorial Cup, Canadian junior title.

BLAIR SAYS NO

Wren Blair, manager of Whitby Dunlops who won the world tournament last year, has also been mentioned as a possible successor to Durnan. But he isn't interested.

"I have been asked to go to Squaw Valley (California winter sports site) but games will be held starting Feb. 18) with the team but I don't know in what capacity," Blair said. "I'm not interested in the coaching job."

Blair was invited last Dec. 11 to join Dutchmen at the Olympics. At that time he was also head coaching problem.

Durnan, who with Montreal Canadiens of the NHL won the Vezina Trophy for goaltenders six times and built up the success of the team's dismal showing in the OHA Senior A series. He said the club's performance was a case of "not enough horses."

Injuries rob the club of that the Dutchmen were concentrating on amateur players to qualify for Olympic games candidates were said to be other factors for the team's lack of success.

DUDLEY NOT SURPRISED

Durnan took over the Dutchmen last season from Bobby Kauser. His resignation was no surprise to some officials, notably George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Dudley said in Midland: "With the material they've been setting they should have won more than they have. I know what the trouble is, but the coach is always the fall guy."

Dudley said the CAHA is unlikely to get involved in the situation.

Bauer and Oscar Wiles, president of the Dutchmen, were in Toronto Tuesday ostensibly to scout Dave Keon, a star with St. Michael's in the OHA Junior A series. They spent some time with Primeau.

Another possible successor suggested Tuesday was Hap Day, former Leaf coach. Toronto sports manager Ernie Gosman assumed temporary management of the club but Gosman's decision was announced.

Dutchmen showed signs of pulling out of their slump Tuesday night when they beat Whitby McFarlands 4-3 to break a six-game losing streak. Their 10 defeats in 14 games has dropped them from first to third place in the league race.

SCHEDULE

The team's outlook for the Olympics is far from bleak. Whitby was offered Dutchmen a complete forward line and an all-star defenseman for the services of Ted Green, Bobby Attersley, George Samolenko, Fred Etcher and rearguard Barry Ashbee, key figures in Whitby's world championship victory.

Blair said he had suggested last winter a combination of players from Whitby Dunlops and Dutchmen to "present a strong olympic front."

"This is a Canadian wide thing," he said, "I don't know whether Canada can win the Olympic titles, but I do know it's no longer a one-team show. It has to be two teams, or even an entire senior group.

"When you're restricted in your choice of players by amateur standards, then it's difficult to gather a team to match the Russians or Czechs."

Syracuse, Texas Clash Tops In Bowl Tilts

NEW YORK (AP) — Syracuse Orangemen, the nation's ranking pigskin champions who waded through 10 United States college football games this season undefeated and untied, clash with the Texas Longhorns of Austin, Tex., in what many consider the most important of the four major New Year's Day bowl games.

The Orangemen, with their vaunted defense are favored to take the Cotton Bowl game by two touchdowns.

Ben Schwartzwalder, the Syracuse coach, has predicted that the fourth-ranked Longhorns will pass a lot to no avail.

The New Year's Day games will see Wisconsin Badgers go against Washington Huskies at Pasadena's Rose Bowl, second ranked Mississippi and third - ranked Louisiana State meet at the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans and Missouri Tigers and Georgia play at Miami's Orange Bowl.

BIG LINE

Experience and a big, hard-charging line may be the factors favoring Wisconsin in the Rose Bowl battle. The Big 10 conference champions outweigh opponents by a slight margin.

Wisconsin's starting 11 lists nine seniors and its line averages 225 pounds to a line more than 200 for Washington.

Mississippi Rebels, 6 nationally and Washington, No. 8.

The coaches have installed Mississippi Rebels as 7-point favorites to take the Sugar Bowl title despite their 13-12 loss to Louisiana State last October 3—the Rebels' only 1959 blot.

Rebels coach Johnny Vaught will be shooting for victory No. 101 in 13 years. He has lost only 27 games and tied six during the period.

Only Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma has a better winning percentage over the same period.

A RUNAWAY

Unless unranked Missouri plays an inspired game, fifth-ranked Georgia Tech will be cast a runaway in the Orange Bowl.

Georgia was the surprise team of the season, rolling over strong rivals to the southeast conference championship. Much of its strength lies in balance and a tough line.

Saturday, ninth-ranked Arkansas and unranked Georgia Tech will battle in the Bowl at Jacksonville. The outcome is a tossup.

Eastern Pro Teams Stage Circus Acts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Trois-Rivieres Lions are likely to be the only team in Eastern Pro Hockey League when they play in Sudbury tonight after adding more fuel to the fire of their feud with Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The Lions' game with Sudbury Wolves was scheduled to start at 8 p.m. EST but Sudbury refused to leave its dressing room.

Lions' owner Jack Tuesday night at Sault Ste. Marie, where they beat the Thunderbirds 4-3, but they made no move to leave Sudbury.

Tuesday night's game said it could control its hockey fans and suggested that Sudbury fans could do likewise if they forward John Sleaver.

Sleaver was accused of swinging his stick at a fan in Trois-Rivieres last Sunday after the fan allegedly made some uncomplimentary remarks. Referee, Michel Mackenzie, cut out the arm, swore out a warrant for Sleaver's arrest and laid the charge.

Wolves threatened to keep the team out of Trois-Rivieres unless the Lions control their fans.

Bill Ezinicki, player-coach-manager, said Tuesday that Sleaver was the victim of fans and abuse and in a previous incident a woman spectator had thrown a cup of hot tea in the eye with his stick.

He said Sleaver had caused trouble at a previous game with a high-sticking incident.

"I personally warned referees before the game to watch the danger of Sleaver's conduct," he said.

Answering charges by the Wolves of poor crowd control, he said there will be 40 municipal police, three special constables and 24 ushers at each game to maintain order and discipline. He challenged Sleaver, who faces a charge of assault, to return to the Lions, to report to the Trois-Rivieres court and stand a fair trial.

Tiger Favored Over Mims

CHICAGO (AP) — Nigerian Dick Tiger, British Empire middleweight champion, is a 2-1 favorite to defeat/veteran Holly Mims in a ten-round bout in Chicago Stadium tonight.

Tiger, a durable scrapper with a good left, has a record of 33 victories, including 10 knockouts, 9 losses and 2 draws. He is ranked sixth in the National Boxing Association middleweight rankings and ninth by Ring Magazine.

Mims, Washington, D.C., veteran of 84 fights, has been dropped from NBA rankings after two straight defeats but is listed eighth by Ring. Like Tiger, Mims never has been knocked out. He has won 46 bouts, 11 by kayoes, lost 20 and fought to 6 draws.

Bruins Nail Fourth Place With 4-3 Win Over Rangers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two National Hockey League goaltenders in quest of job-security fought a bitter duel Tuesday night.

Harry Lumley won for Boston Bruins and defeated the Rangers 4-3 in New, York in the only game scheduled.

Loser Marcel Paille could hardly have lost at a worse time. New York reports say the last-place Rangers may make another goaltending switch as they enter the schedule's second half.

Bruins now are two points ahead of Chicago Black Hawks and five ahead of the Rangers.

The race for first division, one of these three teams would have to undertake a rough-and-tough double. Third-place Toronto Maple Leafs are nine points in front of Boston.

EARLY LEAD

Paille held the Bruins at bay for almost 35 minutes after they took a 2-0 first-period lead. His teammates evened the score but the Bruins picked up a point in the last five minutes of play.

Vic Stasiuk set the Bruins ahead to stay on a play with Bronco Horvath and the eventual winner was scored by defensive stalwart Fern Flaman on a screened shot.

Lumley was superb but earned himself a 10-minute misconduct penalty and automatic $25 fine at the end of the game for arguing with referee Frank McArthur.

He started the season with Boston but coach Milt Schmidt has also been using Don Simmons. Lumley has won 24 games and Simmons 11. Both goaltenders average over 3.00 goals against, 3.20 and 4.00.

Paille was called up a month ago from Rangers' Springfield, Mass., American League farm team to replace Gump Worsley. The Rangers have accounted for six of their nine wins since, but scored four or more goals in each of those games.

ALMOST EVEN

In 16 games Paille has given up 40 goals for a 2.75 average. Worsley departed with 2.81.

The Rangers are reported interested in two former Eastern Leaguers: Connie Toronto and Chicago star Al Rollins, now with Winnipeg, and Floyd Hillman of Vancouver.

Coach Charlie Burns and Bob Armstrong made Boston's first-period lead. Camille Henry scored in the second and Andy Bathgate in the third before Stasiuk put the Bruins in front.

The Rangers went down fighting on Andy Bathgate's last-minute goal.

The Bruins were a man short because of too many men on the ice when Hebenton scored.

The league's leading Montreal Canadiens play at Toronto in tonight's only game, Canadiens' first in New York since Bill Gadsby, Doug Harvey, Jean Beliveau, Montreal's Dickie Moore, Detroit's Gordie Howe, Detroit's Red Kelly, Toronto's Frank Mahovlich and Boston's Vic Stasiuk.

EDMONTON (CP) — Nomination blanks for the 1960 renewals of the Canadian and Alberta derbies have been sent out to western horsemen from the Western Canadian Racing Association in Edmonton.

Ingy Fighter Of the Year For Second Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson, world heavyweight champion, has been named fighter of the year for the second straight time by Ring Magazine in its annual year-end issue.

Johansson's selection was based on his dramatic fifth-round knockout of Floyd Patterson June 26 at Yankee Stadium. Archie Pullmer, the National Boxing Association's middleweight champ, was the runner-up.

Although the boxing magazine also named Johansson its choice as the world champ despite NBA's recognition of Patterson, it named Sugar Ray No. 3 among the middleweights.

Ring Editor Nat Fleischer said the fact that a boxer is recognized as champion does not necessarily make him the No. 1 rating. Gene Fullmer was listed as No. 2 and Spider Webb, beaten by Fullmer earlier this month, was No. 3.

Three boxers were listed in a class by themselves for the first time in five years. They were Davey Moore, the featherweight champ; Joe Becerra the bantam king; and Pascual Perez, the veteran flyweight champion. Lumley also voted because their superiority was regarded as unquestioned.

Irish Beaten, Hap Emms Is All-Star Coach

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Hap Emms of the Barrie Flyers will be the coach of the OHA Junior A all - stars next Tuesday when they meet the first-place Toronto Marlboros at Guelph in the league's annual all-star game.

Emms, who was vying with St. Michael's College Majors coach Bob Goldham for the honors, automatically became the coach when his Flyers defeated the Irish 5-3 at Toronto Tuesday night.

The honor goes to the coach of the team that is in second place. Goldham and Barrie are tied with 26 points, but Flyers have a slightly better goal average.

Meanwhile, at Peterborough Jack Ford Pratt Buick bolstered two-goal performances to pace Peterborough Petes to a 7-4 win over the cellar-dwelling Hamilton Tiger-Cubs.

Jim Pappin, all - star right winger, led the Marlboros with two goals, while Sonny Osborne, Howie Menard and Brian Conacher scored singles.

Duncan MacDonald, with his first goal of the season, Bruce Draper and George Olah scored for St. Michael's.

It was the Marlboros' third successive win over their closest rivals in five contests, and boosted the league leadership to six points.

The Petes gained fifth place, two points ahead of the Catharines TeePees. Guelph Biltmores are fourth, one point behind Barrie and St. Michael's.

Wesley Connolly, Larry Babcock and Bobby Boddy scored for Peterborough while Bob Dillabough managed two for Hamilton and Jim Dahmer and Jim McLellan getting one apiece.

Kitchener's Headless Horsemen Snap Loss String

Snatch 4-3 Win From Macs In 3rd-Period 2-Goal Surge; Were Well Beaten in Second

By GEORGE M. CARVER
Sports Editor

Yesterday was a memorable day in the hockey archives of the Kitchener Dutchmen.

They ended a cousin; broke a six-game losing streak; won their fourth game in 14 starts; climbed into third place and snatched a 4-3 victory from the McFarlands after being skated into the ice in the second period.

Actually they grabbed four valuable points from the Macs, sinking the Belleville club deeper into the cellar. They gave Manager Ernie Cowman a 1,000 record as a bench manager. It was his second victory in as many starts.

The Dutchmen were starkly desperate. They ripped into a first-period two-goal lead, then wilted before the savage second-period onslaught of the Macs. They took advantage of a costly McFarland third-period penalty to score the tying goal and later the winner, and hung on grimly to grab the decision.

Another story tells the tale of Coach Bill Beveridge's midnight ... yesterday morning. This one relates the yarn of the Macs who had the victory all but locked away in the second bout and filtered it away after a penalty to Cowley enabled the Dutchies to tie the score.

The penalty which saw Marieson thumbed after six minutes of play in the third period gave the win-hungry Dutchmen a ready opening. They pressed attacks at the Belleville citadel and McKnight tied the count with a neat backhander at 13:55 of the period.

The Macs actually never got over the 'Waterloo' period. A cheap borderline one by Referee Stan Boshier, and it seemed to take the heart right out of Macs' drive. They were never properly organized after that. Lloyd Dutchelen taking advantage poked home the winner. Only five Bell was pulled with 37 seconds to go, but the strategy did not work.

McKnight and Ertel were the hero laurels for the Dutchmen with Wylie and Martin also scoring their first assists of the season going to Hope, Davidson, Leishman, Hockings and Pennington.

Marieson, a penalty "goat" played a fine game and scored a beauty. Brown and Smith were the other Macs' sharpshooters with Boucher getting two assists and singles going to Gribbons, Brown and Muir.

The McFarlands drew six of the nine minor penalties recorded none but one proving costly.

The Dutchmen survived a sustained McFarlands drive in the first minute of the game and then first scoring stanza terriers paid off Wylie taking Martin's pass to date Gordie Bell and put his club one up.

They put up a stiff hard-checking front to allow the Macs but also failed offensively while Bonnah was off twice. Ertel got the gate late in the period and Wisner Brown was given the open net on the power play.

The Dutchmen snapped back and Wylie set Martin up in front of the Macs net and his low hard shot beat Bell to give the Dutchies a 2-0 lead with five seconds to go.

It was a different story in the second frame. The McFarlands all but swept the Dutchmen out of the rink, scoring three times in seven minutes despite the fact they were assessed three penalties to the Dutchmen's one.

Benoit missed a scoring hole with Hastings out of commission, then Chesnewski and Marieson went off back-to-back. Then the Macs took over. Marieson scored a striking beauty from Boucher and Muir and Brown in the margin before Crawford set one past.

The Macs kept up the torrid drive and Wisner Brown's shot trickled over the goal line after Mazlagg had kicked out Boucher's big 'fly' for Marieson's. The Dutchmen defence had while Casey watched for two minutes but the Macs were hot and Gus Starke scored a beauty to put the Macs' one up when Boucher fed in Brown's pass from Muir. With three minutes to go.

Neither side gained anything in a six-minute nip-and-tuck third period excepting that Marieson was waved for tripping when a Dutchman fell into his stick. That was the turning point.

A minute later McKnight and Leishman worked in close with the former scoring the tying goal with some deft stickhandling among the defence. It was another body's battle but the Macs appeared to have lost some of their second-period zip. They failed to capitalize on Casey's penalty then with six minutes to go Ertel won the hero's award when he banged in Hockings' rebound after Bell had kicked out the Dutchmen's drive.

The McFarlands stalled last-minute desperation pressure but the Dutchmen defence held them out, even with six attackers after Bell was taken from the game.

Lineup: goal, Bell; defence Crawford, Benoit, Roly Chesnewski; Marieson; forwards, Brown, Brady, Hildebrand, Boucher, Starke, Gribbons, McDonald, Muir, Pyrette.

Kitchener: goal, Mazlago; defence, Sly, Hockings, Casey, Mc-Knight, Leishman, Dutchelen, Knight, Pennington, Martin, Hope, Reader, Ertel, Davidson, Bedrose — Elvin Bader, Toronto.

Linesmen Vern Goyer, Ted Hurst, Belleville.

Cohn Begins Plans for Title Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—Hyo Cohen expected to take two steps today in his effort to promote the world's heavyweight boxing championship bout between Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson.

1. Decide on a definite site for the battle.

2. Apply to the New York State athletic commission for a promoter's license.

"Tonight now we are sort of hesitating toward the Polo Grounds here," said the 33-year-old head of the new promotional syndicate. "More people can see the fight here in the Polo Grounds.

"And since Johansson wants t fight in New York the other alternative would be Yankee Stadium.

"After our group gets that settled, we intend to go before the athletic commission tomorrow and apply for a promoter's license.

Cohn, accompanied by two members of his 10-man group, arrived Sunday from Sweden after conferences in Sweden with Johansson and his adviser, Edwin Ahlquist.

"We hope to hold the fight sometime between June 12 and June 22," Cohn said. "We and Johansson's people were in complete harmony on all matters."

Players Say They Were Offered Bribes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 22-year-old dentist was held for court under $5,000 bond Tuesday after two Pitt basketball players testified he offered them bribes to shave points.

Dr. Gerald H. Sebastian of suburban McKees Rocks pleaded innocent to charges of attempted bribery and said he felt the players were trying to further themselves despite poor scholastic records.

The two players, John Fridley, 20, of Sharon, Pa., and Dick Falsetti, 21, of Latrobe, Pa., both testified at an alderman's hearing that the dentist offered them money and scholarships to dental school.

Anne Heggtveit Says She Is In Fine Form

By DON ATTFIELD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Anne Heggtveit says it is better to let parents that she's skiing better than ever.

Canada's top woman athlete of 1959 has high hopes in this winter's Olympics is preparing in Austria for the biggest event of her sports career.

Her father, Halvor L. Heggtveit, said in an interview he's rounded very happy in a letter received Tuesday.

She said she's skiing better than she ever has before at this time of year."

Father is more worried than daughter, "I'm afraid to be hopeful," he said.

CHAMP HIMSELF

Halvor Heggtveit was Canadian cross-country ski champion in 1934. He had to turn down his own chance to compete in the 1932 Olympics for lack of money.

"There are so many uncertainties," he said. "Most people don't realize all the factors involved. You have to be feeling just right the day of the race and your wax and equipment have to be just right."

But Mr. Heggtveit said his 21-year-old daughter has felt well from the start of this year's skiing and her legs are strong.

Anne, who has been skiing since the age of two raced pretty in the 1956 Olympics after breaking her leg in 1955.

Last year she proved herself ready winner in the tough Arlberg-Kandahar combined title.

She was winner by a wide margin in the Canadian ski poll for woman athlete of the year.

Anne will compete in four major races before going to Squaw Valley, Calif., Feb. 18 for the Winter Olympics.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of Baltimore Colts, champions of the National Football League said Tuesday night he plans to continue the practice of post-season salary adjustments for players.

NFL rules forbid player bonuses, so the Colts' management has made a habit of rewarding its men with "salary adjustments."

Rosenbloom said he intends to share his wealth with his players, but did not reveal figures.

EUROPE'S BEST

Edmonton Wins Three in Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Flyers registered their third straight win Tuesday night as they defeated Spokane Comets 6-2 in a Western Hockey League game marked by one of the wildest brawls of the season.

The win gave Flyers a firm hold on fourth place, two points back of the third-place Cougars.

The league-leading Vancouver Canucks moved further ahead by beating second-place Seattle Totems 3-1. Canucks have 52 points 11 more than Totems.

Three goals scored the Edmonton scoring. Four players were sent off the ice after a third-period melee that had up the game 15 minutes. Edmonton forward Chuck Hodder tangled with Spokane defenceman Dick Creighton. Flyer Ed Diachuk pulled into the fracas and soon Bill Burega and the fight was on.

After order was restored, referee Willy Fapp was listing the penalties when Creighton jumped Burega. Penalty box had crews at him. Creighton got a game misconduct.

Forbes Kennedy, Gene Achtymichuk, Holmes, Stu McNeil, Len Haley and Chet Lemon scored for Edmonton. Alex Kuzma and Del Topcoll counted for Spokane.

National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell was a spectator.

Ron Hickbone, Ray Cyr and Ralph Keller got Vancouver's goals. Tommy McVie scored for Seattle.

Baltimore Colts' 'Private Eyes' Big Factor

By LOU PAVIOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two good reasons for the second-half fireworks of Baltimore Colts in their drive to a second straight National Football League championship sat in the press box through all their games.

The reasons: assistant coaches Charley Winner and Herman Ball, the "private eyes" of head coach Weeb Ewbank during business hours.

The Colts scored 365 points this year in 12 games, including Sunday's 31-16 victory over New York Giants. Sixty per cent of the points were racked up in the second half, with 39 per cent—or 185 points —in the fourth quarter alone.

Including Sept. 24 - point outburst in Sunday's final period, they outplayed foes at least 30 points in either the third or fourth period of four games.

"Charley and Herman do a wonderful job in the press box," said Ewbank, who coached a major factor in these late comebacks."

Winner and Ball analyze the game's early play, relaying their observations to the bench by telephone. Ewbank suggest formation adjustments accordingly.

"The adjustment may just mean moving four players over only a few feet," Winner said Tuesday.

Even small adjustments pay off.

Such adjustments were big reasons for the total of 17 passes stolen by Colt linebackers during the season for an unusual mark.

It Takes A TOTAL Selling Medium To Push A Sales Curve UP! . . .

Today's market - for almost anything you can name is rich, responsive, rewarding . . . BUT highly competitive! To keep sales mounting under such conditions calls for a TOTAL selling effort. In particular, it calls for the use of the TOTAL selling medium, the newspaper.

No other medium covers the advertiser's TOTAL market so thoroughly . . . no other medium delivers his message with such powerful selling impact as the newspaper. Most shoppers check the ads in their newspaper, last thing before setting forth to buy. This gives the newspaper advertiser the opportunity to put in that all-important last word for himself, the word that pays off so handsomely in SALES.

Many Notable Personages Died in Hollywood This Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This was a year of tragedy for Hollywood. Never in there been so many deaths of personalities in a single year.

You can expect each year the passing of those who have reached the end of long careers, as with Ethel Barrymore, Cecil B. DeMille, Victor McLaglen and Edmund Gwenn in 1959.

But the year also brought the deaths of many figures who were still in the midst of productive lives.

Some of 1959's losses: Errol Flynn, Mario Lanza, Lou Costello, Wayne Morris, Ray Kendall, Adrian, Charles Vidor, William Bishop, Preston Sturges, Paul Douglas. They died of natural causes. In addition, Carl (Alfalfa) Switzer was killed in an argument, and George Reeves shot himself.

TOP STORIES

It was a tragic year and an eventful one. Here is how the top 10 Hollywood news stories looked from this reviewing stand:

1. Khrushchev's visit to Hollywood was drama of the highest kind, and the Russian leader played it to the hilt.

2. Debbie Reynolds divorced Eddie Fisher, severing one side of the triangle of the decade.

3. Fisher married Elizabeth Taylor, after Debbie gave permission for Eddie to get a Nevada divorce.

4. Cecil B. DeMille died. He was the giant among film makers—the most successful of all time.

5. Ethel Barrymore's death closed a brilliant era of the theatre, over which she presided as undisputed queen.

6. Bing got a girl. A happy note was the birth of a daughter to Kathryn and Bing Crosby, his first after five sons. Other members of the Crosby family were in the year's news, not always as happily.

7. Hollywood shifted its moral viewer. Frankey film content was a running story that evoked much controversy and threats of censorship.

8. Errol Flynn died in Vancouver. Hollywood's most famous libertine went out as he wished, living the gay life to the end.

9. Anna Kashfi battled Marlon Brando and their weird marriage sputtered out amid recrimination.

10. Mario Lanza's life ended in Rome, the land of his parents. He was the victim of a success he couldn't handle.

It was not a happy year. Let's hope Hollywood finds a better one in 1960.

Maureen O'Hara Will Play Leading Role in Mrs. Miniver

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Maureen O'Hara may turn out to be the bravest woman in television.

On Jan. 7 Miss O'Hara will play the part of Mrs. Miniver in a CBS adaptation of a film classic of the Second World War.

Mrs. Miniver, as just about every moviegoer knows, is practically synonymous with Greer Garson.

Maureen, however, seems blithely unconcerned that comparison is inevitable.

"I don't mind if they do compare us," she said. "I just hope I do half as good a job as she did."

The Irish actress, it turns out, has a special reason for tackling a role identified with another actress.

"Mrs. Miniver is completely different from anything with which I have been identified," she explained. "I've usually done things that were — well, robust and violent. This is a big change. Besides, I've never done a dramatic show on television. I've just sung."

Maureen, incidentally, will sing tonight on the Perry Como show. But next Thursday night she will play the brave mother of three children in wartime England.

Television viewers met Cyd Charisse of the movies Tuesday night in an expensive, opulent musical variety show. Although the costumes were gorgeous, particularly in color — and the act lavish, it was one of the lesser NBC startime efforts.

Miss Charisse danced a lot and her husband, Tony Martin, sang a number of songs. The highest spirits of the show were produced by Eve Arden as she romped through a brainless number—doesn't everybody this season?

Although it was Miss Charisse's show, I could have done with a little more variety. However, this opinion, I suspect, is not shared by the male audience: She cuts quite a figure.

General Tendencies: The last day of the old year is certainly one of those days when it is necessary to make sure that you study ways and means to replace what is not presently available and desirable to you with a new set of circumstances or outlook. Not good today or tonight for taking chances. Keep above reproach in all ways.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Do not be disturbed if others seem short and rather ill-mannered today. All are as rushed as you are. Better concentrate on having inexpensive fun and doing serious matters go for a spell. Have a happy New Year's eve.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Though this is the eve of a holiday you must not brush aside any pressing obligations you may have or business that needs immediate handling. Also, follow the letter any regulations that apply to you specifically.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — While you might like to go off to new and untried places and people right now, better stick to the domestic. However, do not neglect studying new trends and methods that can bring you greater success for you in the future.

Moon Children (Those 22 to 30) — July 21) — Though you may think that an associate is keeping you too confined, the fact is that this is to your best interests and the latter will prove it. Be appreciative and wise when it instead of resentful.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — It is imperative you get all small but important odds and ends attended to today before you go off for a good time. Being lax in this now serves many dollars. P.M. go out and celebrate or make parties will miss you. Drive carefully.

Virgo (Aug 22 to Sept. 23) — See that you take the right health treatments before you step out today. Also show important people in your life that you appreciate their loyalty. Avoid overly dynamic individuals. Be conservative and wise.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Rather than be off to outsiders today, make this a family day and evening and give loved ones all of your time and attention. Be meticulous and full of cheer. Start New Year right.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be very certain to look out for inebriated drivers or pedestrians today. Also steer clear of any arguments. In that way this New Year's Eve can be very enjoyable and safe.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 23) — This is the right time to set up a better budget or bookkeeping system that will enable you to start the new year "it right and keep out of the red. Also improve others with your fine business acumen.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A fine day for taking personal inventory. Have you progressed as you planned? Is your life nicely adjusted so that you get the most out of it? Now is the time to make changes and adjustments.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Secret talks with the rig't people are the best way to make the most of today's fine aspects. Also be very helpful to deserving individuals. P.M. usher in the New Year in a most dignified and worshipful way.

Pisces (Feb 20 to March 20) — You have fine opportunities today to better your position in life, so do not permit anyone to sway you from your duties. Keep your appointments and then quietly see in the new year in the company of influential people.

If your child is born today — The interesting child born today is the type who must always keep busy doing, though the task may be far beyond his, or her, years. And though errors are made, lessons will be learned thoroughly and unforgettably. A fine chart for anything connected with government, properties, finances, public career and the like. Give benefit of a fine education. Stress the academic.

WAGE SCALE UP

QUEBEC (CP)—The minimum wage scale for the province of Quebec will be increased by 15 per cent starting Jan. 1, Labor Minister Antonio Barrette announced Monday. The minimum hourly rate in the forest industry will be 90 cents, instead of 75 cents. In Montreal the hourly rate for hotel, restaurant, hospital and real estate employees will go to 84 cents from 75.

Quebec Politicians Start Beating Drums for Election Believed Coming in June

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Politicians in Quebec will start beating the election drums in the new year, a frequent guess for the date of the 1960 provincial general election: June 15.

The governing campaign promises to be one of the most rousing in many years with two political leaders vying for the support of some 2,900,000 voters. The last election was in 1956.

For both men the campaign will be their first as party leaders, making the election one of the most important and significant in years since Ontario traditionally sticks to the man or its choice for many terms.

NEW PREMIER

Premier Sauve, who succeeded the late Maurice Duplessis on Sept. 11 will lead his Union Nationale party in its seventh campaign. The party has been successful in five out of six starts so far. It was founded in 1936. Liberal leader Jean Lesage, a northern affairs minister in the former St. Laurent federal cabinet and Quebec party chief since 1958, will lead his forces in an effort to regain the popularity and the power that was theirs from 1939 to 1944 and sixty 70s.

The Social Democratic party—Quebec wing of the group expected to nominate candidates in some industrial regions. Official support of the Canadian Labor Congress-backed party.

Leader: Michel Chartrand.

Social Credit officials have announced they will have no candidates in the coming election. It is doubtful whether the party has died or is just sick and will be back for the next fight.

The first time in 23 years the figure of Maurice Duplessis will be absent from the hustings, but his spirit is likely to be spoken more than any other during the campaign.

DIED SEPT. 7

His death Sept. 7 resulting from a brain hemorrhage while visiting Fort-Joseph-La Iron ore mining town of Schefferville in the province's northern region of 35 men.

Still going strong and obviously the major point of discussion for years to come in Quebec is the question of provincial rights in relations and provincial rights.

Sauve is pre-preparing a campaign in which they will imply that Conservative governments are winning over the Union Nationale party to form a powerful alliance in the provincial and federal fields. They're likely to talk of a Sauve-Diefenbaker axis and imply Quebec's rights are secondary.

The Union Nationale is standing pat on a provincial rights record which they say is good so far. They are likely to bring up the Liberal party's wavering decision to lease provincial tax rights to the federal government and its opposition to the provincial tax on personal income which the Union Nationale has considered it's key provincial rights victory.

Domestic matters are likely to take a back seat in view of the efforts of the new Sauve premier to stop outbreaks of unrest and dissatisfaction over certain issues which Mr. Duplessis had not attended to, or had left dangling in uncertainty.

CONTENTIOUS TOPICS

Labor laws have been revised to meet some of organized labor's demands. The university financing problem, which Mr. Duplessis down in a bitter quarrel with Ottawa is being dealt with and the Quebec election map is to get a minor overhaul immediately.

Perhaps the most important local issue is whether Quebec should or should not participate in the national hospital insurance plan.

On this point the Quebec government has committed itself to the view that while no constitutional blocks stand in the way no action can be taken until a report on the operation of a hospital plan is made by a fact-finding committee to be set up early in 1960.

The Liberals are planning to argue Quebec is lagging behind all the provinces in hospital insurance — Quebec is the only province not participating in the national plan — and depriving citizens of a service they pay for and should have.

Standing of the parties in the legislative assembly: Union Nationale 72, Liberals 17, Independent three; vacant one.

Cobourg Woman Killed in Crash

NEWCASTLE (CP) — Mrs. Kathleen Harris of Cobourg was killed Tuesday night and her husband and daughter injured in a traffic accident on Highway 115 north of here.

Dr. Richard Harris was admitted to hospital at Bowmanville with leg and arm injuries. His daughter Ruth is in the same hospital with a broken leg.

FREIGHTER SOLD

DETROIT (AP) — The ocean freighter Theodore Parker has been sold by its owners after it was seized here by creditors. It was sold at auction Monday for $21,500. The sale must be approved by U.S. district judge Arthur F. Lederle, who will decide how to distribute the money among creditors whose claims total more than $100,000.

STILL REMEMBERS — Charlie Crow, a 15-year-old Eskimo from the Belcher Islands who has been blind for the last four years, is getting the listening touches to an igloo that he built on the front lawn of the Ottawa home of his school chum, David Fraser. Charlie is spending Christmas with David who is also blind, and David's young brother Robert. Charlie and David are students at the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford. (CP Wirephoto)

Three-Phase Bill Tabled Supports Birth Control

WATERLOO (CP) — The 20th sitting of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament Monday tabled a three-phase bill which included a motion supporting birth control programs for underdeveloped and over-populated countries.

During the lively discussion, opposition members agreed with their leader, Donald Cranney of Toronto, who objected mainly to the moral aspects of the bill. David McEchern, delegate for Toronto Wertview, said such a move would interfere with God's ways of creation.

"If we don't think God can control this problem, who do we think can control it?" asked Earl Lindsay, representing the western zone christian youth councilors association. "And if we do try it, are we that capable?"

ROBINSON VIEW

Sudbury delegate Robert Elliott argued "We are given powers to think and to think of solutions for problems such as this. We are not trying to hamper with God's methods but just using our reason to help solve the problem."

Another member suggested that underdeveloped countries are not educated enough to do something about their over-population problems. It was up to educated countries to make them decisions.

As an alternative to the controversial bill introduced by Social Studies Minister John Robarts of Timiskaming, Mr. McEchern suggested "we should be sending jeeps into our country or help feed and starving" with Western food surpluses.

Premier David L. Johnston of Perth South, first recipient of a scholarship student at Harvard University, said countries such as India and China did not want our birth purposes, Canada and the United States should send their home markets if wheat was sent to them.

TO ADOPT CHILD

The parliament decided unanimously to adopt an unknown refugee child for at least two years. Food, clothing and other essentials would be sent to the child. The bill was introduced by an anonymous donation of $50 from the parliament.

The parliament, made up of 100 delegates between the ages of 16 and 19, met seven days in the Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate Institute, a Protestant inter-denominational organization.

TTC VOTE

TORONTO (CP) — A vote by the 4,400 - member Street Railway Employees' Union (CLC) here Wednesday and Thursday will decide whether the union will accept a new contract with the Toronto Transit Commission. The two - year contract offers an 18 - cent hourly wage increase. Current rate is $2 an hour.

Detroit Man Killed, 3 Hurt

HAMILTON (CP) — Henry Adler, 78, of Detroit, was killed and three persons were seriously injured Tuesday in a two-car collision on Ivy Highway 2 near Alberton, about 15 miles west of here.

Dora Adler and Sam Adler, in their 70s, were taken to hospital in Brantford.

Dick Virden, 42, of Brantford, physical director of Hamilton YMCA and driver of the second car has chest injuries and cuts. His condition was described as fair.

SHIP DUE JAN. 2

QUEBEC (CP) — The Danish freighter Helga Dan is favored to win the gold cane for the second consecutive year at the port of Quebec. The 2,005 - ton ship, equipped to navigate in ice, is due here Jan. 2. The gold cane is given to the captain of the first ocean ship to reach Quebec City in each new year.

Nine Non-Union Workers Found Carrying Arms

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP)—Charges are being filed against nine non-union workers in whose cars weapons were found as 300 more arrived to begin a strike against Company shipbuilding plant here Monday.

The workers had been held in jail until O. Ernest Olson, county attorney, ruled Sunday night that they could not be charged with contempt because they had not been officially served with a district court order barring Dreasing near the plant.

The nine were jailed after national guardsmen discovered the guns during inspection of cars entering the plant.

Other than the finding of the weapons, the reopening was without incident. Slaughtering stopped at the plant when marshal law was declared Dec. 11 in the wake of violence between United Packinghouse Workers and the CIO and some 500 non-union workers Wilson had been using.

A federal court ruled last week that closing of the plant by a walkout of the strike was illegal.

The union has been on strike in a contract dispute since Nov. 1.

Negotiations seeking to resolve differences between Wilson and the union were being resumed today in Chicago.

Rudolph Has Gone Back to North Pole

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Seeing is hearing his parting office Christmas Eve, George Dudiak recorded the song Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer on his telephone answering device.

Word spread fast and calls piled in. When Dudiak returned to work Monday hundreds of persons — mostly children — could possibly call the number.

Dudiak didn't want to disappoint the youngsters, so "the only thing I could do was put another message on saying Rudolph had gone back to the North Pole and would be back next year."

Economy Overloaded Country's Financial Resources Producing Whopping '59 Trade Deficit

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's economy moved into high gear in 1959 with a tilt that overloaded the country's financial resources and produced a whopping trade deficit.

Signs of a continued growth next year are already so promising that federal economists are concerned that the boom may develop some inflationary headaches.

This year's expansion—a sharp upswing following the 1957-58 recession—is rolling so quickly that it created some pinches as demands for credit squeezed the banks' supplies of funds.

BIG RISE IN IMPORTS

Mushrooming needs for capital and consumer goods to fuel the expansion caused a steep 12 per cent increase in imports in the year's first 10 months, and more than a third of the commodity trade deficit to $530,000,000.

The pressure for credit arose, and the dislocations caused by the United States steel strike, convinced certain the economy would fulfill the government forecast of a seven per cent rise in gross national production — total value of all goods and services produced.

This would bring the total to $34,500,000,000, with the gain due almost entirely to real physical growth. The consumer price index in the first 10 months averaged only one per cent above earlier levels.

For next year Governor James Coyne of the Bank of Canada has forecast a buyer demand sufficient to produce possibly another seven - per - cent rise in gross national product.

PRESSURES FORECAST

But he qualified the prediction with the phrase "if such a physical expansion is to be supported" concern that demands by business and consumers for credit payments may exceed the supply of physical resources.

Mr. Coyne, he told a Toronto audience Dec. 14, "can only hope that the decision on the part of some to withdraw or refrain from borrowing will be made before the competition becomes fierce enough to produce significant rises in prices and other undesirable developments."

On the trade front, Canada could thank the economic recovery in the U.S. for keeping its trade balance from going deeper in the red. The U.S. took 60 per cent of the per-cent gain in exports was due to increased shipments to the U.S.

But looking ahead, Trade Minister Churchill is hopeful. Basing his optimism on a business upturn in the United Kingdom and western Europe, which trailed that in the U.S., he has predicted "substantial increases" in exports on a wide front. Future exports will increase more rapidly than imports, these authorities have forecast.

HIGHLIGHTS OF DECADE

If Canada is entering a new decade of prosperity, it is well to look back on the last decade with satisfaction.

Population has risen 30 per cent from 13,077,000 in mid-1949 to 17,000,000 last September.

Gross national production has risen by one-third in the decade although more than one - quarter of the gain was due to higher prices. Living costs in November as measured by the consumer price index were 26.3 per cent above 1949 levels.

Average factory rolls were up 29 per cent and industrial production was rounded 68 per cent greater. The annual earnings of a manufacturing worker, who in 1949 worked an average 42.3 hours a week for $64.6 cents an hour, was earning $1.39 an hour working an 88.9 hour for a 41-hour work week.

Total labor income was $6,000,000,000 in 1949 to $10,000,000,000 in 1959.

TRADE FIGURES

Canada's export trade between 1949 and 1959 climbed from $2,022,000,000 to $4,939,000,000 while imports rose from $2,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000.

Throughout the period national development attracted huge amounts of foreign capital; the amount of foreign investment capital invested in Canada rose from $8,000,000,000 to $19,100,000,000 at the end of last year.

One of the biggest question marks is centred in the huge system of financing future capital projects — new factories, dams, pipelines, roads and the like.

Officials here expect a long period of world capital shortage. And this year's rise in interest rates is not seen as a temporary phenomenon. Mr. Coyne has predicted a long period of relatively high rates higher than those prevailing through the depression, war and post-war years.

In Canada this year, the spotlight was on the efforts of policy-makers to keep the economic expansion from touching off new inflationary pressures.

The Bank of Canada, central monetary authority, followed a resolute policy against any big growth in money supply. The country's money stocks at the start of December were one per cent below the level a year earlier.

Chartered banks, pressed for commercial loans through spring and early summer, expanded their loans as far as their resources would go and then imposed firm credit restrictions in mid-August. Loans rose 12 per cent generally throughout the period. The Bank of Canada rate reached a peak of five per cent on Aug. 3, contrasting with the record low of 1.22 per cent a year earlier.

As the year progressed, the federal government found the going tougher in its job of tightening its purse strings after two years of red ink. Recession spending, a balanced budget next year, if it could be achieved after two years of budgetary deficits totalling around $1,000,000,000, would relieve pressures on the capital position for funds on the capital market.

Two of the main forces behind the boom were a record capital investment and consumer spending.

CONSUMER CONFIDENCE

With increasing business confidence, expenditures on new plant and equipment in all general construction were expected to show a 10 per cent increase since 1958.

Strength in consumer sales was signalled by a steadily - growing labor income, which in August was running 7.7 per cent above a year earlier. Retail consumer spending was up six per cent.

Despite the industrial production through the first nine months of the year averaged 7.2 per cent above 1958, there's a mark. Manufacturers' shipments for the same period were off by four per cent.

Employment reached a record total of 6,206,000,000 in mid-July. Unemployment early in the year, instead of hitting its customary early-spring peak, began a gradual decline starting in January. It fell to a low of 4.1 per cent in employed in mid-September and 4.2 per cent in November, 4.6 per cent of the labor force compared with 5.3 per cent a year earlier.

Mayor's Office To Be Located On First Floor

What in all probability will be the final council meeting of the 1960 council before Monday's inaugural meeting was held Wednesday afternoon when appointments to the standing committees and to the various boards and commissions were finalized.

Also discussed at the meeting were minor changes to the council procedural by-law which will allow the proposed change from evening to afternoon council meetings. It is proposed for regular sessions of council to start at 4.30 and run through to 7 o'clock.

During the term of office of Mayor-elect A. McLean Bell, the mayor's office will be transferred from the second floor to the first floor at city hall. Part of this area is presently used by the Health Department and it will have to be provided for temporary use as a mayor's office.

This will make it unnecessary for the mayor to climb the long steps each day. The present floor office formerly used by the mayor, Purchasing Agent and floor office will be moved down to the temporary quarters.

Tweed Boy, 12, Run Over by Transport Truck

TWEED (Special) — Richard Courneyer, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. "Ted" Courneyer, Tweed, is in critical condition in Belleville General Hospital today as the result of being run down by the wheels of a highway transport in Tweed Wednesday afternoon.

The boy suffered a fractured pelvis, internal injuries and lacerations as the wheels of the big transport apparently passed over him.

The accident occurred at the corner of Colborne and Jamieson Streets as he alighted from the Tweedsmuir Hotel operated by the father of the injured boy.

He was starting out to deliver papers and was hauling a sleigh when he is believed to have slipped and fallen into the side of the passing T.P.T. transport driven by Kent Cross of Roslin.

The boy was taken by Dr. A. G. Allen and Dr. S. R. Berry of Tweed, who ordered him to hospital at Belleville. The lad is said to have passed a fairly good night but was said still in a very serious condition.

A paper boy the Tweed boy suffered a fractured left leg during an accident at the high school and was in a cast for several weeks.

Federation Aims At $10,000 for Best Teachers

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation Wednesday decided to aim for $10,000 salaries for its best-qualified members.

The committee on salaries expressed the belief that the present starting minimum of $4,900 per annum would be maintained or raised because of the shortage of teachers and that the top-level need make no special efforts in that regard.

But it was pointed out that only 386 of 15,000 provincial high school teachers were $10,000 or more. Most of these are principals, vice-principals and department heads.

Top salaries for ordinary classroom teachers in Toronto, and most Southern Ontario centres run from $7,500 to $8,500 a year, depending on qualifications.

Residents Say Whole Area Swimming Pool in Spring

TRENTON — Members of the Trenton Court of Revision have been put into a "C" class, thereby raising the assessment accordingly the session. The court decided to look into the matter, and the appellant may appear well and he had he'll enough alone.

WANTED COMPARISON

A resident of Barbara Street appeared before the court to appeal his assessment and indicated on having his assessment compared with practically every other property on the block. When the assessor told him the value he had placed on the property, he appellant suddenly realized that he had paid considerably more for his house and lot than the estimated value but that he had bought it before values had risen.

A Barbara Street resident, who owns a considerable amount of property on the east side of Trenton, was admittedly vague about the exact location of her numerous lots. She asked the assessor, if, when he had some spare time, he would consult her property records.

Some of the appellants, when notified by telephone to ask them if they intended to keep their appointment for a personal hearing said they had not received a notice confirming the time for their appointment. O.W. Larry, who is acting in the capacity of secretary for the court, stated that all notices had been sent out. It was suggested that the mailing notices might have been lost in the Christmas mail.

Retiring Mayor Presented With Chair, Lamp by Council

TRENTON — The final meeting of Trenton council was held Wednesday night in the board room at the municipal offices.

It was in the nature of a "swan song" for Mayor Ross Burtt and Councillors Lloyd Weese and Lloyd Weese. Mayor Burtt was defeated in the December 7th election, councillor Weese was also defeated in his bid for another term on town council and councillor Worrall has decided to withdraw from public office temporarily due to business pressures.

Councillor Vagn Lange, who is chairman of finance, spoke briefly about the 23 years of public service Mayor Burtt had devoted to the town, six of which he had served as mayor, and presented Mayor Burtt with a comfortable easy chair and a reading lamp a gift from council.

Mayor Burtt thanked the members of council for the gift. He said that he had always regarded politics as a "game", to be played hard, rough and fair, and that while he had doubtless made some rash statements at times and been involved in heated arguments with members of council, he had never borne any animosity against any member. He said that he had enjoyed his years of association with council members, and with members of various boards, on which he, as mayor had represented council, and he wished the incoming mayor, James MacDonald and the members of the present council every success.

Mr. Burtt paid tribute to O. W. Larry, town clerk-treasurer for his great assistance during the term of office, and thanked members of the press for their co-operation. "I love politics," said the mayor, "I was born here, I've lived here and I'll probably die here."

Mr. Larry, in turn, thanked Mayor Burtt for his co-operation and James Gunn thanked Mr. Burtt on behalf of the members of the press present.

Councillor Lloyd Weese expressed his regret at leaving council and Mayor-elect James MacDonald assured Mr. Burtt that he would be called upon for advice in the coming year. Councillor Worrall, chairman of various committees were presented. The chairman of public reported that the overnight works, Councillor Lloyd Weese, tives from three newspapers.

41.81 per cent this year. In the 13-14 group, the percentage rose to 18.89 from 1.18.

Comparable percentages for Barrie were 8.13 in the 9-11 group to 1945 against 1.96 in 1959 and 0.42 per cent in the 12-14 group in 1946 and 2.37 in 1959.

Stratford's little change took place in Stratford. In the 9-11 group 52.38 per cent had cavities-free permanent teeth in 1946 against 49.6 per cent in 1959 and in the 12-14 group 27.23 per cent had them in 1946 and 28.12 in 1959.

Brantford also showed startling improvements in mortality of permanent teeth. The yardstick used was mean tooth mortality per 100 children — the relationship between the highest and lowest numbers of lost or irreparables teeth per 100 children.

Brantford's mean dipped to 9.86 from 29.91 in the 9-11 group and to 22.27 from 84.32 in the 12-14 group. Barrie's declined from 51.31 to 34.47 in the 9-11 group and from 107.24 to 7.36 in the 12-14 bracket. Stratford's dropped in the 9-11 group from 14.1 to 10.96 and from 18.89 to 22.30 in the 13-14 group.

parking by-law was not being observed, and he said that he would like to see the police co-operation from the police department. Mayor Burtt replied that a few fines be levied to make the meaning of the by-law clear. Mr. Larry said that the by-law stipulated that signs must be erected on the commercial premises facing parking between the hours of 1 a.m. and 7 a.m.

Mr. Weese objected to the necessity of erecting unsightly and expensive signs and of new type. He said that the by-law had been published in the local newspapers and the public should enforce the terms of the by-law. Councillor Worrall asked if council members were exempt from the by-law. Councillor Lange suggested that R. S. Campbell, town solicitor be consulted as to the advisability of rescinding the present by-law and asked, in noting it with one which did not stipulate the signs to erected on the streets. Councillor C. W. Graham suggested that overnight parking be banned, all year round as is the case in Toronto. He said he thought that it relieves the matter in the hands of the solicitor.

Mr. Bitter had been received from a number of local doctors asking that a new crosswalk be erected across doctors' driveways on the Front where they had cleared the streets. It was felt by council that this consideration would only lead to complaints from other citizens, and that if the doctors wished to have their driveways cleared, they should pay for the service.

Present at last night's meeting were Mayor Ross Burtt, Mayor-elect James MacDonald, O. W. Larry, Councillors Weese, Lloyd Worrall, James Aird, Brad-shaw, Lange and representa-

Air Personnel Enjoy Trip With Entertainers to North

TRENTON — RCAF personnel from Air Transport Command, Trenton, recently accompanied an entertainment group provided by the CBC to Churchill, Man., and Resolute, N.W.T., to give servicemen and civilians a taste of pre-Christmas live entertainment. Air Commodore Carpenter, S/L. R. Bowdery, FO. Bernice Doherty, F/L. Ernie Miller, and Cpl. Bill Whitehead, photographer, all from Trenton, were on board the 412 Squadron Yukon flight piloted by W/C W. K. Carr of Ottawa, which made the round trip.

The entertainment group was comprised of such well known and radio stars as Juliette, Sheila Kay, Gordy Tapp, Tommy Hunter, Gordie Tapp of "Country Showcase" and Jimmy Smith and the Rhythm Pals.

On the trip from RCAF station Downsview to Churchill, the RCAF personnel and the TV and radio technicians, photographers etc., were royally entertained by the stars.

At Churchill the group played in an "over-packed" hangar as the station theatre holds about 600 people and almost 1,500 persons were rounded up early in the evening to enter the show.

The welcome at Resolute was as warm as the air was chilly. Before the show several members of the RCAF stationed at the Eskimo village and the Eskimo school nearby. At the school the Eskimo children presented Christmas decorations for the children and distributed candy to the wee-tyed "kids".

Later in the afternoon, the troupe performed for the RCAF Department of Transport and Defence Construction Weather Bureau people and their show was gratefully accepted. Following the afternoon show the aircraft returned to Churchill, where the entertainers gave a few more full scale performances and paid

The Seventh Decade

Tomorrow will mark more than the beginning of new Year. It will also usher in a new decade, the nth of the most eventful century in mankind's story.

With the arrival of the "sixties," we move in an reputably twentieth century world. People trail us the threshold of every new century a host of ts, beliefs and attitudes attuned to the past. Today, gh, only octogenarians can remember with any tinct clarity the atmosphere of the adult world of even the Nineties. The decades of our days are twentieth tury decades.

The first is known by hearsay only to most of the 10,000,000 people who now inhabit the earth. How it makes it a decade of change, of hope which had leapt high amongst a war's ns guttering out like feeble candle flames in the fty conference halls.

The "thirties" were the decade of despair, of the ttering of all illusions. Dreams died, greedy ones 's a chicken in every pot every Sunday," meek ones e the hope that the prosperity which was around the ner might include a steady job. Utopian ones like the inability of gradualism to solve problems soared the stars, until even the horrors of another war med a welcome change in ceaseless forging of new ins on peoples who once were free.

It is not until we come to the "forties," that we hin times well within the memory of the majority today's inhabitants of the earth. (In 1939 the rld's population was less than two-thirds of what it today and millions on millions of those then living re since died, not only of old age and of disease, but flood and famine, by bomb and bayonet, lit concentation camps and a city's rubble, by high explosives and atom bomb.)

The fifth decade of the century was in many ways the second, a story of war, of ravage and of hope ewed amongst ruins. Added to hope, though, was illusionment, particularly, as the fronts dawned, the rld looked to be back where it was at the beginning the "thirties."

It is with this firmly in mind that we should judge "fifties" and, remembering their beginning, surely e verdict must be that, on balance, they were not.

They brought us the start of the Korean War, it its end, too. They brought us the H-bomb, talk "massive retaliation" and the Sputniks as proof ussia's talk of the ICBM was no idle boast. But y brought us, too, the discovery of Stalin and ushchev the world, a rising tide of whispered fear which, in the final years of the decade, at last drowned t shouted boasts of military might. Man at last had e courage to realise that he must find a way to live peace with his fellow man, or face the probability sharing a common grave with all things that walk, fly, or crawl, or swim. For mankind had at last quired the power to commit suicide.

It is thus we face the "sixties" — a world afraid and, that very reason, a world which has a chance to rvive. The next ten years should provide us with at a clear indication of man's intent—whether he es decided to live together or die together.

That decision, if it be to live, may perhaps help him lve other problems which loom ahead—the final emancipation of colonies, the control of automation, the sharing of work and the wealth which will be its product.

By the end of the "sixties," though, he should be ll on the way to devising some remedy, if he is to find e in time, to the problem of the population bomb ning over his head—the population bomb. For, when e decade we are now stepping into ends, we shall be nly a decade away from a world population twice that 1959. In 45 years or less the world population will ve doubled. It took a century to double to the 1930 gure of 1,685,000,000. It will take less than half at time to double again. And the number added will e twice that added in ten decades. By 2,000 A.D., e say into the twenty-first century, the world population will be growing by half a million everyday, nless something is done to check the rate of increase.

Problem for the sixties—peace.

Problem for the seventies and beyond—plenty, and ying room.

THE OLD YEAR
By EDGAR A. GUEST

Old Year, in your days
There was happiness, too;
On our varying scene
Blossomed roses and rue;
There were pleasures and pain
There were struggle and strife,
There were both loss and gain
In the round of your life.
But, in summing it up
As you slip from our hall,
You poured in our cup
More of sweet than of gall.

Historic Hastings

Trail of Blasted Hopes

Article 104
Contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society

Despite the early glowing reports of the prospects of settlement along the Hastings Road, disillusionment did not long delay in setting in.

Between July, 1856, and April, 1858, the number of settlers along the seventy-five mile road was two hundred and ninety-nine, and, with the exception of a few English and Scottish immigrants, these were all old residents of Ontario.

Nor did the settlement increase greatly after 1858. In fact the opposite was true. Population declined, particularly after the acquisition of the Hudson's Bay Territory in 1869 provided a vast acreage of good — when not terrible prairie land in western Canada.

The inhospitable character of much of the land along the Hastings Road could not compete with the prairies of Western Canada in the United States.

What did help the early settlers along the road and keep many of them there as long as they were was the profitable lumbering industry.

But in the 1850's the settlers were faced with the nature of three acres of heavily-timbered land would produce a barrel of potatoes and perhaps 6 pounds sterling.

Since the capital required to manufacture potash was very small, potash was a profitable source of revenue for early settlers.

This industry could not support a large population, however, and by 1861 toward the end of the 19th century further discouraged settlers.

By 1891 the road had deteriorated to the point where Ontario Land Surveyor C. F. Aylesworth could describe it in these words:

"After an examination of the patented lots along this road, I find that although there have been nearly 400 entries for Free Grant lots . . . and today it is doubtful if there are more than from fifty to seventy-five of the original forest trees left. Timber boundary to the Madawaska River.

"I . . . we came upon an apparently fine looking, gently rolling farm, almost surrounded by carefully built stone fences. On it were good cedar log buildings, a well, stone root cellars, a number of apple and other fruit trees, and apparently the beaver-like toil of a life time of industry.

"When first — settled there were many houses and stopping places along this road, perhaps at intervals of every five or six miles. At present — it is only the old timer who can point out the sites where they completely has all evidences of their position been obliterated. "Schools and perhaps churches abandoned, and, to the knowledge of the present — abandoned cheese factory remain to tell the tale along the road."

Thus did the Hastings Road, by 1900, declined to promote a thriving agricultural settlement. Only a profitable lumbering on the country, become "one long, dreary trail of desolation, of adversity, blasted hopes, broken hearts and exhausted ambition."

Are We Sons of Garbage?

Baltimore Sun

Blaise Pascal, meditating on the heaven, remarked in one of the most quoted of his Pensees that the eternal silence of these infinite spaces terrifies me", a feeling which most men before and after him have known but not expressed so well. It was Pascal, too, who described the "mining" that is man as "the glory and rubbish of the world of the universe."

Now a scientist, the director of the Goddard Space Flight Center in physics, conjectures that life as earth knows it — as the race of man knows it — may indeed be the product of cosmic garbage. His interesting notion, if reported, suggests that a billion or so years ago some kind of space travelers may have visited our planet and that the refuse of their ancient voyagers held the first germs of life which gradually evolved into what we and microbes today.

Moreover, this hypothesis takes account of the further possibility that man, developing in the point at which he may travel in his turn beyond the confines of his native planet and so spread the "contamination" that is, will carry bacteria which after aeons will grow into some kind of thinking beings, thus further staining eternity's white radiance.

Here is a sweeping, staggeringly imaginative speculation connecting the first miraculous stable peat and the illimitable future. And if one asks where Pascal's "mining" appears in this long, natural history or rubbish, why perhaps the answer is to be found in the very speculation itself.

Uncle Sam Saves Stamps

Windsor Star

Those who invented trading stamps clearly didn't visualize all the complications that could ensue. There have been plenty, and more undoubtedly are on right here in some areas.

The United States government has found that one clerk in one has 100,000 drivers on its payroll. When those have saved enough stamps they have been pocketing stamps, thus profiting at government expense. The United States Government insists the stamps are turned in to it.

This may seem a petty attitude indeed. But what the Government is trying to do is to get into it can turn those stamps in for cash. If it can't do that, the Government will be open for invividuals to demand cash also.

So far, what happens to such stamps accumulating in banks is government employees in Ontario are even in Windsor—when they buy on behalf of their public employer!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RELEASE YOUR BRAKES

If the gospel of relaxation could be put to but half usage in this world, there would be enough new energy created to run all other need — better than this one is being run!

We are all too intense — to little purpose.

There's seldom much to really worry about. If there were there isn't a human in this world wise enough to tell you why worry would be a good thing. While it is true that nearly everyone worries, no one can ever truly claim it helps matters. So, why worry?

Worry is Un-relaxation. It is pulling "like crazy" at the brakes — when they ought to be loosened. Before the days of "power steering" imagine what would become of your old car had you attempted to run it with the brakes on. It would have died. Soon you would have had a dead transmission.

Well, that's the way with the man who worry. Fret, fume, storm and bluster. They don't get anywhere. They are all the time pulling against the brakes instead of sitting back in their seats and relaxing.

Relaxation means energy released, faith unfurled, hope undeterred, heart unbalked, your brain swept out, and your soul windowed up.

Release your brakes! Raise your sails! Fling your glance across the sky! Open your heart. Get your brain to thinking. Quit whistle, dance — work. But keep your brakes released. Get going. There is no tomorrow — today!

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 31, 1939

New Year's is a happy occasion as it opens the door for twelve months ahead, those who are naturally optimistic in his outlook. The New Year's festival provided an opportunity for resolutions and for preparations for the months to come.

King George Sixth in his Christmas message of greetings to the Empire felt very deeply the situations of the world when, as he said "it is the tragedy of this time that there are peaceful countries whose sole direction and policy is based on aggression and the suppression of all we hold dear for mankind." King George spoke for the Empire and the principles for which it stands and that it will endure.

The number of building permits issued this year by the city engineer was never equalled by the history of Belleville.

Eighty-nine permits were taken out for a valuation of $338,750, and as a result of these building operations the complexion of Front St. has been almost completely changed.

Belleville today is a prosperous and contented city, and everyone working for the common good.

The new gas plant erected at a large cost and started in operation by the Belleville Gas Co. was completed this year and is a credit to the city; the plant is up-to-date in every respect and is considered the finest for its size in the Dominion of Canada.

The tax rate remained old or even flow, and the mains are in first class condition.

Miles of new sidewalks were laid during the past year and considerable street paving was done.

Mrs. R. Hayes has left to spend New Year's in New York City.

The Rev. Dr. Bell and Mrs. Bell will be at home at the Bridge St. Church parsonage, Bridge St. East on January 8, from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon and from 8 o'clock to 10 o'clock in the evening.

It was the scene of the world-famous gold rush in 1896, when hundreds of thousands swarmed into the territory in search of the precious metal. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Instead of making New Year resolutions, I am making many of my friends and contacts sitting New Year Vows. It is an interesting side-light on the way we live today, and on individualism. Instead of standing forth and declaring one's resolves to the world, one goes about glancing fearfully over his shoulder, voice plous hopes. Samples:

"I hope", said the insurance executive sitting against me in the hotel-pound bar, "I have my commercials people will realize that it would be just as tiresome to listen the same show every day as to run the same old commercials every day. They spend millions on new shows every time. But there's the same old commercial! If it didn't sell me the first time, it only makes me hostile the fiftieth."

"I hope", said the school boy with large staring eyes on his knees, sidling across from us, "two or three of these would be cheerful to see some strangers deciding our fate for a change."

"Me," said the bus driver, who was within hearing. "I hope it's a short winter, with not much wet snow."

"I", I said, "hope the sun rises in the east every morning, and sets in the west, despite all that scientists say."

What are your hopes for 1960?

Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

IMPACTION OCCURS IN TRUE CONSTIPATION

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been taking enemas for the last 15 years because I have been unable to achieve normal regularity due to constipation.

"I have tried laxatives and various exercises. The results were poor, and because of repeated straining with very painful hemorrhoids (surgically removed once) I have been taking enemas as a last resort. — R. B."

This is but one of many instances in which I wish I had the writer of the letter in front of me, so I could ask certain simple but significant questions.

Clearly this is, indeed, a case of true constipation. Let's face it: Constipation isn't supposed to be pulled out by the roots overnight, this happened — distributed bundles of Christmas cheer. Even a least six movements a day, you are suffering from the torture kind of constipation." You may say, as I do, that this is utterly ridiculous, but there are not enough people to stay in business for a week (like) People vary. For the average sure reasonable movement a day is about right. Some do better, some worse because they eat a little differently, or because of the way they absorb more of the food value in what they eat, every other day, every third day, every day is enough. Those are the exceptions, so the rule, but for them, the pattern is normal, and no harm is done.

But when impaction occurs (a pressing and hardening of the stool) many people resort to laxatives or exercises, although neither is good for this as well as other health factors.)

First, (I don't know which is more important because both are useful) eat a lot more bulk. Eat things which give you bulk and which the nutritional elements, leave vegetable fibres and fruit pulps to move on and be discarded. Green, yellow and non-starchy vegetables (eg. beans, lettuce, tomatoes, kohlrabi, celery, apples, carrots, oranges) and starchy foods (eg. peaches or pears corn, grapes, peas — and bran cereals.

Second, (drink lots of fluid — water, tea, coffee, milk and soup.

The purposes are to eat a good bit of things which naturally move on and be discarded, and keep the residue moist and soft. These are "moistening agents" which can be given medically, but the purpose is the same.

In a problem like this, mineral oil is justified for lubrication purposes.

"Dear Doctor: Is it possible for a baby not to learn to talk because his mother never talked to him? When he was 3 he was taken to a speech therapist and now talks fairly well. — D. G."

It's possible, of course. The only way a baby can learn to talk is by imitating what he hears. But gully, just having a baby around, you can't help talking to him, whether he understands or not! Gradually he gets the drift of speech.

Note to M. G. S.: Let's not go into details, but the basic fact is that circumvision for a man in his 60's will be painful, but not dangerous. At that age, except in unusual cases it will not be recommended by surgeons.

Want to lose weight? It can be done if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "The Last Secret Of Reducing." For a copy, send 10c in coin or P.O. of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, 211 E. There are numerous instances of dogs, cats and other horses, making the long way home after being moved to a different neighborhood or even to a different city, but the case of the Wisconsin dog is unique, and it was opened, in bounced the dog.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LOOK FORWARD — NOT BACKWARDS

A year ended today.

But did it? No, a year never ends. For there is a continuity about the life we live which has been built into it by the years that are behind us. Days and weeks and months and years are devices we have thought out for measuring time, but time is an eternal thing. It flows on like the tide and into our lives and in relation to the unending life of God's universe.

But the measurement we call a year does help us to sit down and close the book now. We lay down the pen, we turn the light and say that it is finished. Yet it is not finished. It never can be finished. Time sums out of the eternity of God and it flows on into that same eternity.

But we have been many good things in this past year, have there not? Yes, but there have been failures and challenges also. There may have been sorrows. We have met the test of this past strength or weakness with which we face the future.

"Forgiving the things which are behind . . . I press on."

Russia Getting Own Way Without Disclosing Sites

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Russia seems to be getting her way of halting world nuclear tests without agreeing to allow the West a peek at her test sites.

With evident misgivings, President Eisenhower has ordered continuance of the 14 - month United States nuclear tests ban for some indefinite period. The ban runs out Thursday.

In ordering the indefinite renewal, Eisenhower emphasized the U.S. retains the right to fire off new tests of nuclear weapons at any time, thought he made clear "we shall not resume nuclear weapons tests" without announcing our intention in advance of any resumption.

STRENGTHEN WEST

The U.S. decision to renew the ban on a day-to-day basis appears designed to strengthen the Western hand in seeking Russian agreement to a permanent ban on testing — under some form of scientific international inspection and control system.

Previous talks among U.S., British and Russian negotiators have borne little fruit. A new set of talks is to open at Geneva Jan. 12.

The weakness of the U.S. position, in terms of getting any major concession from Russia, is evident in Britain's clear - cut opposition to further nuclear testing, and Russia's statement that it won't explode any more nuclear weapons unless the West does so first.

MILITARY PRESSURE

That places Eisenhower in an uncomfortable spot. Some of his military advisers have sought to impress him that Russia will not bow to what may be considered adequate means of ensuring no bombs are set off and they have urged that the U.S. resume testing of its own.

On the other hand, there is a great deal of world concern and fear about atomic fallout and the impact of radiation on health and genetics.

In his recent three - continent tour, Eisenhower sought to impress on the world his concern over humanity and his urgent quest for peace.

In such circumstances, it is not likely he will risk criticism by being the first to set off new atomic explosions.

France may provide a way out. Unable to obtain atomic secrets from the U.S., President de Gaulle is determined to create and set off an atomic bomb of his own. The test is designed to take place in the Sahara next spring.

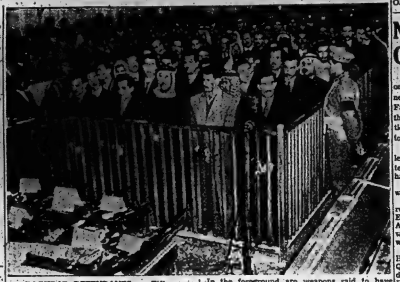
If de Gaulle is successful in exploding his bomb, Russia's Nikita Khrushchev might then feel free to explode another one of his own. This in turn might give the U.S. reason to resume testing.

SUMMIT CONSIDERATIONS

However, this kind of chain reaction is unlikely in view of an East - West summit conference next May — conference which Khrushchev has long been seeking.

It appears more likely that if France does set off her bomb, Russia might view this with grave concern but do nothing that would give the U.S. reasonable ground to resume testing of her own.

This in effect would trap the U.S. into continuance of a ban without Soviet yielding on international inspection and control.



Yale Lights Flicker in Tunefal Way

WINDSOR (CP) — When Albert Corbell installed the lights on his Christmas tree he didn't expect them to serenade him. But, believe it or not, that's just what they did.

One of the eight light strings on the three sprigs on a blinker circuit. Seems whenever the blinker goes off, it does so with a noise that strongly resembles a distant chime.

The blinker set is hooked up to a plastic decorations which provide scene more sounds pleasing to the musical ear.

A little perplexed by the whole thing, Mr. Corbell says the fixtures are the same ones he's used for several years, minus the music.

BAGHDAD DEFENDANTS — Fifty-seven persons accused of complicity in a plot to assassinate Iraq's Premier Karim Kassem last October were jammed into an improvised pen at the start of trial in Baghdad, December 28. In the foreground are weapons said to have been confiscated from the defendants. An additional 21 fugitives are being tried in absentia. The special high military court prosecutor is asking the death penalty for all but four of the accused. (AP Wirephoto).

North Toronto Wins Hoop Tourney Quinte Defeated by Hamilton Hill

HAMILTON (CP)—North Toronto Collegiate Norsemen Wednesday night trounced Niagara Falls Red Raiders 74-59 to win the McMaster University invitational high school basketball tournament.

The Norsemen moved to a 17-11 lead at the end of the first quarter and increased it to 37-18 by half-time.

Pete Warren led North Toronto with 19 points.

Niagara Falls reached the final round by defeating Kitchener Eastwood and Hamilton Central. Against North Toronto Tim Craig was Niagara Falls top scorer with 18 points.

In other games Wednesday, Hamilton Hill beat Belleville Quinte 58-48, Kitchener Eastwood downed Toronto Etobicoke 45-29, Hamilton Delta beat Hill Park Kitchener Eastwood 47-34.

An all-star team named Wednesday comprises: Oscar Hoback of Hamilton Central, Keith Badger of Hill Park, Court Helm back of Eastwood, and Pete Warren and Ken Barclay, both of North Toronto.

Barclay was named the tournament's outstanding player.

Editor of Winnipeg Free Press Bitter Partisan Says Forsey

WINNIPEG (CP) — A man of great integrity . . . a bitter partisan . . . much the biggest editor . . . the real architect of Canada's dominion status and the post - war British Commonwealth.

These views of John W. Dafoe, editor of the Winnipeg Free Press from 1901 until his death in 1944, were expressed Wednesday night by former associates and acquaintances in a tape-recorded program on the CBC's Trans-Canada network.

Narrator of the program was George V. Ferguson, editor-in-chief of the Montreal Star and former executive editor of The Free Press.

Anecdotes and comments gave the profile of a massive, untidy man who wielded enormous influence on Canadian affairs in his 43 years as editor and through association with the nation's leaders.

Mr. Ferguson described Mr. Dafoe as a turbulent, hot-tempered man with all the prejudices of his generation, but whose prejudices were tempered by scholarship, study and, above all, wisdom—"a man of great integrity, who grew from local reporting to national and international stature."

BITTER PARTISAN

Dr. Eugene Forsey of Ottawa, research director of the Canadian Labor Congress, said Mr. Dafoe was "a very bitter partisan."

"On anything that did not touch the vital interest of the Liberal party I think he was a great man. On anything that did touch the vital interest of the Liberal party—I find it difficult to express my opinion in parliamentary language."

Sir Robert Borden, former prime minister, was quoted on the program as describing Mr. Dafoe as one of the real architects of the recognition of Canada's dominion status.

John Bird of Ottawa, former editor of the Winnipeg Tribune, said Mr. Dafoe put forward the Commonwealth ideas implemented by Mackenzie King and that the present British family of nations is really the J. W. Dafoe Commonwealth.

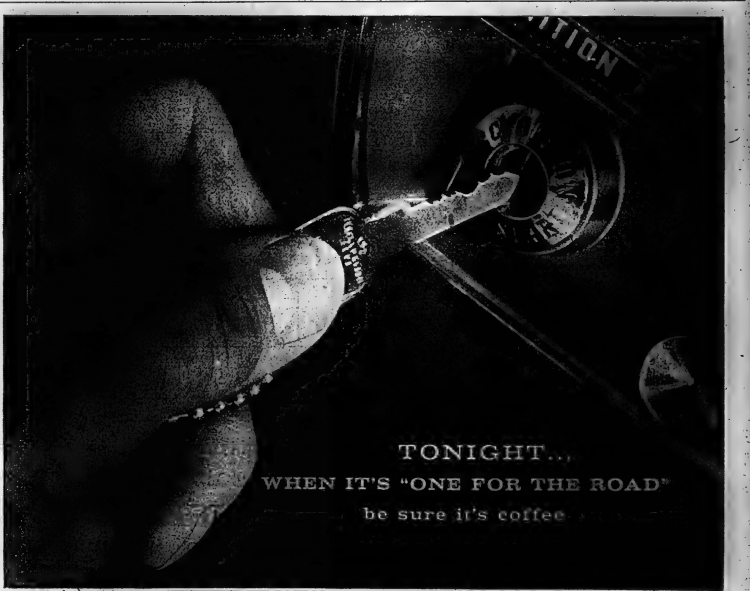
DEXTER INTERMEDIARY

Grant Dexter of Ottawa, editorial emeritus of The Free Press, told how he figured in a long exchange of ideas between Mr. King and Mr. Dafoe.

He said he was puzzled at first by the prime minister's invitations to discussions on current problems, but later realized Mr. King wanted him—without saying so—to send his ideas along to Mr. Dafoe. Mr. Dexter did this in a careful memo.

In due course he received a reply discussing the issues frankly. He showed the prime minister the letter. After discussion it was handed back and Mr. Dexter prepared another memo for Mr. Dafoe. The practice grew.

Mr. Ferguson said that Mr. Dafoe wielded power behind the political scenes through his communications via Grant Dexter.



Victor Sifton editor and publisher of The Free Press, said Mr. Dafoe's anger was visible only in his writing.

"I never saw him blow up. His red hair would stand on end and he would frown but that's about as far as you could see. His vigor came out the ends of his fingers."

Eggleton S.S. Holds White Gift Service

MADOC JUNCTION — The White Gift service was observed by Eggleton Sunday School on Sunday morning with the superintendent, Mr. Murney Martin, presiding.

Quiet music was played by Miss Joanne Reide, followed by the call to worship and singing the carol, "Angels From the Realms of Glory."

The selected Scripture reading, St. Matthew 2:1-11, was read by Mr. Paul Bridger.

The poem, "If I Had Lived In Bethlehem Town" was given by Miss Annemae Clarke.

The secretary, Miss Ruth Reide, called the roll, showing over 30 in attendance.

Brian Clark gathered the offering envelopes which were dedicated.

The story, "In As Much," was given by Miss Warren Hartwell. Two Christmas greetings sent to the Eggleton Sunday School were read, one from the Rev. H. Clarke and another from Mr. Wesley Hartwell.

Paul Bridger led in the singing of a number of carols.

Devotions closed with the benediction by the superintendent.

V.O.N. Holds Monthly Meet

On December 16th, the board of the Victorian Order of Nurses held its monthly meeting at the Y.M.C.A.

The secretary, Miss B. Corbett, gave her report. Mrs. J. Nettles, publicity chairman, was requested to write to the Brockville and Smith's Falls branches to enquire if they would be interested in television publicity. A letter was read from Ottawa stating that Miss Livingstone was interviewed on television.

Mr. L. Lusk reported from a meeting of the United Appeal.

Each agency will receive one half of its budget immediately and the balance will be distributed monthly to the agencies. It was felt public relations could be improved and the agencies could do more to aid the Appeal. There will be an annual meeting of the United Appeal on January 14th at 8 p.m. All those interested are invited to attend. A letter is requested from each agency stating money received from the Appeal in 1959 at that meeting.

The treasurer, Mr. A. Gignac, gave his report. Mrs. D. Grant said that the sewing committee has completed its work for the year. Mr. H. Parker is to be chairman of the nominating committee with Miss E. Scott and Mrs. B. Morton assisting him.

Miss Dorothy Connor, the nurse-in-charge, reported that during November care was given to 104 patients. Of these, 50 were admitted to the V.O.N. service during the month. A total of 278 home visits were made in November, of which 162 were for nursing care. The remainder were health supervision visits. Four half days were spent assisting the Belleville Department of Health at the Child Health Conference at the Kiwanis Centre, and two half days were spent at Canniton-Carrytville school.

'Pretty Tricky' To Whip up Snow Cake

TORONTO (CP) — There's something special about Canada that Mrs. Mary Healey likes.

It's the snow—the only snow for snow cakes, the housewife from Manchester, England said Wednesday.

"It's lighter and doesn't have as much water in it as the home English stuff," she declared. "And it must be freshly fallen."

She started making snow cakes in 1942 when she found a yellowed Canadian cook book telling for snow, instead of an egg in one of its recipes. Eggs were as rare as pearls in British then.

"I tried it and made a miserable failure," said Mrs. Healey. "The English snow was just no good."

But with Canadian snow, she reported success Wednesday.

Here is the recipe:

1 cup sugar,
½ cup butter,
½ cup sweet milk,
2 teaspoons baking powder,
2 cups flour,
1 snowball a little larger than an egg.

Stir quickly and put in a very hot oven before the snow melts.

Mrs. Healey warns anyone who tries to make the cake that it is "pretty tricky" because the batter must be made a little thicker than ordinary so the snow won't make it too thin.

Woman Battles Crippling Heart Deformity to Become Outstanding Amateur Artist

LOON, Que. (CP)—Mrs. Natalie Cherneski, who battled a crippling heart deformity to become an outstanding amateur artist, now is leading a normal housewife's life in this railroading community 25 miles northeast of Port Arthur.

Mrs. Cherneski was born a "blue baby" in 1927 at Brockville, Ont. As a child, the deformity—closure of an artery which deprived the normal flow of blood to her lungs—forced her to settle for less strenuous play than most children.

She spent hours drawing and learning to crochet. In 1942 she started working with oil paints, managing to sell a few pictures.

In her efforts to live a normal life, she learned to dance, although this was a dangerous pastime for her. She quickly became breathless and her skin would turn blue as her lungs were taxed.

She also learned to ride a motorcycle, despite extreme pain suffered in the effort.

PLENTY OF AMBITION

She describes herself as having "more ambition than brains." As an example, she cites her youthful efforts to raise chickens to swell the family income. She also worked as a household helper.

In her spare time she studied typing and made use of the new skill to write her autobiography, Never Cry For Me.

In 1952, she met Steve Cherneski, a railway worker, and they were married the following year. She lost three babies during her poor health and in 1956 underwent heart surgery in Toronto.

The operation was a success and Mrs. Cherneski returned to her home here and her hobbies.

She put her painting skill to work in decorating the home with wall motifs and murals, including a striking winter wildlife scene in a main hall.

Mrs. Cherneski, mother of two young sons, also is the founder and president of the Cactus Club, an art group with members from Halifax to Chilliwack, B.C.

Lydia Lodge Installs 1960 Officers

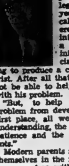
Lydia Lodge, No. 350, of Bellville, held its regular meeting on December 17th, at the Orange hall, Church Street, with the Worthy Mistress, Sister Nellie King, in the chair. Seven members of Wellbridge LOBA were also present and welcomed.

During the meeting these seven visitors installed the incoming officers for 1960. Worthy Sister Holmes, secretary of the Grand Lodge of Ontario East, acted as installing officer, assisted by Sister Nicholson, Sister Hinchcliffe, Sister Kingston, Sister Dickson, Sister Fair and Brother Kingston.

The slate of officers for 1960 is as follows:

Worthy mistress, Sister Hazel Marsden; past worthy mistress, Sister N. King; deputy mistress, Sister Lue Lacey, Jr.; deputy mistress, Sister Ruth Bateman; recording secretary, Sister Annie Smith; financial secretary, Sister Doris Smith; treasurer, Sister Pearl Bunch; chaplain, Sister Mabel Keene; guardian, Sister Mary Akey; director of ceremonies, Sister Melissa Thompson; 1st lecturer, Sister Gertrude Lue Lacey, Jr.; 2nd lecturer, Sister Clara Bentley; pianist, Sister A. King; inner guard, Sister Lillian Wright; outer guard, Sister Winnifred Hinzer; 1st conductress, Sister Ella MacDonald; 3rd committee, Sister Luella Livingstone; 2nd conductress, Sister Annie Akey; 5th committee, Sister Eva Juby; auditors, Sister Lena Akey, Sister Melissa Thompson, Sister Eva Juby; visiting committee, Sister Mary Geigler, Sister Nellie King, Sister Eva Juby.

During general business the following officers were presented with small remembrances. Each spoke briefly, extending thanks and best wishes for the Christmas season.



After closing of the lodge refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

A teacher psychologist was speaking: "It takes four years of college, four more years of medical school, several years of internship and a number of intensive, specialized training to produce a child psychiatrist. After all that he may still not be able to help the child with his problem.

"But, to help prevent the problem from developing in the first place, all we need is the understanding, the tolerance, the patience and the love of parents."

Modern parents seem to pride themselves in the fact that they are very free with their children, that they run a very democratic home. But, too often, our children are tired of making decisions for themselves, all by themselves.

There always comes a time in the life of our children when they ask the question of the little girl in the progressive school:

"It is up to you. Make up your own mind."

A parent must be a teacher and as a good teacher, he needs to be prepared: Goals, lesson plans, good motivations all are necessary tools of the parent. Two and two equal four and the child cannot end with three equating five just because the children make it so.

But, of course, a good teacher believes they equal four, knows they equal four and shows how they equal four — and the children will learn it for themselves.

The difficulty with some parents, to carry the analogy further, is that they don't know what counts and therefore everything seems to add up to nothing. They believe in little, know little, transmit little, and their children are not led. They just wonder and wander.

Freedom that is not anarchy subsists on laws. And the parents had better lay down some minimum ground rules for their home life. Love is the heart of

British-Born Nurses First Men in School

OTTAWA (CP) — Two British-born nurses are breaking new ground at the University of Ottawa's school of nursing.

They are the first men to study at the school since it was established 16 years ago. The rest of the student body, all taking post-graduate work, comprises 22 women.

Frederick Bowden, 36, and Bryan Topping, 32, have become known as The Inseparables.

But the nickname doesn't come of any need to look to each other for moral support, when faced with an otherwise all-girl student body. They met years ago as male nurses in England, came to Canada at the same time three years ago, have been working in Ottawa's Civic Hospital ever since, won bursaries covering their tuition fees, and continue working nights at the hospital.

Bowden and Topping both have been trained in psychiatric nursing, with the intention of teaching later.

Both said they found no shyness of discrimination on the part of the girls at the school.

"They're all serious adults. They're not lighthearted teenagers."

Bowden, who is married, and Topping said they came to Canada because they had heard of the opportunities for male nurses. They intend to stay.

Bowden came from Paignton, Devonshire, and Topping from Haydock, Lancashire.

GIRL'S DIVERSION — Elizabeth Welbes, 17-year-old Fort William high school student, sits at the controls of one of her father's 22 aircraft. When things get dull, she says, her main diversion is flying.

Elizabeth first took the controls at 11, obtained a student pilot permit at 16 and got her private licence at 17—as soon as she was eligible.

She has logged about 135 hours, about half of it solo, and has checked out on eight different aircraft. When she is 18 next spring she plans to try for a commercial licence, then an instructor's licence.

Occasionally she runs an errand for her father—a cross-country flight to deliver or pick up a plane for his company.

After graduation from high school, Elizabeth plans to enter Queen's University at Kingston and major in psychology and philosophy. She doesn't plan to abandon flying, however.

"I'll keep it up during the summer holidays and besides . . . it will be something I can always fall back on if needed." —(CP Photo).

TIME FOR TEA — Governor General Vanier and Mme. Vanier have made a habit of taking time off for tea during their busy schedule at Government House. They are shown here in the Governor General's study. Often they invite one or two callers to remain for tea and an informal chat. (CP from National Film Board.)

BUSY FIRST LADY — Mme. George Vanier, wife of the Governor General, has a busy schedule looking after the many details in the management of the vice-regal household in Ottawa. She is shown here in the ballroom, apparently pleased with the work of Government House gardeners. The flowers will be used later to decorate for a reception or dinner party. Mme. George Vanier Back At Govt. House as Chatelaine After Absence of 38 Years

By CAROLYN WILLETT

OTTAWA (CP)—A family feeling pervades stately Government House where the bride of a one-time aide-de-camp has returned as Canada's first lady—the wife of the governor-general.

Mme. George Vanier, the former Pauline Archer, is the first chatelaine at Government House in more than seven years. Former Governor - General Vincent Massey was a widower.

Mme Vanier has said she returned to Government House this fall with a feeling of being at home, although 38 years intervened since she first came to Ottawa as the bride of George Vanier, one of the first two Canadian - born aides appointed to once traditionally - British vice-regal household.

KNOWS ROUTINE

Mme. Vanier has said her one-year stay at Rideau Cottage, a large family house on Government House grounds, gave her an idea of how the vice-regal residence is organized, down to such details as which study the Queen's representative uses and which sitting room is set aside for his wife.

It is known that the tall, distinguished soldier - diplomat and his gracious, silver - haired wife regard their post as part of their duty to their country. It is known, too, that Gen. Vanier is quick to emphasize that he and his wife function as a team.

As a team, and as parents of four grown sons and a daughter, the scene of a family being at home — although none of the children is here—is felt throughout the large residence.

For the Vaniers, moving from the retirement which came at the end of a rich military and diplomatic career, was also a major moving personal possessions here from a Montreal apartment.

Books from an extensive library now fill Government House studies. Around the rooms are family pictures, an extensive collection of paintings and some of the works of their artist -son, Bernard.

And to make up for the absence of family, Mme. Vanier has been heard to refer to the staff's young aides as "our adopted sons."

Of their children, only Michel, 34, a philosophy student at Laval University in Quebec City, and Georges, a Trappist monk at Oka, Que., are in Canada. Therese is a doctor in London, Jean is studying philosophy at the Institut Catholique in Paris, and Bernard is in Provence, southern France.

Like her husband, Mme. Vanier is fluently bilingual. She is the daughter of Chief Justice Hector Archer, a former Quebec Superior Court judge.

Tall and regal in appearance, with a dancing light in dark blue eyes, Mme. Vanier is a well published hostess, a charming team-mate who has been at her husband's side in London, in both peace - shattered and post - war France and in Canada.

She has described her duties as chatelaine as those of a hostess after details which otherwise may burden her husband. As the wife of a Governor-General, Her Excellency rates a bow from men and a curtsey from women who wish to show a mark of respect when presented to her.

FRENCH CHEF

The details she must look after range from specific arrangements for a dinner party to a daily consultation with Jean Zonda, the Austrian chef hired by Government House by Mr. Massey. With Zonda she shares not only a common language but a knowledge of French cuisine to help in decking on menus.

But, she has said, Government House's pretty well runs itself.

On another occasion, her sense of mirth bubbled through with the remark that perhaps roller skates would be helpful in getting around the long corridors of the residence.

The woman who has known the life of an aide's wife as well as the life of an ambassador's wife —His Excellency was Canada's post-war ambassador to France — until retirement in 1953 — brings to the vice-regal post an interest in travel within her own country and a keen interest in welfare work.

When it comes to participating in organizations, she likes to pitch into a group's grass roots work.

She worked with the Red Cross after the war in liberated France dealing with prisoners of war and deported persons, a job she still speaks of as one of her greatest opportunities to see many facets of welfare service at work.

To her new demanding job which promises extensive travel as well as a multitude of duties her 38 years of experience as chatelaine will be invaluable.

Homey Thoughts On New Year's Eve

by Mary Moore

Guilty consciences and lavish spending for food and gifts go had di ha hand in hand this week.

The last day of 1959 has rolled round and we are all still on a spending spree with indigestion party coming up and New Year's Day feast to be prepared and consumed tomorrow. We are part of a vast country full of surplus food and surfeited appetites. Do we really want to promote this Emsasilks revel

I love cooking and preparing a delicious meal and beautifully laid table but I like to think that eating isn't everything.

We had such good everybody-participating fun at our Press Club party that I resolved to play down the importance of extravagant food and play up the virtues of simple inexpensive meals and to encourage singing and games.

For the parties that you now "owe" and because pork is one of the least expensive buys of the month, I am giving you the method of roasting smoked ham and ready-cooked ham and an attractive glaze. This could be served with red and green cabbage slaw, baked beans, dills and Boston brown bread. Then I'll give you a quick outline of how to conduct a spelling bee.

HOW TO BAKE A HAM:

Remove wrapping. If desired, scrape loosely in heavy paper. Place fat side up on rack in shallow baking pan. Bake at 325 deg. F. following this

TIME TABLE

UNCOOKED HAMS:

Half ham (8 lbs.)	25-27 min. per lb. approx.
total time, 3 hours; 10-12 lbs.	18-20 min. per lb., 3 1-2 hours; 12-14 lbs. 18 to 18 min. per lb., 3½ hours; 14-16 lbs. and over 16-18 min. per lb., 3 3-4 hours.

TO HEAT READY - TO - EAT HAMS:

8 3-4 lbs., 20 min. per lb., 3 1-4 hours; 10-12 lbs., 15 min. per lb., 3 1-2-3 hours.

TO GLAZE HAM:

Forty-five minutes before ham is done take from oven, remove rind and brush fat surface with mixture of 1-4 cup each molasses, prepared mustard and apricot jam. Continue baking 45 minutes.

SPELLING BEE:

The host or hostess or master of ceremonies should select about 60 words with their meanings from the dictionary that are moderately hard, then prepares to move difficult words for those who last longest. Divide your group in two. Pronouncing the words distinctly and giving their meanings start with Number One on Number One Team. Right or wrong switch to Number One on Number Two Team, then back to Number Two on Number One Team and so on, keeping track of who goes down to defeat.

A tip to the participating spellers: Listen carefully to each word being spelled. If it is spelled wrongly you know not to make the same mistake which may be obvious in a tricky word such as "marriageable."

Have fun and Happy New Year!

TIPS FOR NEW-YEAR RESOLUTIONS

Tonight we usher in the New Year of 1960. Most of us undoubtedly are making resolutions that, "this time," will be kept. But let's face it, more often than not we regard the making of these New Year resolutions as more or less of a joke. We usually make them to break them.

Yet if you want popularity — and who doesn't — it might not be out of line to go over the following good behavior traits and resolve to stick with them during 1960.

Always show interest in the other fellow. His ideas and opinions are as important to him as yours are to you.

Never show boredom. Grin and bear it, rather than hurt those who are boring you. Good luck! If you are bored, remember that part of the reason is your own fault.

Never go on the assumption that "better late than never" is an excuse for your tardiness. There is no excuse except in emergency.

Be tactful. Never be deliberately rude to anyone. If you offend accidentally, have the grace to apologize.

Do not be "a borrower." However, if you are in this category, remember to return that book, snow shovel or dozen eggs that you borrowed — now,not later.

Give the other fellow a boost as often as possible. Remember that old adage, "If you can't boost, don't knock." Your friends will multiply.

Avoid being a "Mrs. Grundy," always looking for the worst in others. Never repeat the juicy piece of gossip overheard at that party you attended the other evening. It just might not be true. Even if it is, remember that your actions may not be above reproach.

Do not put off until tomorrow the writing of that thank-you note. Also take time out to write that little letter of congratulation or appreciation for a thoughtful act. Remember, too, the friend in the hospital whom you have been meaning to send a card to for lo, these many weeks.

Show respect for the other fellow's right to privacy, and also respect for his possessions.

Cultivate patience and a good disposition. When that "blue Monday" feeling creeps around, try to keep your headache or woes to yourself.

To sum things up, make every effort to be natural and sincere in your dealings with everyone, and remember the courteous little trifles, such as "please" and "thank you" and "excuse me's" that mean so very much in daily contacts. Never forget that "while trifles make perfection, perfection is no trifle!"

After all, isn't the so-called secret of popularity, and manners generally as far as that goes, based entirely on the basic ideas expressed in the three little words — "consideration for others"?

A Happy New Year to you all!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Laura W. — I feel I am living with a stranger.

Wayne W — She is jealous of my hobbies.

Laura W. — My husband and I have been married 19 years and have four children. We give the impression of being a happy couple, but we are far from that. We don't have bitter arguments. It's worse than that. We never really talk to one another. We haven't much in common. We were both under 20 when we married and thought we were madly in love, but I soon saw that Wayne was a selfish person who doesn't care much about anything but himself and his hobbies.

At times I have thought of divorce. Then I decided against it for the children's sake. But I don't know how long I can bear this lonely existence. I feel I am living with a stranger. Yet I have done everything possible to be a good wife and companion.

Wayne W. — I frankly don't know what Laura wants in a husband or marriage. I have done my level best. I support my family and don't run around with women, gamble or drink. I come home every night — even when it hurts because of Laura's attitude.

The fact is that Laura is jealous of my hobbies. I like to do woodworking and have set up a shop in the basement. I also enjoy photography, and have won a couple of prizes. Laura claims I "bury" myself in these things and don't pay attention to her or the children.

The truth is I am only happy when I am in my shop or out doors taking some pictures. I don't feel that this is "burying" myself. To me it is really living. When Laura is around she just gabs about relatives and the neighbors.

The Council: It appears to us that Laura has driven her husband to immerse himself as deeply as possible in his various interests as a defence against her demands. These demands are urgent and forceful, yet vague. Wayne doesn't know just what is wanted of him and we suspect that Laura doesn't either.

Apparently Laura hasn't found great self-satisfaction in making her home and rearing her children. If she had her happiness would spill over into her relationship with her husband. As things stand Wayne feels that he has failed her in some way and seeks relief from his guilt in things removed from his relationship with her.

Laura maintains that she wants a companion, yet she locks the doors to companionship by setting herself up as a bitter rival to her husband's interests. She bolts the door further every time she gives way to her feeling that her husband has failed her and that marriage has failed to provide the vague, wonderful something she had hoped for.

Another barrier against companionable happiness between husband and wife is Laura's insistence that she is holding the marriage together purely for her children's sake. We believe Laura needs her husband for his own sake far more than she supposes. She would find life without him a very dreary, empty affair.

In order to find happiness, Laura must stop demanding it. She should try to substitute some constructive action that will give her pleasure. Perhaps she would enjoy club or church work, singing with a group or taking lessons in some hand craft. When she learns to live more happily with herself, she will find more happiness with her husband — and perhaps she will begin to feel a real interest in his hobbies. They could be the very link that will bring these two closer as companions.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

1959 sports-wise was truly a momentous year for Belleville.

While other phases of sport in the city had a successful year, hockey provided the thunder and lightning that flashed across the athletic horizon.

The thunder of national and world victory by the Belleville McFarlands, however, was vividly heightened by the sensational developments that shrank a victory-satiated populace with a vivid bolt of lightning.

A high-ranking city official said after the Mann was the Allan Cup and were bound for the world tournament in Europe, "This will bring this city publicity it has never known"—or words to that effect.

A truer statement was never uttered.

The name of this city was flashed over every news wire, radio station, television outlet and cracker barrel in the country.

It appeared in the monthly Podunk Bugle and the eastern pages of the mighty New York and London Times.

At first it was good. Then it was not so good.

Sports-minded Canadians thrilled momentarily to the news that, firstly, Canada had defeated the proud Russians. Secondly, the national chest was inflated by a brief flash of publicity that the McFarlands had won the world's amateur hockey championship.

The metropolitan press bannered it on the front pages for one addition. The European press, at first critical of Canadian hockey tactics, but appreciative of the Canadian representatives and tournament play, was more generous.

The free nations of the sports world thrilled to the fact the Canadian team had defeated those from behind the iron curtain. Then, too, were generous in the compliments to the Canadian champions.

Then the blow fell.

There is no point in going over what happened. That is now water under the well-known bridge.

What matters perhaps was the fact that a small city of some 22,000 souls, which had been in the limelight of international publicity, was pinned down by a flood of publicity that would have done justice to the declaration of a Third World War.

Question-seeking metropolitan newspapers sent their ace reporters to cover members here. Television cameramen fell over one another.

Again the name of Belleville was flashed over the world. But this time in a different light. And among the severest critics were those who refused financial help when they were canvassed.

"Never was the hit-a-man-when-he-was-down more emphasized by most of the metropolitan sheets. Some of them twisted the truth to color their stories. They should be ashamed, some declare.

However, that, too, is now water under the bridge.

Some critical bonehills, who wouldn't give a nickel to see Khrushchev become an American citizen, went so far as to blame the players. Nothing is farther from the truth. The players, nor their sponsor, H. J. McFarland, had anything to do with what was subsequently brought to light.

But there is something that adverse publicity did not, nor ever will, take away.

That is the good name given Canada by the fine crew of athletes sent to Europe to represent their country in the world tournament.

It has been said before. And we repeat. They were a grand bunch of guys, rugged hockey players on the ice, gentlemen off it. They were popular wherever they played. And, insofar as the country, they respected foreign peoples, their countries, and their habits. And they in turn were highly respected.

That is something that cannot be said of a certain American hockey team which recently visited Russia.

The few of us who were privileged to see them play were proud of them—and still are.

The glory that was the McFarlands and Canada's in those last moments of victory, was not erased by subsequent events at home. Nor will it ever be.

HAPPY NEW YEAR TO EACH AND ALL.

Plante Pep Pill Proves Puck Potting Preventer

Hab Goalie's New Gimmick Frowned on by Club Brass But Team Keeps on Winning

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Every time goalminder Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens adds a new twist to his National Hockey League career he stirs up a storm. Nevertheless Canadiens keep on winning.

Plante's latest addition to his repertoire of gimmicks is a pep pill. He had taken one before each of Canadiens' two weekend games and was prepared to take another one Wednesday night. He decided at the last minute, however, to go without a pill and then turned in a sensational effort as Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 in the night's only game.

Earlier, club officials indicated they weren't too happy about the pills, especially if they contained a narcotic.

TWO FOR RICHARD

Henri Richard led the Canadien scorers with two goals. Center Jean Beliveau added the other. his 21st of this season. Bobby Pulford scored both Toronto goals, the last one with 12 seconds to play and Montreal goalie Harry Lumley in the penalty box and Leaf teammate Johnny Bower sitting on the Toronto bench.

Plante took the pep pills before going on the ice in Montreal's two weekend games. Canadiens won both.

"Last couple of weeks I've been going pretty bad," Plante explained. "The pills helped me and it was because with the mask I wear I was sure I wouldn't get hurt. I was too relaxed. He said to try the same pills I took and after in my room when asthma bothered me.

"I didn't feel anything last weekend but maybe it works. I know I took them before two games and lost them both. Let's get together. After I get readjusted, I stop."

MAY BE BANNED

No one is saying what's in the pills. Plante says he doesn't know, But general manager Frank Selke is going to have a talk Monday with the Montreal doctor who prescribed them and if any dope is used "Plante will have to stop taking them."

"No player I manage will use any sort of drug for that purpose," Selke says. "Victory is never that important."

Plante was all his roaming and jumping best Wednesday night. In the first minute of the game he saved what looked like sure goals. Altogether he stopped 34 shots.

Beliveau opened the scoring at 11:28 of the first period while Leafs were a man short but Pulford got that one back at 11:05 of the second, again while Leafs had a man in the penalty box.

Richard put Montreal ahead to stay less than two minutes later. Bower appeared shaky on both Richard goals. Richard's record goal, at 14:40 of the third, squirted out from under Bower and slowly crossed the line

ANOTHER BIG CROWD

Pulford's second goal, through a maze of players, set the crowd of 14,647 — largest here since Nov. 16, 1946, when 15,318 watched Leafs beat Canadiens 3-0 —buzzing, but the time ran out before Leafs had another shot at Plante.

Canadiens now are 12 points ahead of second-place Detroit Red Wings. Leafs, with 38 points, remained one point behind Wings.

Plante, called up to Canadiens in 1953-54, won the Vezina trophy which he knitted himself. The late Dick Irvin, coach of Canadiens at the time, told Plante he couldn't use it.

The next season, the native of Shawinigan Falls, Que., drew the ire of Montreal fans by roaming far out of his net to clear loose pucks.

But the style of play seldom allowed a goal and now other goaltenders copy it.

This season Plante donned a plastic face mask and his play immediately improved.

Carter Loses Scoring Lead In Pro League

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull-Ottawa's Billy Carter lost the Eastern Professional Hockey League's individual scoring race for the first time this season as the last and first-place teams each won Wednesday night.

Sudbury Wolves dumped fourth-place Trois-Rivieres Lions 9-3 and Kingston Frontenacs climbed out of the cellar with a 5-3 victory over Hull - Ottawa Canadiens.

Carter was held scoreless at Kingston as the home club's Orval Tessier got two goals and two assists to take over the scoring lead with 80 points. Carter has 78.

At Sudbury, Tom McCarthy and Sam Bettio tightened the scoring race as McCarthy got a goal and four assists for five points. Bettio got three goals to boost his points total to 76.

Kingston has been out of last place only a couple of times this season, but Tessier—their balding centreman—has been plugging away consistently to overtake the flashy Carter, who at one stage had piled up a whopping lead in the scoring race.

The Frontenacs were tied at 27 points with Sault Ste. Marie before Wednesday night's contest. The loss left the Canadiens four in second place with Montreal Royals at 36 points, six behind the Flyers and two ahead of Leos.

Other Kingston scorers were Willie O'Ree, Red Ouellette, Cal Gardner and Glen Cressman. The Hull-Ottawa scorers were J. C. Tremblay, with two, and Yvan Locas.

GOLFER OF YEAR

LONDON (AP) — Eric Brown, only British player to win a singles match in the Ryder Cup matches against the United States last month, was named Great Britain's golfer of the year Wednesday.

Sudbury Beats Toronto for Tourney Title

WINDSOR (CP) — Sudbury St. Charles High School, in command all the way, won the third annual Assumption University invitational high school basketball tournament Wednesday night by trimming Toronto St. Michael's High School 62-45.

Sudbury succeeds Stanford Collegiate Hornets of the Niagara District as tournament champions. En route to the title Sudbury defeated Sarnia Central 46-35 and Windsor Patterson 43-40. London Beal Tech, who lost to Windsor Patterson in the first round, bounced back to capture the consolation title by blasting Walkerville Collegiate Tartans 84-50. They gained the consolation finals with a 67-41 win over Sarnia Central.

Ian Landrye of Sudbury St. Charles, who scored a total of 54 points in his three tournament games was named the meet's most valuable performer. It was the second time in the tourney's four-year history that the most valuable player was a member of the winning team.

The tournament all - star team consisted of Landrye and Ron Horek from St. Charles, John O'Neil from St. Michael's Bill Wolanyn of London Beal and Barry Kenshol of Windsor Kennedy.

Minor Hockey

Players in the pewee and bantam divisions of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association are reminded that games in both sections will be played as scheduled this Saturday morning. Please check today's "Sports Calendar" to see who and when time you play.

The squirts will resume their schedule on Monday, January 4, and the midgets and juveniles will get back into action on Wednesday, January 6, following the holidays.

Rickey To Visit Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Hy Richman, spokesman for the Montreal interests bidding for a franchise in baseball's embryo Continental League, said Wednesday he is flying up a Montreal visit for club president Branch Rickey in mid-January.

"This will serve in a manner of speaking as a presentation of our credentials," said the Philadelphia - born constructive man in an interview.

"We want Mr. Rickey to get a first - hand look at the layout here and to meet civic officials and all the men connected with our effort to bring a league here."

Richman said he is confident Montreal will get the nod over Buffalo as the eighth and last city in the proposed league.

Member cities are Toronto, New York, Denver, Houston, Minneapolis - St. Paul, Dallas-Fort Worth and Atlanta.

Montreal and Buffalo have been conceded the inside track for the last berth.

Bowls Football and Roses, Cram TV Screens Tomorrow

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Staff Writer

A new decade of United States college football begins Friday with Syracuse, Georgia, Wisconsin and Mississippi favored to ring it in with bowl victories.

Unbeaten Syracuse, the country's No. 1 team but never a bowl winner, is favored by 12 points over Texas in the Colonial Bowl at Dallas, Tex.

Georgia, Southeastern Conference champion, rates 12 points better than Missouri in the Orange Bowl in Miami.

Mississippi, despite a 7-3 mid-season loss to Louisiana State, is favored by seven points in its post-season rematch in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

Wisconsin, Big Ten titlist, is a touchdown favorite over host Washington in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena.

All four bowls will be broadcast and televised throughout the U.S. CBS will carry the Orange (1 p.m. EST) and the Cotton (2:30 p.m.) while NBC will lead off with the Sugar (2 p.m.) and follow with the Rose (5 p.m.). The Rose Bowl will be carried by the CBC.

In other bowl games Friday, Presbyterian (6-1) goes against Middle Tennessee State (9-0-1) in the Tangerine Bowl, a night better at Orlando, Fla., and Prairie View A and M (8-2) entertains Wiley (5-3), a bi-ther Texas school, in the Prairie View Bowl at Houston, Tex.

Crowds are expected to range from the 100,285 at the Rose Bowl to 12,000 for the Tangerine.

The last of the post - season games involving amateurs will be played Saturday when Arkansas and Georgia Tech meet in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., and all-star teams clash in the Shrine East-West classic in San Francisco and the All-American Bowl at Tucson, Ariz.

Habs, '59 Outstanding Team, MacFarlands Voted 3rd Best

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal Canadiens' undefeated Stanley Cup hockey champions, Winnipeg Blue Bombers as Canada's outstanding team in 1958 and the Stanley Cup victory was the biggest sports thrill of the year with the Grey Cup final a close second.

That is the verdict of Canada's country's sports editors and broadcasters who participated in the 35th annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll announced today.

It was an almost complete turn-about from 1958 when the Bombers beat out Canadiens for team honors and provided the majority of voters with their greatest sports thrill as they beat Hamilton Tiger-Cats 35-28 in a thrilling Grey Cup final.

CLOSE FINISH

Voters were asked by CP to name the three outstanding Canadian team, any sport, professional or amateur, in order. Computed on a basis of three points for a first-place choice, two for second and one for third, Canadiens compiled 129 votes to against 218 for the football-champion Bombers.

Belleville, MacFarlands, who won the world amateur hockey championship at Prague, Czechoslovakia, on the basis of a superior point average over Russia, placed third with 69 points. Toronto Maple Leafs, who put on a tremendous second-half drive to get into the Stanley Cup playoffs, had 49 points.

Coach Toe Blake's powerful Canadiens wrapped up the National Hockey League championship with ease and then won an unprecedented fourth straight Stanley Cup, four games to one over the Leafs in the finals.

Many voters in the CP poll called the Stanley Cup their biggest thrill because of the uphill battle of the Leafs.

OTHER NOMINEES

Other outstanding teams were nominated for outstanding honors. Included in the list were Winnipeg Braves, Memorial Cup winners; Whitby Dunlops, Allan Cup champions; New Westminster O'Keefes, senior lacrosse titleholders; the world figure-skating champion team of Toronto's Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul and St. Francis Xavier University of Antigonish, N.S., runner by a 38-14 count over Guelph OAC in the first Atlantic football bowl final.

Also nominated 38-16 in the thrill voting over the Bombers.

Cougars, Totems Stage Brawling 20-Minute Melee

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fortunes for the seven Western Hockey League clubs in the New Year are hard to predict but the old year certainly went out with a bang.

Attendance jumped as the holiday schedule began, and the clubs reacted to the spectator support with some fired - up hockey which spilled over into more than one two-littered fracas.

The latest brawl occurred Wednesday night as Victoria Cougars edged Seattle Totems 5-3. A melee that lasted more than 20 minutes ended with 11 players in the penalty box.

Edmonton Flyers played before 4,500 Winnipeg fans Wednesday night and edged Warriors 3-2.

Spokane, who lost key defencemen Fred Creighton on an injudicious suspension as a result of Tuesday's melee with Edmonton, beat 4-3 by Calgary Stampeders.

TIGHT RACE

The results left only eight points separating second - place Seattle and fifth-place Calgary. Victoria is third and Edmonton fourth. Winnipeg holds down sixth place and Calgary is last.

Art Jones was Victoria's peacemaker with two goals. Arnie Schmautz, Gordie Haworth and Jim Hay scored the others. Totems' goals were by Pat Stapleton, Bill Davidson and Tom McVie.

Comets got brilliant goal-tending from Emile Francis, but lost out in the third period. Ching Johnson had two goals and Buddy Bodman one for Spokane. Lou Jankowski, Gerry Gray, Ron Leopold and Norm Johnson scored for the Stings.

Edmonton's goals came from Rodger Dejordy, Lon Haley and Ron Stewart. For Warriors, who outshot Flyers 41-30, it was Paul Mazzuki and Barrie Ross.

WARWICK AVAILABLE

EDMONTON (CP) — Grant Warwick, playing coach of the 1955 World Champion Penticton V's, said Wednesday he would give "serious consideration" to any offer he might get to coach Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's 1960 Olympic Games hockey entry. Coach Bill Durnan resigned Tuesday.

Hockey Hints

by Lloyd Percival

If the puck carrier going in on goal can make the goalkeeper move first, his chance of beating him is greatly improved. Here's a play that can do the trick.

As you move in on goal, head directly for one of the goal posts. When about ten feet out from the goalkeeper turn sharply and move across in front of the goal. As the goalkeeper comes across with you quicken the pace at the spot he has just left. If he is caught coming across, shoot at the open net in front of you.

The "Cut Across" is at excellent play here and there is no puck without a checker breathing down their neck.

Like all "set" play this one needs practice, so work on it every chance you get.

Riots, Complaints, Protests Creep Into New Pro League

SUDBURY (CP) — Sudbury Wolves have filed an official complaint with the Eastern Professional Hockey League over a near-riot among hockey fans in a game at Trois Rivieres, Que., Sunday.

Wolves' president Ted Hill said he was waiting to hear from league president Ed Hourton of Ottawa before any word of any league might make.

The trouble started when Sudbury winger John Sleaver allegedly speared Trois Rivieres fan, Michel Beauchamp, with his stick. The fan subsequently obtained a warrant from municipal Judge Jean Marie Bureau who, Hill said, was at the rink. Before the summons could be served Sleaver had left the arena.

Hill said the Trois Rivieres players knew that Sleaver would be arrested and had Sudbury officials to get the player out of the rink, otherwise a riot might result. The fracas later was stopped by Quebec provincial police coming across, Hill said.

Sleaver wasn't on ll.

COACH WON'T COMMENT

Coach Murph Chamberlain declined to comment on Wednesday on the argument. "This could be a very tough league this year. I better stay out of it."

Hill said that club was not the first time there had been complaints about Trois Rivieres fans. The Ottawa coach Sammy Pollock complained about them, "and he's usually right also."

Grosso coached the Soo Thunderbirds before being replaced a few weeks ago.

"They had a lot of trouble last year in North Bay, Timmins and Chicoutimi, "Hill said. "At Chicoutimi, they had to build a wire fence around the Ottawa coach bench to protect the players after they had to wait a bit by a beer bottle."

Chicoutimi is a member of the eastern pro league this year.

Hill also said that National League president Clarence McAdam who handled a game in Trois Rivieres a week ago, needed police protection to get out of the arena, in an earlier game, Sudbury right winger Tommy Burton had been hit on the head with an egg thrown by a spectator.

BLAMES FAN

Sleaver said the fan started the trouble Sunday. "This guy sitting right next to the penalty box was razzing and calling me yellow from the first game. So just as I was coming off the ice I swung my stick towards him. It was just a move to scare him at first, I thought the stick struck him on the head, but he says it was on the wrist.

"I think it's the same guy who caused Chamberlain trouble on our last trip down there. They have some police or protection around the visitors' bench in that place."

Sleaver said he left the rink while the game was being held up after the goal — tender Gilles Boisvert had been injured.

"No one recognized me going out of the building," he said, "but one fan asked me how the game was going." He muttered something and kept on going.

Sleaver said he met the brother - in - law of teammate Tom McCarthy who drove him to Montreal. There he registered in a different hotel than the one where the team stayed overnight.

OSHAWA WINS

TORONTO (CP)—An Oshawa rink captured top honors in the first annual suburban school masters bonspiel here Wednesday. Skipped by Ewart Nichol the rink swaned 29 points during three victories. A Galt foursome skipped by Bill Tallman was second and another Oshawa entry, skipped by Joe Walsh, finished third.

Tiger Wins Verdict Over Holly Mims

CHICAGO (AP) — Dick Tiger, British Empire middleweight boxing champion, kept the pressure on Holly Mims Wednesday night in hammering out a 10-round decision in Chicago Stadium.

Tiger, ranked No. 8 on the National Boxing Association contenders list, missed frequently with his most potent weapon, a left hook, but kept his veteran Washington, D.C., opponent against the ropes most of the time.

Mims, who now has lost three consecutive bouts since—October and is unranked by the NBA, was at his best coming off the ropes and constantly made Tiger break off the exchanges.

But Tiger, a Nigerian, got in the harder licks. Mims weighed 155 pounds for the televised bout, Tiger 166.

Referee Bernard Weissman scored it 47-47 under the five-point-must system, Judge John Bray favored Tiger 49-43 and Judge Harold Marvelis had Tiger ahead 49-43. The Associated Press picked Tiger 47-45.

CANADA OUT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Argentina eliminated Canada 3-1 Wednesday in the opening round of the Orange Bowl junior cup tennis tournament. The Toronto team of Harry Fauquier and Don Curtis beat Gerardo Wortel-boer and Julio Vankerchoven 6-2, 7-5 in the doubles but the South Americans took both singles matches — Wortelboer beating Fauquier 6-4, 6-4 and 6-2, 6-4.

Hypnotism Won Title for Ingy Doctor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Seattle University basketball player turned in his two best games as a collegian after the team physician hypnotized him.

Dr. Huber Grimm of Seattle said he talked forward Dave Mills into a trance about six hours before the Chieftains' game with St. Mary's here on Monday night and planted the suggestion that he would play better than he had previously.

"Dave was in a deep state of the trance, the suggestion remained," the 30 - year - old general practitioner said.

Mills, who had averaged 18 points a game, scored 22 against St. Mary's but Seattle lost 66-60. Tuesday night in a consolation game of the West Coast Athletic Association tournament, Mills also scored 22. He also starred at rebounding.

Dr. Grimm said the same type of hypnotic suggestion had been given Sweden's Ingemar Johansson before he knocked out Floyd Patterson for the heavyweight championship in New York last June.

The doctor said Johansson was told he would throw a right hand punch when there was an opening and before he was consciously aware of it.

"That is why he was unable to say after the fight that he had spotted an opening and how he threw the first knockdown punch, he added.

Brawl Marks Varsity Win Over Harvard

BOSTON (AP) — Left winger George Hicken scored three goals and added an assist to pace the University of Toronto to a 6-3 victory over Harvard University and the sixth annual Boston Arena Christmas tournament championship here Wednesday night.

The game was marked by a wild swinging melee, exploding at the 12-minute mark of the third period, that resulted in the banishing of three of each club's players.

Toronto grabbed a 3-0 first-period lead. Hicken opened the scoring at 9:30, defenseman Jim Simpson made it 2-0 and Hicke added the third goal 17 seconds later.

Al Orchison gave Toronto a 4-0 lead in the second from Harvard got its first goal by Mike Grasley. John Caffen made it 5-1 later.

The third period, marred by 16 penalties, saw Hicken netting his third goal and Garry Gow getting Toronto's seventh marker.

Bulldogs at Dunlop Heels With 7-3 Win Over Chatham

CHATHAM (CP) — Windsor Bulldogs whipped Chatham Maroons 7-3 in a fast, clean Ontario Hockey Association Senior A contest here Wednesday night before 1,500 fans.

Tom Walker paced the visitors with a three-goal effort. Jim Bathe, Rene Pepin, Joe Zorica, John Donaldson and Erwin Gross fired singles.

George Allen scored twice for Chatham and assisted on a third goal by Fred Pietsch.

The victory moved Windsor to within three points of the league-leading Whitby Dunlops. Maroons remain in fourth spot, one point back of Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen.

SPORT IN BRIEF

DROP UMPIRE

CINCINNATI (AP) — National League president Warren C. Giles disclosed Wednesday that the contract of umpire Vic Delmore of Dunmore, Pa., will not be renewed for the 1960 season. Giles declined comment on reasons.

At the same time, Giles announced purchase of the contracts of umpires Ed Beto and Al Jorgo from the International League.

Pro 'Rasslin' Too Tough For 290-Pound Strong Man

VANCOUVER (CP) — One day in 1956, Doug Hepburn told a reporter: "Professional wrestling is too rough a trade for me, I'm too tough."

He had been a pro wrestler for 4 years, earned $25,000 and netted $125,000 and faced a future that promises of up to $100,000 a year if he continued.

"I'd sooner make $100 a week and be happy at my work than wrestle for the big money and be unhappy," he said.

So why did the 33 - year - old strong man return to wrestling recently?

"No reason but money," he told another reporter. "I owe the income tax people $1,600 and $1,000 is coming for me if I don't get the dough up.

TOP WEIGHTLIFTER

Hepburn, who now weighs 290 pounds, made newspaper headlines in 1953 when he won the world championship, lifting a 1,036¾ pounds in three lifts at Stockholm, to take the title over top Russian and United States competitors.

The following year, with just one suit to his name and $150 to his credit, he moved to Vancouver and, he worked his way to the British Empire Games weightlifting title. Early in 1955 he turned to professional wrestling.

After he quit in 1956 saying "I just haven't the temperament for it, I've had my nose smashed, my leg hurt and the boys have been just beginning to turn it on, he went on tour, putting on lifting exhibitions.

Then he opened gymnasiums in Vancouver and New Westminster, but, plagued under financial stress.

With his return to wrestling, he has broadened his activities to at least three fields—he raises dogs and does some writing, too.

He is raising English mastiffs and huskies on a farm south of nearby Westney.

He has been keep working so they can keep eating," he said.

His writing is confined to "quickies for lifting magazines and of course I'm doing on weightlifting".

Hepburn, who sings tenor and writes weird poems for records too, says he'll likely stay with wrestling for some time.

"I've been away from rasslin' for three or four years," he said. "I'll have to get back to it by degrees. I'll work here regularly and if I get back on the beam, I'll travel around some."

Cohn's New Boxing Group Seeks Licence

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Cohn's new boxing group applied for a promoter's licence Wednesday after announcing the Ingemar Johansson - Floyd Patterson heavyweight title rematch will be held in New York's Polo Grounds. The target date is sometime between June 13-23.

The New York State Athletic Commission's chairman, Gen. Melvin Krulewitch, said the commission would act on the application as soon as its processing had been completed.

Happy New Year Everyone . . .

General tendencies: The New Year starts off on a very auspicious note. You have the chance to forge ahead where it may be vital or important to you by looking at your New Age, bigger ambitions and reducing them to a workable course in days to come. Just be sure you double check any writings or what you say and all's well. Keep very active.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Follow that inclination to contact persons out of town. Also, take time to confer with associates and comrades. Affection will bring about flexibility and co-operation. Begin the year properly through real understanding.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Remember that the person you are with today can be very helpful to you in the future. And don't permit some alternoon to sweep a higher-up and an associate to disturb you. Make the most of this day's fine aspects.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Set up a fine time schedule for yourself today so that you can converse with the right people concerning all the excellent ideas that occur to you. Be sure you are with dynamic associate to get finest results. Smile.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A fine day to take stock of your assets, both materially and where your emotions are concerned. Get the benefit of good advice from sage counselor. Later, plan your coming days more efficiently. Write out a good schedule.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Resolve to follow certain unfailing policies in the future, and put the wheels in motion by definite action now. Give far greater scope and breadth to your thinking. Then relax and be off to a delightful time. Play.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Fine day to attend to all home affairs and increase beauty and harmony there. Go along more with the current trend and make use of modern conveniences. In handling others, direct and just means get best results.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — New friends, better ideas and ideals are possible to you now. Be sure to accept and make speedier progress toward your cherished aims. Keep active. Write, speak up, improve wardrobe, technical methods, etc.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Personality can be most successful this coming year, provided you now make your plans wisely. Beginning this day you can start the ball rolling that will bring the right persons and conditions into your life toward this end.

Sagittaries (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Imperative you first wind up any dull doldrum duties you may have if you are to begin that uptrend you so desire in the new year. This can be done quickly and then let no grass grow under your feet. Be dynamic.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A good day for self-analysis and taking inventory of all kinds. Make whatever changes are necessary, once the picture is clarified. Then relax and have a good time. New Year's resolutions work wonders if religiously followed.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Sociability is the keynote today, especially for Americans who work best when dealing with others. Today's contacts can mean really big success in the future, whether in the arts, sciences or business. Be charming.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Be prestige minded today, for therein lies the key to future success. Contact those who can be most helpful in the days ahead, particularly the most progressive in thought and activity. Discuss your aims and problematical affairs.

If your child is born today — The lucky child born today will literally be born under a lucky star and can become famous if properly guided. While the nature appears to be a most practical one, the subconscious is filled with all sorts of inspiring and progressive ideas. This individual is also fine in any emergency, which is a rare trait in human beings. Excellent talent here. Be sure to get the best teachers for your offspring.

WANTS TO SEE PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Ralph S. Staples, president of the Co-operative Union of Canada, has requested an "informal meeting" next Monday with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and other cabinet ministers to discuss federal incorporation of co-operatives.

Russ Tamblyn Ready to Work After 2-Year Hitch in Army

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Russ Tamblyn is back from the army, happier than when he left.

The young actor's introduction to the service was not without bitterness; He was drafted at the same time he won an Oscar nomination for Peyton Place two years ago.

"I feel as though I'm finally getting somewhere with my career," he told me at the time. "Now I'll be gone two years and I'll have all the impetus I have gained."

Now he has returned to Hollywood to play a gunslinger in Cimarron.

During his basic training Russ was ranked by officious sergeants and other perils of the military. I accepted and found a bundle of bitterness by now. But no.

"I think the army has been a good experience for me," he remarked. "I'm not saying I'd rush into it again. But I've learned from it.

"I was unhappy at first because I couldn't adjust; an actor's life is a constant seeking for ways to be different, to stand apart from the crowd. The army seeks just the opposite: to submerge individualism and create a working unit. Once I realized this, I got along okay."

Russ was first assigned to an entertainment unit, which didn't especially please him. "All my training had been in pictures," he explained. "I wasn't used to working before live audiences. And an army audience is not the best place to experiment. If you say the wrong thing, it would mean trouble.

"But it hasn't been a waste of time for me. Nothing need be a total waste of time—even being in jail. I spent all my spare time reading. People like Nietzsche, Bertrand Russell, Freud and Einstein. I thought Einstein would be hard, but he isn't, really.

"The army taught me a lot about patience and understanding. I was with all kinds of guys, and I realized how lucky I was when I saw how little some of them have."

The army even made him philosophical about the two-year lapse in his career. Said Russ:

"I remember what Tony Martin told me once. He said that really big careers are based on a series of successful comebacks. Well, I'm ready for my first one."

AT THE PARK — Sheriff Dale Robertson mets a casualtiaary' rule of terror in Jerrod Zukor's Republic release, "Hell Canyon Outlaws", in which he co-stars with Rosanna Rory. Brian Keith and Jack Lord. Now at the Park Theatre with this big spectacle in Cinemascope and color. "The Warrior and the Slave Girl", special matinee on Friday starts 1.30. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

TV Despite Making Money Would Like to Forget Year

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the last day of a year which television would like to forget despite the fact that it had bigger audiences and made more money than ever before.

It was the year of the big scandals—quiz show rigging, disclosures of payola and other shabby deeds—and there has not been much except glittering financial statements to balance the picture.

It was the year when Ingrid Bergman, Alec Guinness and Cyd Charisse made their initial TV plunges.

It was the year when the prime-time viewers saw almost as many old movies—"adapted" as they say, for television—as the stay-up-lates; when TV network executives turned almost as many directives and statements as their press departments issued handouts, when the expensive NBC-Startime series drew most of the critical fire — but disappointingly small audiences; when Dragnet, Omnibus, The Firestone Hour were abandoned and Playhouse 90 reduced in frequency.

It was the year Cliff Arquette got his own show, when Perry Como, Steve Allen and Dinah Shore received disappointing ratings and Garry Moore came up strongly; when not a single important and or exciting new star was born; when Red Skelton held the line alone for the standup comics.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER
Saturday, January 2

General tendencies: Now you have a day when you are able to gain much understanding and knowledge by being very quiet for a little while. Then your powerful intuitions which can be very accurate will come to the surface. After making decisions, be sure to look at the entirety and all surroundings, conditions and get them this Saturday. It will be to your benefit to be creative order.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A quiet Saturday like this is the best time to look into anything financial, vocational and emotional interests. You will get excellent results. P. M. get in touch with powerful individuals for moral and financial support.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — An excellent day for study and planning how to get ahead faster. Also fine to call upon those persons who can aid you professionally. Contacts are favorable, but you must take the initiative. Avoid argumentative ahead — go, man, go!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — How you can contact the right people and real experts who will aid you tremendously in getting all certain affairs which you want to out properly. Also, be sure to check those persons who are not to you for greater future success.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Be on the alert for fine ideas expounded by new associates and friends. This will result in mutual success in the early future. And a misunderstanding or discussion on your part is advisable. Self adroit, intelligent, thoughtful.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be sure to read the contract into the so-called Silence and let your intuitive powers work for you. Have faith in your hunches and inspiration. Put them into operation. Saturday is a good day. Time for growth and progress now.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — The best day in a long time to spend with associates and well-wishers who can aid you materially. Also, be sure to help others as well as have a most enjoyable time. Gaiety is the keynote of the corner. Co-operate enthusiastically.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — This Saturday is best suited to getting down to the practical touches that please and are in true reflection of own personality. Tonight, an old love to light kin and loved ones.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — This can be a truly worthwhile and enjoyable Saturday, but you must get off that easy chair early and be out and about contacting the right people. Your benefits are in the acting by intelligent activity.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Time to look about you. Are your surroundings as you would like to have them? Make the changes that increase charm and comfort. Make plans with a better financial conditions, too. Hard labor brings excellent benefits indoor.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Get out early and shop or visit with friends. Mix with religious man. Thus begun the career of one of the Christian- Immortals.

It is easy to imagine that, when the project was first suggested that there those in the official board who arose to say "Haven't we enough to do right here in Antioch?" And the question would have sounded reasonable. The city had a population of approximately 400,000 and offered an ample field for all the en-

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — An ideal Saturday to handle all financial matters and to consider making better plans for the future. Epic affairs can also be handled with success. Get in touch with specialists and see what they have to give you. Be realistic.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You may think in terms of self today and consult with good, influential comrades who can give good ideas. Also, get rid of any of your practical endeavors. Success is yours in personal affairs, too.

If your child is born today — Fine, practical minded child born today is the type who has his feet firmly on the ground and will succeed in fields of finance or cultural circles particularly. Gives an fine a comprehensive course of education is possible, stressing the practical and the spiritual. Should excel in foreign languages, too, for full attention to the astrological chart. Much travel is denoted here.

Belleville's Princess Margaret will likely become engaged between August and October.

A Debt to Ancient Antioch

By ROY L. SMITH

The probabilities are that if you were to ask the average person to name the city in which your community owes the most debt he would be able to give you the information of any such city. Nor will the owners of the community debt be will never be able to report.

ANONYMOUS CHURCH

As a matter of fact, there is little dependable history available concerning the Christian church in Antioch in the year 45 A.D. We have no idea how it was started, except that we believe it may have originated with a little group of displaced persons who fled Jerusalem when life there was becoming difficult for the early Christians.

So far as we know, the city was never visited by any accredited apostle when or after the church was founded, and also long after it had launched a missionary enterprise to every part of Europe. One might even say that it was a layman's outreach, without the benefit of clergy.

CosmoPolitan City

It was a very rabbinical by the ancient city. Antioch was a cosmopolitan community, with little evidence of ethnic purity. Almost every important state in the Mediterranean world was represented when there was a sizeable group of Jews. One of the four great cities of the world — a rival of Rome, Alexandria, and Ephesus — Antioch was primarily a commercial centre, carrying on trade with the whole of the known world.

By the very nature of the case the various races that were in a less-of the city were compelled to get along together. Had they not done so, trade and the commerce the city would never have flourished. In the matter of circumstance being just a little like that of the modern city of Boomtown. The people had to be honest or they could not have survived.

Church in Antioch

In most of the European cities the Christian communities, even those early years, of the poor, the ignorant, and the illiterate were neglected. In Antioch it seems to have been the case that the Christians were drawn largely from the more influential groups. At least we know that there was a certain executive spirit developed among the leaders.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for January 3: "Launching Out On A World Mission", Acts 13.

Recognizing the imperative need for spreading the Christian message to the non-Jewish world, the official board of the Antioch church set out to find a missionary team that could travel throughout the empire and represent the city in Christian message. Then it happened that Barnabas, a well-to-do Christian, and Saul, a native of Tarsus of Saul of Tarsus be obtained.

Saul was a cultivated, highly educated, a bachelor with no family ties, and a profoundly religious man. Thus began the career of one of the Christian- Immortals.

It is easy to imagine that, when the project was first suggested, there were those in the official board who arose to say "Haven't we enough to do right here in Antioch?" And the question would have sounded reasonable. The city had a population of approximately 400,000 and offered an ample field for all the en-

COLOURLESS YEAR — July was the high point of a generally colourless year on the Toronto Stock Exchange, contributing to a New York advance, and then following Wall Street down.

Base metals were the most buoyant in March in response to copper activity on the London market.

Western oils, in the face of market uncertainties, pursued a pretty steady decline. Golds continued their depression of recent years.

This graph traces movements of indicies for the major groups on the exchange from the beginning of 1958 up to December 12. (CP Newsmap.)

Canadian Markets Recorded No Booms, Generally Stayed Low Throughout the Year

By GREG MacDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In a year of economic recovery, 1959 was quiet and colorless on the Canadian stock exchanges.

Unlike their United States and overseas counterparts, the Canadian markets recorded no booms and remained at generally low levels throughout the year.

Industrials, investors' champions in 1958, lacked the speculative action except for a brief flurry in early summer that failed to spread very far on Wall Street.

Observers say the outlook for 1960 appears almost as dull—without more pep up in the way of business news and minding fickle investments.

DOLLAR VOLUME UP

While share volume was down, however, dollar volume was a record higher and was comparable with 1957's record. Price movements, though, were relatively small.

Investors quoted many reasons for the slow market. They included tight money; lack of participation by American investors in view of the 34 per cent Wall Street; high interest rates on bonds which competed with investments in the stock yields; and not much in the way of development in mining fields.

C. P. Lefley, chairman of the board of the Toronto Stock Exchange, said "each of these factors about was capable of hitting a drag down a definite trend, but all of them coming practically at once, were too much for the market to absorb and remain buoyant."

But economically 1959 was a good year. Unemployment declined, spreading real wages and government purposes rose and quarterly earnings and dividends increased.

STRONG MONTHS

Two of the strongest months in the period were March and July. In March the U.S. Federal Reserve attempted to tighten the money supply as well as credit rates. But industrials shot higher and base metals began a golden boom with copper grazing on the London market. The base metal activity sent share volume in Toronto over 112,000,000 shares, the only time during the year when monthly volume topped 100,000,000 shares.

In June industrials improved and the ground was laid for an upsurge in July. The dull months began with a flurry in specialities and spread to utilities, foods, steels and motor stocks. Wall Street moved ahead quickly when the U.S. Government announced a record budget deficit for a peacetime year. Another factor in the upsurge was the signing of a bill by President Eisenhower raising the U.S. national debt ceiling to $295,000,000,000.

"This was the cue needed for the Canadian market," industrials acted quickly and strongly. Stocks became increasingly active with the approach and start July 15 of the U.S. steel strike.

However, July gains were lost by August when Wall Street ran into a sudden reversal with easement in the cold war and selling in electronic stocks. "Right money was another factor.

OIL, GAS STOCKS MOVE

The market improved in November when the U.S. Federal Power Commission announced importation of Canadian natural gas. Pipe lines and gas stocks swung upward and western oils gained sharply.

Then came announcement that Ontario Hydro Energy Commission wouldn't exercise its option to buy Canadian utilities which operate in Ontario under certain conditions. Uranium stocks fell immediately and at the end of the year were still weak.

In December, trading picked up a little in response to increased dividends and year-end buoyancy although the latter was not great.

On index at Toronto, industrials opened the year at 561.20, reached a high of 578.38 in July, fell to a low of 493.77 in September and closed about 538.

Golds began the year at 92.64, rose to a high of 95.08 in May and closed at about 88. Base metals started at 176.84, hit a high of 192.15 in March, fell to a low of 165.18 in January and fell to a low of 98.49 in November. They closed around 108.

VOLUME DOWN

Yearly volume on the Toronto exchange was nearly 782,000,000 shares with an estimated value of $1,367,000,000. Last year's volume was higher at 828,598,000, but dollar volume was down at $1,-380,397,397.

Index changes at Montreal: banks remained steady at about the year's level; utilities rallied to 149.3, rose to 162.1 and closed at about 145.

Industrials began the year at 297.5, rose to a high of 354.4 in July and closed around 328. Golds index began at 249.9, hit a high of 277.4 and closed about 262. Papers started the year at 475.5, rose to a high of 494.8 and closed at about 484. Golds began at 88.58, rose to 92.77 and closed around 90.

Volume for the year at Montreal was nearly 141,000,000 shares with an estimated value of $265,000,000 as compared to a share volume of 134,186,023 shares in 1958 valued at $240,966,730.

There! We put the finishing touch on our personal New Year salute to You! With dashes of gaiety and goodwill, we paint a picture of prosperity for you in '60!

Public Schools Stage Annual Yule Concert

RAWDON — The two public schools at Rawdon Presbyterian Church basement Friday afternoon when they presented their annual Christmas concert in the church hall with large attendance.

Approximately all pupils participated under the direction of Mrs. Clarke, the principal, Miss Morton of S.S. No. 3, Adam Morton of S.S. No. 5, Miss Jones of Rawdon Public School, and Mrs. Jones of S.S. No. 4.

A large evergreen tree was decorated with lights and underneath were piled numerous gifts for the Santa Claus parade, and other decorations gave the hall a festive appearance.

Visitors attended from Milton, Malvern, Hawthorne, Stirling, Bayview Valley and other points.

Rev. W. G. Watkinson, minister, and Mrs. Dorothy Sheppard of Carleton Place, Sunday School superintendent, officiated at the piece. The stage curtain was opened by Linda Lou Leonard and Wendy Weaver.

The two schools sang the opening chorus, "The Greeting We Love the Best," and closed with "Away, Away in Bethlehem."

Recitations were given by Linda Lou Merrick, Dennis Polite, Janet Scott, Doreen Hobbis, Brenda Bullock, Carol Fleming, Gordon Howard and Jimmie Morton.

Six small children from the Williams School sang "Lord, Make Us Like You" as they gave a dialogue entitled, "What Is Christmas?" Those taking part in the dialogue were Brenda Williams, Carol Fleming, Keith McConnell, Linda Polite and Jimmie Howard.

The pupils sang "Shedding the News", was presented by Larry Jeffs and Glen Spencer.

The Allen School members sang a chorus entitled "Merry Christmas To You." In two parts, and the boys of the school gave a dialogue, "Mickey Lets Him Down."

Jimmie and Janet Scott sang "Silent Night" for the Children's Corner and Brenda and Barbara Williams played a duet.

Five girls from the Williams School presented a two-act play "Christmas Spirit" and the school took part in a pantomime to "Silent Night."

The public school teachers and music supervisor were given on a vote of appreciation for their part in training the children for the concert, and each responded briefly.

Following the final chorus Santa arrived and distributed gifts to all the children, and the various gifts were given out by the teachers and pupils of the girls.

The treasurers at the door were Messrs. Frank Spencer and Carl Dunham.

SEES HERALDING OF RACIAL CHICAGO (AP) — A geneticist predicted Tuesday that whites and Negroes in the United States will merge into a single race within 2,000 years if the present rate of mixture continues. Dr. E. Bentley Glass of Johns Hopkins University predicted the world will be populated by a single race — a mixture of all present races—within 2,000-3,000 years.

Spectacular, Terrifying Yet-Heartening Developments of Decade Give Man Choice Of Universal Death or Universal Plenty

By HERMAN HOBEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Today, a decade ends and history turns the page on the 1950s.

It is a long page, packed with the most electrifying and heartrending developments. It records great triumphs and great changes, new visions of the future, sharp shocks with the power of H bomb behind it by two clearly defined characteristics, shadow and light.

The shadow:

A hydrogen bomb incinerated an island in 1952. A thermonuclear rocket capable of carrying such a bomb accurately hit the moon in 1958. Intercontinental armed missiles, powered by the atom, were being developed by both sides. The West established launching bases for its missiles in countries around the world. The Russians replied that they have the biggest rocket of them all, sky spot on earth. Newspaper headlines of Oct. 5, 1957: "Russia claims inevitable between communism and capitalism."

The light:

Atomic rockets began generating electricity for the first time in Arctic Medical science swept forward in great strides with a polio vaccine, new drugs for mental illness, isotopes and radiation treatments for cancer. Nations — although politically scarred by some instances — pooled efforts in the greatest study of the physical earth ever conducted. The centuries - old dream of a united Europe came closer to reality. Eastern Germany formed the Iron and Steel Community in 1951, European Coal and the Common Market patterns of 1958. Apparently reversing the policies of predecessors, Nikita Khrushchev said in 1959, "Let us embrace and compete in peaceful coexistence."

Highlights Gladstone:

Red China, openly aggressive, bethed Tibet in blood. The Dalai Lama fled. United Nations, a vaded Indian border points. The result of these actions was a Communist Bloc split - Communist reactions in nations previously Communist. Eastern Europe developed in the Middle East. Arab unity movements, pointed "Jehad" the Communists, were angrily accusing Russia and Red China of aggression.

Marshal Tito pulled Yugoslavia out of the Communist Bloc, but his was still a Communist government, standing somewhere between East and West.

CHINA MENACE

While the Russians talked peace and the cold war thaw, the Peiping China became steadily more menacing. Did this signal a split between Moscow and Peking? Or was it because the Chinese joyed a bit of still because miserable, and because a people were starving?

Western Europe rebound d e from the ships post-war years to burgeoning prosperity.

Japan's industrial production more than doubled, the figure for the previously great base period 1957.

But in the under - developed countries of the Orient, the Middle East and Latin America, standards of living improved little if at all.

Hunger and illiteracy, aggravated by the "population explosion," lay heavily over vast areas of the earth. Demographers estimated the world's population at 2,800,000,000 in 1959. They predicted it would reach 3,000,000,000 by the end of the century.

Red China boasted that in 1954 census showed the population to be 601,938,035. It was increasing by 21,000,000 a year. At that rate, Red China would have 700,000,000 Chinese on earth before 1970.

United Nations reports said more than half the people in the world were under 21 years of age are illiterate.

HIGH GREETING REMEDY

The gap between the rich and the poor was rapidly and dangerously widening.

Scientists visualized using atomic energy for increasing food production in the dry countries by irrigating their arid land. They visualized the use of nuclear explosives to unfreeze the earth in which edible fish would be bred, corralled and harvested by the millions.

Thus, in these 10 years, the single, overriding fact emerged: a reality clearly spelled out in shorthand of science:

Mankind, for the first time, can spread universal death or provide universal plenty. Which it will be, or how much of each, remained unknown unbelievably bright or the most horrible since time began.

AGE OF ANXIETY

So the Fifties began as the age of anxiety.

In another war, the Communists engulfed all China, then overran the Siam Pha and northern Vietnam went Red.

The Soviet developed the A-bomb and the H-bomb, previously sole possession of the United States.

New and frightening terms came into common use—fallout, strontium-90, massive retaliation, massive deterrents.

Meanwhile, Western pacts were organizing. After NATO came SEATO, then the Baghdad Pact. This coalescing, a feature of the Fifties, began taking place in peaceful as well as military fields.

Yet the bonds thus forged were often strained. Of many bitter disputes, the most serious developed out of the British-French-Israeli expedition against Egypt in 1956.

SPACE AGE MISSILES

Then on Oct. 3, 1957, Russia shot the first satellite into outer space.

Sputnik, junk, orbiting and blast-off became household words.

So in the Fifties, began the age of space. On Jan. 31, 1958, with the launching of Explorer I, the U.S. entered the new age.

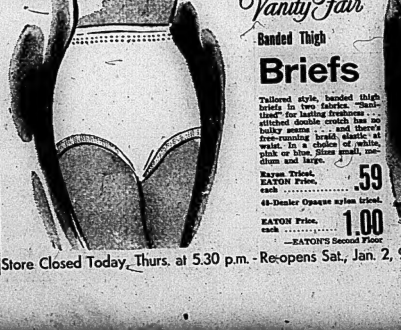
RAWDON

Y.P.U. Holds Candlelight Yule Service

RAWDON — Rawdon Young People's Union held a candlelight Christmas service at Wellman's Hall Church on the Rawdon circuit under the direction of the president, Mr. Reginald Hobbis.

The church was festively decorated with lighted tree and candelabra greenery.

The program was centred around the theme "Unto Us Is Born to God Our King and Peace to Man on Earth." Hymns sung throughout the service and included "Gentle Mary Laid Her Child," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and "Silent Night."



Bible lessons were read by Mrs. Ruth Hobbis and Miss Joyce Reid. The president led in prayer. Special responses were which outlined the story of Christmas, "Unto Born In Bethlehem of Judea."

Mr. W. G. Fletcher, B.A., read the story entitled "The First Christmas Tree."

The newly elected officers of the Y.P.U. participated in the candlelight service after which they took into their new offices.

The candles were lit for "the people who walked in darkness have seen a great light, the trees of faith, and the light of the world."

The service closed with the carol "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks."

TWEED

Bol-O-Way Officially Opened

TWEED — Tweed's remodelled and refurnished Bol-O-Way was officially reopened to the general public on the night of December 30th.

Approximately 300 guests were present at the modern recreation centre when Mayor Douglas Spencer declared the centre officially open at 8 p.m. Mr. Ray Woodley acted as master of ceremonies. Cake and coffee were served by the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Jack MacLean.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLean purchased the Bol-O-Way in September 1954 from Mr. Harold Mallory and was successfully operated until gutted by a disastrous fire on February 19th, 1958.

After a few months Mr. and Mrs. MacLean decided that the only solution was to rebuild and rebuilding operations started early in the autumn.

They express their thanks to the people of Tweed and district for their interest and encouragement in the task of rebuilding, which was not an easy one.

Everyone is invited to come in and inspect the new Bol-O-Way.

Many alleys have been resurfaced and the lanes now have concealed lighting. The snack bar is moved to the opposite side of the lobby and is equipped with superior propane gas for heating and cooking. New and attractive drapes were designed for the front of building.

Leagues are now forming and entries are expected to start early after New Year's Day.

Congratulations and best wishes have been coming in from all directions to Mr. and Mrs. MacLean on their enterprise and to the contractors who have made in Tweed's popular recreation centre.

Also they with Mr. and Mrs. H. Phillips.

Miss Thelma Rudsell, of Queen's University, Kingston, is spending the holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Rudsell.
